KINGSTON, Oct. 17.—Politics figured in yesterday afternoon's session of the prison reform commission, when evidence was presented to show that on the eve of the general election of September, 1911, a telegram was received by Hon. William Harty, ex-M.P., from Sir Alan Aylesworth, in which the latter stated he had recommended an increase of salary for penitentiary officials. This telegram, together with a letter from Sir Alan, following up the same matter, was shown to officials at the penitentiary.

H. A. Stewart, K.C., of Brockville, who is attending the investigation in the interests of the Justice Department, submitted the letter and telegram to the commissioners as evidence of partisanship.

"There is too much politics in the penitentiary," remarked Chairman G. M. Macdonnell. "One party is as bad as the other."

John Smith, a former night watchman in the penitentiary, who was suspended over the Chartrand escape on March 29, 1913, was called at the morning session and told of the circumstances surrounding that event. The witness had reported a number of discrepancies two weeks before the escape. A piece of electric wire, some oil, etc., were found to be missing. Chartrand and Slaughter, another convict, both had violins they had made for themselves, which they were allowed to use. The result was that when the violins were being played one could not hear the bars being cut. He did not know when the deputy had made any investigation of the condition of the bars, but the regulations call for a thorough inspection twice a month. The witness had been suspended for six weeks.

Smith further told of going to the deputy warden's house on January 4, 1912, to get permission to take his child to the hospital to undergo an operation. He was very curtly received and sent back to duty. When he got off it was too late and he lost his pay for the night.

A parole prisoner from Toronto testified on behalf of O'Leary. He had been well-used in the institution and felt kindly disposed towards the deputy warden. He wrote a letter to the deputy after Rossell's story had been published in Toronto and volunteered to come before the commission to disprove his statements. The witness, who is a Protestant, denied that there was any discrimination against Protestants convicts. Of course, he could not speak so positively about the officers. He did hear comment on the fact that the Roman Catholics were always "in the wing," a preferred position. Speaking about the food, he admitted that sometimes they got a poor shipment of pork, but it was usually pretty fair, and he knew because he worked in the kitchen.

The sessions of the commission were adjourned until next Wednesday. Deputy Warden O'Leary and Dr. Phalen have not yet been called.

Another batch of witnesses will be summoned for next week's hearing. Mr. Stewart intimated that further charges might be lodged against the officials of the penitentiary before the next sitting.

ONTARIO APPLES WIN.

Collingwood Shipment Is First at Winnipeg Show.

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — Ontario achieved first-class honors yesterday at the Canadian Land and Fruit Exhibition at Winnipeg.

A telegram received at the Parliament buildings yesterday afternoon stated that the main provincial exhibit of fruit, chiefly apples, pears and peaches, had received first prize.

The individual exhibit contest for the best five boxes of apples was a double victory for Ontario. W. C. Hamilton, Collingwood, was awarded first prize, and the Bolton Breck Orchard Co. of Watertown, Wentworth County, second. A British exhibitor came third.

The success of the Ontario exhibits was anticipated in view of Ontario securing first prize for the continent for apples a few weeks ago at Cleveland.

Big Reception to Tank Ship.

LONDON, Oct. 47.—The oil tank steamer Narragansett, which "arrived with the milk in the morning" on the scene of the Volturno disaster, and by scattering tons of oil on the raging sea, helped so much in the rescue work, was given a great reception on her arrival in the Thames at noon yesterday. A band on board a tug met her down the river and played her to her berth to the strains of the "Conquering Hero," and a succession of national airs. The sirens of all the vessels in the river crowed and salvos of cheers from those on shore when they reached the Anglo-American Co.'s wharf. She had a number of survivors on board.

Twenty Nuns Among Refugees.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Twenty Catholic Nuns, members of the Sisterhood of the Incarnate Word, are among the refugees now en route from Tampico, Mexico, to Galveston, Texas, on the oil tanker Hainaut and Wanet. They fled from their institution at Monterey. The tanker also had as passengers thirteen British subjects, ten Mexicans and one American.

Steamship Fire Put Out.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The Royal Dutch West India mail steamer Jan Van Nassau, Captain Van der Est, which arrived yesterday from the West Indies, reported that on the outward passage from Amsterdam, Oct. 4, between the channal and the Asores, fire broke out in the coal bunkers, spread to the cargo in the forehold and raged for four days until the vessel succeeded in reaching St. Michael's, when the flames were got under control.

About 800 tons of cargo was destroyed, besides all the coal in the bore bunkers. There was only one passenger on board.

HAMILTON, Oct. 17.—Word was received last night from Sir Wilfrid Laurier that he will address the Liberal Federation at a banquet to be held in Hamilton on Nov. 26. Delegates will be present at the meeting from 44 clubs in Ontario, and arrangements are being made to make the Hamilton meeting one of the largest political gatherings ever held there.

Lady Frightens Lions

Lady Bruce, who returned home after spending two years in the wild and remote region known as Angoniland, 50 miles from the shores of Lake Nyasse, would not admit that there was anything very remarkable in the course of life she had been pursuing. "If one ventured far, one would take a gun, of course. We were unarmed, however, once, when moving from camp to camp, and we met two lions face to face. They turned tail and ran away. If they hadn't I do not know what we would have done," she said. "They rarely attack anyone in the daylight. They were probably as much frightened as we were." Sir David Bruce, her husband, was sent out to Central Africa as chief of the Sleeping Sickness Commission.

"THE MEDIATOR"

By ROY NORTON

"I'm right sure," the calm voice went on, "that there is seats for everybody here. Any of those that got here late will now have a chance to get them before the meetin' goes ahead, and I would feel right hurt if anybody started for the door. I'd hate to have my peaceful feelin's disturbed and mixed up here to-day. Would the brothers back there who haven't found seats come right close up to the front—say in the front row? We want to have 'em where we can see 'em."

There was an instant's suspense. The hum of the bees from outside seemed louder, the vagrant scent of flowers stronger. Big Bill's friends shifted on their feet.

"You come up here, and be d——d quick about it!" suddenly crashed out the voice of the prospector, and, swift as light, the gun was elevated into a menacing line, prepared for deadly action. They dared hesitate no longer. One started to escape by the door, but was halted by a single sharp word: "Stop!" He faltered, and came forward, with his companions, who, frowning, awed, dominated by the man at the pulpit, slouched forward and filed into the front bench.

"Take off your hats!" was the next command, as the gun appeared to cover them all. They obeyed.

For an instant the man of peace looked at them, with an amused, unrelenting sneer on his face, and then, without lowering the gun, but in an altered voice, he spoke to the preacher.

"Parson," he said, "I'm right ashamed of comin' up here and disturbin' you this way. But I got rattled. I thought maybe there was some that had come here to kick up a fuss in the one place that every decent man respects, a church. I see I was mistaken. However, bein' as I'm up here, if you don't mind, I'll just stay here. I'll sit down, and you'll excuse me and go right ahead with the preachin'."

He backed away until he felt the legs of a horse-hair chair touching the backs of his knees, and then deliberately settled into the seat; but the gun did not waver, and, strangely enough, it had shifted until it bade fair to rake the front bench if a nervous finger happened to press too hard. He smiled benignly from his lips, but his eyes were still fixed and determined.

For an instant the preacher wavered, and threatened to expostulate; but a look at the homely face, that had become set as adamant, convinced him that any appeal or remonstrance would prove futile, and so he stepped to the Bible and spoke. His voice took strength as his discourse proceeded, and the awed and frightened hush of the congregation relaxed. There were but few in the audience who did not hear him, yet their eyes would wonder to that still figure seated on the horsehair chair, clad in rough clothing faded to a nondescript hue by time, wind, and sun, with the blue necktie and poker-chip ring, and the shirt that appeared painfully stiff where it bulged from beneath the celluloid collar.

Had that figure been hewn from granite it could not have been more immobile. Nothing about it shifted or betrayed life save the cold, alert eyes that flashed contemptuous appraisement at the ruffians seated on the front bench. They dared not move. Once one of them at the far end shifted his position ever so slightly, and instantly the gun swung in his direction, and to his sorrow he saw that it was a double-action pistol, and that the hammer moved up and down by a fraction of an inch, as if the finger beneath it were aching to signal death. They got stiff and cramped in their anxiety to sit motionless. They breathed with difficulty, half filling their lungs, lest by too much inflation they arouse the prospector's suspicions and bring on a climax. The time seemed endless, and the strain on the increase. They began to wonder if they could remain quiet much longer. One or two of them paled, and felt drops of cold sweat on their foreheads, as imagination led them to fear that the strange character watching them might, in the end, prove remorseless. There was everything in his appearance to indicate that he would kill with swift precision. Even the lines of good humour around his eyes had subtly and essentially changed to malicious maps indicative of murder.

The preacher felt the tensity of the situation and at last heard his voice beginning to break. He hastily closed his discourse when scarcely more than half-through.

"The congregation will please stand for the closing prayer," he said.

But again the cold voice broke out behind him, in dictatorial terms: "All but them on the front bench. They will hold their hands above their heads and kneel. And be mighty quick about it, too!"

So cowed were the members of Big Bill's gang by that long wait, they thankfully accepted this as an opportunity to stretch their cramped limbs and obeyed.

"Go ahead, Parsor," the prospector commanded. "The Lord'll understand I ain't showin' any disrespect if I just keep right where I am."

The prayer was finished and the congregation seated before he bade his captives resume their seats. He heard the hymn given out, and again his heart jumped sadly at the knowledge that it, too, was familiar after all those years. To the surprise of those in the Church, he sang it, loudly and earnestly; but in all that time his eyes remained fixed and sweeping over those below. He did not permit his men to stand up during the benediction, and whispered to the preacher to please ask every one to leave the Church immediately after. The congregation hastened out, glad to be free from that exciting service, all save the preacher himself who stood as if bewildered.

"Now I'll preach a little," declared the prospector, suddenly standing up and stepping to the edge of the platform. "You Piutes came up outside here when the Parson was prayin', and you reckoned you'd bust up this meetin'. I heard you. I'm for peace, so I didn't stand for it. They aint nobody hates a fuss worse'n I do, and they ain't nobody'll fight harder to keep from havin' one. Me and the parson were right glad to have you attend our services. We'll be here every Sunday after this, him and me both. And me and him aims to make this meetin'-house the most peaceful place on all the Big Divide. It may take a grave-yard to do it, but if it comes to a show-down we'll furnish that, too. First come, first served. You can go now, brethren, in single file, each with his hands over his head till he gets outside the meetin'-house lot and down to the corner of the next street. I'll go part way with you, and they say I'm long sighted. Glad you attended services with me and the Parson. Come again boys! Come again! Always welcome. Now hike!"

He kept his word, for he herded them carefully out into the road, and stood and watched them as they broke and ran at the corner like a lot of excited sheep, swearing loudly and shouting back to him that their turn would come; but it did not seem to do more than restore his good humour. He turned to the preacher behind him, and held out his hand.

"Parson," he said, "I'm sure sorry not to have been able to pay more attention to that talk you made; but I was just scared stiff for fear they'd start somethin', and I'm a peaceful sort of a cuss, and always have been. But you see the facts are that I was totin' that gun just by accident. It was nothin' but what you call sentiment that made me have it with me. And the worst of it was that it wa'n't loaded at all, because I pulled the cartridges last night. Good-mornin' glad to have met you. I'll come again because there ain't no place so calm and comfortin' as a nice, clean church."

CHAPTER IX.
At Canada Hill Mine.

Bright and early on the following morning he was gone. The hotel clerk found the price of his entertainment pinned to the register, and Maggie, entering the dining-room at five o'clock, found a note painfully addressed to "Miss Magie," and something after it scratched out, that she deciphered as an "Esq." which he had corrected by erasure. She flushed a little over her strong, healthy, homey face as she tore it open and read it through. She stood with it in her hand, and stared for a long time out through the window at the growing morning. It seemed to be an astonishing document, for she repeated, several times, under her breath: "Well, for goodness' sake! My land! Just to think!" Then she looked around the tawdry, rough room wher the odour of past meals clung like ghostly reminders of stale food, and abruptly slipped the note into the bosom of her dress. And the flush on her face suddenly deepened as her capable hands began their morning's task: This was the note:

Dear Miss Maggie: Im hikin, going to canady hill mine. I got your gune yet rite next my heart, going to keep it a while till I get one because that big bill gang has got me plum buffaloed. I ain't exactly runnin' away from them but I'm a feller that aint goin out lookin for skunks in my sunday go to metin clothes. Its never been my plan to tote limburger cheese in my pockets in hot weather, because I hate a fuss, when it blows over a little so they'll forget me I'll come back, the rose is red, the violets blue, the pinks is sweet and so air you. David Elisha Henley.

If the prospector's statement that he was running away from trouble were true, he showed fear in a remarkable way; for out on the road he followed, as the sun came up and threw long shadows betwen the great trees bordering it, he sang, in a roaring voice: "Bring forth the Royal Diadem, and Crown Him Lord of All!" priding himself on the turns he made in the phrasing of "royal diadem." Sometimes he stopped singing to hold short discussions with Jack, who failed to attend to business with his usual industry, an once, to the distinct disapproval of the elder burro, bolted over the road in quest of something that looked like a thistle. The prospector led him back by the ear, stood him in the road, and shook his fist in the mouse-coloured face.

"For the Lord's sake, Jack," he protested, "let's you and me not quarrel! Ain't I had trouble enough since we landed at this Peaceful Hill? If I lose my temper and take a club to you, they won't be nothin' but little pieces of mule splattered all over this hillside. Come on!"

It was singular that the man who could instill fear into disturbers of the Big Bill type failed in the least to terrify a mere burro; but the evidence was patient, for the animal, after staring at him from wise eyes, thatched over with hair, suddenly stuck his nose up, and with his lips nipped the prospector's nose, wich action seemed to mollify that gentleman's anger, for his eyes twinkled with good-natured affection, and he resumed his way, singing.

At the top of a particularly steep climb, where the burros panted heavily, he paused to rest. As if interested in the gun he carried, he took it out and gave it an examination.

"Can't say as I like these double actions," he explained to the pack animals. "They're all right, I reckon, if you understand 'em; but give me a fan trigger for real work!"

He fished some cartridges from his pocket, loaded the gun, and looked for a mark. A staid old redwood up the road caught his eye. He fumbled in his pocket, and took out a card, and smiled as he looked at it. On one side was printed the legend of the "Happy Home." On the other was a scrawl in lead pencil, illiterate and difficult, which read:

You take a tip from a friend and look a little out or that big bill gang will sure get you as soon as he gets abel to move aroun you didnt orter did what you done down at the meetin cox it made them soar dont cum nigh my place. Holliday.

He read it over again.

"That was right good of that feller to slip this under my door last night," he ruminated. "I s'pose he did it when he got through work. Must live there at the hotel. Maybe he give it to Maggie!"

He straightened up, walked to the redwood, fastened the card with pegs, and walked back to a long, fair range. He then looked at it attentively, as though to fix its location in his memory, turned his back, whirled, and on the instant fired, not one shot, but as rapidly as he could pull the trigger, until the echoes of the shots blended into one. He grinned with satisfaction, and balanced the pistol in his hand.

"You're sure some gun, you are," he said approvingly. "You'll do! These double actions ain't so slow, after all."

He walked down to the tree, and inspected it. In the centre of the little card was one hole that could have been covered with a ten-cent piece. He was ejecting the shels from the pistol when a voice hailed him from the road:

"Hello! Is it safe for a man to go ahead now?"

He turned to face Martin, saying as he did so that he "guessed the road was free."

Martin was sitting sidewise in his saddle, half-standing in a stirrup, and with his other foot dangling idly over the saddle. His keen eyes appraised the prospector, who walked slowly toward him, replacing the pistol in its holster as he did so.

"You seem to be able to shoot some," the mine-owner volunteered.

"Used to," was the laconic response, after which he stood waiting for Martin's next words, as if caring neither one way nor the other for the continuance of the conversation.

The mine-owner at least appeared friendly. At last he dropped heavily to the ground, threw his horse's reins over its head, and fumbled in his pocket. He took out some brown papers, and asked: "Got any tobacco? I've lost my pouch somewhere."

At this open sign of amity the prospector relaxed.

"I didn't know but what there was a gun play taking place up here," the mine-owner said, as he roled a cigarette. "I sloged up till I could make sure. I'm glad to see you, Henley. I wanted to have a talk with you. I don't go to church much, but my wife still follows her training. She told me what you did yesterday."

"So?" grinned Lish, and then, with a wave of embarrasment: "I hated to have to do it, but they sort of r'iled me. I'm a right-quiet sort of chap, who don't like fights and squabbles. I always steer clear. Besides, I hadn't been to church in so long I wanted to hear that little man preach. They interrupted. Somebody had to stop 'em."

'And you did it to a finish, I should say," aded the mine-owner, laughing. Then his face sobered: "See here, Henley, what are you doing?"

"Prospectin'."

"It's none of my business, but who are you, anyway?"

"Prospector."

Crimean Veteran's Record

At the age of seventy-seven, Richard Bondd, a Crimean veteran, died at Devonport. As a seaman in the three-decker Britannia, he fought in a sea battery, in the trenches before Sebastopol, when Lieutenant Greathed, his commanding officer, was killed. Serving in the Jackdaw, he was in the Baltic at the storming of Bomarsund, and, under Lord Hood of Avalon, he fought in the great boat action at Petalma, China, and at the capture of Canton, receiving the Crimean, Baltic and China medals, with Sebastopol clasp. Later he served at Devonport Dockyard, where, in an accident he lost his right eye and the fourth finger of his right hand.

Mrs. Martin, 13 Carroll Street, Toronto, formerly of Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years, and found it invaluable in treating skin irritations and all sorts of burns and wounds. In fact, we would not be without it in the house. It is a most excellent treatment for granulated eyelids, from which I suffered without finding anything to help me."

Oil in Quebec

Viscount Selby, chairman of the Eastern Canada Company, has the highest hopes of the oil producing possibilities of the Gaspe Bay District, Quebec. Shipping facilities there are he says, admirable. In view of the increasing attention being given to the adoption of oil in the Royal Navy and the decision of the Government to secure supplies as far as possible within the British Empire, there opens up the prospect of another large Canadian industry.

"DON'T FORGET THE PUDDING"

THE INDIANS' CELEBRATION OF THANKSGIVING DAY.

THE interest in Thanksgiving day and its observance is just as intense these days among the reservation Indians as in college towns where great football games are scheduled to occur. Especially is this true in the southwest, where the Indians have had an opportunity to become thoroughly civilized of late years. The white people find no more enjoyment in this day of universal cheer than do these same dusky redskins.

It is a day of feasting, playing and gaming, with a big dance at night. Such sport comes only once a year to them nowadays, when they have had to forsake the scalping knife for the plow. Their wild nature revolted at the idea of work, and it has been with much difficulty that the government agents have made farmers out of the young braves. A day of rest and amusement is considered good for their better nature, and the government authorities are willing that Thanksgiving day shall become a festal time for the reservation wards of the nation.

The Kiowas and Comanches, who not long ago were placed on allotments, will have forsaken many of their wild plans of amusement this Thanksgiving, owing to the fact that they have been cut off the free list of beef issues. They have arranged to draw grass money on Thanksgiving, and a goodly portion of this will be spent in purchasing food for a grand feast. At night they will take part in a green corn dance, at which thanks will be offered to the Great Spirit for the good crops which they have had the last season. The spirit of thankfulness pervades the Indian celebrations.

The Osages hold a big feast at Pawhuska, their capital city. All members of the tribe are invited to take part in the festivities. At the beginning and end of each month—and there are many—the aged missionary who lives among them is invited to deliver a short prayer, thanking the Great Spirit for the good things which the agent has sent them. The food is cooked by the squaws, and, while it could be prepared in a much cleaner and more tasteful manner, the cooking is an improvement over that of a few years ago. With this cheer they give thanks that "by the goodness of God they were far from want."—New York Tribune.

Reflections of a Thankful Pessimist.

Did you ever think, when it's raining and snowing at the same time and the streets form a dainty swamp of slush and the chills are running up and down and back, how very much you have to be thankful for? On such occasions look in your empty coal bin and fold your arms in content.

True, the coal bin is dark and dank. But think how much blacker it would be if the coal were there!

It's the little things that make or mar one's happiness; therefore the less coal one has the happier he should be.

For such is logic.

A noted philosopher has said, "The coal bin is a has-been."

Shivers are the very soul of comfort.

The Far Horizon.

"The horizon is where the sky and water meet—only they don't."—Woman's Home Companion.

It is well to think well. It is divine to act well.—Horace Mann.

THE HARVEST HOME.

Thanksgiving day has an easily traceable connection with other and older institutions, and the original part of it is its independent source on these shores. Among a primitive people, which depended chiefly on its harvests for its means of life, it was almost sure to arise, and with that condition something of the sort almost always has risen.

Hence our Thanksgiving day is an independent thing, and yet it has relations. Its history is so short that it can be traced much more easily than is usual in such cases. Days of thanksgiving were appointed in the early years at various times and for various reasons. An abundant harvest was the most common one. A thanksgiving then came to be appointed regularly each autumn, and the custom gradually extended and became more and more firmly established.

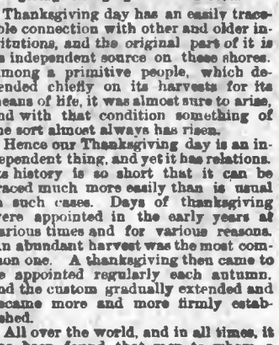
All over the world, and in all times, it has been found that men to whom a fruitful harvest was the greatest blessing of the year have been inclined to express their gratitude to the giver of it in some especial manner. When the character of the people was not so austerely religious as in old England, it did not take on so serious a form, and sometimes lapse of years probably caused the deeply religious element in its origin to be forgotten altogether, while the feast and the frolic were all that occupied the minds of the harvesters. Perhaps many may have had some pleasant memories of the Harvest Home of old England, and whether they did or not, it may be appropriately recalled now.

There were many names for this simple bit of rejoicing. Harvest Home was the most common and best recognized. Among the others were Feast of Ingathering, Harvest Supper, Mell Supper, Kern Supper, and Churn Supper. Not one of them is so pretty and full of meaning as Thanksgiving.

Harvest Home was a most joyful occasion and the result of a natural outpouring of gladness from grateful hearts. In its primitive form it marked the end of the harvest, and the bringing home in triumph of the last load of grain was a part of its formal celebration. In England the cart in which the load was brought was called a hock cart, and it was surmounted by a figure made of a sheaf of corn gayly dressed and adorned. Some have thought that this particular custom dated back to heathen times, and that the figure represented Ceres. A piper and a laborer went in front, and the cart was surrounded by the laughing and cheering reapers and children.

Somewhere on the road at times a neighbor with a taste for ancient practical jokes would lie in wait to throw pails of water on the cart as it passed. This was a quite legitimate recreation, and those on or about the cart had to look out for the dryness of their own clothes and skins. When the last load was finally housed, the farmer would give a great supper to all who had been employed in any way about the harvest, and he himself, with his whole family, joined in it with the laborers, so that the occasion was one of those which united from time to time all classes on an equal footing.

A Song of Thanksgiving.



A turkey stood in a cranberry swamp,
And sang till his throat was sore;
For all day long, he sang this song:
"We shall meet on that beautiful shore."

Thanksgiving Morning.

Thursday morning the household ought to sleep and rest a little longer than usual—it helps on the general feeling of holiday. The breakfast ought to be festive in some degree, though in no way rival the dinner. The chicken can be fried while the potatoes bake, and if raised biscuit were not started last night, a johnnycake is next best, and this is just the thing.

The Mien of Ignorance.

I watch the farmer's axe and block
The while you little rock
My proud and strutting turkey-cock,
You'll give it to the neck.

Filling a Want.

Bighead—My folks say that if I come home for Thanksgiving they'll kill the fatted calf.

Miss Sharpe—Yes; I suppose if you don't go home they won't have any fatted calf there.

A Human Match Factory

The body contains phosphorus sufficient to make 483,000 matches. Phosphorus is one of fourteen elements composing the body—divided among bones, flesh, nervous system and other organs. The perfect health of body requires a perfect balance of the elements. These elements come from the food we eat—the stomach extracts and distributes them.

But if stomach is deranged—the balance of health is destroyed and the blood does not carry the proper elements to the different organs, and there is blood trouble—nerve trouble—heart trouble. Pain is the hungry cry of starved organs. Put the liver, stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition into a condition of health. That is just what is done by

KITES IN WARFARE.

France Adopts Them For Both Naval and Military Service.

In these days of aeroplanes and dirigibles, kites seem out of place. But the French military authorities do not take that view. Several months ago the army adopted kites as a part of air defense, and now the navy has done the same.

One duty for which these naval kites is designed is to survey a port from a blockading squadron. The kite has one advantage over the aeroplane—wind is a help instead of a hindrance.

In using kites from shipboard the ship can supply the wind, as a speed of eighteen knots enables the kites to raise an observer.

The type of kite invented by Captain Saconney is arranged to fold up in little compass. It can be assembled in five minutes, while another party is arranging the windlass and rigging.

In fifteen minutes from the start the observer can be in the air in his cradle, and in five more he can reach a height of 1,000 feet. He is of course connected with the deck by telephone.—Boston Globe.

TO CHECK A COLD

It is easy to check a cold if you begin in time. Frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine keep the cough loose, allay the inflammation, and so prevent it spreading to the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mrs. S. M. Moore, Shortbred, B.C., writes: "I wish to state my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, for it cured a cold which a friend said would soon put me in the grave."

Winnipeg Leads.

The figures of general reports at Winnipeg show that that city is now the largest wheat market on the American continent, displacing Minneapolis, which has held the leadership for a long time. For the crop year, ending recently, receipts were 88,269,330 bushels. Figures for the same period at Minneapolis are not available, but for the calendar year ending December 31 last receipts were 81,110,310 bushels. During the past few months there has been a falling off in receipts at Minneapolis, while deliveries at Winnipeg have continued to increase. Buffalo and Duluth still rank high in the list, but old time grain centres like Chicago, Kansas City and Milwaukee are dropping down. In oats Winnipeg is easily the largest market outside of Chicago. Receipts were 30,838,900 bushels. New York came next with 32,717,562.

With your thanks.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GREY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Receipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair

The beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns grey, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth' Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural colour, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

MAGIC OF HOUDIN

A LITTLE BLACK BOX DID IT.

By the Aid of a Magnet and a Current of Electricity He Struck Terror to the Hearts of the Arabs and Took All the Desire For Fight Out of Them.

"These are great times," exulted the Electrician to his friend the Old Fogy. "With machine guns and other instruments of war we certainly are going some in the fighting game."

"Yes," agreed the Old Fogy as he adjusted his glasses, "but do you know that before such things were dreamed of an entire nation was conquered with a magnet and a little black box?"

And the Electrician confessed. "No!"

"You have heard, no doubt," the Old Fogy rambled on, "of the marvelous inventions of Robert Houdin, the great French conjurer, a man who did great things with electricity when Alexander Graham Bell was an infant.

"Houdin applied electricity to many of his magical experiments and delighted the Parisian public for years in his little theater. When he retired he was the most favored performer of his day and had bowed to the plaudits of royalty."

"Heard all about that," snapped the Electrician. "What about the black box?"

"Coming to that, boy; coming to that. Houdin retired to his family estate on the left banks of the River Loire near St. Gervaise, hoping to end his days in peace. But after a year or so there came to him through a military friend a request from the French government that he go to Algiers.

"In his memoirs, translated into English some years before his death, he says that the Marabouts of that country, a sort of medicine men and wonder working priests, controlled the masses and incited them to intermittent revolts against the French by their tricks. These tricks, he assures us, were of the simplest and most primitive type.

"It was the hope of the French government that Houdin by his mysteries could demonstrate that the white conqueror's magic was superior. And Houdin did it."

"With the little black box and the magnet?"

"Yes. His recital of his performance in Algiers is exceedingly interesting. Some of the most distinguished natives were there. Houdin showed them all sorts of things; allowed himself to be shot at and caught the bullet unharmed and many other such feats.

"But his piece de resistance undoubtedly was his box. He called for a strong man to come on the stage, and a giant responded. Houdin toyed with him for a moment, bantered with him about his strength and asked him if he could lift his little black box. Disdainfully the Arab lifted it and smiled.

"But Houdin warned him: 'Wait. But a moment, and you shall be as a little child!' He placed the box on the stage over the magnet and dared his huge guest to raise it. The Arab tried with one finger; grasped it with his great muscular hand; tugged at it with all the strength of his massive arms, bracing his legs like two huge bronze columns, so Houdin says, to no avail. Try as he would, this son of the desert could not stir that little box from its place.

"For a breathing spell he released his grip for a moment, then went at it again as Houdin gave a signal to have the current turned off. And while the awe stricken audience panted in amazement he suddenly writhed in acutest agony and sank groveling to the stage. The current coursing through him had galvanized him into misery.

"Then Houdin gave a signal, the current from the electro magnet beneath the stage was turned off, and the Arab fell back groaning. He lifted himself to his feet and, hiding his face in his cloak, crept away to blush unseen. The little black box had conquered."

"And?"—inquired the Electrician.

"And," replied the Old Fogy, "Houdin was triumphant. The country had seen him shot at by a man who said he wished to kill; had seen him rob a giant of his strength. No Marabout had ever done that. No Marabout with primitive tricks could convince them that any revolt of theirs could prevail against the white man and his magic—his electricity. The conqueror's conquest was complete."—Popular Electricity.

Simplified Spelling.

Lovers of simplified spelling should make a pilgrimage to Nevendon, in Essex, where the church wardens' accounts in the eighteenth century were quite delightfully phonetic. Under the date 1742 occurs the entry: "Gave Geekup Kollins for his gall too sheling and six pens. Also his close for the inseweing yere." The mysterious word "gall" seems to signify the girl or daughter of "Geekup Kollins." And some of us who have drunk the cup of feminine militancy to the dregs may accept gall as the right spelling.—London Mail.

Willing to Change Places.

The rich Carnegie was recently for several days in Paris. On arrival a legion of reporters came to ask his impression of his journey. Very courteously he received them and in course of conversation remarked: "What an interesting profession is yours! You study daily life in all its diverse manifestations. How greatly do I regret, gentlemen, that I did not myself become a journalist." To this one of the reporters replied, "Be assured, Monsieur Carnegie, that we regret still more that we did not become multi-millionaires."—Cri de Paris.

Perpetual Silence.

A curious mourning custom obtains among central Australians, who, although representing perhaps the lowest and most degraded type of human beings, have managed to evolve a most complex system of rites and ceremonies which governs almost every action of their lives. When a husband dies the widow paints herself all over with white pigment and for the space of a year must not exhibit herself to a male member of the tribe on pain of death. For the rest of her life, unless she marries again, which is sometimes allowed, she must not speak, but communicate with the other women by means of a sign language, consisting of movements of the hands and fingers, which has been developed by these savages to a marvelous extent and by which their limited stock of ideas can be fully expressed.

Won Their Pardons.

From the time of the story of Damon and Pythias various reasons for temporary release from jail have been given. It is related that in the Napoleonic era a soldier confined in a military prison for a minor offense against the service during a brief time of peace was released in order that he might be present at the christening of his infant son, born during his imprisonment. But Napoleon, in order to test the intensity of the man's desire, made him agree to serve a year longer for the privilege of a three day furlough. The soldier gladly did it and when he returned found a pardon and a corporal's warrant for his infant son, to be valid when the son had "served with credit six months in the emperor's army of the future." Frederick the Great released an audacious captain under sentence of death so that the captain might "tell him a few beneficial things about himself." The things told face to face influenced the great king to pardon the blunt death defying soldier.—New York Sun.

Poultry Industry

The value of the poultry industry to New Zealand was stated at a conference of poultrymen to be two millions sterling per annum, this sum changing hands for products, produce and materials in order to keep the industry going. The average price of eggs and table poultry was fully 50 per cent. higher than it was ten years ago. Five years ago they could count on one hand the number of persons engaged in poultry farming for a living. Now they could be numbered by the score. Farmers too, were giving poultry their attention, since they were realizing that the high prices received for eggs and table birds made the keeping of poultry a valuable adjunct to farm pursuits.

WILLIAM SULZER

William Sulzer who was impeached from the Governorship of New York State was born to be a politician and a leader of men. He had an uphill fight all along the way, but by either genius or good luck never has been shelved. His father, Thos. Sulzer, was a politician before him, so much so that he suffered imprisonment for a cause he believed in. The elder Sulzer was a German patriot and a comrade of General Sigel and General Schurz. He was a strong advocate of constitutional liberty, and while a student at Heidelberg University, joined the patriots in a revolution. He was captured and imprisoned, but through clever manoeuvring managed to escape to Switzerland. He came to this continent immediately and soon cast his lot with the Democratic forces. This was in 1851. The elder Sulzer married soon after he arrived here and settled in Elizabeth, N.J. His wife was from Dutch and Scotch-Irish stock. They lived in the New Jersey city for several years, and there William Sulzer was born. Soon afterward they removed to New York, and young Sulzer, who was exceedingly bright as a boy, was sent to the Public schools and was graduated, despite the fact that it cost many a hard effort and sacrifice on the part of his father and mother. Afterward he was sent to Columbia University, where he studied law. Both in the Public school and at college he was recognized as a forcible speaker. As early as 1884, when Mr. Sulzer was but twenty-one years old, he attracted attention as a masterly orator.

GASOLINE FUMES

The Gas Given off by This Popular Fuel Acts Like an Anesthetic

Gasoline fumes, in addition to being highly inflammable, are also poisonous to the human being. This fact has only recently been developed by medical authorities and it is possible that its discovery might have the effect of explaining some deaths that have been assigned as probably due to other causes. The fumes are poisonous under certain conditions and it is well to have these conditions thoroughly understood, else there may be more deaths from this cause. Combined with enough air there is little or no danger, but when a person is subjected to the influence of the fumes in a confined place the chances are that they will be affected in a way that might have fatal results. So far as their investigations have gone the chemists and medical men who have investigated gasoline poisoning have come to the conclusion that its effects are very much like being overcome with an anesthetic. The victim suddenly collapses and becomes unconscious. During the period when consciousness is lost the people behave very much as do people who have been subjected to ether as an anesthetic. Some of them fight and scream and some of them are perfectly still. As in the case of an anesthetic, the recovery is dependent on the individual. It is not often that there are any bad effects from it, however. In a number of cases that have occurred in Montreal, where the discovery of the poisonous nature of the fumes has been investigated, recovery has been prompt and the victims were able to return to work the next day. In all of these cases, however, restorative measures were commenced immediately on the men being overcome—the victims being men in these cases—so that there is no evidence of what the fumes will do if the person overcome by them is not given immediate attention. That is, there is no positive evidence so far as the Montreal authorities know. There have been cases where deaths occurred which, in light of the discovery that has been made, may safely be assigned to inhaling gasoline fumes. One of these was the case of a man who was painting or cleaning the inside of a gasoline tank and was found dead. Another was the case of a chauffeur who was found dead in a garage where there was no ventilation and where the fumes of gasoline were very strong. It is pointed out that, in view of the universal custom of using gasoline as a cleaning material by women, it would be well to see that the room where it is used, is well ventilated with a steady current of fresh air. There is no danger so long as the fumes are not confined—just as there is little or no danger of explosion when the gas is allowed to mingle freely with the air.

THE GLAZIER'S FRIEND

Window Smasher's Panegyric Upon Mr Lloyd George

George Lloyd, a man of forty-six, who had served previous terms of imprisonment for wilful damage to windows, was, at the Guildhall Police Court, sentenced to two months' hard labor for breaking a plateglass window.

His written defence, read out by the clerk of the court, was a strange document, interspersed with benedictions upon the head of Mr. Lloyd George. The following are extracts:

"I would willingly die for Lloyd George if required. I see no reason why you should have told the doctors to examine me unless the reason is you are a Tariff Reformer, and object to our blessed prophet, Lloyd George, who holds Britain in the hollow of his hand, and is our Heaven-sent leader of the best Government that ever existed.

"That mighty spirit, Lloyd George, shall set this land on fire with his great scheme of land reform, and rich landlord thieves will be forced to hand back to the State what they have stolen while the people were asleep. God bless Lloyd George! When shall his glory fade? Never—never—never!

"To do good to the poor, unemployed glaziers is Christianlike, and my conscience tells me I am on the right track, and will continue my vigorous action as long as I live. If I had only started young I might have made my mark by this time in every street.

When Sir John Knill sentenced him he cried, triumphantly, "That's my job."

Clocks Without Faces

Clocks without hands or faces are now common in Switzerland. The timepiece stands in the hall, and when a button is pressed, by means of phonographic arrangements, it calls out "Half-past five," or "Five minutes to nine," as the case may be.

A RECORD STURGEON

One Fish Provided a Meal for 1,000 People

Very seldom indeed is the sturgeon the finny monster which Edward II. made a Royal fish, and which, when caught in the Thames, becomes the property of the Crown, captured in English waters nowadays. For this reason not a little interest was aroused a few days ago when it was announced that a sturgeon 9 feet 8 inches in length, weighing 439 pounds, had been caught in the River Delph at Welney Washes, near Littleport, Norfolk. This fish, which according to the estimate of a salesman at Spitalfields, who ultimately sold it for $30, would provide a meal for nearly 1,000 people, had been noticed in the river, and attempts had been made to shoot it. But the cartridges used were loaded with shot too small to have any effect on the sturgeon's hard skin. A large net, therefore, was drawn across the river, after which a boat was rowed alongside the fish, when one of the men succeeded in forcing in large and powerful hook attached to a strong pole into his throat. This enabled him to keep its head out of water just long enough for the fish to be killed with a gun. Some idea of its size and weight may be gathered from the fact that five men were required to land it. This, however, is by no means the largest sturgeon which has been caught in English waters. The record was a fish weighing 460 pounds, while in the North Sea fish weighing as much as 562 pounds and 735 pounds have been captured by trawlers. It is pointed out that one of the most remarkable facts about the fish netted in the North Sea is that they are similar to the American species, whence it would seem that the specimens caught from time to time in our waters must have made the voyage across the Atlantic, since the fish appears to have died out as a regular inhabitant of British waters. Sturgeons pass the greater part of the year in the sea, but periodically ascend large rivers, and it was due to this characteristic that the specimen was caught recently in the River Delph. Not only do they attain great size and weight, but, according to the estimates of som experts, they sometimes live as long as two hundred years. Apropos of the fact that Edward II. made the sturgeon a Royal fish, it is interesting to note that its flesh, quite apart from the fact that caviare is made from the roe, is always held in great estimation, and in olden days was always reserved for the table of the King.

Linseed in Demand

While the cultivation of which once formed an important feature in Great Britain, has practically ceased to be grown there. It was chiefly grown for the seeds of the straw as the raw material for linen manufacture, and the seeds were quite a secondary consideration. The shiftings of trade put an end to the demand for the straw, and the cultivation of flax became a thing of the past in England, though [illegible] survives in Ireland. The taming [illegible] however, is not [illegible] and the [illegible] regarded with favor—not so much this time for the value of the straw as for the seed, for which there is a great and growing demand.

Buried for Fifteen Minutes

Some men were employed making a drain in Cardigan road, Bridlington, when the sides caved in, and completely buried William Davey for fifteen minutes. Fortunately, his head was near a drain-pipe, and he was able to get air. When extricated he was taken to the hospital.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment with hard labor was imposed by the Cannock magistrates on Royden Sharpe for stealing $10 and three silver spoons, the property of his mother, Louisa Sharpe. Prisoner had been living with his mother for ten years, and during that time he had done no work, but poached upon her.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Effective Breathing Exercise.

Here is an excellent breathing exercise that should be indulged in at least twice a day. Stand before an open window, or, better, in the open air, and raise the arms above the head, stretching up as far as possible. Take a long, deep breath while doing so and without bending the knees grasp the sukles. Then straighten and repeat the operation, say, ten times at each performance.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AN UNADULTERATED THANKSGIVING DINNER

MR. SLYVERS presented himself at the Kranke home at half past 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Thanksgiving day so hungry that while he sat in the front room and talked blithely to his esteemed host he felt it would be only by the most heroic self restraint that he would refrain from leaping at the bright gilded cage that swung in the window and swallowing the canary bird, feathers and all, without salt or pepper.

This savage attitude of Mr. Slyvers was due to the fact that he had gone into rigorous training for the turkey barbecue at Mr. Kranke's.

"You come from out of doors," observed Mr. Kranke, "probably rode on the street cars—great carriers of disease, street cars. But never mind. Sit here for awhile. The atmosphere is well filled with formic aldehyde, which I am vaporizing over the lamp, and any disease germs you may happen to have about you will be destroyed."

Mrs. Kranke and her daughter glided in softly and shook hands with Mr. Slyvers in the same enthusiastic manner in which they might be expected to pick up a deceased catfish by the tail.

"Don't be afraid to eat heartily," said Mr. Kranke genially. "You'll not get typhoid fever by eating these oysters, as I know you fear, although you were too well bred to say so. These oysters are not taken from ocean water filled with germs from the cities. In fact, they are not oysters at all. They are made from oyster plants raised on my father's farm down in the country."

Next came the soup. No deadly hint of ptomaine poisoning lurked in that soup. Mr. Kranke said so himself. It had been strained five times through a filter.

"I ALSO FIND ORTHOHYDROXY BENZOIC ACID HAS BEEN PUT ON THIS TURKEY."

"What kind of soup do you think it is?" asked Mr. Kranke, smiling at his guest.

"Baled hay" were the words on the tip of Mr. Slyvers' tongue, but he checked them and said, "Why, mulligatawny, isn't it?"

Mr. Kranke frowned as if to indicate that if he ever knew of a mulli-tawny running around in his kitchen he would catch it in a steel trap and cut its tail off close up behind its ears.

"No," he replied; "this soup is made of four herbs that grow down on our farm."

The maid then reappeared, bearing a great brown juicy turkey on an immense platter. Mr. Slyvers wanted to throw both arms around the turkey and lay his head on its shoulder and weep for sheer joy, but he contained himself with an effort and waited for Mr. Kranke to carve.

But instead of taking up the carving knife Mr. Kranke waited until the maid came in with a little tray on which were three or four test tubes. Mr. Slyvers looked at the test tubes, and then his eyes rested fondly and regretfully on the turkey as he whispered softly, "Goodby, Mr. Turkey."

"The butcher sent us this turkey yesterday," said Mr. Kranke, "and, following my usual custom, I took small bits of it and put them in these various solutions for investigation."

"Ha," said Mr. Kranke as he examined the first tube, "as I suspected. Mr. Slyvers, can you believe me when I say I also find orthohydroxy benzoic acid has been put on this turkey?"

"Well," said Mr. Slyvers nervously, "that's all right. I—that is to say, you know, I like orthohydraulic acid. Yes, at home we used to have it on the table all the time. Of course some people like chutney sauce best, but I"—

"No," he replied; "this soup is made of four herbs that grow down on our farm."

"Why, Mr. Slyvers," said Mr. Kranke, "you don't understand. I could not permit a guest at my table to eat poison. Take the turkey away, Maggie, at once."

As the turkey went out the door Mrs. Kranke said she was sorry she could offer her guest nothing to drink, because the test she had made that morning showed a large percentage of chicory in the coffee and that she had sent the milk into exile because it was suspected of harboring formaldehyde in its clothes.

It was late in the afternoon, and the white garbed student in the bacteriological laboratory at the medical college was getting ready to lock up and go home when Mr. Slyvers in a highly demoralized condition burst in.

"Hey, barshen'ser!" shouted Mr. Slyvers. "Make me a germ cocktail an' put a bashillus in it."—Chicago Tribune.

A WONDER WORKER

"It heals like magic," is a favorite expression when Dr. Chase's Ointment is used. It works quickly, stops all itching at once, often heals in a single night. For eczema, salt rheum, barbers' itch, skin irritations or eruptions, it is a most satisfactory treatment. Being antiseptic it prevents blood poisoning.

Ancient Coffins.

The coffins of the ancient Egyptians were made of marble and stone. The Romans used similar receptacles for their dead, and Alexander the Great is said to have been buried in a coffin of solid gold. In parts of England glass coffins have been found. The Athenian heroes were buried in coffins made of cedar, owing to its aromatic and incorruptible qualities, while the first record of wooden coffins in England dates back to the days of King Arthur. This monarch was supposed to have been buried in the hollowed trunk of a gigantic oak tree.

The Lesson of Experience.

"I'll bet that that bridal couple have been married before."

"Why?"

"They've been living in the flat above us for two weeks now, and they haven't started to quarrel about each other's relatives yet."—Detroit Free Press.

The Milkmaid.

"You have too much rouge on, my dear young woman, to enact properly a milkmaid."

"Have I, sir? But I thought a milkmaid should be rosy cheeked."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for billousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

Austrians Evade Military Service

VIENNA, Oct. 17.—Samuel Oltmann, the agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., was arrested yesterday and his office searched by the police, supposedly in connection with the charge brought against the agent of the company in Lemberg, of assisting Austrians to evade their military service by emigrating to Canada without passports. Three employes of the Canadian Pacific in Galicia also have been arrested.

Sentenced For Deserting Post.

SOFIA, Oct. 17.—Col. Peteff, a brigade commander, was sentenced by court-martial yesterday to four years imprisonment for deserting his post in the engagement against the Turks.

SUFFERERS FROM PILES!

ZAM-BUK HAS CURED THESE!

Friction on the hemorrhoid veins that are swollen, inflamed and gorged with blood, is what causes the terrible pain and stinging and smarting of piles. Zam-Buk applied at night will be found to give ease before morning. Thousands of persons have proved this. Why not be guided by the experience of others?

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "I must thank you for the benefit I have received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say it has effected a complete cure."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, 183-185 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P. Q., writes: "I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles."

Magistrate Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.B., says: "I suffered long from itching piles, but Zam-Buk has now cured me."

Mr. William Kenty, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N.S., says: "I suffered terribly from piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments, but everything I tried failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying various remedies, when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. After a very short time Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases, eczema, ulcers, varicose and diseases, eczema, ulcers, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, chaps, cold sores, etc. 50c. box from all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

Charge of Counterfeiting.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—The four Germans, Paul H. Henderson, alias Jacke; Fitz Mundag, August Kalacker and Goldwick Santa under arrest here as alleged counterfeiters and who, the police believe, were organizing a scheme to flood the United States and Canada with bogus American five-dollar bills, appeared in the craignment court yesterday. After they had pleaded not guilty they were remanded until Oct. 23.

BROUGHT DOWN JUICE.

Concrete Mixer's Short Circuit Was a Disastrous Affair.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—It all happened in a moment, but it took civic and street car company forces over four hours to straighten out the damage done when a concrete mixed short circuited the current from a trolley wire to the track yesterday. Tracks were torn up, the huge concrete mixer was crippled, overhead wires were wrenched down, and the wooden casing through an overhead bridge were ripped to pieces. Fortunately there was no loss of life.

It took place with the suddenness of a dynamite explosion. The great concrete mixer, which weighs some seven tons and stands about fifteen feet high was being moved near the corner of Gerrard street and Carlaw avenue at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. It was being driven by Mr. Robert Pullman of 79 Leslie street, a driver for the Burns Ice Co. He escaped instant death from the fact that instead of sitting on the machine driving he was walking beside it.

He was driving eastward at the crossing of the G.T.R., the wheels on the car tracks. As the mixer started under the bridge its top unexpectedly touched the overhead street car wires. Instantly a short circuit of some 5,000 volts was created—and all kinds of things happened. The street car tracks were ripped up for eight or ten feet, while a big wheel of the mixer, melting almost instantly under the terrible heat of the current, was welded to the rails. One-quarter of one of the wheels was burned off entirely. Overhead wires were ripped and torn in all directions, the damage extending for two hundred yards between Logan and Pape avenues, while under the bridge the wooden casings were completely demolished.

GARIBALDI'S SON MOBBED.

Italians Disapprove of Support of Clerical Candidate.

ROME, Oct. 17.—The campaign in the general elections which will be held Oct. 26 is waxing warmer, and in some cases political activity has taken the form of violence. The governor, however, has issued orders for the prompt repression of all disturbances.

A meeting of Garibaldians was held yesterday to register a protest against Ricciotti Garibaldi, the only surviving son of the general, because he has given his support to the candidacy of Marquis Di Medici, a nephew of one of the Garibaldian generals, who is also supported by the clericals.

Ricciotti Garibaldi, crippled by old wounds, arrived here yesterday and drove through a hostile gathering. He was attacked by the demonstrators, one of whom struck him with a stick. His assailant was immediately arrested and the police restored order.

REEVE MILNER CHOSEN.

Brampton Liberal To Carry Standard In Peel.

BRAMPTON, Oct. 17.—Great enthusiasm marked the Liberal convention yesterday afternoon to nominate a candidate for the coming provincial bye-election in Peel county. The convention met in the Town Hall, and fully two hundreds persons were present, including about one hundred and thirty-five delegates.

The polling takes place on Nov. 3. Eight candidates were nominated, seven of whom retired in favor of Mr. A. H. Milner, reeve of Brampton, who was accordingly chosen by acclamation. The seven retiring nominees were Messrs. A. Rutherford, Bolton; John Newhouse, Snelgrove; W. J. Lowe, Snelgrove; Robt. Smith, Bolton; R. W. Dewson, Brampton; E. A. Orr, Clarkson, and Wm. Aigie, Alton.

Martians Trying to Signal?

LONDON, Oct. 17.—M. Lecontre, a distinguished astronomer of Geneva, is the latest to arrive at the conclusion that the inhabitants of Mars are signalling to this earth. During observations, which lasted seventeen days, the astronomer remarked a series of luminous apparitions of bluish white color like the light of a powerful electric arc lamp. The illuminations which usually lasted several seconds were observed several different nights.

Rideau Hall Not Ready.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Rideau Hall will hardly be in readiness when their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught arrive in Ottawa, Oct. 24.

The royal party, however, will have comfortable quarters, and the work will be rushed to completion within a few weeks.

The building presents an entirely new appearance, and both the interior and exterior are greatly improved on their former condition.

There is no grace in a benefit that sticks to the fingers.—Seneca.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE—RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief From Few Doses of Croxone

Croxone soon relieves such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; heals the inflamed membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, lifeless kidneys so they can filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to end the worst backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to refund the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed.

RELYING ON FRANCE.

Britain Expects Her to Guard Mediterranean Says Daily Mail.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—If some Liberal newspapers are well informed the Government is considering the navy estimates for the coming year. Unless there is a sudden and unexpected change in Canadian political conditions, says The Mail, the three Canadian Dreadnoughts cannot now be ready by the date when Winston Churchill has declared they will be absolutely necessary for the world-wide defence of the British Empire. At the same time, the enormous additional programs of Germany's Mediterranean allies have passed beyond the region of project to the land of fact.

"The British Government is now, without openly admitting the fact, trusting to the French navy for the defence of Mediterranean interests," continues The Mail, "but the point has been reached where the whole strength of the French navy will be unequal to the task. Assistance must be forthcoming from the British navy. Ships to give that assistance cannot be spared from the North Sea unless the British program is markedly increased."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's annoying waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

HAS CURED CANCER?

Chicago Doctors Guardedly Discuss Reichmann's Discovery.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Officers of the Chicago Medical Society yesterday commented guardedly, upon the possibility that the cancer treatment discovered by Dr. Max Reichmann of Chicago, may prove a cure, following a demonstration given by Dr. Reichmann at a special meeting of the society.

The Reichmann treatment consists of injecting eight grams of quinine and 800 grams of distilled water into the tissues, followed by the application of the X-ray machine for a few moments. Within an hour and a half after the removal of the X-ray, according to Dr. Reichmann, the solution will have reached a cavity. He brought to the meeting a woman who had suffered from cancer for fifteen years, and who declared that after twelve of these treatments the cancer appeared to be permanently exterminated.

POSTMASTERS GET MORE.

Long-Sought $15 Will Be Added To the Minimum Wage.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—The Postmaster-General, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, with the approval of the Government, has decided to increase the minimum salaries of rural postmasters from $35 to $50 per year. The necessary legislative action to give effect to the decision will be taken at the coming session of Parliament.

The last increase to rural postmasters was granted in 1909, when the salary was increased from $25 to $35. Since then there has been a constant agitation for a further increase to $50, as was advocated by Mr. Borden when in Opposition. The increase will affect several thousand rural postmasters in all parts of Canada. The postoffice surplus for the present year will be much more than sufficient to meet the additional charges on revenue.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

MISSIONARIES RECEIVE AN OVATION AT THE BIG BAPTIST CONVENTION

A BUSY SESSION

Stirring and insistent were the messages rung out to the ears of the large audience thronging Murray Street Baptist Church on Thursday evening as to the place and value of the missionary worker in the life of the heathen nations. The majority of the speakers were missionaries home on furlough, with the exception of two, Rev. A. Gordon, B.A., and Mrs. Gordon, Missionaries-elect. The young couple when introduced to the audience elicited voluminous applause as they indicated their desire to engage in mission work in far-away India. The whole was a fitting culmination to the first day's conference of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. A. A. Ayer, of Montreal, president of the convention, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with a song service under the leadership of Rev. H. C. Bryant, Lindsay, and opening exercises by Rev. T. E. Richards, B.A., of Brantford.

"Number One Hard."

"Western Missions" formed the subject of an elucidative address by the Rev. M. A. McLean, B.A., of Calgary, a western representative of the Western Baptist Union.

"It goes without saying that the best Canadian brand of Baptists are here at this convention," said Rev. McLean. "They constitute a special brand of Baptists, number one hard, speaking cereally and seriously. Everything connected with the convention has moved as smoothly as a Peterborough canoe skimming over the great lakes of the Northland.

"One of the problems of the West and one not wholly devoid of interest to Eastern Baptists," said the speaker, 'is the agricultural expansion and the annoyance farmers suffer from the banking interests who hang upon their flanks. Here," continued Rev. Mr. McLean, "we have an excellent sample of the product of the Brandon College in the person of Rev. A. Gordon, B.A., and his devoted wife, who are on the platform to-night. Mr. Gordon is a Scotchman by birth, a Baptist by conviction, and a missionary by divine faith.

"Personality."

"Personality is one of the biggest things in God's world. The world was a purposeless waste until man appeared. We glory in our great principles as Baptists, but those principles lack potency until they are enshrined in a human life. The vision makes the man. It determines his grasp and influence in human life. It justifies the practical idea that causes men to look behind the scenes and see things as they are.

"Fringe of Hell."

"It has been said that the frontier of civilization is the fringe of hell. That is where men with a vision are better able to transmute sinister temptation into the enforcement of character. The man who God will use is the man who has the vision of God. It is not the scientific vision spoken of by scientists and philosophers. It is the kind of vision that we need in the ministry. We must see God and see the people not through the murky atmosphere of commercialism, but through the clean cool air of divinity.

A Big Problem.

"One of the big problems that confronts the Canadian West to-day," said Rev. Mr. McLean, "is that of Canadianizing and Christianizing the foreigner. Shall it be a heterogeneous mass of people afflicted with low ideals or shall it be a loyal patriotic body of people merged in one common bond of brotherhood. That is the problem we are up against to-day and must face unflinchingly," said Rev. Mr. McLean in conclusion.

Vizianagran.

Rev. H. Y. Corey, M.A., during the course of a ten minute address, spoke of the vast work that was being accomplished in the Vizianagran Mission Station, India. The speaker, who has seen nineteen years' service in the foreign mission field, said that India and its teeming millions possessed a civilization of which she was proud, and one that extended far back into the ages. The commerce of India was thirty per cent. greater than the combined trade of Russia and China.

Custom Dominates.

The devoutness of the caste worshippers to the adopted deity of the pagan temples and the recognized custom of depriving widows of an equality of rights in respect to association and other liberties, was told in an intensely interesting and practical way by Miss Katie S. McLaurin, of the India Mission field. To Miss McLaurin's parents belongs the credit of founding a flourishing mission station in India.

Missionaries-Elect.

Rev. A. Gordon, B.A., told the story of his conversion and consequent desire to enter the mission field. "India's teeming millions," he said, "were gospel hungry not gospel hardened." He rejoiced in the privilege that the Canadian Baptist Church afforded him of achieving his desire, and expressed the hope that he would prove worthy of the trust and responsibility. Mrs. Gordon, who will collaborate with her husband in the work of evangelizing the heathen, also spoke a few words in which she entered a plea for the support and trust of those who are left in the homeland.

A Veteran Missionary.

A veteran missionary in the person of Rev. J. R. Stillwell, B.A., is another missionary who is home on furlough. Rev. Mr. Stillwell has twenty-eight years' service to his credit. He gave as his reason for returning to the mission field with its attendant hardship, that a higher power, who called him first to the mission field, was calling him to return and continue the work.

A Transition.

"India is moving on and the world is marching out of darkness into light," said Rev. J. Chute, B.Dh. Mrs. J. Chute, M.D., the devoted wife and co-worker in the mission field of Rev. J. Chute, expressed a few words of pleasure which such an event occasioned.

A Wonderful Privilege.

"It is a wonderful privilege," said Mr. Ayer, chairman of the meeting, "to look into the faces of the audience and note the intense interest there is manifested. It indicates that the spirit of God is present and is calling out to the people to do their duty towards those whose work lies, beyond boundaries of the homeland."

Resolution Committee.

At the conclusion of the meeting the nominating committee reported on the resolution committee as follows: Rev. James Sullivan, D.D., Montreal; Mr. D. Carkner, Mr. A. B. Foster, Dr. O. E. Thompson, Dr. A. A. Cameron, Mr. A. McNee, and Rev. W. E. Hindson.

Immensity Of Foreign Mission Work In India

Was Brought Out in the Report of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board to the Baptist Convention

WESTERN MISSION

The immensity of the foreign mission field in India was incidentally brought out in the report of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board, covering the work for the past year. This was presented on Thursday afternoon.

The total area of the field is 10,432 square miles, with a population of 4,378,000, living in 7,848 villages and towns, the people are mostly Telugas though in the north other races are found.

The Baptist mission consists of twenty-two stations, with a missionary staff of eighty-six, of whom five are physicians. These are assisted by 541 native helpers. There are more than 200 village schools, nine boarding schools, two high schools, one Normal training school, a theological seminary, an industrial school, five hospitals and a Telugu weekly newspaper.

Christians are to be found in 484 Villages on the field, and at least 1,500 villages receive monthly gospel preaching. The value of the property owned by the mission is about $150,000. The Christian community of that territory is over 2

Thursday Afternon Session.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Jos. Sullivan, D. D., of Montreal. Rev. Prof. Gilmour, D.D., reported on behalf of the Historical Commitee and suggested, that the history of individual churches be written, and that better paper be used in the printing of the Association minutes, that they be the better preserved. The time has come that in each association some one should be appointed to secure proper care of historical material. Accuracy in official statements should be aimed at, so as to make the material of as much value as possible for historical purposes. A room for the purposes of the Board has been secured in the new Church-House in Toronto. Men of historical gifts are being sought in various sections of the country to write up the history of the denominations. The work of the Ontario and

"LOOK HERE UPON THIS PICTURE AND ON THIS"

To-day in the mild and mellow rays
Of the sun, gold dan with October haze
On the western side of Water Street
A brave young man and a maiden sweet
Were blithely strolling, and as they walked
With springy step and strong they talked
And they laughed; for, free from care,
They were a bonnie and wholesome pair.

"What is it?" she cried, for over the way
In line with the drinking fountain's play
Arose a tumult, of crowding throng
As blue coat men hustled something along—
"It's only policemen, who're 'taking to camp'
A drunken harlot and riotous tramp."

Great Father in Heaven! O why is it so,
This heart-splitting contrast of high and of low—
Both children of thine, born equal in state
To become fallen and base or noble and great?
'Tis Childhood Neglected, or cherished with love
Such as we'd look for from angels above.
Come now to the rescue, think how it will be
If such contrasts continue through you or through me.

DIRIGIBLE BALLOON EXPLODES AND THIRTY ARE KILLED

German "Zeppelin" Carrying German Naval Commission Blows Up in Mid-air and Only One of Her Passengers and Crew Survive the Terrible Plunge to Earth--Bodies Were Nearly All Consumed or Horribly Mangled.

Special Cable to The Examiner.

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 17.—Early this afternoon it was known that thirty were dead out of thirty-one, including the crew and an Admiralty Commission, who were aboard the new Zeppelin "L2," the dirigible army balloon, which exploded and burned in mid air over Johannisthal Field, this morning.

Observers differ as to the height the balloon was from the ground when the explosion took place. Estimates vary from one thousand to three thousand feet. It was seen by hundreds of people.

The aluminum framework of the dirigible, which was about all that reached ground, was so hot that the rescuers could not at first go near it. The bodies were nearly all consumed or horribly mangled.

Only one engineer had a spark of life and it is hardly possible he can live. As soon as the explosion occurred the huge gas bag plugned towards the earth at a terrific rate and the people scattered in all directions. The Naval Commission, who lost their lives, included Captain Behnisch, Commander of the Aerial division of the German Navy and several high officers. This was the sixth air craft built by aged Cont Zeppelin that has come to grief. Altogether nearly two hundred men have sacrificed their lives in dirigible experiments in Germany. Immediately after the tragedy this morning Kaiser Wilhelm and Count Zeppelin had a conference. It is possible that this latest catastrophe will end such trials in Germany for the present. This will be a great disappointment to the German people, who had hoped to prove their superiority over Britain in aerial navigation.

Lieut. Baron Von Bleut, the only survivor, recovered consciousness this afternoon long enough to say that the first explosion was in the centre of the gondola, and the inmates of this cage were blown to the winds; then the entire gas bag took fire and exploded, shattering every thing. Von Bleut was rendered blind and both legs were amputated. He was in terrible agony and begged the surgeons to kill him after he had told his story.

LONDON, ENG., Oct. 17.—(Special cable).—That the latest and worst Zeppelin balloon disaster is a terrible blow to the ambitions of Germany for the command of the air, is talked of in all quarters to-day. For many years it has been feared that the aggressiveness of the Kaiser's people in this direction was a serious problem for Britain to face, and owing to the great scientific skill of the Germans naturally might, in the near future, defeat the British supremacy on land, air and sea. While the news of this morning's catastrophe brings retaliation to the British people in Germany's serious setback, there is no attempt in the evening papers of London to gloat over it. On the other hand there are sentiments of intense sympathy with the German people in such a heavy loss which, following the Volturno disaster, in which many Germans lost their lives, comes as a very sad blow to hundreds of German families, in addition to a national loss. In fact Britain to-day is so much mourning over its own Welsh coal mine disaster that there is small disposition to feel elated over any national triumph.

THE SPRINGVILLE PRESBYTERIANS WANT REV. DR. MARSH

The Congregation Have Unanimously Requested Him to Remain Their Pastor

At the meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, during session of Synod, in Toronto, on Oct. 15th, the congregation of the Springville Presbyterian Church asked that Rev. Dr. Marsh's resignation lie on the table till the meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, to be held in Peterborough on November 13th. The request was granted.

The Springville congregation have unanimously asked Rev. Dr. Marsh to remain as their pastor, a striking testimony of appreciation of the value of his ministerial services, during the past seven years of his pastorate, during which time the congregation, as well as others, have noted how greatly all their interests of the church have prospered.

SULZER'S REMOVAL ORDERED

Examiner Special:

ALBANY, N.Y., Oct. 17.—Governor Wilson Sulzer was ordered removed from office by the High Court of Impeachment shortly before noon to-day by a vote of 43 to 12. Senator Wende and Judge Cullen excused themselves from voting. The Governor received the news of his removal in silence at the Executive Mansion, where he waited all morning to hear the result. He said he might make a statement later. The Court voted unanimously against the proposal disqualifying Sulzer from ever again occupying a position of trust.

PLEADS GUILTY TO THE THEFT OE A HORSE AND IS REMANDED FOR A WEEK

Wm. O'Connor Asks Court to be Lenient—Blacklister Pays $20 For Privilege of Being Drunk Yesterday.

A LONG LIST TO-DAY

Wm. O'Connor pleaded guilty at police court this morning to stealing a horse, the property of Meadowes and Maddison, of Port Hope.

It will be remembered that O'Connor was arrested last week after having traded the stolen horse to Mr. Jones, the local livery, for another horse and $25, after selling the newly acquired horse to Gibb's livery for $60. The matter was reported to Officers Sills and Reid, and the latter arrested O'Connor later in the evening.

At a previous session O'Connor pleaded not guilty, but his had changed his mind by the time his case was called this morning.

"I have decided to plead guilty," he informed the Magistrate. "I have come to my senses and realize my position. I was under the influence to liquor at the time and would ask your worship to be as lenient as possible."

O'Connor was remanded one week. In the meantime the police will endeavour to find out something about O'Connor.

A Month in Gaol.

Walter Grey will be found at any time during the next month at Mr. Nesbitt's boarding house on Court House Hill. He was charged with vagrancy at police court this morning, and although he pleaded not guilty, the testimony of his wife was enough to cause the change in his address.

Mrs. Guy said that her husband had not contributed anything to the support of his family for the past two or three weeks. He went around with loafers whom she thought kept him from working. He also was addicted to the use of liquor and sometimes came home drunk.

"Mrs. Guy would be satisfied, I think," remarked Chief Thompson, "if her husband would keep away from her and the children."

"Well, I could arrange a separation for six months at least," commented the Magistrate, "by sending him to Central Prison."

"I'm on the black list now," remonstrated Guy. "I was put on last week."

Magistrate Dumble decided that a month in gaol might give Guy a chance to outline a course for his future conduct.

Mrs. Guy stated in answer to a question that her husband had already served three months in gaol for non-support.

"He evidently likes being in goal better than your house-keeping," said His Worship. "Well its all a matter of taste."

Vagrant Remanded.

"This man was up a few days ago on the same charge," said the Chief, "and was allowed to go on condition that he got out of town He did not do so and I would like a week's remand until we can look him up. I understand he has a prison record."

Henry goes back to the hill for a week.

Will Go Back.

David Norman and Edward Hamilton, two young men charged with vagrancy, informed the Court that they had come down to Peterborough to pick apples.

Norman stated that he had enough money to buy tickets for himself and Hamilton back to Toronto.

"Well you'd better go back. Toronto may appreciate you more than we do," was the Court's comment.

Black-Lister Fined.

"You are a frequent patronizer of this court," remarked the Magistrate, to Robert Anderson, "and I am going to deal liberally with you. I fine you $20 and costs or 30 days in gaol."

Anderson had pleaded guilty to being drunk while on the black-list. He was arrested yesterday by P. C. Reid, after trying to break away from that officer.

The prisoner stated that he obtained his liquor in Hastings. He had bought two 50-cent flasks in a liquor store in Hastings on Wednesday, a man named John Collins had helped him to drink it. He said that he had come into Peterborough yesterday afternoon but denied that he had secured any liquor here. In response to a query from the Chief he admitted he gave a dollar to a man on Simcoe street to get him some whiskey, but said that although he had waited for some time the man did not come back, either with the whiskey or with the dollar.

Nonogenarian Celebrates Her 92nd Birthday

MRS. HENRY DOWN
92 Years Old To-day

The Examiner unites with her many friends in extending heartiest congratulations to Mrs. Henry Down, formerly of Lakefield, and now of this City, who to-day celebrated her ninety-second birthday. Mrs. Down was born in Devonshire, England, and came to Canada in 1843, her family settling first in Mariposa township, and afterwards living in Smith and in Douro, near Lakefield. For twenty years Mrs. Down has been a resident of Peterborough, residing with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Yelland, 207 Murray Street. Two other daughters are Mrs. John Mann, Murray Street, and Mrs. John Stubbs, Bethune Street, while Mr. W. H. Down of Lakefield is a son of Mrs. Down. There are sixteen grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren.

To-day the majority of the members of the family spent the day with Mrs. Down, who, although confined to her bed, is bright and cheerful. Her memory is as good as ever and she is able to recall the early days of the district without trouble.

A HANDSOME ESTABLISHMENT

Mason's Floral Emporium Shows Many Improvements

Owing to a typographical error which occurred in yesterday's issue, the following notice of Mr. Mason's floral improvements is reported to-day:

A more attractive florist's Emporium is not to be found outside the very large cities, than that of Mr. Francis Mason, Water Street. Recent improvements have rendered it a most up-to-date establishment, and passersby stop in admiration, it being so entirely different to anything of its kind in Peterborough. The emporium is built of small stone and the placing of new windows and large plate glass doors, the woodwork of which is finished in oak, makes a very handsome front. The interior is done entirely in white and on entering one is immediately struck by the cleanliness of the plan The ceiling and walls are done in metallic and along the south side some spacious showcases have been installed. One of the best floral refrigerators that could be had, has been secured and is a valuable acquisition for the care and preservation of cut flowers.

Mr. Mason has been in business for the past forty years, and has made rapid progress until now he is the proprietor of one of the nicest green-houses in the Province. He intends having his new emporium for really opened on Saturday, when the public is cordially invited to come and view the new premises.

NEW STORE TO BE OPENED ON SIMCOE STREET

Mr. M. Fine, who conducts a growing business at No. 209 George Street, has leased another store on Simcoe Street, No 166. He leaves for New York on Saturday night to purchase a large stock of general goods, and will open out the new premises on his return.

CHILDREN'S AID TAG DAY.

To-morrow will be, or should be, the day of days in Peterborough, tag day in the inteests of the Childen's Aid Society, something that should make appeal to every human and humane heart—to every one that, like Abou Ben Adam, loves his fellowmen.

There is no secular, nor, if it can be said without irreverence, no religious agency or enterprise greater in results, or nobler in aim than the Children's Aid Society—a charity that strikes at the root of the causes of a great deal of social evil, great and small. The president of the Baptist convention, in his opening address, told us an important truth—if we don't Christianize incoming foreigners they wil tend to heathenize us. If we do not aim at and succeed in preventing the apprenticeship to vice and immortality involved in the neglect of, and cruelty to, children, we shal be contributing to the demoralization of society, and deterioration of our citizenship.

Prevention is always better and easier than cure. If, by rescuing children from vicious or cruel environment in ill kept homes or at the hands of cruel parents or guardians, we can save them from lives of vice and shame, we shall be doing much more than we can do to in futile attemtps to combat the consequences of the manifestations of viciousness or immortality. There are in this very county, known to many, instances where children rescued from homes of vice and squalor, have become useful and virtuous members of society, who but for the intervention of the Children's Aid Society would have inevitably become vicious or immoral and utterly reprobate; for, trained in an atmosphere of vice and loose morals, they could not have resisted the influences of example and environment.

It is not only the moral saving of children that is to be taken into account. Saving children from actual cruelty, starvation and ill clothing, is something that should touch the hearts of all who have children of their own; who can better appreciate the conditions, if, in a wild stretch of imagination, they could fancy their own children in a similar case. We were all recently horrified by newspaper accounts of great cruelty to a child — unmerciful beating that left marks for months. Assuming this to be true, we can appreciate the work of the Children's Aid Society that took charge of the child and saved her from a living if not actual death.

On broader, if not higher grounds the Children's Aid Society in its influence upon the preservation of the standard of our social and civic life, appeals to our sympathy and assistance. At the Baptist convention in the Murray Street Church last night, a vast congregation was stirred to enthusiasm and zeal by the eloquent addresses that plead the cause of foreign missions. This was noble and inspiring, but we have need to combat the forces of heathenism nearer home — at home. The undercurrents of our society, we believe, have elements of wrong, potentiality of evil that need to be vigorously combatted. Yesterday two ladies spending the afternoon together on a western street, saw, as reported to the police, an incident that is shocking in its character, and possibilities. While there is no fixed definition of the white slave traffic, this case seems a variant of it. Two men, not too young men either, were seen to halt their buggy alongside the sidewalk and take in a young girl with a navy-blue dress and velvet jacket, her girlish hair tied with red ribbons. They drove towards the country and after a considerable interval, returned to near the point of departure, the girl sitting on one of the men's knees. But she was not put down, for the men, seeing they were observed, drove on. The circumstance was considered so suspicious that the matter was reported to the police, with what result is not known. If the suspicions aroused were justified, the circumstances of a young girl not more than fifteen, being in the hands of two bestial men, indicate the need for the utmost vigilance. Where was the girl's mother, or had she a mother? The girl's downfall, her ruin—for it not reclaimed she will go from bad to worse—consummated in the full light of day near a 'whole cityful,' is truly horrible. Here we have the home the fountain of wrong; and it is the wrong conditions of the home, where maternal carelessness or viciousness, sows the seeds of the downfall of their daughters. If the authority of the Children's Aid Society were extended to cover cases of children of larger growth where evidences of maternal incapacity in regard to maturing girls is shown, its beneficent work would be greatly widened. However, conditions show that there is need for greater vigilance, and the society beginning with the neglected child does a great work in the prevention of wrong and cruelty and the vitiating of society.

The Children's Aid Society has no other financial source of supply for its work than the contributions of the public—it is not on the government list. Therefore, the duty of the public towards it is emphasized. A liberal, if not lavish practical attitude towards the solicitors who will appear upon our streets to-morrow is heartily bespoken.

CANADA'S CREDIT.

It is in the best interests of Canada to adopt a far more conservative attitude in regard to its company promotions. Why not try capitalization in hundreds of thousands rather than in millions. It is time that some of our financiers examined their methods for the benefit of Canadian credit and investors everywhere in our securities.—Monetary Times.

LAURIER ON THE TARIFF.

The Government should not take from the pockets of the people so much money when the cost of living is so high. For this money does come from your pockets. Surpluses do not come from heaven. The Government has no magic hand. I say on behalf of Mr. Fisher and the Liberal party this state of things must not last. We must revise the tariff. We are told that the tariff is our own, that it was passed by Mr. Fielding in 1897. That is true, but that tariff was not for all eternity. It is not like the laws of the Medes and Persians. The people now in office do not appreciate this or understand it. It is an instrument which should be used to supply the Government with revenue, and then to provide for the comfort and prosperity of the people. To revise a tariff is a delicate operation, and it must be done so as not to hurt any of the industries of the country. — Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

MISGUIDED REFORMERS.

The superintendent of a protective association in New York has organized some 500 school girls into an amateur police force. Their work is to hunt up and expose "vice, crime, ignorance and disease." The author says he expects that his scheme will not only be of great direct benefit to the community, but that their police duties will teach the little girls to escape "the pitfalls set for unwary feet."

The newspaper reports do not give as full particulars of this new movement as wes hould like. But there is enough told to condemn it. The girls are supposed among other duties to keep a watchful eye on dance halls and such places and report what they see to the superintendent. He may be a well-intentioned person, but any man who would set young girls to explore questionable places of public resort ought to be locked up before he goes on with his plans. The less personal knowledge school girls have of the vice and folly of large cities, like New York, the better for them. To send them to places where vice abounds in order to get evidence for the prosecution of offenders is one of the craziest schemes we have heard of for some time.

The idea of having young girls taught sexual hygiene by their teachers may have something to be said for it, but to send these little girls into the haunts of vice to gather information is indefensible.—London Advertiser.

MAGNIFYING CHATEAUGUAY.

Usually explanations of defeat are the consolations of the vanquished. But the most elaborate explanations of the Chateaugnay election are coming from government sources. Mr. Foster and the News and the Mail talk as if a general election had taken place, and as if the electors had approved of Mr. Borden's policy and condemned the policy of the Opposition. Nothing has happened except that Chateauguay, following the usual course of Canadian constituencies in bye-elections, has voted for the government by a majority which represents a turnover of less than a hundred votes.

The result is a victory, not for any great principle advocated by the government, but for Mr. Rogers, who is a smart electioneering politician, and was taken into the government because of those talents. There could be no victory for Mr. Borden's naval policy, because nobody knows what it is, or what Mr. Borden intends to do. His vague declarations can be minimised or magnified according to the constituency which is addressed, and we may be sure that in Chateauguay they were minimized, and that the Laurier policy was described as that which would cast the heavier burden on Canada.

Mr. Bourassa is probably quite correct when he says:

"The Chateauguay electors have accepted reluctantly the naval policy of Mr. Borden because, perhaps, his policy seems to be less advanced, less provocative, and less imperializing than that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."—Toronto Star.

Mental Condition As Factor In The Commission Of Crime

The difficult problems involved in the managemnt of penal institutions are pointedly suggested in a paper read before the American Prison Association at Indianapolis by Dr. Daniel Phelan, surgeon of the physicians' branch of the American Prison Association. This paper has been published in pamphlet form, and may afford valuable guidance for all who feel disturbed in conscience regarding society's treatment of what has been regarded as the criminal class. A perusal of the pamphlet impresses the conviction that a criminal act is as difficult to explain as a moral act, the conventional act, a patriotic act, or a foolish act, for in the simplest human motives and impulses there is a complexity that is baffling. Yet the classification of Dr. Phelan may help toward a more intelligent understanding of the problems presented by criminality. He classifies society's misfits as criminals fram adventure, criminals mentally weak, insane criminals, accidental criminals, incorrigible criminals, habitual, occasional, professional, and instinctive criminals. It is a wide range, and no doubt each class could be subdivided into as many phases as it has members. The main point in the classification is that it leads away from the ancient error that there is a distinct criminal class, to be recognized by certain acts, and made to fit into the ways of some place of detention.

Much interesting speculation is advanced regarding the influence of eplipsy, that baffling problem of the medical profession. It is not simplified by including among the epileptics the names of Sir William Hamilton, the celebrated mathematician and astronomer; Pascal; Avicenna, the philosopher; Mozart, Handel, Petrarch, Julius Caesar, Mohammed, Peter the Great, Byron, Swedenborg, Sheridan, Balzac, Dostoieffsky, Lucretius, Flaubert, Paganini, Dumas, (mother), Bossuet, Molliere, Berlioz, H. K. White (English poet), Cromwell, Mendelssohn, Tasso, Ampere, the Duke of Marlborough, and the Duke of Wellington. Epilepsy seems to be one of the weak spots in many minds, and the failure of the mental structure naturally commences at the point of weakness.

Dr. Phelan's views regarding the effect of alcohol are deeply suggestive He attributes more than 25 per cent. of the insanity in the world to alcohol, and two-thirds of the crime to the same cause, directly or indirectly. As 28 per cent. of the inmates of penal institutions are mentally defective, and alcohol plays an important part in mental deterioration and disease, the charge against drink indulgence is lamentably and terribly strong.

Perhaps some clue could be found to the sources of criminality by inquiring as to the cause of established courses on the part of the law-abiding. The inquiry can be more free. Why does the average citizen send children to prison to undergo all these things under the tutelage of expert criminals? Some do so for fear they would otherwise be robbed or murdered, or both, some because they think it will strike terror into timid hearts contemplating revolt, and some because they do not care what happens to anybody so long as it does not inconvenience themselves. The impulses that move those on the outside may afford a clue to the impulses of the criminals.—The Globe.

A Feud In Mining Camp

Examiner Special:

GUADALAJARA, Mex., Oct. 17.—Two American citizens and one Mexican were killed on Tuesday as the result of a feud at Hostolipaquillo, a mining camp, in the State of Jalisco, about eighty miles to the north west of this City and twenty-five foreigners there were threatened with extermination.

Convention Notes

Written For The Examiner by a Delegate

Professor Farmer on the New Testament Doctrine of Salvation is the theme of discussion by many of the delegates. It is hoped that the morning addresses will be published in pamplet form.

Lawyers are quite prominent in the Convention. Messrs. D. E. Thomson, LL.D., K. C.; C. J. Holman, LL.D., K.C.; ex-Mayor Thos. Urquhart, K.C., and A. M. Denovan, K.C., are all in attendance. No longer can the preacher cry "Woe unto you lawyers!"

A minister and his wife were separated and placed in different homes on Monday night. Then the minister got lost and never reached his billet. Now the question is, Where did he spend the night?

Rev. E. J. Stobo, Sr., of Quebec City, who was pastor of the Baptist Church in Peterborough some 30 years ago, is in attendance at the convention.

In spite of the smallness of ministers' salaries al ot os clerical brethren look remarkably well nourished, and would make a good appearance amongst Chief Thompson's "finest."

A great many ladies are delegates, the Baptists being so democratic that they never question the right of the sisters to sit in the denominational gatherings.

The high vest and dog collar are strangely absent. "Scotch" John McNeill says "Two things characterize the ministry to-day—No hell and the dog collar." We do not know what the Baptists believe about hell, but they do not like the dog collar.

One would think that the priestly custom of shaving the face had become a Baptist custom as one gazes upon the delegates to the convention. Whiskers are a back number.

The People's Chimes played a welcome on Thursday afternoon. The Chimes' programme lasted about half an hour.

Orders.

Miss Hogabust (of Chicago)—And what profession is your son in, Lord Hightop?

Lord Hightop—Oh, when Algy leaves college I expect he will take orders.

Miss Hogabust (surprised) — You don't say! Well, poppa has got some real nice gentlemen travelling for him.

A Deficit Of One Million

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morrow may see more pressure on the stock market. The talk among traders seems to concentrate on Mexico more than upon the currency trust campaign, rail situation or other bear features lately exploited. Seldom have we found the rank and file of the street so bearish as in the past two or three weeks, and that pessimism is increasing is shown by our advices brought in by reporters. The disturbance of the democrats is the best factor in the general discussion. We cannot see that real values will be destroyed and expect to find a continuation of overselling developments and time liquidation stops.

The liquidation mus far has been of a tired character and scattering. It is not important in the sense of liquidation or inside seling. We find it hard to believe that insiders who were the cause of the present gloom many months ago waited until now to liquidate. Who is buying is a prevelant question, rather than who is selling, considering all the circumstances of the case. We think stocks will be sold by professionals on rallies as suggested in latest advices and would continue to treat the market as a trading affair, buying only on declines for a turn in the standard list.

What Canadian Clubs Have Done During Past 21 Years

Encouraging Address by Mr. Chas. McCullough, of Hamilton, One of the Handful of Canadians Who Fathered the Canadian Club Idea and Has Seen It Develop to Vast Proportions.

ENCOURAGING ATTENDANCE

The address by Mr. Charles McCullough of Hamilton at the Canadian Club's first meeting of the season held last night in the Y.M.C.A. was most opportune and inspiring. The Canadian Club in Peterborough is beginning a new season with a record of which the members may well feel proud. But there is the possibility that the average member and prospective members may have forgotten the original objects of this organization, that their perspectives may have become too local, that they may be overlooking the results that have been achieved throughout the Dominion, and finally that they may not be impressed with the importance of the movement and the vastscope in which its operations can be pursued.

In these respects Mr. McCullough's address was decidedly timely, and if his subject was the design of the present executive of the local Canadian Club, it might be remarked that their wisdom is a bright augury of the approaching season's work.

Promising Attendance.

About seventy members assembled at luncheon which was served at 6.30 o'clock by Coleman Bros. and the meeting was concluded at eight o'clock. Mr. W. R. Morris presided, and among those noticed at the first table were Mayor Bradburn, Judge Huycke, Mr. H. R. K. Kenner, Mr. E. L. Goodwill and others. Of these over seventy-five members who were present, not a few of them were young men of the City.

The First Canadian Club.

The idea of a Canadian Club had its inception in Hamilton in December, 1892. In March of that year Goldwin Smith's book in its second edition, "Canada and Canadians," was published, and the distinguished author's comments upon the alleged spirit of this country stirred Mr. McCullough and four or five companions to discuss the question. From their deliberations buddedthe Canadian Club idea. In Hamilton it has burst into full bloom with a membership of 1,700 and from Halifax to Vancouver there is a chain of clubs varying only in the numerals that represent the enrollment.

The Question of Unity.

Mr. McCullough stated that Goldwin Smith, in speaking of Canada, had said "how wanting it it in unity." The speaker at length answered this by quoting from the Hon. Jas. Bryce to the effect that Canada had made a success of its confederation. Mr. McCulolugh pointed out that Canadian people had overcome all the difficulties presented to Confederation and were to all extents and purposes a unified people.

Canadian Club's Ubiquitous.

The importance of the Canadian Club movement was illustrated by the fact that they exist practically wherever a number of Canadians are residing together. In Boston, New York and Chicago, in Tokio, in Australia and in many foreign lands there are flourishing Canadian clubs, all outcroppings of the tiny mustard seed that first germinated in Hamilton.

Set Up An Example.

Mr. McCullough quoted Earl Grey who said in reply to a question as to what Canada had ever done, replied, "Canada has given the unique idea to the Empire that men of different opinions, political and otherwise, gather together at the same table and listen to messages and thereby all are benefitted and developed." Early Grey went back to England and formed an organization upon the same principle.

Pleasing Picture.

As a development of the Canadian Club idea Mr. McCullough pictured a similar movement in Australia and in Africa. With a similar idea full grown in each country and the individual firmly linked to the centre of the Empire what a world it would be, he said, to think alike, act alike, and be harnessed up alike. The complete development of all the parts of the Empire would contribute to its strength.

Words of Encouragement.

Small beginnings are not to be deplored, the speaker said, by way of encouragement to the local Club. Something that is to be conquered is not to be evaded. By keeping persistently at it and by sheer force and character the outcome would be assured.

Rev. Canon Davidson neatly expressed to Mr. McCullough the members' appreciation of his visit and of his efforts in forwarding the idea of Canadian Clubs thoughout the Dominion.

GRAND TRUNK HOTELS

"The Fort Garry," Winnipeg's new mammoth hotel, built by the Grand Trunk Railway, is rapidly nearing completion, and it is expected that it will be opened on or about December 1st, next. The power plant of the hotel has been started and the work of furnishing is being carried on night and day.

A feature of this hotel is the Green House on the roof, 14 storeys above the ground, which is now growing special flowers, which will grace the dining room tables at the opening of the hotel, as well as supply the dining rooms regularly with fresh cut flowers.

"The Macdonald," at Edmonton, another of the chain of Grand Trunk hotels, is progressing favourably, the steel work on this building being up to the roof while the stone work is up seven floors, and it is anticipated by the contractors that the buildings will be roofed in this Fall. It is not expected, however, that the hotel will be open until the Fall of 1914.

"The Qu'Appelle," at Regina, is also under way and the entire space to be occupied by this hotel has been excavated and the foundation is now being put in so that the steel work can be commenced this Fall.

"The Prince Rupert" at Prince Rupert, B.C., another of the Grand Trunk Pacific hotels, is also under way and the ground is being cleared for the construction of what will be the finest hotel on the Pacific Coast.

The high standard that surrounds the "Chateau Laurier" at Ottawa, the first of the Grand Trunk chain of hotels, will be followed throughout in the complete chain that is now being built across the Continent.

ON SMOKING

By RUTH CAMERON

"The man I am in love with," a girl once said to me, "has only one vice—he smokes."

"To excess?" I asked.

"Oh, no," she answered. "Just moderately."

And she called that a vice!

May she never know any better than that what a real vice is.

The attitude of many women towards smoking is something I simply cannot understand.

They seem to object to the habit not on any logical grounds but merely because it is something that they cannot share, or quite understand.

Smoking is not like drinking—a habit dangerous and injurious indulged in to any degree at all. The only case the woman can possibly have against it is when it is indulged in sufficiently to injure health.

Myself, I do not see why moderate smoking should be called a fault—much less a vice.

And yet, to get a man to give up smoking, even when his indulgence is entirely harmless, many young women consider as a most praiseworthy achievement.

The same girl whom I quoted above later persuaded her fiancee to give up his smoking, which consisted of about three or four pipefuls a day, and was extremely jubilant over her success.

I wonder what she would have said if he had asked her, as a condition of matrimony, to give up her habit of eating between meals? Something very vigourous, I fancy.

And yet I've heard a good doctor declare that the candy eating habit is one of the most pernicious to health that there is.

Myself, I have seen too many men soothed and rested and comforted and made better-tempered by the influence of Lady Nicotine, to wish anyone who can smoke without smoking to excess to give up the habit.

Smoking for boys not yet grown—

Smoking as a habit that possesses the man instead of being possessed by him—

Smoking to a degree sufficient to injure a man's health of efficiency—

But smoking as a moderate indulgence not carried far enough to be injurious—I don't see why any woman should object to that.

And as for the wife who says to her husband: "Smoke if smoke you must, but not in my nice clean house"—and I have known several such shortsighted women. Well, if I were a judge, it doesn't seem to me I should be inclined to be very hard on the man who wanted to divorce her.

Ruth Cameron

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N.Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. McDermid and Jury, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

Douglas' Saying About Vermont.

Stephen A. Douglas, who was born at Brandon, Vt., originated the oft quoted saying, "Vermont is a good state to emigrate from."

This double edged saying, which contains a compliment and a knock, is a good example of Douglas' humour, which always held in it a peculiarly Vermont quality. It is said that Douglas' actual words were these: "Vermont is a good state to be born in, a good state to be educated in, and a good state to emigrate from." This made the remark more of a "knock" than it is in its usual and more summary form. But when Douglas uttered it the audience of Vermonters received it with roars of laughter.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

PRINCE GEORGE BRITISH COLUMBIA

The entire Indian Village on the site of Prince George, the new Grand Trunk Pacific town, will be burned down within a few days to make way for the new town. The torch will be applied ruthlessly and the ancestral homes of the tribe will be swept away to the last building. Even the churches of the natives will not be spared.

The Indians are moving their property to two new villages built for them on the reserve in the Goose country, 15 miles up the Fraser, and on the Duck Lake, 12 miles up the Nechaco river. When the Railway Company purchased the Indian reserve, which is the site of Prince George, it was agreed through the Dominion Government that new villages should be built for the tribe.

Those new Indian towns are now being completed and they have been inspected by representatives of the Dominion authorities. They are said to be a credit to the Indian Departments, as well as to the contractors, and are probably the most remarkable Indian Villages ever built in respect to being essentially modern.

The Town to be burned down is one of the oldest Indian settlements known in British Columbia. It has been an Indian Village from time immemorial. The tribe is known as the Carrier from the fact that early discoverers found they carried charred bones of their ancestors constantly with them. They are also known as the Western Denes.

Song Names of the States.

The most beautiful place names in the world, according to Robert Louis Stevenson, are those of North America. "The names of the states and territories," he declares in "Across the Plains," form themselves into a chorus of sweet and romantic vocables—Delaware, Ohio, Indiana, Florida, Dakota, Iowa, Wyoming, Minnesota and the Carolinas. There are few poems with a nobler music to the ear; a songful, tuneful land, and if a new Homer shall arise from the western continent his verse will be enriched, his pages sing spontaneously, with the names of states and cities that would strike the fancy in a business circular."

THE BOYS' STORE

Merrell & Meredith's Clothing Store has always made a special feature of Boys' Outfits and is this Fall better prepared than ever to clothe the growing youth from head to foot as he wants to be clothed.

Boys' Overcoats.

Boys' Raincoats

Care of the boy's health is worth while if you want to make a strong man of him. Protect him on wet days with one of our Boys' Raincoats.

Odd Knickers

You can't beat Lion Brand Knickers, they have double knee and seats and heavy lining throughout, made in strong Tweeds & Corduroy

Boys' Norfolk Suits

The Norfolk Suits, that some hundreds of Peterboro's husky boys will be wearing soon, are here now, waiting for the selection to be made. Our advice "to be one of the early ones" will surely not be wasted.

Well Known Boston Divine Will Address Baptist Convention

An address of special interest will be given in Murray Street Baptist Church this evening by Rev. James A. Francis, D.D., of Clarendon Street Baptist Church, Boston, U.S.A. The well known Boston divine has travelled extensively and is regarded as one of the foremost speakers in the Baptist denomination. His work in connection with the social service department of the church needs no comment. Dr. Francis's interest in this particular work will undoubtedly be significant in the address which he will deliver to-night. The subject of his remarks will be "The Kingdom of God."

SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't Hesitate! If Cross, Feverish, Constipated Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

"Preachin' Bill"—in "The Shepherd of the Hills Company," at the Grand Opera House to-morrow, (Saturday), October 18th. Matinee and Night. Special low prices for Matinee—25 and 50 cents. Seats reserved. Night prices, 35c., 50c., 75c. and $1.00. Gallery, 25 cents. Seats now on sale at Box Office.

AUTUMN DAYS

A deep silence has settled on the wood. Across the rill a grey grouse is drumming on the grey trunk of a fallen tree. The grey squirrel is gathering nuts for the winter. The young deer has changed his summer coat for one of a more sombre hue; a red-brown to match the autumn leaves. Now the leaves are falling, unveiling the forest and opening long avenues through which we get glimpses of jumping deer.

This is the time to visit the Algonquin National Park, a delightful spot to enjoy a few days' rest, study wild animal life, enjoy autumn in the forests and gather strength for the strenuous life ahead during the winter months.

GOING HOME TO EUROPE WITH DUSKY BRIDE

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—As the termination of a seven years romance, Arthur Hinstonbury, a cultured Englishman, and proprietor of a large sheep ranch near the Rockies, has married Yaada, daughter of Oswenwenda of the Squamish tribe, and has almost covered the first lap of a six thousand mile honeymoon trip to England, to introduce his dusky bride to his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinstonbury passed through Ottawa on the Winnipeg train yesterday, en route for Montreal, from where they will sail for Liverpool.

Indians Helped Him.

Mr. Hinstonbury was not a wit backward in telling how it came about that he married the pretty Indian maiden from the B. C. Government Indian Reserve.

The sheep ranch of which he is proprietor is on the western slope of the Rockies, and its boundary touches that of the Government Indian reservation for British Columbia.

When Mr. Hinstonbury first settled about seven years ago in the district, the Indians helped him greatly in caring for his sheep. A strong friendship grew up between him and Oswenwenda, one of the braves. But when early in September, Mr. Hinstonbury decided that he was in love with Yaada, the daughter, Oswenwenda demurred, as he said the marriage between the two races was wrong.

Pair Eloped.

"So we ran away to Vancouver," Mr. Hinstonbury said. "Old Oswenwenda took it pretty cheerfully after we got back, but they made us go through the Indian ceremony as well. Of course I wired home to the governor, and the cables must have been hot from the epithets he used when he answered. Then Yaada and I decided that the best plan would be to let him see what a dear little morsel she is, and we started for a train, and here we are, half way home. Of course father has old-fashioned ideas about intermarriage, and all that sort of thing, but then so has Oswenwenda. He doesn't know we're coming."

An Overdraft Is Predicted For Queen Mary Isolation Hospital

The total expenditures connected with the operation of the Quen Mary Isolation Hospital from the 1st of January to the end of September of the present year is $3,753.78. The appropriation for the year is $4,500. This leaves a balance of $746.22 with which to meet the expenditures of the institution for the remainig two and a half months of the year. The average expenditures for the first nine months of the year equalled approximately the sum of $418. There is every likelihood of an overdraft when the final accounting is made at the conclusion of the year. Dr. McPherson, Superintendent of the Hospital, contends that this is an unavoidable circumstance, as it is absolutely imperative that the Hospital be kept open for the reception of patients suffering from contagious diseases.

WORK RESUMED ON C.P.R. STATION

Deputation From Havelock Interviewed Superintendent on the Matter

Work has been resumed on the new C.P.R. station, Havelock, as will be seen from the communication from Superintendent Arundel given below, and will be pushed to completion as speedily as possible.

Following the news of the cessation of work on the 6th inst., a deputation consisting of J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., Reeve Kindred, Councillors Curtis, Higley and Jones, and Messrs. A. C. Denike, H. Wing and W. A. McMaster, journeyed to Toronto on Tuesday afternoon and interviewed General Superintendent Arundel. Mr. Arundel assured them that the work was only stopped temporarily and would be resumed in the spring. Later, however, he decided to visit Havelock and look into the matter personally. He did so and the following communication from him to Reeve Kindred will explain his decision to resume the work:

Toronto, Oct. 10th, 1913.

H. C. Kindred, M.D.,
Havelock, Ont.

Dear Sir,—There is not the slightest need for the alarm that has manifested itself. I was in Havelock yesterday, and, after seeing the preparations made by the contractor for the foundation, I gave instructions for him to proceed with it. My object in stopping the work at this time was to prevent any mess around the station during the winter. The work in the yard is progressing as fast as we can get the material for it.

Yours truly,
J. T. ARUNDEL.

Old-Time Health, Eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had been sick for 10 years with dyspepsia and a lot of complications," wrote a Western woman.

"An operation was advised, change of climate was suggested, but no one seemed to know just what was the matter. I was in bed three days in the week and got so thin I weighed only 89 lbs. No food seemed to agree with me.

"I told my husband I was going to try some kind of predigested food to see if I could keep from this feeling of continued hunger.

"Grape-Nuts and cream was the food I got and nothing has seemed to satisfy me like it. I never feel hungry, but have a natural appetite. Have had no nervous spells since I began this food, and have taken no medicine.

"I have gained so much strength that I now do all my housework and feel well and strong. My weight has increased 8 lbs. in 8 weeks and I shall always eat Grape-Nuts as it is far pleasanter than taking medicines." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. WINDSOR, Oct. 16.—The people of Essex County will vote on January 1st on a scheme to spend $1,000,000 on good roads. The road plan would give the county a system of concrete roads completely encircling it, and encompassing all the small towns. The County Council, after discussing the important matter all day today, passed a resolution to let the people decide. All the towns will contribute towards the road fund if the by-law passes, and will afterwards receive all or part of their money back. Walkerville, according to an official statement of Mayor Revell, would contribute $3,000 a year.

Quebec Historical Societies is commended and co-operation with them is asked. The biographies of denominational leaders should be known by our people. Baptist ministers should be members of the Canadian Political Science Association, so that we shall understand the general situation in Canada. The Committee asks for a grant of $50 for its work. The report was seconded by Rev. D. W. Terry, B. A., of Chatham, Que., and after an interesting discussion, it was adopted.

Foreign Mission Report.

The Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board, which comprises the whole of Canada, reported to the Convention the work of the year. This Board does work in India and in Bolivia. S. A. Rev. J. G. Brown, D.D., is the General Foreign Missionary Secretary, and he it was who presented the report. It showed that since the union of Canadian Baptist Foreign Missionary forces the Missionaries in India have formed a Canadian Baptist Missionary Conference, and the missionaries in Bolivia have held their first annual conference. The baptisms on the foreign field have been 1155, which is the largest number in the history of the Board. There are about four and one-half millions of people to be evangelizedby the Board's missionaries. The amount required for new stations, educational expansion, manning the stations and native workers, etc., is $359,000, of which $100,009 will be supplied from Idia. During the next four years $38,000 ought to be spent in new buildings, etc., in the India Mission. Six extra families are needed, of which two men should be doctors. In Bolivia two additional men are needed at the earliest possible date. Several new mission stations should also be opened up.

Financial Statement.

The financial statement covers 14 months and shows receipts of $139,467.31, of which $81,317.48 were from Ontario and Quebec; $11,360.30 were given for special purposes and thus the net income is $119,977.01. The receipts from all sources fell $36,000 below the budget. The membership of the churches in India is 9,237 and the Christian community is over 20,000. In addition there are some members in Bolivia. Dr. W. B. Boggs, an old missionary died during the year. The Board has been appealed to to open up work in Bulgaria and in Chili, S. A.

Movements of Workers.

Rev. J. R. Gilwill, B.A., and Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Chute's return to India this fall, and Rev. Arch. Gordon, B.A., and Mrs. Gordon go out for the first time. Eleven missionaries have returned on furlough. Rev. Rufus Sanford, D.D., and Mrs. Geo. Churchill have completed 40 years of continuous missionary service. Rev. R. E. McKay, B.A., of Ottawa, has been appointed a Field Secretary of the Board. A pamphlet giving facts respecting India and Bolivia has been published and has been well received and a historical sketch of the Telugu Mission will be published shortly. A good map of the Mission has also been published and can be secured from the Book Room.

It is worthy of note that the giving of the native Churches in India has increased during the year 56 per cent. In Bolivia religious instruction has been abolished from the Public Schools, civil marriage is the rule, and there is a more promising outlook for evangelistic work. The spiritual harvests of the past year are harbingers of still greater to come. The report was a splendid record of a magnificent year's work.

Mr. J. N. Shimstone, the Chairman of the Board, seconded the adoption of the report in an address eulogistic of the missionaries on the staff.

Canada's West Finds Baptist Church Alert

A VAST FIELD

"God has laid at the doors of all Christian churches in Canada a responsibility that is simply enormous," said Rev. W. E. Hindson, of Guelph, in seconding the fifth annual report of the Western Mission Board at this morning's session of the Captist convention.

"We hope that their Christian liberality will measure up in some degree to the great trust that has been placed upon them."

The materialism that had been reported from the Canadian West was one result of the opening and development of a new country and of the rapid accumulation of wealth.

Some of Mr. Hindson's remarks were epigrammatic and striking. "I don't believe," he said, "that there is enough in all the wheat and real estate of the west to satisfy the heart of a man. It is essential to the well-being of a country to emphasize that life is not for selfishness but for service, that manhood is higher than gold.

What the west is Canada as a whole will be.

The neglect to evangelize the West will be a greater loss than the occasional failure of the wheat crop or a slump in real estate.

The measure of our responsibility in the West is in a great degree the measure of our patriotism, to say nothing of our religion.

No more serious problem confronts and challenges Canadian citizenship than the foreigner. We Baptists do not regard the foreigner as a menace but as an opportunity given by God. They must be welded into a common brotherhood.

No enterprise inthe field of Canadian Baptists lies so heavily on our conscience as the evangelization of our own country, and as our men try to build the Jerusalem centred for Christ, they have a right to feel that they have the support and sympathy of every Canadian Baptist.

The measure of their achievement is the measure of our generosity.

Had Running Start.

It might be aked "When will the work in the West become self-supporting." This question illustrates how far behind the times are the people of Ontario and the East. The West would not stand still long enough for us to catch up. We are simply paying the penalty of progress, just as increased business means increased expenditure.

Our Baptist principles have rendered service in the past and we must not lag behind our friends in our gifts of money and of men.

Baptists in the West.

The report was read by Rev. W. B. Tighe, B.A. It showed that in Manitoba there are 13,000 Baptists, in Saskatchewan 18,000, in Alberta 10,000, and in British Columbia 17,000.

Colleges are located at Brandon, Man.; Calgary, Alta., and Summerland, B.C. The magnitude of the work in the West is an old story, but it was re-emphasized.

Givings Are Generous.

The churches of Western Canada are giving liberally toward work there, and this year are giving $12,500 to Indian and Bolivia missions; $1,000 to Grande Ligne, and $18,400 to non-English work at home, a total of $31,000 for Foreign missions at home and abroad.

Treasurer's Report.

The treasurer's statement shows receipts of $23,339.33 of which $19,077.86 were from churches and the balance from the Sunday schools, individuals, etc. The disbursements were $23,312.97, leaving a balance in the treasury of $26.35.

The report of the church edifice board was presented by Rev. W. F. Roadhouse, the secretary. The board loans money to weak churches and these repay the loans in small instalments. The special mission of the board is to aid in chapel building. The total receipts for the year were $6,892.04, while the disbursements were $6,851.35, leaving a deficit on the year's work of $51.41. The year's income has been very satisfactory and good work has been done.

The adoption of the report was moved by Edmund Burke, Esq., Toronto, and seconded by Rev. James Struchan, of Galt.

The Keystone Of The Protestant Doctrine

Forms the Subject of a Striking Sermon by Prof. Farmer of McMaster University

The second day of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec was ushered in this morning with a scholarly exposition on "The New Testament or Protestant Doctrine of Salvation," by Professor J. H. Farmer, B.A., L.L.D. Between three and four hundred delegates were present when the session was called to order by Rev. John McNeill, B.A., Vice-President of the Conference.

Following an earnest and insistent prayer by Rev. O. C. Elliott of St. Thomas, Rev. J. H. Farmer, B.A., L.L.D., Prof. of New Testament Exegesis at McMaster University on the Protestant Doctrine of Salvation, addressed the meeting. The speaker first of all discussed Romans, 3: 21-26, which is often regarded as the keystone of the Protestant doctrine. Following an explanation of the passage, he said that the essence of Paul's teaching is that God has, through the death of Christ, conditioned Himself so that He can righteously frogive men on the ground of faith. The other part of Paul's doctrine is that conscience is set at rest by Christ's sacrifice, and that the resources of the risen Christ are at the disposal of the child of God for the completion of the new life, and that the agent in this work is the Holy Spirit.

Forgiveness of Sin.

"The forgiveness of sin," said Prof. Farmer, "is made possible by the death of Christ and the Holy Spirit works in the believer to complete salvation of body, soul and spirit." God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself. The whole Pauline thought is that sin is imparted to Christ. The reconciliation was in the past. So far as any hope for the sinner is concerned, the work was done on the cross through the death of Christ.

"Peter says that we are redeemed by the precious blood of Christ. John says that the blood of Christ cleanses from all sin, and these apostles agree with Paul in respect to the Lamb of God that taketh away sin.

"Back to Christ."

The Protestant doctrine emphasizes justification by faith. To-day there are various voices calling us from the old teaching and telling us to imitate Christ rather than to trust Him, and leading us to believe that imitation is the medium of salvation rather than faith. "Back to Christ" is the cry, but it is the Christ of the Gospel rather than of the whole New Testament these theologicians mean, and the endeavour is made to get rid of "a bloody gospel." Yet practically the Gospel introduces us to Jesus when He is thirty years of age and one-third of the material is concerned with Passion week.

Transcendent Emphasis.

The space that is given to the thought of Jesus by the Gospel writers gives transcendent emphasis to the death of Jesus, continued the speaker. The prospective of the Gospels emphasizes the death rather than the example of Jesus. He confessed that he had taken the sins of men voluntarily. John was impressed, and God approved of that confession and broke the eternal silence when His son publicly dedicated Himself to the cross. On two other occasions God broke the silence, the first being the transfiguration, and the other in Passion week, when the voice came from Heaven. On all three occasions the death of Jesus is referred to. It is worthy of note that the ordinances of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, which are to be observed until He comes, both refer to His death. The death of Jesus is not the death of a martyr, according to the Gospels. He approached death with shrinking and with unspeakable horror that reaches its climax in Gethsemane.

The Explanation.

The cross is the explanation of the horror. God is of purer eyes than to behold iniquity, and when the darkness came down, Jesus cried out in [illegible] "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me." These considerations place the Gospels alongside of Paul and make the death propriatory and explatory, and this is the song which the redeemed sing, as reported in Revelations. The song of Him who hath loved and washed us from our sins. "Christ died for us — that is the whole of religion. We must die for our brethren. That is the whole of morality," concluded Prof. Farmer.

HOW TO BE STRONG.

Man is strong only by union, happy only by peace. Be firm, not obstinate; courageous, not turbulent; free, not undisciplined; prompt, but precipitate.

Miss Blackburn Is Honoured

A social evening was tended Miss B. Blackburn at St. Josephs Hospital last evening, on the occasion of her graduating from that institution. Her diploma and medal were presented by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who spoke in the highest praise of the nursing profession and gave her kind words of encouragement. He said it gave him great pleasure also to meet the members of the medical staff. He assured them he had the greatest respect for their profession, considering it one of the highest and would be pleased to do anything in his power to assist them to make St. Joseph's Hospital proficient in every respect. Rev. Dean McColl, who acted as Chairman for the evening, called upon the various members of the staff present, all of whom spoke in the highest terms of Miss Blackburn's ability.

Dainty refreshments were then served, after which a couple of hours were enjoyably spent in music and song.

Miss Blackburn, after a short holiday, will follow her profession in Peterborough, where she is favourably known, and where her superior qualifications will insure for her every success.

To the Lover of Good Coffee

We wish to advise you that we have installed in our store a new Royal Electric Coffee Mill
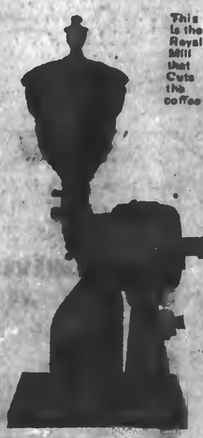
manufactured by the A. J. Deer Co., of Hornell, N. Y. This machine is equipped with steel knives which cut the berry into fairly uniform, clean cut particles, instead of grinding and crushing it as, by the old method. All Coffee Mills heretofore used will crush the berry, sacrificing the minute oil cells, allowing the Coffee Oil to evaporate, thus impairing the strength and flavour, and in a short time the coffee becomes rancid, sour.
This is one reason why a pound of coffee cut in this Mill will make more cups of full strength coffee than will any coffee ground the old way.
Another feature about this Mill is that you may have your coffee cut as fine as the finest sand and it will still be practically free from that fine dust which is produced by the old method of grinding. You will, therefore, always have a clear cup of coffee instead of a muddy effect—a result of using the old style mill.
ROYAL CUT COFFEE is also adaptable for percolators or French Drip Coffee Pots.
Try a pound of our Coffee cut on a Royal Mill and we know you will be pleased with the results. Yours truly,



This is the Royal Mill that Cuts the coffee

In the Scottish league, Hearts look like swamping the board again this coming Saturday. One must not forget however, that when the mighty fall it generally comes from an unexpected quarter. On form alone the result, as I have already stated, looks good for th first named club. Peradventure if the Acies are the first to turn the trick on the all-conquer-Hearts, such an incident will be but one of many that occur year after year.

Blackburn R., as leaders in the First division of the English league also give one the impression that the Ewood park brigade will hold to their unbeaten certificate. In the same game last year the Colts, of Bradford were heavily beaten by the score of 5 to 0 According to this information, things look exceptionally bright for Bob Crompton's merry men. Failure in this instance would, therefore, come as a great shock and upset calculations all over the country. Swindon Town as leaders in the Southern League look to have just about the best thing of the whole afternoon. Last year the men of the Great Western railway centre were victorious by a 3 to 1 score and certainly look like repeating the performance. At the present time the men of Swindon are certainly an eleven that inspire all kinds of confidence, and so far as their own sphere of operation is concerned, appear to be a very hard nut to crack. Watford, of all clubs, to say the least, looks like being in for a very sultry time, and theirs will be a mighty good performance if they run the railway men to a goal.

London, Eng., Oct. 17.—The following is the result of the only Southern league game played to-day: Reading 2, Southend United 0.

Parkdale Team Play Here On The Holiday

The only local sporting attraction of the holiday is the junior O.R.F.U. game between Parkdale of Toronto and the Peterborough Rugby team, at Nicholls Oval on Thanksgiving afternoon, which should attract a big crowd. Parkdales beat the local team 13 to 1 last Saturday, but the Petes are confident of turning the tables here in Monday. A win will be necessary to keep the locals in the running, and they may be depended upon to put up the hardest kind of a battle. The team will meet at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 o'clock to-night for a run, and there will be a full practice at the Oval to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Presentation To Mr. O. Sewrey

Linotype Staff of Examiner Gave Him a Handsome Pipe

During the noon hour, to-day, the linotype operators and the machinist, Mr. Arthur Rogers, took advantage of the opportunity to make a presentation to Mr. Oliver Sewery, expert for the Canadian Linotype Ltd., who has been in the City for the past six weeks, in connection with the re-erecting of the machines. Mr. Sewery was given a handsome meerschaum pipe, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Mr. Joe Maynard:

To Mr. Oliver Sewery, Canadian Linotype, Ltd.

Dear Friend,—We, the linotype staff of the Peterborough Examiner, learn with regret of your contemplated return to Toronto, after having been associated with us for the past several weeks.

Our associations have been of the most pleasant nature and your courteous and helpful advice in regard to the installation and arrangement of the linotype plant, has been deeply appreciated by us.

In token of our high esteem for you and of the happy remembrance of your visit here, we ask you to accept this slight token. (Signed)

George Johnston,
Joseph Maynard,
A. E. Rodgers.

The presentation was made by Mr. George Johnston, and though taken completely by surprise, Mr. Sewery made an appropriate reply, expressing his thanks for the kindness shown him.

Pleads Guilty

"Who was the man?" demanded the Chief.

"I don't know what his name was," replied Anderson. "He wrote it down for me on a piece of paper but I have lost the paper."

"You had better tell us his name, so we can lay a charge against him for stealing your dollar," remarked the Chief.

Anderson re-iterated that he did not know the man and finally was remanded for a week in an effort to refresh his memory.

Abusing a Horse.

The prisoner stated that he had beaten the horse because it would not go.

Thos. Tucker testified that the horse was brought back to the livery stable wet with sweat and covered with welts. The horse was a good driver and did not need the whip.

P. C. Sills, who had been called to the livery stable corroborated Tucker's evidence.

"You can't get horses from the livery stable and beat them as if they were stone walls," remarked the Magistrate, as he imposed a fine of $10.

Next, three drunks, were assessed $2 each, while Norman Hurl, charged with vagrancy, was remanded for a week.

John Irwin, charged with vagrancy, asked for another chance and got it, but the Court reminded him that he would be severely dealt with if he appeared again.

His Suggestion.

"Why don't you marry me?"

"I have a mission in life. I'm working for the uplift."

"Concentration is the thing. Let each woman confine her attention to uplifting one man."

NEW LIGHTS FOR THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE

Only one lamp in commission on the Smith Street bridge led Ald. Green to remark that the semblance of neglect suggested that the City had gone into the hands of a receiver. It was stated that the boys in the vicinity of Smith Street used the lamps as subsitutes for glass bottles on a rail fence. New lights will be placed on the bridge and an effort will be made to apprehend the young culprits if they continue their vandalism.

Mr. Jos. Succee and others asked that the light at the corner of Hunter and Concession Streets be placed over the centre of the street.

Mover by Ald. Green, seconded by Ald. Buller, that this matter and the question of lights on Weller Street, near the Boundary, and on Bethune Street, north of Smith Street, be referred to the Mayor and Chairman, with power to act.

On motion of Mayor Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Buller, it was decided that there be no charge against the Peterborough Light and Power Company for lights that are out on moonlight nights.

The appointing of a Building, Plumbing and Wiring Inspector was deferred.

Responsibility Repudiated

In view of the statement that Rev. Dr. Sullivan of Montreal has been announced to deliver a public address as an "ex-priest" of the Church of Rome, and as he is a member of the Baptist Convention, influential men connected therewith wish it stated that Rev. Dr. Sullivan never was a Roman Catholic priest, and that the Baptist convention repudiates responsibility for any statement to that effect.

Barn Was Destroyed

An alarm was rang into the fire hall at 8.23 this morning from 131 Romaine Street, where a barn belonging to Mr. T. Williams, an elderly gentleman who had been confined to his bed for some time, was on fire. The elderly couple were kindly attended to by the neighbours, who looked after them until they were out of danger.

The fire had gained considerable headway in the barn at the rear of the house before it was noticed, and at one time looked as if it might spread to the dwelling. It was checked by the men, who kept a close watch and a constant flow of water on the blaze.

It is thought that the fire was caused by a spark from a passing locomotive, as the G.T.R. tracks run close by the south side of the barn, which side was the first to burst into flames. The barn was totally destroyed; also part of the contents, amounting in all to about $300 damage, with no insurance.

MR. KEARNS REGRETS TERMINATION OF SUIT

Mr. Frank Kearns, the defendant in a recent action before Mr. Justice Middleton in the High Court wishes to state that none of the evidence for his defence was offered in the case on account of the settlemnt which was advised by Justice Middleton. Mr. Kearns states that he agreed to the termination of the case on the advice of his lawyer and at the request of the presiding judge, but he claims that he had evidence which, had it been offered, would have put a somewhat different complexion on the case. Since the publicity given to the plaintiff's side of the case, Mr. Kearns regrets that he did not proceed with the action and bring out his and the evidence of his witnesses, for he feels that it would have been more satisfactory to his friends and to himself, especially in the eyes of all those who have known him for many years.

Checkers.

Checkers is said by some to be a very old game, while others declare it to be of comparatively modern origin. Whence it came is absolutely unknown. The game is also called draughts, and there are many varieties of it—Chinese, Polish, Spanish, Italian and Turkish. It is also found among the native tribes of the interior of New Zealand.

To Move Pictures.

People who stand their family portraits against the walls while packing and unpacking their household goods cause a great deal of broken glass, scratches and dents. The first thing to be done when moving into your new home should be to hang the pictures any place in order to get them out of the way without waiting to choose a scheme of arrangement. This will prevent a great deal of breakge and other damage.

KEENE, ONT., Oct. 17.—Last Wednesday evening at 7 p.m., and at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wedlock on High Street, was solemnized the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret, to Mr. Joseph Gibson of Toronto, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Alex. K. Edmison, pastor of the Methodist Church, under an arch of evergreens and asters, in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties and seventy-five friends.

The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Laura McFarlane, and Miss Lilly Montgomery, niece of the bride, was flower girl. The bride was dressed in a charming gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and roses. The parlour of the home was beautifully decorated. Following the ceremony a four-course dinner was served. Out-of-town guests are the following: Mrs. Brown of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. T. Wedlock of Peterborough, Mrs. A. B. Betts of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Carter and daughter Lilly of Hastings.

Judge Huycke On Tag Day

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you allow me a line in which to emphasize the appeal of His Worship, the Mayor, on behalf of the Children's Aid.

Both officially and personally, I have had frequent occasion to note the good work of this Society in looking after some of God's little ones. Surely at this thanksgiving time there is no better way of giving thanks for manifold blessings received than by sharing them to some extent with others. Emmerson says "Man was born not for prosperity alone, but to give and suffer for others, like the noble "rock maple, which bleeds and gives its sweetness for the service of man." So and only so does the giver attain his best. Again, the little children, orphaned or worse, need help and that is the best reason for giving it. Further, if we do not pay now to support and make good citizens of them, those who come after us will have to maintain prisons and asylums for their correction and reformation.

May we hope tha. all previous records will be broken by Tag Day of 1913.

October 17th, 1913.

ELLIOT'S

Fell Into Tank Of Paving Material

Edward McInnis, of Lindsay, night engineer for Foley and Gleason, paving contractors, whose portable asphalt plant is at present located in Peterborough, was severely burned last evening as a result of falling into a tank of heated paving material. He was immediately rescued by the timekeeper, and after restorations had been applied, was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the Dan Spencer ambulance.

The accident occurred about eight o'clock last evening. McInnis was walking along the top of the machine for the purpose of adjusting the air distributor, when his foot slipped and he was precipitated in the tank. Enquiries at the hospital this afternoon elicited the information that the injured man was resting easily. He was severely burned about the head and feet.

How Any Woman Can Remove Fuzzy Growths

(The Modes Beauty)

Many beauty shops use a delatone paste for removing hair from the face, neck or arms, as it is more satisfatcory in every way than the electric needle. Enough of the powdered delatone, and water is mixed into a paste, and spread on the hairy surface for 2 minutes, then removed and with it comes every bit of hair. After the skin is washed it will be firm and free from blemish. To insure best results, buy the delatone from your druggist in an original package.

GUY BROS.' MINSTRELS.

The old favourite minstrels, Guy Bros., entertained a good audience at the Grand Opera House last night, the performance being a splendid one in every respect. The vocal solos and chorus numbers of the first part were well rendered, and the other features were clever and entertaining. A fine orchestra was a feature and altogether the musical end of the programme was away above the average.

By ROY NORTON

The mine-owner studied him for an instant with a frank scrutiny, and seemed to come to a decision.

"I can use a man like you," he said. "I need one. I want someone who can be depended on in a pinch—some man who ain't afraid."

Lish burst into a long-drawn chuckle of amusement.

"Need a man like me? Sorry, but I can't see it, if you're meanin' take a job. I'm no good workin' for other men, because for two reasons. I'm lazy and I'm unreliable. Besides, I don't like to work for no man. There ain't anyone can say he's my boss. I'm my own. Again, mister, you've got me sized up dead wrong, because I've got just the same kind of nerve as a mouse. The only way anybody can get a fight out of him is to get him by the tail, and then he bites. Besides, I ain't busted. I never work real hard for David Elisha Henley till I'm flat broke. Most days I like to lay around on my back under the trees, and watch the squirrels and chipmunks and birds. I'm one of the kind of men that are no good for anybody except themselves, and I s'pose I'm the most selfish cuss the Lord ever turned loose in a right-liberal world. Nope! They ain't no man can hire me; but I'm much obliged, all the same, because one of the most flatterin' things a man can do is to offer a job."

"Where are you going?" he asked.

"Up to Canady Hill. After that—be hanged if I know!"

"What are you looking for—placer ground?"

"Anything that's got pay in it."

"Well," he said, "I must be moving. If things don't break right for you, come over to the Cricket. Ask for Martin, the owner. I can always find a place for you. So long."

"Now, there," he said, "goes a feller I could like. And if it ever comes my way to do him a good turn, I'll sure do it. Come on, Jack."

They resumed their march with the same carelessness that they had begun it, as if they had nowhere in particular to go and plenty of time to get there. So slow was their progress, and so filled with diversions, such as the fluttering of an unknown bird, a peculiar-coloured piece of rock, or a strange flower, that it was four o'clock in the afternoon by the time they swung around a spur of the mountain, looked down, and saw the Canada Hill Mine below them. The roar of its stamps assaulted the echoes, the white smoke curled from the mill stack, and the clash of a car of waste being dumped crashed inward.

Lish expressed great interest in it, and moved at a little brisker pace as he approached. The clang of hammer on steel came to him as a directing point, and he made his way to the little shop where a smith was tempering some drills. The man looked up and nodded.

"I reckon this is the Canady Hill?" Lish asked.

"You reckon right," was the answer, as the smith turned and thrust the drill into a tub of water, and then jerked it out again lest it temper too hard.

"Is there a woman workin' here by the name of Mrs. Marthy Higgins?" the prospector asked.

"Sure I work. Best cook on the Divide, I say. Want to see her?"

"Yes."

"Then, go down to the messhouse." The smith walked out, holding the drill in one hand and his hammer in the other, lifted the bar of steel as if it were a straw to be used as a pointer, and directed Lish: "Go right down there—the third small building. Go around to the other end of it. Can't make any mistake. She's the only woman in the camp, and she's a lady, Mrs. Higgins is."

Lish wondered if this last were an admonition, but decided, from the looks of the smith's face, that there was no offence intended, so thanked him, and stepped away over the worn trail. He looked in through the messhouse windows, and saw that already the long table had been prepared for the evening meal, its heavy plates, heavy cups and saucers, and steel implements all laid out in mathematical precision on a figured oilcloth that shone resplendent. He decided that the camp cook was neat and orderly. Turning the end of the building, he heard a querulous old voice that quavered along ecstatically.

"I like cloves in them apple pies, Marthy. It keeps a feller from believin' that the folks down East that dried them apples wa'n't any too particular about which ones they picked out."

Lish stoped in front of the door and looked. He was compelled to look over the head of a man with enormous mass of white whiskers and a bald head fringed with long locks, who was busy eating hot pie from a tin plate. He surmised that this must be the man known as Channel Smith. Behind him, in the shadows of the kitchen, a thin, tired-looking little woman, neat to the point of primness, was busying herself at her work.

Lish looked at him sympathetically, and restrained a desire to smack his lips. The woman came toward him, wiping flour from her hands on a towel, and looked at him inquiringly. He addressed himself to her.

"You're Mrs. Marthy Higgins, ain't you?" he asked.

She came closer to the door, where the light shone on her, before she answered, and Lish sustained a sudden sense of awkwardness and abashment. All the speeches he had prepared slipped hurriedly from his memory, and he had to resort to subterfuge.

"They tell me as you are the cook here," he stammered, twisting his hat, which by an afterthought he had removed, "and I wanted to ask if I could stop here to-night if I paid for it."

The woman looked at his garb for a moment, and then laughed.

"I'm afraid you'll have to ask the superintendent about that," she said. "You have come to the wrong place. But usually when anyone comes through here he permits them to stop over night without pay."

"Sure we do," croaked Channel Smith. "You don't think we're Injune here, do you? Where in tarnation were you dragged up? Looks like a minin' man, too! Have some pie?

For an instant Lish, overwhelmed, wondered if Channel Smith was part owner of the Canada Hill Mine; but came to the conclusion, late proved true, that he had nothing whatever to do with it.

"I'd like a wedge of it if you can wait till I throw the packs off my burros," he said, still suffering from timidity.

The prospector was busy himself at this task when a red-faced, burly man, with clear, sharp eyes, appeared.

"I'm Murdock, the supe here," he said. "Mrs. Higgins says you want to stay all night. You're welcome, being as you look like a white man. If you want to, you will find an extra bunk or two up there in the bunk house to throw your blankets in."

Lish turned to thank him, but already he had swung around, and was trudging toward the waste dump. The prospector knew the kind, and went ahead with his task. He turned to the kitchen, and found a stool. The cook, smiling, handed him the coveted pastry.

"Come far?" asked Channel Smith.

"Yes. Keswick."

"The devil owns it," was the sententious retort. "Not that she ain't some minin' camp, from what they tells me, but they do say as how they're a tough lot to work with. Goin' to work here?"

"Nope."

"Then what did you come for?"

"Prospectin'."

"Are you any good?" he asked, with the same inquisitive frankness.

"I hope so."

"Do you get lonesomelike?"

"Sometimes."

"If you ain't got nowhere in particular to go," he said, "you can come up my way. I'm about two mile from here. If you come from Peaceful Mill you must 'a' passed right by the trail and cuts off to my place, but you couldn't have seen it. I've got a told channel up in there, sure's you're a foot high; but I ain't workin' it now because I'm kind of nosin' around a patch of ground that ought to have pay in it somewheres. Like to come? It makes an old feller like me feel better to have company somewhere nearer than two mile."

Lish hesitated, but confined his attentions to the pastry.

"I don't mean work for me, or go pardners, nor nothin' like that," Channel Smith went on; "but just look around there. There's a heap of likely ground up there that I think was overlooked."

"I'll think it over. Maybe I will," Lish said, and the old man gave him voluble directions as to how to get there. He then swung round sharply, and called: "Marthy! Oh, Marthy! Hurry and do up that pie for me, girl. I got to be goin' now."

The prospector was secretly amused at the air of proprietorship that the old man assumed, although he was to learn later that everyone around the Canada Hill humoured him in this, and that the superintendent frequently consulted him in a whimsical fashion, asserting that his judgment was so bad that he always asked his advice so he could take the opposite course.

Two Girls Tell Story of Their Illness and How They Found Relief.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. INDIAN HEAD BARN

On the Experimental Farm at Indian Head there is a wonderful barn. Cement work was very largely used in the construction of both the stable—which was completed last autumn—and barn, as both have a 10 foot wall of cement. This material was also used in the floor and stalls of the horse stable and of the basement of the barn, which will be used for the winter feeding of cattle.

The horse stable, which is a huge affair, is splendidly fitted up in every way, while the barn is the last cry in barn-structure. Its dimensions are 48 feet by 116 feet with an elevation of 52 feet. This height gives the building an added appearance of immensity, especially from inside, but there are no posts; the barn is framed with eight large bents, with hip roof.

A goodly space on the ground floor is reserved for work shop, and granaries have also a generous allowance; the windows are hung on weights, and can be easily lowered, indeed, taking it all in all, the barn is so very fine a structure that the fire which destroyed the old buildings may now be regarded as more of a blessing than a

THE GREAT SEAL

Lord Chancellors Must Guard It Very Carefully

The Lord Chancellor is custodian of the Great Seal, and the post is no sinecure. He must take the Great Seal with him wherever he goes in Great Britain, but it is never allowed to leave the realm. Wolsey broke this rule by taking it to France, an infringement of the Constitution which was amongst the causes which led to his downfall. In our own day Lord Haldane found temporary custodians for the object of his charge while on a visit to Canada.

When James II. fled from England he threw the Great Seal in the Thames, thinking that no important document could be signed without it. One of our famous Lord Chancellors, Lord Brougham, had a somewhat curious experience when he took the symbol of his office to Scotland. He was one of a house party, and the ladies determined to play him a practical joke. They took the Seal from his room and hid it out of his reach. When he discovered it was missing he was beside himself with distress, for he believed it had been stolen. Soon, however, he realised the trick that had been served him. He joined in the laugh against himself and searched the house, eventually discovering it in a tea-chest.

The Woolsack is also an early symbol of the Lord Chancellor's office. It is reminiscent of the days when wool was Britain's staple product, and consists of an ottoman couch stuffed with wool to represent the importance of this commodity. Whilst acting as Speaker of the House of Lords, the Lord Chancellor sits on the Woolsack.

RULES FOR HUSBANDS

L. C. Dillman, a Seattle millionaire, as the result of eighteen years of marital bliss promulgated the following rules for husbands:

Keep all promises made before and at the time of marriage. Keep a joint bank account. Go to your club no oftener than one night a week. Have no dogs or pets of any kind. Call her up on the telephone at least three times a day. When away from home write or telegraph every day. Take her with you on business and pleasure trips. Be more polite to her than to any other woman you meet. Remember that she likes flowers, candy and books. Make it a business to be comfortable whenever she is happy. Do not criticize her dress. Be a gentleman to all woman, but a husband to one only. If you have only a dollar you are not wasting it by spending it on her. When she is dissatisfied get a divorce. Life is too short to waste any of it in trying to please an abnormal woman.

WHEN BLOOD IS POISON

The blood must be filtered, otherwise you are poisoned. If the kidneys fail the liver is overworked, and becomes torpid. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you get both these filtering organs working right, and also secure healthful action of the bowels. For this reason these pills are an ideal family medicine. They cure biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and kidney disease.

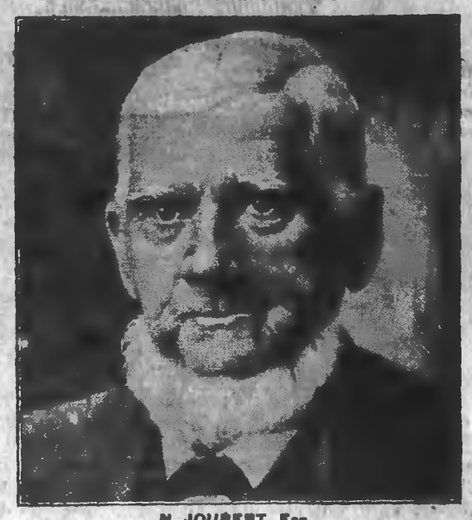
TORONTO - ONTARIO

THIS FINE OLD GENTLEMAN ANSWERED 187 LETTERS IN REGARD TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

People In All Parts of Canada Wanted To Know More About These Wonderful Tablets Made From Fruit Juices.



N. JOUBERT, Esq.

"I heartily recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to all who suffer from Constipation and the painful consequences—Piles. I am now over 74 years old and suffered for over 20 years with Constipation and Piles. I tried all kinds of remedies, saw the doctors and took their medicines but nothing cured me. About four years ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives"—found they were doing me good. Then I procured an additional supply and was much gratified at the wonderful good they did me. After taking four boxes, I felt well—my bowels were regular and the Piles had disappeared.

My wife was troubled for three years with Asthma, and Eczema on the hands, which made her hands almost useless. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, none of which had any effect. He also advised her to use rubber gloves (she wore out three pairs). I persuaded her as a last resort, to try "Fruit-a-tives". The effect was marvellous. Her hands are cured and the Asthma has also left her. We both attribute our present good health to "Fruit-a-tives".

N. JOUBERT, GRANDE LIGNE, P.Q.

Whether it was the fine, honest, straightforward face that inspired confidence or the simple language, which rang true as a silver bell, that made so many people think over this letter, is hard to say. But the fact remains that one hundred and eighty-seven persons have written Mr. Joubert to enquire more fully about "Fruit-a-tives". And this delightful old gentleman who is now 74 years old—happy in his release from pain—grateful for his cure—took the time to answer every inquiry. Take his advice and try "Fruit-a-tives".

The Curve that Makes the Difference

In reality it is one of the most important things in razordom — the subject of basic Gillette Patents — and the cause of the wonderful adjustability which is an exclusive Gillette feature.

Gripping the blade close to its shaving edges, the curved outer plate bends it down close to the toothed guard, and holds it ABSOLUTELY RIGID. This prevents the vibration which makes other razors pull and cut unevenly, and is one of the chief reasons for the velvet smoothness of the Gillette shave.

Quite as important is the adjustability. Screw the outer plate up tight and it holds the razor edge right against the guard, giving a very light shave. As you loosen it you give the blade more and more "hold", so that it shaves closer and closer. Thus every man can get an adjustment which exactly suits his beard and skin—a thing he cannot do with any other razor in the world.

Why not get an adjustable Gillette and say good-bye to your shaving troubles? Your Hardware Dealer, Jeweler or Druggist can show you an assortment—Standard Sets at $5.00—Pocket Editions at $5.00 to $6.00—Combination Sets at $6.50 up.

Thanksgiving Day Among The Lumberjacks

PREPARATIONS for the Thanksgiving dinner in the lumber camps of Canada begin early in October. Traps for the rabbits, which form the principal dish, are set in place and carefully baited.

Men who go to the lumber camps about the 1st of October give up the hope of having chicken or turkey or goose with cranberry sauce on the last Thursday of November. In fact, there is not one man in a dozen who goes into the woods for the winter, unless he has a family in some small town who cares a snap for any other dish for Thanksgiving than good old fashioned rabbit pepin or stew. With the trimmings such as only a cook in a Maine lumber camp is able to concoct the meal is far better than some of the meals served in the big hotels of the cities.

The "cookie" for the first few days in camp does little more than hunt out the haunts of bunny and after locating as many as are in reasonable walking distance of the camp proceeds with his work of slaughter. Most of the rabbits make their winter home under low scrub bushes of hard wood and hunt for food under the dead leaves which have been blown from the trees during the fall frosts. These mounds of leaves are just the place to conceal the strands of wire and hornshair to be used as snares, and it is indeed a wise rabbit who can escape the trap.

A liberal supply of whole corn and oats is used as bait for the rabbits, being scattered under the leaves in close proximity to the snares. The wire is run for some distance along the surface of the ground and is then attached to the strand of horsehair with a loop and running noose in the end. In this noose more corn or oats are placed than anywhere else, and the rabbit invariably spends much time over a few kernels of the grain. It is while thus loafing over his food that he meets his doom.

After breakfast has been served in the camp and the men have gone to their work the "cookie" commences his rounds of the snares. Never does he have far to go from the starting place to find one or more bunnies carefully nosing through the leaves and selecting the choicest pieces of corn. So attentive is the animal to his quest for food that he seldom notices the approach of the hunter or any one else unless there be a dog in the party. And while thus eating the hunter crouches under some tree at the far end of the wire and at the opportune time pulls the "string" which catches the rabbit on all fours. After that it is but easy work to dispatch the animal.

The trap is then rebaited, and the "cookie" continues his journey to the next snare, and so on until he has made the round. At the camp the rabbits are hung head down on the outside of the camp, where they freeze and are kept in good condition until the day of the feast. The night before Thanksgiving the animals are taken down from the peg, thawed out a bit before the camp fire, and their suits removed.

The dish when served with a side dish of dressing and a mug of cider with just a bit of edge on to hard to be beaten by any culinary artists.

Almost as good as the rabbit stew is the plum pudding, which the cook takes pains to have extra good on Thanksgiving day and Christmas day. Unlike the pudding of that kind, it is made with fresh bread, molasses and all the plums the mixture will stand. It is put in the oven early in the morning and allowed to remain until ready to be served as a course with the mince or apple pie, piping hot and full of the elixir of life.

Of course the baked beans must be served on Thanksgiving day, but they are cooked just a little bit better than those doled out during the week. They are served for breakfast. The beans are picked over and the poor ones removed the evening previous to Thanksgiving and after being allowed to remain in salt cold water for a short time are put in a big kettle with plenty of pork and buried in the ground on a bed of glowing hardwood coals.

When one rolls out of his bunk in the morning, shivering just a bit from the cold, a big dish of the smoking baked beans is found on the table. Besides the beans, there will be brown bread such as cannot be constructed in any other part of the world, some cold cream of tartar biscuits, molasses and dried apple sauce. Besides, there are plenty of tea and coffee without milk, but which is good enough to keep out the cold until early in the afternoon, when the Thanksgiving dinner is served.

It was not very many years ago that woodsmen thought it necessary to have a haunch of venison or moose meat for the holiday's principal meal, but that time is past, and now it is rabbit pie, baked beans and old fashioned plum pudding.—New York World.

Thanksgiving.

Now we feast.
So did the pilgrims.
Now we take in football.
Then they dodged hostile Indians.
Now the hostess thinks up novelties.
Then they were pleased to have plenty of plain food.
Now we revel in asparagus, artichokes, peas and celery.
Then onions, potatoes, turnips and cabbages were their vegetables.
They were thankful, devoutly so.
Are we?

Thanksgiving Day.

With grateful hearts let all give thanks,
All lands, all stations and all ranks.
And the cry comes up along the way,
For what shall we give thanks today?

For peace and plenty, busy mills,
"The cattle on a thousand hills;"
For bursting barns, wherein is stored
The golden grain, a precious hoard;
Give thanks.

For orchards bearing rosy fruit,
For yielding pod and loathsome root
And all that God declared was good
In hill or dale or field or wood,
Give thanks.

For water bright and sweet and clear,
A million fountains far and near;
For gracious streamlets, lakes and rills
That flow from everlasting hills;
Give thanks

For summer dews and timely frost,
The sun's bright beams, not one ray lost;
For willing hands to sow the seed
And reap the harvest, great indeed;
Give thanks.

For hearth and home, love's altar fires;
For loving children, thoughtful sires;
For tender mothers, gentle wives,
Who all our hearts and bless our lives;
Give thanks.

For heaven's care life's journey through,
For health and strength to dare and do,
For ears to hear, for eyes to see
Earth's beauteous things on land and sea,

Peterborough Man Committed For Trial

Russell McCall, of Peterborough, the young man who was arrested in connection with the assault and robbery of William Chisholm, a stranger in Picton, was before Police Magistrate Williams, of Picton, for preliminary hearing. County Crown Attorney R. H. Hubbs, represented the Crown and Mr. P. M. Young defended the accused. Chisholm identified the prisoner as his assailant and told the story of the hold-up. The proprietor of the New York Chinese restaurant corroborated Chisholm in so far as the meeting in his restaurant was concerned and identified both Chisholm and McCall. The night watchman at the A. C. Miller canning factory testified to seeing two men going down Mary Street late on the night of the robbery. The night porter at the Royal was called to prove the time McCall entered the hotel on the night in question. The hearing lasted nearly all day. Lawyer Young decided to reserve evidence for the defence until the final trial, McCall was accordingly committed for trial and will appear before Judge Morrison to elect whether he will be tried summarily or by jury. Chisholm was allowed to go home.

The Pilgrims' First Thanksgiving Day

TO the grand old pilgrim father William Bradford, governor of the original New England colonies, belongs the honor of being the first to proclaim in America a general thanksgiving day which should be a festival as well as a day of thanksgiving. The month of November, 1623, had been a weary one to the bitterly tried pilgrims. Their months of toil and patient waiting for the ingathering of the harvest seemed about to end in the deepest disappointment. The earth was parched, the whole land cried out for rain, and the crops were being ruined for lack of moisture. It was under these depressing conditions that Pilgrim Father Bradford called together the little band of settlers and set apart a day to be devoted to fasting and prayer that the glassy skies might become cloud covered and the windows of heaven be opened to give life to the thirst dying fields.

It did not look promising for a day of thanksgiving, and yet circumstances changed the day appointed for fasting and prayer to one of rejoicing, feasting and thankfulness. The pilgrims were in the very act of praying for rain when rain came. It came in such floods and it came so opportunely that the pilgrim fathers were convinced that Providence had smiled on the little band of forlorn men, women and children who, driven from their own homes, had been forced to pitch their tents on the wild and inhospitable shores of a foreign land.

William Bradford in his proclamation had called the day a feast of thanksgiving, and the best hunters in the colony had been scouring the adjacent woods for wild turkeys and other game to supply the wants of the colonists and their guests. The kitchens of the pilgrims were crude and rough, but the good dames did their best, and the result was a repast satisfying and sumptuous enough for the most exacting. The menu consisted of roast turkey dressed with chestnuts, venison pasties such as the pilgrim mothers knew so well how to make, savory meat stews with dumplings of barley flour, clam chowder served in enormous bowls with sea biscuits floating on the surface, roasts of all kinds, broiled fish, salads, cakes and plum porridge. Lastly, there was a bountiful supply of oysters, the contribution of Massasoit and his ninety warriors to the first Thanksgiving bill of fare. The greatest dinner of the festival was given on Saturday, the last day of the celebration. History chronicles that it was one of the loveliest days of the Indian summer, and so mild was the weather that the good pilgrim dames were able to set their tables in the open air, and in the primitive forests in the wildest country, in a new and unexplored world, was celebrated the brightest and most joyous Thanksgiving on record.

CAPTAIN KIDD IN CANADA.

Famous Pirate Is Believed to Have Planted His Gold In Nova Scotia.

According to Arthur Hawkes, there is a pot of gold hidden in Nova Scotia—and it isn't at the end of the rainbow, either. In August Canada Monthly (formerly Canada-West), he tells of a ramble "With Captain Kidd in Arcady," and of the treasure the old buccaneer hid in the Oak Island Money Pit.

"The whole Atlantic Coast," says Mr. Hawkes, "from Massachusetts north to Nova Scotia, is honeycombed with legends of treasure buried by pirates in the slashing days of the Spanish Main, and Mahone Bay, almost within hailing distance of the Hackmatack Inn at Chester, has one of the most imposing of these legends in the Oak Island Money Pit. Although the staid citizens of Nova Scotia never, in the dark of the moon, trotted around a hole in the ground saying charms and wearing their clothes inside out, as the fathers of Rhode Island and Massachusetts did around the Darby Ring, joint stock companies have spent about a million dollars in trying to keep the Pit clear enough of water to permit them to unload in its depths. But they could neither pump out nor dam out the waters of the Atlantic and there treasure lies, as safely guarded as that in the High Rock at Lynn, or the cache somewhere along the Long Island coast, for the old Captain is supposed to guard the Oak Island gold o' night, carrying his head under his arm for coolness. As far as Nova Scotia knows Captain Kidd is as rich as he was in the days when his ballad was new:

My name was Captain Kidd,
As I sailed, as I sailed,
My name was Captain Kidd,
As I sailed.

I had heavy bars of gold,
And dollars manifold,
And riches uncontrolled,
As I sailed.

"It is a dreadful and fascinating pleasure to go sweethearting at dusk along the woodland paths, with the possible vision of his grisly spectre behind every bush."

Women at Bitter Creek.

Now that women are to be found in almost every business and profession, it is not surprising to learn that members of the fair sex will risk perils in the search for gold. It is reported that several women rushed to Bitter Creek near Stewart City, British Columbia in the hope of being able to peg out the limit of [illegible] square feet to claims.

Temperature of the Body.

The heat of the body varies at different ages and different times of the day. Except when you are suffering from fever you are never as hot as when you are born. The temperature of a newborn baby is about 102 degrees, but during the first day it rapidly goes down to 97½ degrees, rising again to a little above the average temperature of a grown-up person, which is about 98½ degrees. The heat of your body varies as much as two degrees in twenty-four hours. The minimum is reached about 4 o'clock in the morning, when your vitality is at its lowest, and the maximum about 4 in the afternoon. People who work by night and sleep during the day, however, are coldest in the afternoon and warmest in the early morning. It is a remarkable fact that we nearly always die if our blood varies more than a few degrees either way. A temperature below 95 degrees or above 108 degrees is generally fatal.—Pearson's.

Criminals and Crime.

Is the criminal so because he wants to be so? No more wicked fallacy was ever foisted upon a credulous world than this. Nobody at any period of the world ever wished to be criminal. Every one instinctively hates and fears crime. Every one is honest by nature. It is inherent in the soul. I have never met a criminal who did not hate his crime even more than his condemners hate it. The apparent exception is when the man does not consider his act a crime. He has killed because his victim exasperated him to it. He has robbed society because society made war on him. The offender hates his crime.

But he is not ashamed of it?

Now, that is true. He is not ashamed of it in the current sense. He hates it, he fears it, but it does not fill him with a sense of sin.—H. Fielding Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

Why Not Schools For Men?

No man ever feels the need of education so much as the man who sees opportunity for advancement open before him, but who does not dare to take it for fear that he can not rise to it. It is useless to say anything to such a man about neglected opportunities, and it is equally futile to say the same thing to the youth who is neglecting his studies. The first cannot go back and live his boyhood over; the latter cannot comprehend his danger, nor will he believe in his own possibilities, nor can he really study intelligently things for which he is not sufficiently mature. The few who mature early enough in life to go through technical schools or colleges are provided for. Can we not provide men's schools for those who mature normally?—American Magazine.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. Jersey's Dainty Breakfast.

This is a cow story, and it is true at least if the different accounts of a bunch of town campers are reliable. At any rate it seems that one afternoon when the boys were all away Forest Conover's Jersey came a visiting, and finding no one at camp to entertain her she decided to make the best of her disappointment all alone. On entering the huge tent she was confronted with large boxes and a string of cots, all so topsy-turvy that the old cow could not help smiling, but the smile soon ended and a motherly sympathy took its place when she saw a large dry goods box full of dirty dishes. Straight away she started to clean up. It was a hard job and the skin on her tongue was very sore before she got some of them to shine. She then walked over the cots until satisfied that they were well aired and aired. Being quite fatigued from refreshment, and on finding a long green bottle emptied a gallon of gasoline into her dainty system; then she clean up on four loaves of bread, and her sore tongue paining her considerably she greased it with four pounds of butter.

Feeling very much refreshed her bovine highness took on the same old merry look and smiled complete satisfaction at the work accomplished. But a good housewife also thinks of herself, so Mrs. Jersey on espying an extremely long bathing suit pulled it on and went in for a bath. On returning she ate three cakes of soap, a box of corn salve and a dish cloth. The dishcloth did not at all agree with the pure food regulations of her creamery and she laid down on one of the cots and went to sleep off the effect. Here the boys say they found her.—Leamington News.

ANNOYING DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Bald-Headed Nation if Not Checked

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning grey.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease and stickiness. It is the favourite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

Comes in large 50-cent bottle at the Warne Drug Co. and leading druggists and toilet goods counters everywhere. "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package.

A PAGE OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO EVERY WOMAN

STARTING THE FIRST GRATE FIRE

Everyone ksows, of course, that a draught is one of the first essentials for a good fire; dry fuel is another. So see to it that you have them both at hand.

Even a poor chimney can be made to harbour a good fire. If its drawing powers are not good, cuddle and coax the fire past the smoking stage. Don't burn an all-wood fire, but establish a glowing bed of coals, and rest assured that the poor draught will prove sufficiently strong to carry off the coal gas and the little smoke that the coal gives off.

Often even a good chimney smokes when the fire is first built, because the chimney is cold and damp. If you are sure that there is a substantial layer of fireproof construction between the chimney and any frame work about the house light a crumpled sheet of newspaper and thrust it as far up the chimney as you can reach. Light half a dozen of these in successios and you will have the chimney warm enough to start a smokeless fire.

On a damp day this same newspaper warming process might be used to advantage, as much moisture and dampness collect in the chimney in fogs and rains.

There must always be room for air to circulate under and behind the fire. If you have andirons your task is simple. Simply place the logs so that room is left behind them for air to circulate—the andirons hold them high enough to let the air circulate under them. If there are no andirons and no coal basket—a very good fire of logs can be built in a coal basket—lay two stout sticks like andirons and build the fire on these.

Have plenty of kindling—paper, shavings, excelsior, dry sticks, pine knots, or chips—and let this get well lighted before you pile on logs or coal.

STARS AND STRIPES IN THE U. S. FLAG.

The flag of 13 stars and 13 stripes was adopted by Congress on 14th June, 1777. The stars were at first arranged in a circle, but a few years later were placed in rows. After the admission of Vermont and Kentucky to the Union the number of stars and stripes was increased to 15 of each on 1st May, 1795, the law to that effect being signed by President Washington, on 13th January, 1794.

The flag remained in that form through the wars of the United States with France, with Tripoli and with Britain, on the first voyage of an American warship around Cape Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, and in the writing of Key's "Star-Spangled Banner."

On 4th April, 1818, President Monroe signed the present flag law, and on 4th July, 1818, the national ensign was made to consist, as at present, of 13 stripes and of a number of stars equal to the number of the states.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Driven From the System by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The sufferer from rheumatism who has not gone about curing himself in the right way must expect a return of the torture with every change to cold or damp weather. It is not the change in the weather that causes the rheumatism, but it does start the aches and pains. Rheumatism is a deep-seated disorder of the blood. You cannot possibly cure it with outward applications or hot formentations as so many people in their ignorance of the real cause of the trouble try to do.

Rheumatism can only be driven out of the system by driving out the poisonous acid in the blood. This can only be done by making the blood suply rich, red and pure. It is in this way that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism, even after other remedies have failed. These Pills make rich, red blood; they go right to the root of the trouble, and the pains and aches are driven from the system and will not return if the blood supply is kept pure. That is the whole secret of curing rheumatism, and if you are a sufferer begin to cure yourself to-day by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the many sufferers from rheumatism who have been cured by this medicine is Miss Mary D. Kelly, South Dummer, Ont. Miss Kelly says: "Some time ago I had a very bad attack of rheumatism. At times I would be confined to bed for a couple of days and would seem almost paralyzed with the intense pain in my back and legs. At such times I could not walk, and my joints were stiff and swollen. I consulted different doctors and took their medicine, but did not get more than temoprary relief. At this time a neighbour advised me to try Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills, and I got a supply. After taking a few boxes I found they were greatly helping me, and I continued their use until the trouble completely disappeared. I can strongly recommend this medicine to others who suffer as I did from the pangs and tortures of rheumatism."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DUCHESS OF FIFE'S TROUSSEAU

The marriage of the Duchess of Fife to Prince Arthur of Connaught meant the provision of a wedding trousseau upon a scale that has not been equalled since Princess Ena of Battenberg married the King of Spain. Both Queen Alexandra and the Princess Royal took the greatest interest in the arranging of this, and both assisted her Royal Highness to dress when the all eventful day arrived.

It is no easy task to provide a suitable trousseau for a Royal bride and much care and thought are necesasry. For some years past it has been a rule that when a British Princess marries, she shall wear a dress entirely manufactured in her country. The present Queen set the fasrion in this respect when everything she wore on her wedding day was produced within the boundaries of the United Kingdom, even to her wedding ring, which was made of pure Welsh gold. A similar ring has now been manufactured for the Duchess of Fife. Her wedding gown will consist of an oven dress of fine Irish lace of special design, over a foundation of delicate cream silk woven in Spitalfields. The lace will includ in its pattern both the Thistle and the Shamrock, as an allusion to the titles of the Royal bride and bridegroom. The whole of the undergarments of Her Royal Higness will likewise be of the finest Irish linen and cambric, and here again sepecial designs have been prepared.

Many old-fashioned customs are observed in the British Royal Family when a Princess marries, not the least interesting of which is the "private view" of the bride that is permitted to the bridesmaids and a few intimate lady friends before she leaves for the palace where the ceremony is to tak place.

It is also laid down that a Princess shall not wear the slightest colour of any description on her wedding day, and not so much as a pink ribbon is permitted. From head to foot she is garbed entirely in white or the palest shade of cream. Neither are male eyes permitted to rest upon her until the moment she is ready to enter her carriage to drive to the church. When the present Crown Princess of Sweden was married for instance, the late King Edward sought to enter the room at Windsor Castle, where she was displaying her wedding garments to a group of girl friends, but was summarily ordered away by the Duchess of Fife; it is even proposed that a lady photographer shall be employed to take her portrait before she leaves her mother's house for the wedding ceremony.

KING GEORGE'S GIFT

For quite a fortnight before the marriage of a Princess her time is almost entirely taken up with visits to her costumiers and others engaged in the manufacture of the garments she will require upon her wedding day and her subsequent honeymoon. The wedding gown for example is fitted at least half-a-dozen times before it is finally approved. Even on the wedding morning skilled work women are in attendance in order to make any eleventh hour alterations that might be found necessary, while it is upon record that when the present Queen of Norway was married her gown had almost to be re-made at the last moment owing to two of the seams setting badly. This greatly annoyed Queen Victoria, who stood by with pins and thread in hand, vigorously pointing out the defects to those who were engaged in remedying them.

TO HOLD THE BABY'S CLOTHES

A deep wooden box will answer the purpose. Line throughout with blue cambric, and cover the outside with blue and white cretonne. Tuft the lid, and cover tacks, or buy white, cloth-headed tacks to ornament the top. A pretty handle for the cover may be made of a small embroidery rope wound with blue ribbon and attached to the cover.

A LITTLE LESSON IN LAWN MOWING.

Grass should never be cut shorter than two inches on either new or old lawns, for its roots are left unprotected from the scorching sun when it is shorter, and this means that dry or very hot weather will burn it sear and brown. Mow often, even as often as every fourth or fifth day, if necessary to keep it at this height, especially on a new lawn, and sever rake away the clippings. They form the best possible mulch and fertilizer, and are so short when mowing is done as often and as regularly as it should be that they sift down among the standing grass immediately and are lost to sight. Reseed all bare spots every spring and take out weeds as fast as they appear, peppering the space which is thus left bare with seed, whatever the season. This is the sort of care and watchfulness that achieve perfection with the minimum of labour, promptness being its chief feature.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAKING PIN MONEY ON THE FARM

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears a little article in which the point is made that much discontent among farm women is due to the fact that they are unable to get hold of any money for their personal use. How one woman solved the problem simply and cleverly is told as follows:

"She lived in a community where her neighbours all prided themselves on their fine gardens. Each year she saw them buy seed from towns and she thought, 'Why should I not save seeds from father's garden and sell them?' A great quantity is wasted which might be saved.' She set to work. The seeds of muskmelons, watermelons, beans, peas, okra, cabbage, and in fact of everything that grew in that garden fell to her, and she carefully dried and put them in large glass jars until spring, when they were taken out, made into packages and labelled carefully. Her neighbours gladly bought from her, as they got fresher seed and a greater quantity for the same money than when buying from a town florist. In a short time she had a nice little business.

Grew Slips, Too.

"Later she added another department: that of growing young plants. She made several hotbeds about the place in sheltered spots and planted her seed in these so as to have them ready for the market as soon as the frost was over. This proved to be very profitable, indeed, as few people care to be troubled with, hotbeds or cold frames, when for a moderate sum the home-grown plants can be bought. She could hardly supply the demand for cabbage and tomato plants, besides asparagus, lettuce, onion sets, peppers, and even sweet potato slips could be bought from her, and she was well paid for the work.

"For those who have ears to hear, the world is fairly shouting with wants and needs. The farm woman with health, imagination, and energy has no cause to bemoan her lack of opportunity to earn pin money. Wealth is under her feet."

A RAINY DAY

By RUTH CAMERON

Last summer we read a great deal in the newspapers about the injury to the crops from lack of rain, but there was one effect of the drought which somehow failed to appear in the headlines. And that was the mental suffering of humanity for lack of an occasional rainy day.

Is there any more restful and tranquillizing experience after a long stretch of uninterrupted sunshine, than to awake in the morning to the music of the steady drip of rain outside the window and the gratefully subdued, cheerfully melancholy light of a rainy morning?

In the first place, there is such a luxurious sense of indefinite duration about a rainy day. It is difficult to realize that a rainy day can be only twenty-four hours long.

It seems possible in prospect to do so many things in a rainy day. That well recommended volume which has lain so long on the library table awaiting a leisure hour—this very day its leaves shall be cut. And of course this is the ideal opportunity to finish that centrepiece. Then, what better chance could one have to banish that abominably fat packet of letters in the "unanswered" pigeon-hole. And so one goes on and on, planning quite enough to fill a day of at least forty-eight working hours.

Then there is the rich sense of seclusion which a rainy day begets. For my part, I somehow like this to be as pronounced as possible. Even the visits of the storeman and the milkman seem unwarrantable intrusions, and although I thoroughly enjoy a friend once she is domiciled, I must say I rather resent her first appearance as a kind of cheapening of my precious seclusion.

Of course, I am not unaware of the bolder joy of getting suitably garbed and sallying defiantly forth in the rain to smell the growing things and catch their spirit, and get one's hair wet and lungs well washed, but this is a pleasure that I am more apt to appreciate the second or third day of a rainy spell after I have had my fill of the delights of seclusion.

The difference in flavour between the rainy day and the snowy day is an interesting psychological distinction. There is begotten of both a sense of seclusion, but on the snowy day it is a jolly, hilarious seclusion of the whole family: "all friends shut out, the housemates sit around the radiant fireplace enclosed in a tumultuous privacy of storm." Whereas, on the rainy day one's retirement is more individual and has more of a subdued and dreamy flavour. On the snowy day we make molasses candy, or play games with the young folks, or pop corn. On the rainy day we rummage around in the garret, or sort out old letters, or dream over a book, preferably an old friend with whom we have communed many times before. I know a girl who reads "Little Women" every rainy day and my own "Cranford" is indissolubly associated with the sound and smell of a rainy afternoon.

The Slim Woman Is Winning

This line of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dressmakers.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime, and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person losing fat (no rule of 11 to 14 ounces a day). Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tablet in stock, but should yours be sold out, you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, The Marmola Company, Fisher Building, Detroit, Mich.

To outline the natural lines of the head, special attention is paid to bandeaux. They are jewelled and barbaric.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY

Orange Lily is daily curing the most obstinate cases of Female Disorders. Failing of the Womb, Leucorrhoea, Painful and Suppressed Menstruation, etc., etc., are all of them relieved from the start by its use, and a few weeks' or months' treatment accomplishes a complete cure. This remedy is a positive, scientific preparation, and is based on the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister. It is an applied treatment; that is, it is not taken internally, but is applied direct to the suffering parts, and it, therefore, acts with all the certainty of the known laws of chemical action. As it comes in direct contact with the diseased tissue, its antiseptic and nerve-food properties cannot help have a beneficent influence. It relieves from 10 to 20 letters daily, speaking of the benefits and cures it is performing, and so sure am I that it will do what is claimed for it that I will send, absolutely free, a 25c box to every suffering woman who will write for it. Price, $1 per box, which is sufficient for one months' treatment. Address, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

ROYAL FEATURES

Physical Characteristics Very Prominent in Royal Lineages

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is a Bourbon, and even those who might not be aware of his family connections and yet were familiar with the characteristic features of that famous Royal House, could scarcely fail to connect him with it the moment they set eyes upon him. All the Bourbons practically [illegible] have inherited the bony aquiline nose of their great ancestor, Henry IV. of France and Navarre. The most familiar example of this nose, so far as British people are concerned, is possessed by that popular young ruler, the King of Spain.

The English Royal Family have the "Guelph eyes." It is not too much to say that if only the eyes of photographs of King Edward, King George, and his brother, The Duke of Connaught, were visible, ninety-nine people out of every hundred would recognise to whom they belonged. It is a large and protruding eye, and all Queen Victoria's descendants possess it. The King and the Prince of Wales have it in a marked degree, and it is very noticeable also in the German Emperor.

Everybody knows the Cavendish lip, and the remarkable way in which it has persisted through many generations, but it may not be so generally known that the House of Hapsburg, the head of which is the Emperor of Austria, has a similar feature.

It is a protrusion and enlargement of the lower lip which, though highly characteristic, is far from graceful. It is a remarkable fact that the young King of Spain, already mentioned, not only has the Bourbon nose, but he has the Hapsburg lip, derived from his mother, Queen Christina, who was a member of the Austrian Royal family.

There is a feeling of security, even though the baby is croupy or has a cold or whooping cough, when there is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house.

Mothers of small children have learned that it can always be depended upon, that it is pleasant to take, and that there is not the least danger in giving it even to babies.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Huge stocks of wheat in Europe, leaving no apparent outlet for Canadian shipments unless the marketing be done this side of the border, kept prices today on the downgrade. Liverpool close of wheat was from 1 to 1¼ lower; corn, ¼ to 1⅝ lower.

PLANS NEW POLICY.

President Wilson May Lift Embargo On Arms.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson, it is expected in official circles, will announce in about ten days a new Mexican policy. The principal feature of this policy will be the lifting of the embargo on the revolutionists obtaining arms and ammunition in the United States, a continuance of the interrupted relations with Huerta and a refusal to the Huerta faction of the right to obtain arms in the United States.

This became known yesterday following the receipt of a despatch from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, which gave in detail the meeting of the foreign representatives in Mexico City on Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was called by the Spanish Minister, dean of the diplomatic corps, and was held in the German legation.

According to well-informed citizens all the representatives at the meeting with the sole exception of Great Britain, expressed the belief that the United States ought to intervene in Mexico. Great Britain yesterday announced that it did not regard interference as necessary or desirable. Because of its great British interests it would not withdraw its recognition of Huerta.

None of the representatives advised the withdrawal or recognition of Huerta. All informed their Governments it would be inexpedient to do so at this time. All advised the sending of warships to Mexican waters for the purpose of protecting their nationals and interests.

President Wilson was not surprised at the feelings of the majority of the representatives. He will not, however, allow the action of the representatives to influence him other than to strengthen his belief that it is best to have no further dealings with Huerta.

C. W. NEELY DIES.

M.P.P. For East Middlesex Was 58 Years of Age.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 18.—Geo. W. Neely, M.P.P. for East Middlesex, died yesterday morning of arteric sclerosis and heart trouble at his home in North Dorchester. He had been seriously ill for some time, and on Wednesday was seized with paralysis. He was unconscious for some time before he died.

Mr. Neely was 53 years of age and had resided in North Dorchester all his life. He was a farmer on an extensive scale, and for years one of the best known cattle buyers in western Ontario.

He entered political life twenty years ago by sitting in the township council. For several years he was reeve of Dorchester Township. In 1903 he was warden and in 1905 was elected to the Legislature. He was defeated at the last provincial election, but was re-elected at the bye-election after the death of Mr. Sutherland, who had defeated him.

Mr. Neely makes the third member of East Middlesex who has died within a year. The other two were Mr. Sutherland and Peter Elson, member of the House of Commons.

SELLING PURE STOCK.

Canada's Thoroughbred Cattle Going Over Border.

NORTH PORTAL, Alta., Oct. 18.—The new United States tariff, admitting Canadian cattle free, is affecting the cattle trade of western Canada. Thursday night a shipment in a stock train of twenty cars, containing 400 head of steers from the McClay ranch, Bassano, Alberta, passed over the boundary destined for Chicago. The shipment is valued at $40,000 or $100 per head. Another train of 20 cars is expected. U. S. veterinary and customs officers' work is done at Regina, and the stock train is detained but a few minutes at the boundary. U. S. customs officials here are besieged with the inquiries regarding the new tariff as it affects cattle and grain.

A City That Was a Failure.

Of all the seven cities of Asia perhaps Sardi has the most interesting and romantic history. And yet, with all its natural advantages, its wealth, its famous rulers, its wise counselors, its victorious armies, it was the greatest failure of them all, says the Christian Herald. The richest man in the world, Croesus, was king of Sardis; the wisest man, Solon, was her guest, and yet, through overconfidence and lack of watchfulness, time and again it was surprised, conquered and all but destroyed, until at last the disintegrating rock and soil from its own citadel, loosened by the winter rains and hurled down by destructive earthquakes, buried the city thirty feet deep from the sight of man. It became a dead city, and it was buried by the forces of nature.

Regulating His Sleep.

John Wesley recognized the evils of oversleeping and gave a recipe whereby one may find out how much sleep he really wants. It was derived from experience. "I waked every night about 12 and lay awake for some time, and I readily concluded that this arose from my being longer in bed than nature required. I procured an alarm, which waked me next morning at 7 (an hour earlier than I rose the day before), yet I lay awake at night. The next morning I rose at 6; notwithstanding, I lay awake the second night. The third morning I rose at 5, nevertheless lay awake. The fourth morning I rose at 4, as I have done ever since, and I lay awake no more."—London Chronicle.

Cured Diseases Of the Kidneys

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago.

Mrs. John Wright, 58 McGee Street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

No Complaint to Make.

It was at the vaudeville. The girl with the excruciating voice had just finished her song.

"Just think!" groaned Brown to the stranger beside him. "We paid real money to hear that!"

"I didn't," was the placid response. "Came in on a 'comp.'"

"But you had to spend car fare to get here, did you not?" asked Brown.

"Nope," replied the uncomplaining one. "I live in walking distance."

"But," persisted Brown desperately, "at least you hoped to be entertained, not punished."

"No. I didn't care," groaned the stranger. "I came to get away from home. My wife is cleaning house."—Judge.

Her Rule.

She was giving orders at express rate, for they were married, and he, as a rule the most meek and submissive of men, was, like the proverbial worm, beginning to turn.

"Do you think," he inquired, "that you rule the whole of the universe?"

"No," she snapped; "but I rule the first letter of it."—London Answers.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Food For the Nervous.

As a rule, suit meat is not adapted to the requirements of the nervous, as nutritious juices go into the brine to a good extent. Fish of all kinds is good for them. Raw eggs, contrary to the common opinion, are not indigestible as those that have been well cooked. Good bread, sweet butter and lean meat are the best food for the nerves. Those troubled with insomnia and nervous starting from sleep and sensations of falling can often be cured by limiting themselves to a diet of milk alone for a time. An adult should take a pint at a meal and four meals daily. Those with weakened nerves require frequently a larger quantity of water than those whose nerves and brains are strong. It aids the digestion of food by making it soluble and seems to have a direct tonic effect.

Wangen's Fountain of Wine.

A fountain of wine is one of those historical extravagances which are generally associated with the name of Nero, yet on every July 13 the public fountain of Wangen, in the Alsace wine country, flows with wine. In the middle ages the commune of Wangen was sentenced to make an annual payment to the monastery of Strassburg of 400 measures of wine. In 1788 the payment was abolished by the Directory. Under Louis XVIII. two merchants secured the transfer of the payment to them, by means of forged documents, for £650, but the commune commenced proceedings against them, in which it was victorious on July 13, 1830. Since that date a communal festival has been held on that day, and from the public fountain erected to commemorate the victory wine flows for one hour in the day.—Westminster Gazette.

Horrible Dueling.

A particularly terrible kind of duel was fought on one occasion in Mexico. The opponents were an Indian settler and a rich cattle owner. The weapons chosen were butchers' knives, and it was settled that each combatant was to hold out his hand in turn to have one of his fingers cut off. The first to show the least sign of suffering pain was to have a bullet put through his heart by the other. The Indian had the first cut and amputated the cattle owner's first finger at a single blow. The Indian's first injury was the loss of a thumb, and he likewise remained as impassive as marble. This horrible drama went on until each combatant had lost four digits. Then the cattleman's second became so frightened at the ghastly sight that he shot the Indian dead and ended the fight.

A Golfer's Discovery.

An enthusiastic golfer, one of those fellows who can speak on nothing else but golf, was one day taken by a friend to our local observatory to have a look through the building. The golfer's friend, who was a keen astronomer, got him a look at the moon through the telescope and then asked him what he thought of the planet. To his amusement he answered back, "It's a' richt, but it's awfu' fu' o' bunkers."—World of Golf.

A Wafer.

"What," asked the teacher, "is the meaning of the word 'wafer?'"

"A wafer," replied Maurice, aged nine, "is a kid without any father or mother."—Chicago News.

HAD RHEUMATISM IN ALL MY BONES

"Sometimes I Could Hardly Walk!"
2 Boxes of Gin Pills Cured Me

I SUFFERED from Kidney Trouble for five long years. I also had Rheumatism in all my bones and muscles—could not sleep at night—and sometimes could hardly walk. I was treated by some of our best physicians but without relief. I lost over fifteen pounds, was very weak, and friends, who had not seen me for some time, were astonished. One day, I met one of our leading hotel keepers, who had been cured by Gin Pills, and he advised me to try them, so I bought two boxes at my druggist's.

Before I had used one box, I felt a big change for the better, and before the second box was gone, I was completely cured.

I assure you I can hardly believe it for if I had known what I know now about Gin Pills, I would not have spent over one hundred dollars for nothing, when two boxes of Gin Pills cured me.

Anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism, should never be without Gin Pills. EUGENE QUESNEL, Chief City Circulation Agent, "La Patrie" Montreal.

Drive your old enemy out of your system. Be free of pain. Be able to walk and work and enjoy life. Away with pain in the back, Rheumatism, and Kidney Troubles. Take Gin Pills. A few boxes now, will mean ease and comfort for the rest of the year.

To Caravan Through Canada.

Miss Ida Gordon-Stables, of London, England, daughter of the late Dr. Wm. Gordon-Stables, the famous author of boys' books, has been spending a few days in Toronto on her way to the western coast. The late Dr. Gordon-Stables spent much of his time caravaning, and the desire and love for the gypsy life is still in his daughter. It is with the intention of planning such a trip through Canada that she has crossed the Atlantic. Like her father, this young lady, who prefers "roughing it" to keeping up her large social connection in England, has also more than ordinary talents in the literary line. This is her first visit to Canada, and she intends coming with her caravan next year, and will devote her leisure time to the writing of articles on "Caravaning in Canada."

Cost of Lighting Gay White Way.

Two millions of dollars are burned up every year for electric signs along the gay white way. That is the approximate income that the New York Edison Electric company receives for its electric signs. The company gets most of the profit from the smaller signs, which use so little current that they do not obtain the wholesale rate. The large, spectacular and flashing signs get the wholesale rate and give the electric company an average of $5,000 or less gross revenue per annum. "The Chariot Race" provides the largest single item of sign operating revenue—about $6,000 per year.—New York Letter to Pittsburgh Dispatch.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THANKSGIVING IN THE HOUSE NEXT DOOR

"THINK," said the minister's little wife, "of eating eggs for a Thanksgiving dinner!"

"It is strange," her husband mused, "that somebody hasn't invited us to dinner."

"Well, of course they don't dream how hard up we are," Mrs. Kean murmured, "and each one thinks the other has asked us."

In the days that followed no one would have imagined that the mind of the trim and smiling little minister's wife was constantly distracted by the problem of feeding four hungry people on a few dollars.

"I can't have turkey," said little Mrs. Kean stoutly, "and that settles it."

But it was harder to deny the "kid dies."

"No, dears," the little mother said, "we can't have a feast this year. But we are going to be thankful just the same."

The children looked at her seriously. "I don't see anything to be thankful for," said Dudley, the big boy of twelve. "What can the Lord expect if he doesn't give us a turkey"—

"Oh, my dear!" was his mother's shocked reproof. But little Marion piped up, "I'm just going to be thankful and thankful and thankful and ask the Lord to send us the turkey anyhow."

"IT'S FROM THE GENTLEMAN ACROSS THE WAY," THE COOK EXPLAINED.

Mrs. Kean told her husband of the comments. "Poor dears," she sighed; "they don't understand the blessedness of giving."

"There are some older people who don't understand," said her husband wearily. "Look at our neighbor next door. Never a penny does he give for the poor, and he has riches that he can't count."

But the old gentleman across the way was not worrying about the opinion of his neighbors.

"Mary," he said to his cook the night before Thanksgiving, "cook me an old fashioned dinner tomorrow, turkey and all the fixings."

But fate had decreed that no turkey and fixings should be served in the house of the rich old gentleman, for Thanksgiving morning he suffered an attack of gout that kept him tied to his bed, with strict orders from the doctor as to diet. No orders, however, having been given the cook, and she proceeded to cook the dinner.

"Just my luck," he grumbled, "not to be able to eat it," and he sat up in bed to ring his little bell and to order all the doors shut to keep out the tantalizing smell.

The movement brought his eyes on a level with the window, and he looked straight across into the dining room of the minister's little flat.

Listlessly his eyes rested on the group; then suddenly he leaned forward and scanned the table. In front of the Rev. Bobbie was a deep dish from which he was serving spoonfuls of some yellow substance.

"By the gods," murmured the old man, "it's eggs—scrambled eggs—and on Thanksgiving, too. Why in the name of all that's appetizing don't they have turkey?"

He rang his bell sharply. "Send the cook," was his peremptory order, and when the cook came he asked:

"Is dinner ready?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then carry it across the way, every bit of it."

A few minutes later a procession filed into the parson's flat.

"It's from the gentleman across the way," the cook explained tactfully as she stood in the hall. "He is ill, and there is no one to eat the dinner, and he thought you wouldn't mind."

There was really never such a dinner. The turkey was delicious, the pies perfect, and the little Keans brimmed over with happiness. But there was a deeper happiness than the mere joy of good eating in the heart of the Rev. Bobbie when, after a call next door, he came home to his wife.

"I have found a good neighbor," he said, "an old gentleman with a crusty manner and a heart of gold, and that's the best of my Thanksgiving, sweetheart."—Temple Bailey in Omaha World-Herald.

A Thanksgiving Centerpiece.

Try to have your Thanksgiving table and everything that is served look attractive, even if the bill of fare is to be simple, and try to have something new this year. If you can take time to arrange a centerpiece it will pay you. A flat oval basket resting upon a high wire frame is filled with moss, the frame being concealed by wild grape vines. Golden pears and pink and white grapes are piled high in the basket and fine clusters of grapes wired to each end. At the base purple pink and white grapes are heaped on a mass of leaves.

THANKSGIVING THOUGHTS.

Most newspaper men will admit that besides furnishing good stories for the front page around Thanksgiving the turkey also makes good inside matter.

Those who knifed Caesar claimed they loved him. The turkey is a bird Caesar in that those who love him best are apt to be the first to cut him.

Americans are born parliamentarians. Even at dinner on Thanksgiving day somebody will take the chair, and then the cook will move that the turkey be laid on the table.

"De mortuis nil nisi benum" is Latin that at this season may be translated, "Of the dead say nothing but good in the presence of their bones."

A THANKSGIVING COUP.

How Pugsley Repelled Advance of His Mother-in-law.

"Perhaps General Grant was more actively inhospitable than I am, and possibly G. Washington shrank from the duties of host with greater skill," said Pugsley, with a self congratulatory grin, "but I can boast some victories in that line myself.

"You see," he continued, "my wife

"I DRIFTED UPON A THIRTY POUNDER."

decided that it was up to us to have the family for Thanksgiving dinner this year. Did I oppose the appalling proposition? I did not. Did I comfort and encourage her in her nefarious scheme to introduce discord and strife into the bosom of my home? I did. What's the use of war when diplomacy will land a solar plexus?

"I aided and abetted her with the utmost enthusiasm and liberality. Did she think a fifteen pound turkey would do? I insisted upon a thirty pounder. Did she calculate that two chickens would make enough salad? I decided that six were barely sufficient. Did she figure on a gallon of ice cream? I wouldn't be content with less than double that quantity, and so on all through the menu. Wherever she proposed to spend a dollar I immediately insisted upon spending at least two.

"Of course she knows all about my affairs, and I could see that she was getting uneasy and frightened as she saw how lavish and extravagant I was determined to be. So I promptly boosted my reckless prodigality several notches higher. Still she didn't back down. It was getting pretty near time to do the inviting, and I was desperate.

"So I told her to run into the city and pick out fresh paper for the hall and dining room. That pretty nearly brought her down, but still she wavered, probably on account of wanting them so badly. So I added that while she was at it she should get a new carpet for the parlor and a new set of dishes and see the florist about sending some men out to decorate.

"That fetched her, though it was pitiful to see that heroic woman's struggle between what she knew was her duty and her desires. But she knew that our mortgage was getting clamorous, and she told me so. I was firm. I told her that if we were going to do it at all we couldn't let the family go away saying how shabby we were and what a failure I must be.

"That settled it. The family did not visit us at the glad Thanksgiving time, and we ate in peace.

"No; maybe I couldn't win the heavyweight championship or capture the city of New York single handed, but I can keep the invader out of my humble domicile all right."

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat also take glass of Salts Before eating breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, aching, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush all the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headaches, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Matches Result In Tragedy.

CORNWALL, Oct. 18.—Wallace J. Robertson, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson of Cornwall, is dead, as the result of burns received Thursday. The parents of the boy went to the barn to milk the cows, leaving the children asleep in bed. The younger lad wakened, started playing with matches and set his night clothes on fire. His screams attracted his parents, who hurried to the rescue, but the unfortunate boy was so terribly burned before the flames were extinguished that he succumbed yesterday morning.

Will Guarantee Bonds.

EDMONTON, Oct. 18. — Premier Sifton has introduced five resolutions for the further guarantee of the bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific branch line of the Canadian Northern Railway Co., the Canadian N. W. Co., and the Central Canada Railway Co., and for the construction of light railways through a country not yet served. The Premier said he would give particulars as to the guarantees and the country to be served, when the resolutions were moved on Saturday.

Seven Miners Entombed.

ROCKDALE, Texas, Oct. 18.—Seven of the eight miners caught late on Thursday in the Vogel and Lawrence mine near here, when the roof of the mine caved in and the mine was flooded, are still alive. They are entombed by a water barrier 90 feet below the surface, but are believed to be safe as long as their supply of air holds out. One miner was drowned outright, instead of seven, as reported Thursday night.

Zeppelin Airship, which exploded, Hurling Twenty-Six to Death — The seventh of Zeppelin's great aerial vessels to be destroyed with loss of life. This Zeppelin "L2" caught fire at a height of two thousand feet, and all of its occupants, except one, were burned to death or killed.

SULZER IS RETIRED

Glynn Is Now Chief Executive of New York State

FIVE CHARGES DISMISSED

ALBANY, Oct. 18.—Wm. Sulzer ceased to be governor of the State of New York at noon yesterday. He was removed from office by the High Court of Impeachment, by a vote of 43 to 12, two members not voting.

The verdict of the court was that Sulzer was guilty of falsification, perjury and an attempt to suppress evidence against him. Of all other charges he was acquitted, the court yesterday unanimously voting him not guilty of the four remaining articles of the impeachment not passed upon when it adjourned last night.

By a virtually unanimous vote also, the impeachment tribunal decided that Sulzer should not be punished by disqualification to hold office of honor and trust in this state in the future. This would have been the extreme penalty under the law.

The ousted executive was served with a copy of the verdict of the court at the executive mansion, at a few minutes before six o'clock last night.

"Good, I thank you," he said to the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, who delivered the document.

"Mr. Sulzer, private citizen," will leave the capitol probably on Sunday —wherefore he has not disclosed.

The outgoing executive issued a statement, in which he denounced the tribunal which had removed him as "Murphy's high court of infamy."

Sulzer declared that his trial was a political lynching as far as the Tammanyzed part of the court was concerned — the consummation of a deep laid political conspiracy to oust me from office."

"A horse thief in frontier days," he says, "would have received a squares deal.

"Had I but served the boss with half the zeal I did the state, William Sulzer would never have been impeached," he said.

Glynn Is Governor.

ALBANY, Oct. 18.—Two features unique in the history of New York State marked Lieut.-Governor Martin Glynn's assumption of the office of governor yesterday. He is the first occupant of the executive chair to [illegible] by reason of the impeachment of a predecessor, and he was sworn into office by the chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

The constitution oaths of office heretofore have been administered almost without exception by the Secretary of State, or by some attache of that office. When Mr. Sulzer was inaugurated governor last January, he expressed the desire to have Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals administer the oath. However, the law was looked up, and it was found that no provision specifically gave such power to the head of the highest court in the state. Subsequently at the suggestion of Governor Sulzer, the Legislature passed a law conferring upon the chief judge of the Court of Appeals power and authority to administer oaths to public officials.

Veteran Doorkeeper Dead.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—Benj. Chilton, doorkeeper of the Canadian Privy Council, died here last night, at the advanced age of 91 years. Deceased held the position of doorkeeper since 1876, and has seen seven Canadian Premiers and Ministries since that late come and go. He was with Sir John A. Macdonald when the latter's death occurred in 1891.

A New Principle in Complexion Treatment

(From Society World.)

Most creams are injurious when used habitually. They clog the pores and eventually form a permanent, soggy, stifling film which interferes with eliminative action and makes the skin sickly and pasty. There is an application—mercolized wax—which acts upon an entirely different principle. While perfectly harmless, it has the peculiar property of removing by absorption the diseased and dead particles of scarf skin, as well as unhealthy matter in the pores. Thus it takes away from instead of adding to the complexion, differing in this respect from cosmetics. The result is a perfectly natural and healthy young complexion. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

The correct principle in the treatment of wrinkles is to tighten the skin, which naturally irons out the lines. A face bath, remarkably effective in this connection, may be made by dissolving an powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

CAN HANDLE CROP.

Lake Freight Men Urge That Coastal Rules Be Not Suspended.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—A deputation of the officers and members of the Dominion Marine Association, representing practically all the Canadian marine interests on the great lakes, waited on Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine, yesterday and discussed with them important matters relating to the autumn grain movement, water carriage rates on the lakes, American competition, grain storage facilities, life-saving appliances on vessels, and other matters.

The deputation strongly urged that the recent increase in the tonnage of the Canadian-owned vessels on the lakes was sufficient to handle the western grain crop movement at reasonable rates, and that there should be this autumn no repetition of the action taken by the Government last year in suspending the coastal trade regulations so as to permit American vessels to enter into the Canadian coastal trade and carry off more than their fair share of the grain cargoes.

Hon. Mr. Foster intimated that the Government, in view of the improved conditions, did not anticipate that it would be necessary to rescind the coastal regulations again this year.

The deputation told the Ministers that if there was to be a suspension of the coastal regulations by Canada there should also be a reciprocal and compensating suspension by the United States in favor of the Canadian marine. Emphasis was laid on the necessity for improved grain storage facilities at Canadian ports, especially at Montreal, where the chief difficulty now lay in regard to securing even terms for the Canadian route for grain export, as compared with the Buffalo and New York route.

THE GERM THAT CAUSES DANDRUFF AND LOSS OF HAIR IS DESTROYED

By Using Newbro's Herpicide

The dandruff germ is a busy little microbe constantly at work and always doing the same thing. Apparently with fiendish intelligence it burrows down into the hair follicles, destroys the hair life and finally crowds out the hair, causing baldness.

There are two sure ways of stopping the harmful career of this invisible, microbe growth. One is to wait until the germ has induced incurable baldness, after which the atrophied hair follicle offers no sustenance to the germ; the other is to USE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

Dandruff cannot exist where Newbro's Herpicide is used intelligently. By destroying the dandruff and checking further accumulations of scarf skin, Herpicide prevents the hair from coming out.

While many imitations and substitutes are offered for Newbro's Herpicide, there is nothing "just like it" or "just as good."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEAD

Not One Man Escapes in Disaster to Big Airship.

CROWDS SAW THE TRAGEDY

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—A disaster in the air, involving the destruction of another great Zeppelin dirigible and the loss of the lives of 28, all who were on board, occurred yesterday morning near the Johannisthal aerodrome, when the new dirigible "L-II" was making its trial trip before acceptance as a unit of the aerial fleet attached to the German navy.

An Admiralty board, consisting of a number of officers, including Lieut.-Commander Behnisch and Senior Lieut. Freyer of the German naval flying corps was on board. The pilot was Capt. Gluth, a veteran steersman in the employ of Count Zeppelin, and Lieut. Baron Von Bleul of the Queen Augusta Grenadier Guards, was making the trip as a guest, and was the only survivor of the wreck, but died later.

Many of the bodies of the members of the crew were burned to such an extent that they were not recognizable.

Coming so shortly after the destruction of the "L 1" in a hurricane in the North Sea on Sept. 9, when 15 men were killed, yesterday's disaster gave rise to a feeling of consternation in Berlin, "Possible causes for the fire and explosion were that old gasoline was carried on board, or that a spark of atmospheric electricity was developed by the friction of the balloonets rubbing together inside the outer framework, as occurred in the case of two of the predecessors of the "L-II." These theories are regarded as improbable owing to the improvements made in the design of the airship to meet such contingencies.

Yesterday's flight was intended as a test of the ascending properties of the dirigible, which therefore carried an unusually large crew to take the place of the machine gun, the bombs, the wireless equipment and other fittings which the air vessel was eventually to be provided with.

The catastrophe might have resulted in a longer list of victims, as fifty school girls from the Johannisthal elementary school were playing in a field when the airship exploded above them. The headway of the airship, however, carried the hull beyond the children, who fled back into the school in a hysterical condition. Their parents had to come to the school afterward to escort them through the streets.

Hundreds of persons witnessing the flight suddenly heard an explosion, evidently in one of the motors in the centre gondola. A flash shot out and the next instant the whole ship was on fire and plunged downward from a height of 900 feet. Every inch of the canvas covering and the balloonets disappeared in a moment. A second and a more violent explosion was then heard, the fire having reached the gasoline tanks, filled with about a ton of explosive liquid fuel, and the debris fell into the public highway.

Pioneers armed with axes, hacked at the wreckage for two hours before they could extricate the last of the bodies. The six inmates of the centre gondola, had been blown through the sides of the car by the first explosion, and their bodies fell four hundred yards away from the wreck of the balloon, which was traveling at forty miles an hour.

Count Zeppelin, when informed of the disaster at Munich, broke down. He feared for the health of the Kaiser, who is at Bonn, and almost wept "My poor man! But it's God's wish; let us not lose courage."

As soon as the disaster was generally known the airship Manna was ordered to sail over Berlin and reassure the people. It was received with loud cheers.

It is probable that the Government will institute a sharp inquest into the accident before new orders are given to Count Zeppelin.

The official report of the accident says the explosion was due to the ignition of gas in or above the forward gondola, but not within the body of the airship.

The navy was not the only sufferer through aviation accidents yesterday, for three army officers were killed in aeroplane flights — Capt. Hauptel, Lieut. Koch and Sergt. Mentz.

The Zeppelin airships have been singularly unfortunate ever since their invention by the aged soldier-count. No fewer than seven of them have been destroyed by fire, explosion, or wreck. Zeppelin's I. II., and VI. met with disaster in this way, also the Deutschland I. and II. and now the LI. and LII., the first airships attached to the German navy, have gone the same way.

Many minor accidents have happened to other air vessel of the same system, by which numbers of soldiers have been killed or injured.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Negotiations have been resumed with the U. S. Fisheries Department for conservation of the fish supplies in boundary waters.

Chief Inspector of Schools Cowley, in an address in Toronto yesterday, said the Dominion Government might give $10,000,000 to technical education.

The Government has awarded the contract to G. A. Payne of Kingston for the erection of the carriage shed at Fete De Post Barracks at a cost of $14,000.

King Alfonso of Spain underwent a slight operation yesterday. He is suffering from a recurrent nasal catarrh. His condition is pronounced satisfactory.

Geo. H. Young, a former alderman and school trustee of Niagara Falls, Ont., was found dead in his room at LaSalle, N.Y., last evening death being due to heart failure.

Any probability that the name of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America might be changed, was disposed of yesterday by the delegates in convention in New York.

A relief fund has been opened by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House, at the request of the executive of the South Wales Miners' Federation, and a fund has also been started by the Lord Mayor of Cardiff for the families of the recent Universal Colliery disaster.

TOO MANY FADS.

Principal Mayberry Slashes Ontario School Curricula.

STRATFORD, Oct. 13.—Principal C. A. Mayberry, of the local collegiate, who is president of the Ontario Educational Association, made a slashing attack on the addition of fads to the courses of study, in a speech before the Perth County teachers here yesterday. "Our system of education, by too greatly emphasizing the value of book knowledge, is surely tending to the neglect of more important objects of training, and especially so since the knowledge acquired is of a superficial and unreliable kind," declared Mayberry.

"In my opinion the fault lies chiefly with the educational experts and the specialists. These men have clamored for recognition of their departments, and have insisted with the Department of Education on making additions to the old courses. It has been all addition and no subtraction until we find the present intolerable state of things."

Lads Open Switch.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 18.—A light engine was thrown into the ditch on the Welland division of the Grand Trunk Railway, when a switch was opened by three small boys, ages seven, nine and eleven years, respectively. An auxiliary from Hamilton was required to replace the locomotive on the railway. The lads were reprimanded by the magistrate and allowed their freedom.

Bigamist Gets 14 Years.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The Ungava Railway Co. has given notice of application to Parliament for legislation authorizing the company to construct a railway from the mouth of the Great Whale River, on the east coast of Hudson Bay, to Ayimer Sounds on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

ADDRESS ON SOCIAL SERVICE BY REV. J. A. FRANCIS, D. D.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S SESSION

The masterful, practical and instructive addresses, punctuated by brilliant epigrams and terse comments on timely and intensely interesting subjects, featured Friday night's session of the Baptist Convention. The two principal speakers of the evening were Rev. W. E. Norton, D. D., of Toronto, who spoke on "Education," and the Rev. J. A. Francis, D.D., of Clarendon Street Baptist Church, Boston, who held the rapt attention of his auditors for nearly an hour, while he dilated upon the aims and objects of the social service movement, and its relation to the world at large, as well as to the Baptist denomination. It is safe to say that several hundred delegates and others who were fortunate enough to be present at the meeting left Murray Street Baptist Church with a clearer and more defined conception of the questions as presented, by the speakers named, amid a wave of eloquence and potent argument.

PROF. J. H. FARMER, B.A., LL.D., Of McMaster University, Toronto. Prof. Farmer delivered a scholarly address on the "Doctrine of Salvation" at the Friday morning session of the Baptist Convention.

Ministerial Greeting.

Mr. James Eyrie of Toronto occupied the chair in the absence of Mr. A. A. Ayer, President of the Convention. The preliminaries to the big meeting, comprising a song service and devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. H. C. Bryant of Lindsay, and the Rev. A. J. Vinning of Toronto. The first speaker on the list was Rev. F. J. Sawers of St. Luke's Church, East City, who was introduced by the Chairman as the President of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough, and whose mission was to convey the greetings of the Association to the Baptist Convention. This Rev. Mr. Sawers did in a few well chosen words, in which he commented upon the great interest shown by the Baptist denomination towards the mission movement. The speaker characterized Church unity as a unity of all those who acknowledge Jesus Christ as the Divine Saviour. "The only union that is possible," said Rev. Mr. Sawers, "is one brought about, not by compromise for the sake of unity, but by comprehension for the sake of truth. Unity built upon any other foundation cannot last. In the words of the Psalmist: 'We wish you good luck in the name of the Lord,'" said Mr. Sawers, in conclusion.

Rev. W. E. Norton, D.D.

"Education, and the functioning of the educational institutions of the land with a view of producing a type of man possessing qualities that would ensure their acceptance as leaders in various walks of life, formed the keynote of Dr. Norton's address. "All the great movements of the world, whether good or evil, have been synonomous with, or envolved in, the leadership of a few men," said the speaker. Study the achievements of the world and you will find the story of on great Leader. Rome prospered and declined in proportion to the leadership that was manifested. A study of the political aspect of the British Empire will produce the same result. When the political history is written enfolding the Insurance Act, the Irish Home Rule and many other important measures, you will find the history of David Lloyd George. The abolition of slavery in the United States represents the story of Abraham Lincoln, just as the life of the late Egerton Ryerson typifies the life of the foremost educationalist in the Dominion of Canada.

Leaders Wanted.

"What the world needs more anything is honest, capable leaders," continued Dr. Norton. "Christian leadership is essential to the success of the small Church equally as well as the large one. Men, to be successful as leaders in all walks of life, must possess indominable courage, perseverance, a strong personality, and a firm conviction. These qualities can be obtained by training and discipline. Some of them represent natural endowments. The modern university should not be confined to the production of sages and philosophers, but rather the educational preparation of men as leaders. The Christian leader must be a Christian statesman," said Dr. Norton, referring to the national aspect of the question. The strength of a nation is no measured by its commerce or the immensity of its resources, but by the moral standing of the people. The latter can be accomplished by bringing the religious phase so close to the national life so that the people will be lifted to a higher moral standard.

"Social Service."

Like a postcript on a good letter came Rev. J. A. Francis' exposition of social service that has come to be recognized as an ever-growing movement designed to establish a communal condition compatible with the propagation of the Christian faith, indeed rather than by the mere enunciation of the Gospel. Dr. Francis caught the gathering with fiery enthusiasm and incontrovertible logic, as he rapidly outlined the essential features of the movement which has been dedicated to the cause of Christianity in Canada and the United States. "The Kingdom of God," constituted the subject of the speaker's discourse. "Social service is not another Gospel, but a further interpretation of the true Gospel interpreted in deeds, no words," said the speaker. The mightiest declaration that God ever sent out to the world was no spoken in words, bu exemplified in deed, in the darkness and silence of Calvary. It is not preaching that saves men, but the faith that is preached. Social service is a further interpretation of the faith that is preached.

Team Work.

Team work is what counts. The liquor traffic in Canada knows more about team work than the combined churches of Canada. Social service not only stands for the abolition of child labour, but for the proper protection of workmen and also a minimum wage, so that it will be unnecessary for any man, woman or child to live under conditions that will brutalize them and destroy the moral fibre. When we call God into it, we find it is a much deeper subject than we expected. The last stronghold on this earth is Christ, for every creature, and the latter must make it his business to put this stronghold above all business cares or enjoyment.

Dr. Francis then outlined the story of the prodigal son. These dreams, he said, were reduced to personality. The loving father, and the erring boy. There, he said, is the gospel of individual salvation. In the story, one of the contentions is called the father's house, and the other the far country. "The far country" can be described as the place in which a man lived out his life in the junglelade. What have you got in the far country? An orulent land-owner, who is satisfying his own ends, does not care if the man who lives in the junglelades starves in the field, as he is not worth as much to him as an animal of the jungle.

Of seventy per cent. of the taxable property nine-tenths of one per cent. belongs to the people. It is now a very difficult problem for the man who is only a labourer, a man with a wife and children, to keep up to the respectable line, and make both ends meet. It has been said that to do this, a man with a wife and family needs at least seven hundred dollars per annum, but wherever you go, across the border, what does he get? Why, at the most, four hundred and ninety dollars a year. You are coming towards it in Canada, and you are fuch nearer it now than you were ten years ago.

The Father's House.

Instead of living by the law of the junglelade, we should live by the law of Christ. In the father's house there is master and servant. But in my father's house, the servant is treated the same as the master.

Is this a new Gospel? No. We must go back to the heart of Christ's Gospel, which is the true message, and the interpretations of which is final. This world is a sinking ship that is doomed, and we live as it were by taking off passengers.

We have the passengers to save. That is necessary. What we have to look for is the blessing that will be acceptable of God's blessing, the spirit of God. And the one thing that we should set our hearts for is social service.

As our is the faith sublime; to build eternity in time.

MRS. PANKHURST CONSIDERED AS UNDESIRABLE

Leader of British Militant Suffragettes Taken From Steamer and Will Not be Allowed to Enter States

SHE WILL APPEAL

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British Militant Suffragette leader, with her secretary and travelling companions, were taken from the steamer La Provence to immigration headquarters at Ellis Island to-day on their arrival from France and will be detained there till the board of three inspectors determines whether or not she's a desirable person to allow into the United States. She is a fugitive from British justice but the question is whether her conduct in England involves moral tuerpitude. To the questioning of the inspectors this morning she said her campaign was not against King George, but Premier Asquith.

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 18.—After one hour's examination of Mrs. Pankhurst and considerable deliberation, the special board of inspectors of the Immigration Department to-day decided that she was an undesirable and ordered her excluded from the United States. The suffragette leader will immediately appeal to Washington, and if the head officials of the Immigration Department decline to interfere, she will take the matter to the Federal Courts.

New Appointment

Word comes from Winnipeg of the appointment of Mr. Fred W. Kerr of the Department of Agriculture, Manitoba, to that of of Commissioner of Agriculture from the Province of Manitoba to Great Britain. As Mr. Kerr has been prominently identified with this department for some time he is, no doubt, well fitted to fill so important a position in the Old Land. Mr. Kerr is a native of Baileboro, being a son of Mr. J. J. Kerr, formerly of that place, but now of Souris, Man., and is a grandson of the late Mr. John Kerr of Beaufort. He is also a nephew of Mrs.(Dr.) Marshall of this City. He will remove shortly to Bristol, England, where he will reside, and where his numerous friends, both in Ontario and in the West, will wish him every success in his new field of labour.

THE LAYMEN'S CAMPAIGN IS PROGRESSING

Arrangements Rounding Into Shape for the Big Missionary Effort to be Held Here in December

LIST OF SPEAKERS

Arrangements for the great Laymen's Missionary Campaign that will be held in Peterborough during the first week in December are rounding rapidly into shape. All the Protestant churches in Peterborough are co-operating. A meeting of the general committee, Mr. A. W. Cressman, chairman, and Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., secretary, was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. when the reports presented from the sub-committees showed that gratifying progress was being made.

A preliminary conference will be held in Peterborough on November 13th at which the Laymen of Peterborough County, who are to take part will be addressed by speakers from outside the City who have had experience in similar campaigns elsewhere. This conference will be one of 37 that will be held during the next month and a half throughout Ontario. All the churches in the County of Peterborough have been invited to send delegates. The speakers at the Peterborough conference will be Rev. A. P. Shatford, of Montreal; B. R. Ferguson, India; Walter Daniel, of the Baptist Board; J. R. Artsup, of the Methodist Board; D. M. Rose, secretary of the Central Committee, Toronto, and H. Beaton, of the Missionary Educational Movement. There is a probability that James Ryrie, of Toronto, will also be in attendance.

A Local Field Day.

In order that the conference may be as well attended as possible it was decided last evening to recommend to the different city churches that a Missionary Field Day be held in them the Sunday before the Conference. For these meetings an effort will be made to obtain well known speakers from outside the City.

Will Use Advertising.

The Advertising Committee reported last evening in favour of publishing a series of large advertisements in the daily papers the week before the campaign addressed to "The Man On The Street," in an effort to enlist his interest and support. There are many misconceptions about the Missionary Movement and much that is misunderstood. It is really one of the best movements that a business man or any other person can make an investment in and this will be shown to the public by means of the advertisements. The recommendations of the committee was adopted.

A Great Banquet.

Mr. R. F. Downey reported on behalf of the Banquet Committee. Arrangements are being made for the holding of a monster banquet, which will probably be held in the Market Hall, at which it is anticipated approximately 800 men will sit down. The meal will be provided by a caterer but the co-operation of the ladies in the different churches will be enlisted in the serving. The hall will be suitably decorated. It is anticipated that this campaign will be the most far-reaching of the kind that has yet been held in Peterborough. The week of December first is to be devoted to an "Every Member Canvass."

KING GEORGE TRYING FOR SETTLEMENT

His Majesty Has Had Repeated Conferences With Leaders of Both Sides in Regard to Home Rule

GOVERNMENT HAS TRUMPS

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 18.—(Special Cable.)—That King George is earnestly using his very best endeavours to bring the parties together on the Home Rule question, is evident by the repeated conferences of the leaders of both parties with His Majesty at Buckingham Palace. However despairingly some people may be of settlement of the great question, King George has high hopes in that direction and is backing up the with earnest effort. He has summoned the influential men of both sides for a conference next week. It is agreed that the situation must ripen before positive steps towards further aggressive movements are taken by either Liberals or Unionists. In the meantime all must admit that the government hold the trump cards, and after seven months can finally pass the bill and proceed to put it into effect, meeting whatever real opposition is manifested with the best judgment and methods at its disposal.

BOMB TO EXPLODE IN THE CHATEAUGUAY CAMP

DR. FRANK SANDERSON, Toronto.. An old Peterborough boy and a delegate to the Baptist Convention.

Seven Conservative Members of Parliament Are Said to be Implicated and There Will be One Hundred and Fifty-two Criminal Actions.

CHARGE OF CORRUPTION

Examiner Special:

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.— A bomb is expected to explode within a few days in the political camp here as a result of the Chateauguay bye-elections. Information from reliable sources say that by next Monday one hundred and fifty-two criminal actions will be taken against as many electors of Chateauguay, asking their disqualification for seven years. Proof gathered by special detectives employed by the Liberal organizers would show that illegal acts have been committed all throuhg the campaign. The proceedings, it is als ostated, will have a far more reaching effort, as not less than seven Conservative members would be implicated in the charges, among them the name of a minister in the Borden Cabinet is mentioned. The discovery of corrupting has created much indignation all through the county of Chateauguay, and influential electors of both Ormstown and Howick have, at a meeting last night, subscribed $1,500, which were sent to the Montreal committee to help it in the coming legal fight. M. Fisher is reported to have said: "We will have the corrupters punished even if we have to go before the Privy Council.

BAD WEATHER FOR TAG DAY

Rain This Morning Interfered With the Success of Children's Aid Campaign But Taggers are Working Hard

EVERYBODY BOUGHT

"Tag Day" did not open very auspiciously for the Children's Aid Society's campaign this morning, drizzling rain greeting the "taggers" when they started on their third annual effort to raise funds for this meritorious object. In fact the outlook was so gloomy that for a short time it was decided not to go ahead with the campaign and the girls were called in. Afterwards, however, the weather showed an improvement and the brigade of eager canvassers set to work with a will. The bad weather kept the down-town crowd below normal Saturday morning proportions, but the "taggers" made the best of their opportunities and few people were allowed to escape without contributing. Every place where there was a chance for a sale was carefully patrolled, and the delegates to the Baptist convention were easy and willing victims. By noon nearly every one in sight on the streets wore a badge, showing that he or she had contributed. A small army of girls were engaged in the work, and in spite of the bad weather it is hoped that a large sum will be realized for the support of the Children's Aid Society's work.

The second day the opening ceremonies will be performed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, Ontario; S. A. Heck, Esq., M.P.P., will preside as chairman. MAKE THE LAW EFFECTIVE.

Tag-day in the interests of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, arouses universal interest in its basic idea, the protection, rescue and preservation of children. While every day in the year the neglect of, and cruelty to, children, is going on somewhere, it is only once a year that we make a spasmodic demonstration of practical interest.

The rescue of small children from cruelty and neglect is the chief feature of the society's work here; but its activities and the sympathy of the public are indicated on broader lines, in the direction of combatting conditions that lead to the cruelest thing of all, the drift of young girls into immorality, the thrust of them into the abyss of ruin. The Examiner has often, in referring to the subject, asserted that the city streets at nights are the devil's school, where boys and girls at large, without control, are schooled in vice, and the truth is great enough to bear repetition. While bad homes and home influences are the kindergarten of vice, the streets at night are the preparatory school. Here boys get the bent, and are subject to the temptations that draw them into vice and crime. Here, young girls take the first steps upon "the ways that lay hold on hell."

To put an end to these conditions, laws have been put upon the statute book; but laws on the statute book, are as futile, formal and useless as the laws of God in the dust-covered and religiously avoided family Bible.

At the Baptist convention last night the fact was recorded in the report of the Social Service committee that in cooperation with other similar organisations, valuable legislation had been procured in regard to the white slave traffic—all very beautiful in the abstract, but a mere innanity, unless the law forms the basis of effective action.

What in the name of heaven is the use of a law that is not enforced—unless human law is fulfilled in concrete application, as was the divine law fulfilled in Jesus the Christ? He did not exploit smug platitudes of the "be-ye-warmed-and-filled" kind; he healed the sick, he led the hungry and in all ways set us an example that we don't follow like practical Christians.

As to the law aimed at keeping down the attendance at the devil's night school, it is more honoured in the breach or, rather, neglect, than in the observance. Is this due to apathy or indifference or to a defect in the law? Sub-section 2 of section 17, as printed elsewhere on this page, says that children loitering on the streets after nine o'clock "may" be warned to go home. That permissive idea makes things worse—simply leads to dodging on the part of the children, who can take another street out sight of the officer and stay out as long as they please or till another officer "may" "warn" them to go home. To be effective the law should empower the officer to see that the child reaches home, by taking him or her home, or taking them in charge and informing parents. And in Peterborough there is unlimited scope for evasion of the law. Our residential streets are, as a rule, never visited by a policeman; and it is in these streets that the greater danger to children, especially growing girls, exists. We can see in the residence streets, especially near the outskirts and in summer, sights that make the blood run cold—the ruin of girls in the making. Young girls are strolling about, waiting to meet what they may regard as a "lover," but in fact a fiend bent on their ruin. Our police force is confined to the business section, where no harm of the kind in question is possible, while the other nine-tenths of the city area, where the possibilities of evil are infinite, is wide-open, unguarded, unpatrolled.

If the Children's Protection Act is to be effective of any real good it must be enforced and proper officers provided to see to its enforcement; and action should not be only permissive, but obligatory. If the law is not to be effectively enforced, wipe it off the statute book; for in its present condition of optional action, and the lack of provisions for enforcement, it only begets a false security. Society has a vague idea that there is a law dealing with the subject of the protection of children from street dangers. This puts society to sleep like an opiate and it dreams that something in some way is being done because there is a law.

THANKSGIVING MESSAGES

BY VISITING BAPTIST MINISTERS

REV. J. H. McDONALD, B.D.
Pastor of McPhail Memorial Church, Ottawa

It is a thing eminently fitting that the citizens of this great Canadian Commonwealth, irrespective of class or creed, should turn aside one day in the year from the ordinary avocations of life to unite in thanksgiving to the Giver of the harvest and of every other good gift. This is one place where Church and State can well afford to unite, not in an unholy alliance, but in a sacred fellowship to gratefully recognise the good hand of Providence in personal, social and national life.

The Call to Thanksgiving.

The call for thanksgiving comes to us at this time loud and clear. The year has been one of marked prosperity from Coast to Coast. The products of field, forest, orchard, fishery and mine have been more abundant than ever before and this is saying a great deal. The growth of Canada during the past year has been greater than ever before. Indeed, no country in modern times has added to its population, through immigration, as our own country is now doing. Our people for the most part live in neighbourly toleration and contentment. It has been well said that nature presides over the creation of wealth; but man presides over its distribution, and perhaps it can be safely affirmed that there is no part of the world where there is a more equitable distribution of wealth than in the country we are proud to call our own. If prosperity calls for gratitude we shall surely be a happy and grateful people.

Personal Selfishness.

A danger which follows in the wake of prosperity is personal selfishness. That was the curse of ancient civilizations and without controversy it is the bane of modern life. It leads men to believe that they need only to think of themselves. The Supreme Teacher of the ages assures us that prosperity was never intended for ourselves alone. The rich must serve the poor, the educated the uneducated, and the good, the bad.

The Need of Moral Power.

A bountiful Father has given to us Canadians great prosperity. We are not blind to the possibilities for good or ill, which such prosperity entails. We need great moral power to grapple successfully with it and to employ it for noble ends. That power we find in Him who put the world under our feet. Our safety is not along the line of diminished prosperity, but in increased spirituality. Our thanksgiving needs to be coupled with earnest supplication.

"Lord God of Hosts,
Be with us yet—
Lest we forget, lest we forget."

By Rev. Llewellyn Brown, M. A., B. Th., Pastor of First Baptist Church, Brantford

The annual observance of a day for national thanksgiving is one of the splendid factors of our life as a Canadian people. There are many reasons why such a day for national thanksgiving should be safeguarded and perpetuated. We need to keep ever before us the fact that as all industrial prosperity in the final analysis is dependent on the soil so all men are dependent upon God for all the blessings we daily receive at his hand. If an annual Thanksgiving day will serve to keep this sense of dependence upon God alive, it is worthy surely of nation-wide observance.

There is a danger that Thanksgiving day will become simply a national holiday with but little thought of its religious character. This, as we all know, was not the original intention of those who planned this day of national observance. The fact that the former day of the week, namely, Thursday, that had been observed for many decades, has but recently given place to Monday, to accommodate the travelling men, the danger of Thanksgiving becoming simply a holiday is all the more apparent. The fact is that in very many communities religious services are no longer conducted on Thanksgiving Day. While many of the services held are but poorly attended. It certainly becomes incumbent upon the leaders of the church to make the most of their opportunity to emphasize the duty of the nation to give thanks for the blessings received.

Moses, the great leader of the Israelites, warned his people before they entered into Canaan of their danger of forgetting God saying: "Beware lest when thou art full ye forget God." Here as danger anticipated which is still with us for as prosperity increases piety often decreases. In proportion as worldly goods increase enthusiasm for the promotion of the Kingdom of God often declines. It is a pitiful fact to contemplate that the more God blesses some men the more they are apt to forget Him.

It therefore becomes us to safeguard this day and emphasize as far as we possibly can the purpose for which it was originally set apart. We must ever keep in mind our entire dependence upon God, and the more we are tempted to forget this fact the more we need to be reminded of the true significance of Thanksgiving. Let our gratitude take a practical turn as the Psalmist did when he said: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits unto me?"

He answers: "I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord. I will pay my vows now in the presence of all His people."

By Rev. A. L. Therrien, D. D. Pastor of L'Oratoire Baptist Church, Montreal

Gratitude is the touch-stone of character. An ungrateful heart is seldom, if ever, a truly honest heart. Giving thanks and being thankful do not always go together, but when they do unite thanksgiving becomes indeed "an insense of sweet smelling savour." More thanksgiving is needed in our devotion, but unless it is the expression of true thankfulness it had far better be with-held; for God holds in abomination the deceitful lips. Ife we remembered that "God is the author of every good and perfect gift," it would not be difficult for us to lift up our hearts to Him in acknowledgement of His bountiful benefactions. As human beings, as Christians, and as Canadians, we owe to God the most sincere, and the deepest gratitude, as we also owe it to ourselves on account of its subjective influence created in His own image possessing intellectual, moral and spiritual faculties, which are the reflexion of His mind and heart, having received at His hands the unspeaking gifts of His Eternal Son, of His Holy Spirit, and of His Holy Word, living in a land unsurpassed in natural wealth, magnificent opportunities, and the blessings of civil and religious liberty, it ought not to appear strange to us that we are called once a year to set apart one day to give thanks unto God "from whom all blessings flow." We are exhorted to "sanctify the Lord in our hearts," let us see to it that we do not sanctify Him only with our limbs and our lips. Would to God that every soul in our fair Dominion observed the day not solely in recreation and pleasure-seeking, but as a day of real thanksgiving and praise, and that from every heart emanated the words of the psalmist: "Bless the Lord O my soul and forget not all His benefits."

No Matter Who.

A party of women were being escorted through the state house the other day by a bowing and scraping guide. The women were of the enthusiastic type and raved over this and that and said, "Oh, simply too gorgeous." Finally they were shown the portrait of a former governor.

"Oh, superb, isn't it?" said one of them, "and an excellent likeness too. A portrait of whom did you say it was?"—Boston Traveler.

The Fishless Fisherman.

"So you took a day off from your work and went fishing?"

"Yes," replied the man who insists on being cheerful.

"Have any luck?"

"Certainly. A day off is luck enough."—Washington Star.

CHILDREN OUT AT NIGHT IN STREETS

Though the Examiner has recently published the sections of the Children's Protection Act pertaining to the presence of children in the streets at night, yet the subject is so important and the public interest is to-day so aroused to the importance of child protection, that the following circular issued by Mr. J. J. Kelso, superintendent, is given below:

Many resolutions have been passed by benevolent and philanthropic organisations, many sermons delivered, many editorials written by leading newspapers and magazines, many personal suggestions made, that the law dealing with children on the streets and in parks after dark should be more stringent. At the recent session of the Ontario Legislature these numerous requests have been met, and the amended law is as follows:

Children's Protection Act.

Sec. 17.—(1) No child [under sixteen] shall loiter in any public place after 9 o'clock in the evening, or be there unless accompanied by his parent or guardian or an adult appointed by the parent or guardian to accompany such child.

(2) A child found in a public place after the hour named in sub-section 1 unless so accompanied may be warned to go home by any constable or probation officer or officer of a Children's Aid Society, and if after such warning the child is found loitering in a public place such child may be taken by the constable or officer to its home or the Children's Shelter.

(3) A parent who permits his child to violate this section shall for the first offence incur a penalty of $1 without costs, and for a second offence $2, and for a third, or any subsequent offence, $5. 8 Edw, VII. c. 50, s 19, amended.

Sec. 2 (h) "Public Place" shall mean a street, highway, or lane, whether a thoroughfare, or not, and a tavern or other place of public resort, and, generally, any place to which the public have or are permitted to have access.

It is desirable that the greatest possible publicity should be given to the above law, and to this end the co-operation of editors, clergymen, teachers and social workers is earnestly solicited.

HAMILTON LIBERAL BANQUET

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Young men of the Province will have the satisfaction of being responsible for one of the most important banquets of the year. The dinner of the Liberal Club Federation, to be held in Hamilton, on November 26th, with the Right Honourable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., M.P.P., as the guest of honour, will be unique in many ways. The two distinguished guests will speak frankly to young men and point out their opportunities and responsibilities. They will appeal to the broad and tolerant outlook of the younger generation.

Hamilton, according to reports, is making every effort to give a favourable setting to the banquet. Dinner will be served in the new Foresters' Hall with accommodation for 500. Every one of the 44 Federation Clubs is expected to send a delegation and no seats will be allotted to the general public until every Federation member who wants to come is taken care of. Brantford has wired for a block of 100 seats.

There are two Federation Clubs in Hamilton, the Hamilton Liberal Club and the Hamilton Canada Forward Club.

A Story of Talleyrand.

During the troublous days of the French revolution, when aristocratic heads were dropping in the basket in the name of liberty, fraternity and equality, Talleyrand lived and prospered by virtue of a marvelous ability to tell just the psychological moment to jump off one hand wagon and aboard another.

The name of this French diplomat has been kept alive more than have those of most of his contemporaries by a vast number of anecdotes in which he figures. It was Talleyrand whom Mme. De Stael, homely but brilliant tried to corner by asking him if she and the beautiful Mme. Recamier were to fall into the water, which one he would rescue. And Talleyrand smiled in his most languishing manner and replied:

"Ah, madame, but you swim so well, you know!"

"The better the day the better the deed," and the best is none too good for holiday occasions.

PETERBOROUGH REGINA SASKATOON EDMONTON

TRADES AND LABOUR NOTES

Notes by the Official Scribe

The meeting this week was chiefly taken up by the president, who delivered a speech covering what he saw, heard and did in Montreal at the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada.

The number of representatives present was rather disappointing, nevertheless those present displayed interest and enthusiasm.

President Moore mentioned among other things:

Montreal a Hospitable City.

The meetings were held in Auditorium Hall, a very good place for the purpose, comfortably accommodating all the delegates. President Foster of the Montreal Trades and Labour Council took the chair, on the morning of the first meeting of the delegates, and there were addresses of welcome from Mayor Lavallee, Controller Joe Ainee, Alphonse Verville and others. Short speeches from fraternal Delegates Thorne and McSorley, Secretary Duffy of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Alan Studholme.

The President's Report.

President Watters' report was a readable and interesting document, although it showed that little was done in the past year in the way of legislation for promoting the welfare of what is known as the working class.

The Secretary's Report.

Secretary Draper's financial statement showed receipts of $10,871.40, expenditure $10,475.44, and a balance of $0,396.05. The report shows a membership paying per capita tax of 80,801, an increase of nearly 15,000 in the past year.

Largest Convention So Far.

The credentials committee reported 320 credentials received. This constituted a record attendance. The number registered at Guelph last year was 264.

President Watters Retains Chair.

Owing to the Brotherhood of Cement Workers of Victoria surrendering their charter, President Watters, who represented same, gave up the chair to Vice-President Bancroft. The credential committee having ascertained that President Watters had paid his dues till end of year, also that he had been elected International Delegate at the St. Louis convention, declared him as legally able to retain his office, which was done amid thundering applause.

Secretary Draper Scores Brantford.

Secretary Draper protested vigourously in both French and English against the action of the Brantford Trades and Labour Council in sending out a letter that seemed to imply dishonesty in his office. He also presented his report as a delegate to the British Trades Union Convention.

A Real Help-Meet.

Tuesday morning, Representative Wilkinson told the story of the coal miners' strike on Vancouver Island. It was a lockout in the Ladysmith and Cumberland mines. Representative Wilkinson is a good "spieler" and he interested the delegates for an hour or so, giving his story quite a dramatic effect at times. This happened in the telling of the arrest of a miner named Guthrie, whose young wife broke through the ranks of the soldiers who stood with "bristling bayonets," and gave a resounding kiss and a bag of fruit to cheer his heart in durance vile. Thus how can capitalism prevail against such unionism? Minister of Labour Crothers and Premier McBride had acted in a very dilatory manner, and had given no measure of relief, and the Royal Commission was still "sitting on the matter."

It was interesting to know that the Vancouver Gas Co. was bringing coal from Japan and Australia. In the meantime the United Mine Workers were paying $16,500 a week strike money, and $400,000 had already been paid. A telegram was sent from Congress to Representative Pettigrew, who was unavoidably detained at Nanaimo, and $500 was voted as a boot and shoe fund for the stricken families.

President Ryan Speaks.

During the afternoon President Ryan, of the Structural Iron Workers, was introduced to the Congress and gave a brief address.

Reports of the organizers were also presented.

The Resolutions Committee went into session afternoon and evening, the personnel of which included Peterborough's representative.

Montreal's Fire Fighters.

On Wednesday the Congress had only a short session in the morning adjourning at 11 to the Champ-de-Mars where all the fire fighting apparatus was on exhibition for the visitors.

During the afternoon all were taken on a steamer up the Lachine Canal to Lachine and came down the river through the rapids.

On Thursday morning the addresses of Alex. McSorley, fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labour, and of Will Thorne, fraternal delegate from the British Trades Unions, were heard.

Thursday afternoon was another half holiday, and the delegates were taken in a hundred hacks for a drive, visiting the new Technical School, and seeing Montreal from the mountain.

Friday morning was largely taken up dealing with resolutions.

One of the humourous moments of the convention was when Representative Simpson, speaking in favour of St. John as the next place of meeting, referred to the scent of the blossoms in the Annapolis Valley. As the convention will be in September this was funny, but Representative Simpson got away with it all right.

The election of officers took place on Friday afternoon. There was no change in the principal officers. Alphonse Verville was elected fraternal delegate to the British Congress, and Franco to the A. F. of L.

The Congress had an evening session on Friday lasting till eleven o'clock; the Resolutions Committee was also in session till a late or, to be more correct, an early hour. There were 119 resolutions presented, and about half that number dealt with by the Congress. One resolution affects us locally. It is an amendment to the constitution and debars from membership in Congress or Trades Councils chartered by it, any organization which has been expelled or rejected by the American Federation of Labour.

The convention, presumably, was a success, but considering everything, and principally the inconvenience of the dual language in doing business, President Moore is of the opinion that Provincial Federation must soon come.

Britain Fighting Shy of Hasty Action In Mexico.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—There is no likelihood of Great Britain's recognition of Provisional President Huerta of Mexico being withdrawn at present, as has been suggested in despatches from Washington, in the the opinion of British Government circles.

It is admitted that something might arise which would induce Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, to take this drastic course, but it is pointed out that nothing thus far has occurred to change the official view that recognition of the provisional government was the correct policy.

It is realized here that the state of affairs in Mexico is very bad, but Great Britain is studiously refraining from interfering in any way between Gen. Huerta and the Constitutionalists.

Abandon Hope of Rescues.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—There is no hope of bringing any more men alive out of the burning pit at Senghenydd, South Wales. As well as can be now estimated, 279 men are still entombed. This number, with 51 bodies brought up, with four deaths supervening after rescue and with the bankman and another rescuer killed, brings the total of victims to 336, an unparalleled number in this country.

Flee From Fighting Zone.

SAN DOMINGO, Oct. 18. — The Government yesterday issued instructions that the Clyde Line steamer Seminole, be permitted to call at Puerto Plata to take on board foreigners and natives who desire to leave the republic before military measures are taken against the revolutionists. A large force of troops have been sent from here to attack the rebels.

Old Man Wandered.

KINGSTON, Oct. 18.—When a mind became unbalanced as the result of a stroke of paralysis, Patrick O'Grady, over seventy years of, hitched up his horse and drove to Kingston, over a good day's drive. Found wandering the streets here he was placed in the asylum as an unknown. Yesterday his son came and identified him.

Seeks Wolfe's Relics.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Mr. A. D. Wolfe Aylward, of Farley, Westerham, Kent, is trying to trace a Bible, on a blank page of which, written with his own blood by himself, General James Wolfe, conqueror of Quebec, prior to leaving England, expressed certain views and convictions concerning the arduous campaign upon which he was about to enter.

Mr. Aylward, who is about to publish a record of Wolfe relics, states that the Bible was in possession of Edward Wolfe Butcher (Wolfe second cousin, who died in 1827.)

Run Over By Train.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 18.—Daniel Brougham, aged 40, of Ottawa, was run over by a train on C.P.R. Kippewa branch, north of Mattawa yesterday and probably fatally injured. He was taken to Mattawa Hospital yesterday where one leg was amputated. He can hardly recover. The trainmen say he was lying on the track and was not seen in time to stop the train.

Connaughts Leave London.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, accompanied by Princess Patricia, left London yesterday for Liverpool, whence they will sail to Canada on board the Empress of Britain. The duke will resume his duties as governor-general on his arrival.

ARMS AND FACE VERY MUCH DISFIGURED

Skin Cracked and Bled, Causing Much Pain. Was Getting Discouraged. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Soothed Right Away. Used Them Four Weeks. Has Not Been Bothered Since.

3 Hunter St., Dovisville, Toronto, Ontario.—"My little girl was troubled with cracked arms and face from the time she was born. They were certainly very much disfigured. The skin was sensitive and cracked and bled, causing much pain by smarting. When healing a little it took the form of itching. The trouble made her very cross. When she cried the tears would make it smart and cause more pain. I tried cold cream, ——, ——— and ——— and it got better only to break out again when exposed to the air. She suffered for over three years and I was getting discouraged when I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for samples. Cuticura Ointment seemed to soothe it right away, where other ointments made it burn, so I bought some more. I used them for four weeks and she has not been bothered since. Her face and arms have never had a mark since, in fact her complexion is wonderfully clear." (Signed) Mrs. Underhill, Dec. 31, 1911.

Cuticura Soap is best for skin and hair because of its extreme purity, delicate yet effective emollient properties, and refreshing fragrance. It costs but little more than ordinary soaps, wears to a wafer and gives comfort and satisfaction every moment of its use, for toilet, bath and nursery. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 29D, Boston, U. S. A.

BOWLES INSTALLED

New Chancellor of Victoria Assumes Office

EULOGY FOR DR. BURWASH

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—A most impressive ceremony was witnessed at the Convocation Hall of the University of Toronto last night when Rev. Richard Pinch Bowles, M.A., D.D., LL.D., was installed as President and Chancellor of Victoria University. The building was filled to its capacity with students and the general public, and the platform presented a brilliant spectacle with the variegated colors of the hoods of the dignitaries of the affiliated colleges.

Dr. Carman, the venerable superintendent of the Methodist Church, presided, and after the invocation Dean Wallace of Victoria read a portion of Scripture. This was followed by a most impressive prayer by Rev. J. W. Graham, B.A., D.D.

Chancellor Bowles, in the course of his inaugural address, thanked the faculties for the welcome they had accorded him, and the students for their expressions of loyalty and cooperation, and pledged himself to give his best services to Victoria.

An eloquent tribute to the life and work of Chancellor Burwash was voiced by Rev. S. D. Chown, who in the course of his remarks declared that the ordinary man has as his ideal the creation of a profound influence for good upon one generation, the retiring Chancellor of Victoria University has made a lasting impression upon no less than three generations of Canadians.

Ex-Chancellor Burwash in welcoming the new Chancellor spoke of the new opportunities which were opening out before the younger generation. There was a vast work still to be done, and he was confident that the younger men could rely on the encouragement, support and liberality of the Methodist people.

GETS ANOTHER SHIP.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—The unwritten but almost inexorable law of the seas, which bars a captain who loses his ship from being given another command, will not be applied to Captain Francis Inch of the Volturno. The officials of the Uranium Line made it known yesterday that the heroism of the young skipper — his desperate, though losing fight, to save his vessel and the brave part he played in the battle which resulted in the saving of such a large proportion of the Volturno's passengers and crew — will preserve him from the fate of many a master whose ship the sea has claimed.

"The line needs men like Inch," said Manager E. O. Thomas yesterday. "He will be given another boat to command and we will be glad to keep him in our employ."

Nicaragua Cities Shaken.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Oct. 18.—Violent continuous earthquakes yesterday shook the cities of Managua, Masaya and Granada, where the alarmed populations have deserted their houses and are sleeping in the public squares and open spaces. One house collapsed in Jalta, a suburb of Granada, and it is feared that more will fall.

A number of improvements have recently been made in the store with the object of securing more room. A new elevated cashier's desk and office has been installed, and the Lamson's Airline Cash Carrier System introduced.

BOVINE SIGNAL SERVICE.

Before the decisive battle at Ishtib an ingenious method of signalling on the part of the enemy was discovered by the Servians. A sowherd was taking five cows out to pasture on a hill halfway between the two camps. He drove them about, sometimes two together, then one at a time, then three, thus conveying information to the Bulgarians as to the position and strength of the Servian battalions.

ST. JOHN'S JUNIOR MISSION BAND

Fancy Bazaar and Entertainment in St. John's Anglican School House

A reminiscence, on a small scale of that delightful function which gave so much pleasure to the Peterborough people in 1912—the Summer Fair held in the Armouries, and which one could but wish might be repeated—had its locale in St. John's school house last evening.

A variety of booths tastefully decorated and skillfully set out had been erected wherein candies, cakes and once like comestibles, were exchanged for current coin of the realm. Then, too, there was a stall for doll's clothing and yet another for a variety of fancy articles.

The proceedings commenced somewhere around 4.30 p.m., after which tea was served at prettily arranged individual tables by fair members of St. John's congregation.

The occasion was to raise a sum to defray the cost of kneelers which the Junior Mission Band of St. John's are about to present to the daughter Church of St. George in South Peterborough.

The stalls were presided over as follows:

Home made candies—Misses Gertie Hood and Ada Shelton.

Dolls clothing warehouse — Misses Sybil Hood and Aileen Morgan.

At 7.45 a musical programme as follows was presented:

Piano duet — Misses Violet and Grace Tucker.

Recitation—Miss Gladys Jay.

Duet— Misses Barbara and Betty Cook.

Song—Mr. Ward.

Recitation—Misses Nanny and Eleanor Mills.

Duet—Miss Quartermaine and Mr. Ward.

Sketch—"Dr. Cure-All," by ten girls.

Vocal solo—Mr. Harris.

Recitation—Miss Gladys Jay.

Song—Mr. Ward.

Wand Drill and March, Past — 24 girls.

Recitation—Miss Dorothy Mills.

Chorus—"Tearing Moon."

"O Canada."

During an interval the Rev. James Price, Rector of St. George's Church, made a humorous speech, in which he thanked the members of the Mission Band for the offering they were about to make his Church.

The singing of the National Anthem, "God Save the King," brought the evening's entertainment to an appropriate close.

NEW C. P. R. LINERS

Next season will see the Atlantic service of the C. P. R. augmented by the addition of two new steamers, which will make St. John their winter port of call. These two vessels will be of the one class cabin type, which are becoming so popular. Barclay Curle & Company, of Glasgow, secured the contract for the building of the ships some months ago, and the construction is well under way. They are being specially constructed for the Atlantic service and will contain every possible convenience for the comfort of passengers. Their length will be 520 feet, greatest breadth 64 feet, while the breadth of the passenger deck will be 41 feet. Each vessel will have a capacity for 520 second-class passengers and 1200 third-class, while the dead weight capacity will be 7,950 tons, with an approximate cargo capacity for 6,000 tons. The famous cruiser stern, which is the feature of the new Empress, recently placed on the Pacific coast, is being introduced and the new ships will also have six complete steel decks. In order to ensure safety the hulls are to be sub-divided by water-tight doors and bulkheads, so as to be capable of floating when three compartments are open. These water-tight bulkheads and doors will be automatically controlled from the bridge. The speed of each vessel will be 15 knots, with a draught of 27.5. As for the interior of the vessels, each second-class state room will be fitted with a wardrobe and chest of drawers, folding lavatory with mirror, and other conveniences. The public rooms will be dining saloon, smoking room, lounge and drawing room. The refrigerating plant will be capable of making 300 lbs. of ice per eight hours. The vessels will be heated and ventilated on the thermotank system changing the air eight times each hour. There will also be a printing plant on board each vessel.

SOCIAL SERVICE A DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH WORK

Rev. S. E. Grigg, Superintendent of the Social Service Work in the Baptist Church in Ontario and Quebec Emphasizes Importance of the Work

CHURCH HAS THE RIGHT

Those who are interested in the question of Social Service would have listened with pleasure to an interesting address on that subject by Rev. S. E. Grigg of Toronto during the Friday afternoon session of the Baptist Conference.

One of his arguments in support of the proposition that the church should lend its forces in the development of this movement was that institutions, other than those connected with the church, were showing tendencies to undertake the work.

"Social Service should be attempted only from the Christian standpoint," Rev. Mr. Grigg stated, "otherwise it is going to fail."

In Chicago, last July, he noticed a tremendous movement to take up this work, but he questioned whether it was prompted from a purely Christian standpoint. In fact Mr. Grigg, who is the newly appointed Superintendent of Social Service work in the Baptist Church and former pastor of the Parkdale Baptist Church, intimated that the movement apparent in Chicago seemed to have sprung from sources without any direct church connection, and he stated that in order that this service would be a success the men behind it should be men of prayer, truly Christian men.

REV. S. E. GRIGG, B.A.

Former Pastor of Parkdale Baptist Church, Toronto — Superintendent of Social Service Work in Ontario and Quebec.

Not a New Gospel.

"Social Service is not a new Gospel," Mr. Grigg stated. "Nor is it a substitute for the Gospel. It is a new emphasis on a neglected phase of the gospel. We believe Social Service is an expression of the regenerated life. We would that the Spirit of Christ in believers might find expression and united action also (not instead) in holier, happier, relations in the family, social, industrial and political life of men. We would like to interpret the life in Christ in a form the weary and oppressed can appreciate, and the weakest can grasp, and forged into thunderbolts which organized wickedness will fear."

The Church Has the Right.

The church has the right to undertake this work, Rev. Mr. Grigg stated. God said that some day He would send the angels to remove all things that offend and cause to stumble.

"If God can do it that way, it is not beneath the dignity of the Baptist Church. The church must do it, or other agencies will do it."

It might be said that the work would dissipate men and money in other avenues than those which are already hard-pressed, but the speaker emphasized the increasing need of this kind of service resulting from changing conditions, the breaking down of old restraints, immigration, wealth, greed and besotting vices.

The movement is spreading everywhere, Rev. Mr. Grigg stated, and instanced the work of Lloyd George, Re. Dr. Clifford and others. In conclusion he said the Baptist Church must not lag behind.

Committee's Report.

The Social Service Committee's report was read by Rev. M. C. McLean, B.A., Toronto, showed that the committee during the year has heartily co-operated with other bodies interested in Social Service, and that advanced legislation has been secured to suppress the "white slave" traffic. Rev. S. E. Grigg, B.A., of Toronto, has been elected Superintendent of Social Service, and has already entered upon the duties of his office. He has been enthusiastically received by the people wherever he has been heard. It is hoped that a formal working arrangement will soon be entered into with the Conventions of Western Canada and the Maritime Provinces, and thus the Baptist Social Service become Dominion-wide in character.

Expenditure Will Be $3,500.

Rev. Mr. McLean stated that the expenditure estimated by the Social Service Committee was $3,500, and of this it was unanimously decided that $2,500 would be the salary of Rev. Mr. Grigg who, the report stated, was qualified to take up the work. Cordial co-operation was promised from the Baptists of Eastern and Western Canada.

Rev. Dr. Sullivan, of Montreal, seconded the report, stating that Social Service is practical Christianity. Many functions that rightly are part of church work are allowed to fall upon institutions outside of the church which was being regarded as theoretical and, not taking its share of the practical work.

There was a Social Service committee in the days of the prophets with Amos, Joel and others doing the same work as that which confronts the church to-day.

The officers for the next annual convention were elected on Friday afternoon as follows:

President—Rev. W. E. Norton, D.D., Toronto.

Second Vice-President—Mr. Jas. Ryrie, Toronto.

Secretary-Treasurer—Rev. C. E. MacLeod, Beamsville.

There was unanimous approval of the motion to grant Rev. Mr. MacLeod a higher salary as secretary-treasurer and it is understood that the former figures of $200 are to be doubled or nearly so.

REV. DR. E. J. STOBO,

Smith's Falls. Rev. Dr. Stobo, who is an old Peterborough boy, is chairman of the Committee on State of Religion. It is interesting to note that Rev. Dr. Stobo's father is an ex-pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church.

REV. W. E. NORTON, D. D.

he generally has a good idea of the kind of Garment that will suit him. Doubtless, he is familiar with the new shawl collar and full skirt that characterize many of this season's styles and he may be aware that mostly Nigger Heads, Chinchillas and rough-faced, reversible Tweeds are the materials of which they are made. IS DYING OF LEPROSY

Dying Missionary Sends a Pathetic Message to the Peterboro' Convention of Baptists

"A GOOD SOLDIER"

"This is his message to the Baptist denomination and perhaps it will be his last." The speaker was Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown to Toronto, who to-day left for the Maritime Provinces, carrying with him the greetings of the Peterborough Convention to a similar gathering that is being held in Nova Scotia. The occasion for Dr. Brown's remarks was to be found in a pathetic letter that was read at the Baptist Convention last night. The communicaion was from Rev. J. E. Davies, M. A., a missionary who some seven or eight years ago contracted leprosy while in charge of a mission station in India. In his message to the Peterborough Convention Rev. J. E. Davies urged the Convention to further the cause of Home Mission in the two Provinces and also the work as represented in the foreign mission field.

"A Good Soldier."

"A good soldier of Jesus Christ," commented Rev. Dr. Brown, as he concluded the reading of the letter. On motion of Rev. A. A. Cameron and Mr. W. J. Robertson the communication will be printed and distributed in the hope that it might prove an incentive to those interested in the work of foreign missions.

The missionary upon whom the veil of earthly oblivion is about to descend is located in Tracadie, New Brunswick, where he is being cared for by the Sisters of a Catholic institution. He is already blind and in constant pain day and night. Rev. Dr. Brown intimated that it was impossible to have the dying missionary cared for under any other auspices, owing to the nature of the dread disease. Mr. James Ryrie, who presided at the meeting, said that one of the saddest memories connected with his visit to India some years ago was the scenes connecting the leper colony. This represents a branch of social service that is being rendered by the missionaries..

A HANDSOME ESTABLISHMENT

Mason's Floral Emporium Shows Many Improvements

Owing to a typographical error which occurred in Thursday's issue, the following notice of Mr. Mason's floral improvements is repeated to-day:

A more attractive florist's Emporium is not to be found outside the very large cities, than that of Mr. Francis Mason, Water Street. Recent improvements have rendered it a most up-to-date establishment, and passersby stop in admiration, it being so entirely different to anything of its kind in Peterborough. The emporium is built of small stone and the placing of new windows and large plate glass doors, the woodwork of which is finished in oak, makes a very handsome front. The interior is done entirely in white, and on entering one is immediately struck by the cleanliness of the plan. The ceiling and walls are done in metallic and along the south side some spacious showcases have been installed. One of the best floral refrigerators that could be had, has been secured and is a valuable acquisition for the care and preservation of cut flowers.

Mr. Mason has been in business for the past forty years, and has made rapid progress until now he is the proprietor of one of the nicest green-houses in the Province. He intends having his new emporium formally opened to-day, when the public is cordially invited to come and view the new premises.

VARIATIONS IN MILK FAT

They Show That Cows Should be Tested at Frequent Intervals

Frequent experiments have shown that one single test of a cow's milk is not reliable as an indication of what percentage of fat her milk normally contains. A great many well known causes affect the test, also some causes that are unknown at present even by the closest students. This "variation in the test" is one of the puzzles of the cow's individuality, and because of these puzzling variations it is advisable to take composite samples at intervals so as to ascertain the average test.

Some painstaking investigations at one of the dairy research stations in England, with seven cows for two days, even covering such details as a separate test of eleven successive pints, three times a day, from the four quarters of the udder, show that while thirty pounds of milk per day was 3.6 per cent., the variation was all the way from only six-tenths of one per cent. up to nine and a half per cent. of fat.

This is clear proof of how misleading one single test may be. If the real earning capacity of each individual cow is to be computed, it must be on the basis of her annual production of milk and fat less the cost of feed; regular weighing and testing give that knowledge which every factory patron should have of each cow he keeps.

The Sheep Pays

Money invested in sheep will nearly double itself in one year, since the fleece will pay for the feed and care of the sheep, and the lambs, often two per ewe, are the profit. It is estimated that ten sheep may be kept where one cow may, and the risk is much less. It may be said that the sheep always carries her pocketbook with her. If she dies, her pelt or fleece pays her funeral expenses. If she lives, her wool in the spring and her lambs in the fall pay double revenue. No other stock pays as large a percentage of clear profit on the money invested. Nothing else will build up a rundown farm as quickly as a flock of sheep. While pasturing, the sheep's manure is distributed about so evenly that no manure spreader could equal the sheep in its work.

Bungle at a Wedding

Irrigation in Australia

A conference of Australian engineers representative of the various States through which the River Murray passes, was held to consider the question of the control and distribution for irrigation purposes of the water running along that course. It was stated that there were five million acres suitable for irrigation along the Murray and its tributaries in New South Wales. This comprised first and second-class land bordering the Murray, the Murrumbidgee, and the Darling rivers. Victoria required water to irrigate one and a half million acres, and South Australia had about two million acres. So that in the three States there were over eight million acres of land in proximity to the main waterway that might be used to settle many thousands of settlers, providing there was sufficient water available throughout the year to supply this immense area.

The Magnetic Girl

How She Compels Others to Obey Her Will

100,000 Copies of Remarkable Book describing peculiar Psychic Powers to be distributed Post Free to readers of The Peterborough Examiner.

"The wonderful power of Personal Influence, Magnetism, Fascination, Mind Control, call it what you will, can surely be acquired by everyone no matter how unattractive or unsuccessful," says Mr. Elmer Ellsworth Knowles, author of the new book entitled: "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of the Eastern Yogis, and describes a simple though effective system of controlling thoughts and acts of others how one may gain the love and friendship of those who might otherwise remain indifferent; how to quickly and accurately judge the character and disposition of an individual; how to cure the most obstinate diseases and habits without drugs or medicines; even the complex subject of projecting thoughts (telepathy) is explained. Miss Josephine Davis, the popular stage favourite, whose portrait appears above, declares that Prof. Knowles' book opens the door to success, health, and happiness to every mortal, no matter what his or her position in life. She believes that Prof. Knowles has discovered principles which, if universally adopted, will revolutionize the mental status of the human race.

The book, which is being distributed broadcast free of charge, is full of photographic reproductions showing how these unseen forces are being used all over the world, and how thousands upon thousands have developed powers which they little dreamed they possessed. The free distribution of the 100,000 copies is being conducted by a large London institution, and a copy will be sent post free to anyone interested. No money need be sent, but those who wish to do so may enclose 5 cents (stamps of your own country) to cover postage, etc. All requests for the free book should be addressed to: National Institute of Sciences, Free Distribution Dept. 920 C., No. 256, Westminster Bridge Road, London, S.E., England. Simply say you would like a copy of "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces," and mention The "Peterborough Examiner." 3d-W-1071

MAN-TAILORED LADIES' GARMENTS

Mr. M. J. Hickey, Merchant Tailor, Adds New Branch in the Interests of Ladies

It will be news of special interest to the ladies of Peterborough to learn that coats, suits and skirts made by men to whom the making of ladies' outer garments has become second nature, can now be produced in faultless style by Mr. M. J. Hickey, of 434 George Street. Mr. Hickey has built up a large tailoring business for men, and has been induced to add this new branch for the benefit of the ladies.

To describe the unspeakable comfort and distinctive smart effect which can be given to ladies' outer garments when man-tailored, can only be done by a woman who has worn them. Coats and suits conformed to the present dress vogue, and designed and fitted by an expert cutter from New York, in touch with the proper styles in costumes can now be duplicated for Peterborough ladies. Wonderfully smart coats will be a feature. The leading characteristic of any suit is the splendid qualities and excellence of tailoring. In fact, nothing of time, trouble and skill will be spared to make this branch acceptable to the ladies. In fabrics, the most up-to-date patterns and materials in beautiful designs and shades are shown, and Mr. Hickey extends a cordial invitation to ladies to come and see. 3d-w

REID'S HARVEST WINDOW

One of the most apropriately dressed pair of store windows to be seen on George Street to-day, typical of the abundant harvest and thanksgiving season, is that of the Reid Company 303 George Street. Besides the wealth of fashion tastefully displayed, there is an added decorative effect given by the sheaves of wheat and fruit-laden dishes interspersed among the goods, which attract attention, and is also suggestive of the Thanksgiving sale now going on in the store.

BAPTISTS WILL ERECT A LARGE NEW UNIVERSITY

Site Costing $125,000 Has Already Been Secured—Woodstock College Finances Are in Good Condition

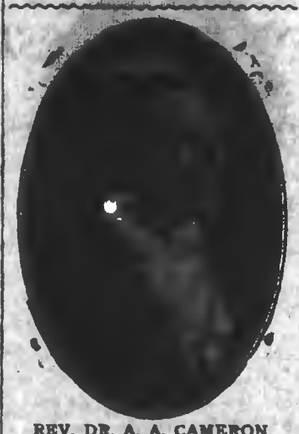
REPORT ON EDUCATION

At the Friday afternoon session Dr. L. S. Hughson, of Stratford, conducted devotional exercises.

The report of the Senate and Board of Governors of McMaster University was presented by Prof. W. S. McLay, M.A., Dean of Arts. This showed that the enrolment in arts was 272, in theology 49. Deducting students registered twice, the net enrolment stands at 310. In Woodstock College there were 149 students, and in Moulton College 157. These are in the academic department of the university.

Affiliated Colleges.

The affiliated colleges — Brandon and Okanagan—registered in arts 69 students and 12, respectively. The total enrolment in undergraduate courses in arts are the largest in the history of the university; 54 women are in attendance, two of them being students in theology. The graduating class is the largest on record. One student has been offered two fellowships and one assistantship. Two students obtained fellowships at the University of Illinois, making seven fellows from McMaster in that institution.



REV. DR. A. A. CAMERON,
Ottawa. Dr. Cameron is an ex-president of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec. He returned to Ottawa this morning.

The churches are taking greater interest in Christian education, contributors having increased 540 per cent. in five years. The special session was attended by 91 pastors last May, and was a great success.

A New University.

When the financial stringency has passed it is proposed to enter upon a canvas for funds for the purpose of erecting a new university building upon a site already secured at the cost of $125,000.

Satisfactory Finances.

The financial statement shows that receipts more than balance expenditures. The expense of keeping up McMaster University during the past year is $66,436.98, Moulton College $33,668.01, and Woodstock College $35,836.80.

The Forward Movement fund shows receipts of $90,301.83, of which $25,000 has been paid on account of a new site. The general summary shows that there is a bank balance at the credit of the university of $53,343.00. Receipts from all sources were $143,212.43.

The adoption of the report was moved by Dr. D. E. Thomson, who has been on the Board for 32 years, most of the time being its chairman. His address was a strong plea for liberal education.

The report was seconded by Mr. Jas. Kyrie, Toronto, who stated that the aim of Baptist Educational work is to provide leadership in the Christian work of the denomination. Baptists should not be afraid to put something into educational work if they expect to get satisfactory results.

Dr. Farmer said the parents should turn their children to took forward to the ministry as the noblest calling in which they can engage.

HENS AS BAROMETERS

A poultry fancier near Durham, England, produced curious results by altering and alternating the food given to his fowls.

It is known to many who have reared canaries for the market that Cayenne pepper, put into their food results in a notable difference in the character and shade of their plumage, giving the feathers a smoothness and reddish tinge which adds very much to the sum for which the birds may ordinarily be sold.

If the same ingredient be added to the diet, especially of white hens which have been hatched from carefully-selected eggs, their feathers become pale rose, and they flush to a brilliant red when the weather is damp and a storm is approaching. These hens thus become veritable barometers, and the progression of color from palest to brilliant is so exact that a scarlet hen stalking about the barnyard is regarded as certain prophecy of a storm which may be as much as twelve hours distant.—Tit-Bits.

THE SEAL OF THANKSGIVING

GUY BROS MADE A DECIDED HIT

The old favourite Minstrels, Guy Brothers, delighted a large audience at the Grand on Thursday night, the programme proving one of thorough merit from the opening overture until the final curtain. The first part was splendidly put on, the chorus and solo numbers being exceptionally well rendered, while the vaudeville features offered were well above the average. The whole entertainment was worthy of the high reputation that "Guy Bros." so worthily have earned.

HAS PROSPERED

MONTREAL, Oct. 14. — Three years ago, William Brooks, an Englishman, came to this country from Hove, a large watering place in the South of England, and secured a position packing apples on a British Columbia orchard. To-day he is the owner of one of the largest orchards and about to marry one of the prettiest young women in Canada.

The circumstances surrounding the love affair of the couple are romantic in the extreme. Miss Gretchen Van Durfer, a pretty flaxen-haired Dutch girl of twenty-two, is the daughter of a rich fruit merchant in Rotterdam.

Just a little over two years ago she was standing near a barrel of apples when it was being opened by one of her father's workmen to get one of the apples out to show to a prospective customer. A letter fell to the ground from the blade of the axe. The man on opening the barrel had pierced the letter.

Miss Van Durfer picked it up and found it was from far-off Canada, asking whoever opened the letter to answer it, for the writer was very lonesome.

Miss Van Durfer could write very little English, but she managed to put a letter together and send it to her future husband, Mr. Brooks. In return he sent her his photograph.

It was another case of "love at first sight." Since then they have been corresponding regularly, and Miss Van Durfer arrived in this country this week en route for British Columbia, there to become Mrs. William Brooks.

HARVEST OF THE SEA

The halibut of British Columbia have an enviable reputation, for they are less over-grown and of finer texture than the Icelandic and North Sea fish; a length of five to six feet and weight of 250 pounds is exceptional for the British Columbia halibut. The waters between Queen Charlotte Islands and the mainland, especially off Rose Spit, and off the west shore of Banks Island, were at one time veritably overcrowded with halibut.

Very large fish were often taken then, some weighing 150 pounds, but the general weight now is only from 20 to 60 pounds. The halibut are scattered all over the strait, but regular migrations have been noticed, and where the waters of Dixon entrance meet the currents, moving from the south through Hecate Strait, and food appears abundant, the fish congregate in large numbers.

The superabundance of herrings on the coast of British Columbia has been recognized from early times, but, as the local demand was insignificant, no herring fishery can be said to have existed, until about thirty years ago. At intervals, and in a desultory way, various parties engaged in the herring industry, and quantities were converted into oil and guano. Within the last ten years, however, the value of this fishery resource has been realized.

Herring occur all along the coast as far as Alaska, though in sheltered areas, like the waters near Nanaimo, Ucluelet, Barkley Sound, Virago Sound and Queen Charlotte Islands, the schools appear to form solid phalanxes.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

Monday will probably witness support again against professional attack on prices in the stock market. The appearance of banking support on Friday and Saturday changed the complexion of sentiment to some extent, it being inferred that the bankers were not pessimistic as he newspapers had led the public to believe. We continue to find scale down, buying on all reactions, and it is certain that good accumulation is progressing. The idea of the large interests as yet appears to be to restrict the decisive support to check demoralization only. Attention is now being directed by very high-class information as to the time for picking up the wheat grangers, the Harriman issues and copper shares. Special attention is made to their attractiveness. The Anti-Trust campaign of the administration exploited so extensively is the chief topic of discussion now with the professionals.

Much disgust is exhibited in conservative quarters over the present outbreak, but it is held also that the liquidation thus far has not harmed the values of properties.

At the opening to-day the market was moderately active. Prices were better all round. The improvement seemed to be spontaneous and there was neither an effort on the part of bulls to put prices up in a hurried covering movement on the part of the shorts. We look for an improved market next week.

Leader Of Athletics Thinks Highly Of A Canadian League Graduate

The Rochester Post has the following interesting article on Jimmy McAvoy, who caught for the Berlin team this season:

Jimmy McAvoy, $200 richer for his short term in the primary department of the world's championship school of Cornelius McGillicuddy, has returned to town. James will be with us all winter. His schedule meanwhile doesn't call for any more sport than an occasional game of pool. This isn't to be taken as an insinuation that he is an inveterate pool player. Far from it, though he plans to play at least two games before the winter is over; one to get in practice for the second when he expects to have a little heart-to-heart talk with John Ganzel, manager of the Hustlers.

"I just gotta thank Ganzel for releasin' me when he did," Jimmy told his manager of semi-pro days, Cornelius Buonomo. "If he hadn't a done it, I'd a never seen Philadelphia, and I just want him to know I appreciate it. An' the best way for me to tell it to him will be to kind a work my way into a pool game with him, an' then just slip it to him in a nice way. What 'a you think?"

Other than to get into form for this combination pool and conversation game, McAvoy has but one matter to give attention this winter. He must take care of himself.

"On Sunday morning Jimmy and I were strolling along Broadway, when we met Mr. and Mrs. Mack. I guess they were coming from church," Buonomo told the writer yesterday. Buonomo and McAvoy, by the way, had just returned from the world's series.

"Now I had never met Mr. Mack and when I saw him coming along I had no idea he would stop and talk to us, simply because he knew Jimmy and had given him a trial. But he did. Jimmy introduced me, and then Mr. Mack introduced me to Mrs. Mack. I never expected to live to see the day when I would be able to shake hands with the leader of the Athletics, and I told him so. I told him all I'd read about him and how tickled Iwas to shake his hand. He just said, 'Nothin' to it. You shouldn't feel that way,' and then began to talk about Jimmy. He really believes Jimmy is going to be a good catcher. Even Mrs. Mack seemed to know all about him, 'cause she said I should do all I could to make Jimmy take care of himself this winter.

"Right before me Mr. Mack told Jimmy: 'Kid, it's up to you, now. Take care of yourself this winter and I'll be able ta use you next summer.' It must be that Jimmy 'll be right along with Schang and the rest of them next year. Doesn't it look that way?"

Buonomo is more than proud of McAvoy. McAvoy in 1912 was the catcher for the Maltops, which Buonomo has managed ever since there have been Maltops in baseball, and even before that when almost the same set of players were known by other names. That's why he talked so much about Jimmy yesterday.

"Jimmy tells me he has changed his style of batting since he went to Philadelphia. 'The first day I went to the plate,' he said to me: 'I went up just as I used to. You remember Slick, with the old crouch. But I didn't crouch long. Danny Murphy was up to me in a minute. He said there'd be none of the crouch business any more, that from then on I'd take a healthy swing. You see that's Danny's business now. He tells you when you're doin' the wrong thing, and puts you right.' I guess if we could see Jimmy work now we wouldn't know him.

"That Mr. Mack thought a lot of the kid is shown by the way he treated him. The few weeks he had him he paid all his expenses, from Rochester and back home again even to the kid's board and laundry. Besides he gave him $200. That's pretty good, when you think if Ganzel hadn't released him he might not have caught in a ball game all season. Say, wouldn't it be great if Jimmy got a chance in a world's series next year?

"You know one thing I couldn't quite figure out after my talk with Mr. and Mrs. Mack, was how she happened to know so much about Jimmy. Yes, sir, she said the same thing as he did, that all Jimmy's got to do to be a real one, is to take care of himself."

McAvoy took part in four games for the Athletics. In that time nine opponents tried to steal bases, and all but one he threw out. That one was Maisel of the New York Americans. After he was released by Rochester, McAvoy went to Berlin in the Canadian League where he proved a sensation. It was on the recommendation of Jack White, an old Eastern leaguer that Philadelphia drafted the local boy.

How Caterpillars Build.

Many clever caterpillars, which dwell habitually in company build a common nest for the common benefit. Of these is the famous American tent caterpillar. The tents are really nests of silk spun among leaves and twigs. In them the caterpillars dwell when young, and to them they resort for shelter in rainy weather even when larger grown. Allied species which pass through the winter in the caterpillar state construct winter sleeping quarters which the bookish folk call hibernaculums. These are often conspicuous among the branches during the cold months of the year. If torn open they reveal a surprising thickness of spun silk, forming a dense nonconductive wall. At the center of the mass lie from thirty to fifty tightly packed caterpillars waiting for the return of the warm weather, when they will resume their feeding.

Why They Quarreled.

"I hear that you quarreled with Harry," said one young woman to another "Is it so?"

"Yes, I did," replied the other girl. "He is a horrid thing. He asked me how old I was, and I told him twenty-one, and he wouldn't believe me!"

"Indeed!" said the first. "Well, you should have referred him to Bob Yates. He could swear you told him the very same thing four years ago."—Detroit Free Press.

HANG CURTAINS TO ADMIT LIGHT

The latest method of hanging curtains conforms with the idea of admitting all the light and view possible. They are hung on slender brass rods, sill length, and pushed clear back to the edge of the window at each side, hanging in soft, straight folds, unless there is an unsightly outlook, when a sash curtain of the sheerest material may be strung across the lower half of the window. An overhanging and valance add a pretty decorative touch, especially if they are used over a dainty white or cream net curtain next the glass.

For the curtain hung next the glass a good scrim, net or white muslin, is pretty; madras is good for this use, and there is also a new material called "casement cloth." All these are inexpensive, washable, sheer enough, so that they do not keep out the light or view, and come in any shade. For overhangings, cretonne, with a background that tones with the walls and a well-designed pattern in grey colour, is popular because inexpensive, suitable and pretty. Japanese cotton and crepe are charming for overhangings is bedrooms, or even in dining-rooms and living-rooms where a blue and white scheme is used. Then there is an unfadable madras, rep, both silk and cotton and a new material called "washable mohair," that is one of the prettiest of the season's offerings in fabrics.

To the Lover of Good Coffee

We wish to advise you that we have installed in our store a new

manufactured by the A. U. Beer Co., of Hornell, N. Y. This machine is equipped with steel knives which cut the berry into fairly uniform, clean cut particles, instead of grinding and crushing it as, by the old method.

All Coffee Mills heretofore used will only crush the berry, mutilating the minute oil cells, allowing the Coffee Oil to evaporate, thus impairing the strength and flavour, and in a short time the coffee becomes rancid, sour.

This is one reason why a pound of coffee cut in this Mill will make more cups of full strength coffee than will any coffee ground the old way.

Another feature about this Mill is that you may have your coffee cut as fine as the finest sand and it will still be practically free from that fine dust which is produced by the old method of grinding. You will, therefore, always have a clear cup of coffee instead of a muddy effect—a result of using the old style mill

ROYAL CUT COFFEE is also adaptable for percolators or French Drip Coffee Pots.

Try a pound of our Coffee cut on a Royal Mill and we know you will be pleased with the results. Yours truly,

This is the Royal Mill that Cuts the coffee

Gerald Rackham, of Peterborough, was the groomsman, and Donald and Morris Fisher, brothers of the bride, and Kenneth Inches and Clifford McAvity acted as ushers.

After the ceremony the reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following which Dr. and Mrs. Cameron left for a short honeymoon trip to Boston and other cities in the United States. They will then proceed to Peterborough, Ont., where they will reside.

JAPANESE DIVER.

While in Chicago recently Mr. E. N. McWilliams picked up a curious little attraction called a Japanese Diver. It dives to the bottom of a tall glass jar, remains there a moment and then rises to the top for air. It keeps up this action and forms an interesting novelty. Watch it in the store window and see if you can explain its action.

THANKSGIVING.

The time is at hand once more when friends from far and near are welcomed home for the Thanksgiving vacation. A look around town shows many new and kent faces.

The daily trains bring in many travellers and friends, and this Thanksgiving promises to be a joyous one in the City—a time when all are glad to meet their kith and kin.

The hotel registers are well filled with holiday-makers at this time, and the usual "tender" turkeys will be sampled on Sunday and Monday next.

Thanksgiving services will be held in most of the City Churches on Sunday when the pulpits will be occupied by the visiting Baptist clergymen.

A STRING OF BEAUTIES.

One of the many things which a member of the Examiner staff has to be grateful for on this Thanksgiving occasion is a contribution by a returned member of the Jack's Lake fishing party of a string of beautiful mountain trout, left at his door last night. For a toothsome delicacy, turkeys are only a side-show to those incomparable 16-ounce, plump little beauties.

CAN HE COME BACK

Ex-Governor Sulzer Nominated For N. Y. State Assembly

HE IS PETITIONED TO RUN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—William Sulzer, impeached as governor of the state, was nominated for the Assembly last night by the Progressives of the Sixth Assembly district. Mr. Sulzer in 1889 began his public career as a member of this branch of the State Legislature.

The nomination of the impeached executive was brought about against the desires of state and county leaders of the Progressive party. The sentiment among the Progressives throughout New York and in other states was generally against the move, according to State Chairman Theodore Douglas Robinson and County Chairman Francis W. Bird.

Mr. Bird in a letter to Mr. Steindler before the meeting began cautioned him regarding "the unwisdom of nominating Mr. Sulzer."

After Mr. Sulzer had been nominated last night there was a demonstration in the East Side meeting hall. Bands in the street outside played national airs. The nomination was made unanimous, and Mr. Sulzer accepted.

A few minutes after the Progressive convention met last night in New York, Wm. Sulzer issued a statement telling why he had consented to come back to Albany as a member of the Assembly.

There never was any doubt but that he could have the nomination if he wanted it, he declared. Nor does he doubt that the first of January will see him back where he began his political career twenty years ago. He and his friends also are convinced that he will go from there to the speakership and thence back to the "People's House."

To-day Mr. Sulzer will go to New York to begin a campaign for the Assembly immediately, and speak by day and night up to election time.

The rabbis of every synagogue in the sixth district called at the executive mansion yesterday to urge Sulzer to make the race. With them they brought petitions asking Mr. Sulzer to run. There are said to be only 5,700 voters in the entire district.

For a time the former governor refused to give his callers an affirmative answer. He told them that his wife had urged that he get out of politics. Then the rabbis told her it was the duty of the impeached executive to make the race. A statement issued by Platt quoted her as saying:

"Accept. The people call you. Fight for the cause—win or lose."

KILLED BY COAL GAS.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Grace Snelling, aged 22, is dead, and her sister, Dorothy, aged 19, is at the General Hospital in a serious condition, as a result, it is believed, of inhaling coal gas from the furnace in their boarding house at 8 Wilton crescent. Mrs. Williams, with whom the girls were boarding, stated last evening that there was no smell of gas in the girls' room when she opened the door yesterday morning. The police, on the other hand, state that when they arrived at the house there was a perceptible odor of gas all through the house. At the General Hospital, Dorothy Snelling, who regained consciousness last night, expressed the opinion that it was escaping coal gas which caused her sister's death.

The girls, who came to Canada from England six years ago, moved to 8 Wilton crescent about four days ago from a boarding-house across the street.

Lake Superior Stormswept.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 21. — A northwest storm which whipped Lake Superior Sunday night, caught the rudderless steamer Lackawanna, being towed into Duluth by the tug Sabin, and some fear was expressed here for her.

The storm delayed the steamer W. L. Brown for ten hours. The E. C. Pope, the Shenandoah, and numerous other vessels were delayed.

The boom of the Inter-state bridge was broken by the storm and traffic will be blocked in the Superior channel until repairs can be made.

Weather reports on the Vermillion range indicate low temperatures with snow fall at Tower, Ely, Winton and reaching to Fairbanks. This is the first snow of the season.

Suggestion Coldly Received.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The proposal by Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, that Great Britain and Germany should declare a "naval holiday" in 1914, was received without sympathy by the German Government which regards it as not calling for a reply. It is generally considered doubtful whether any official notice will be taken of the suggestion, although it is thought Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollwég may perhaps refer to the subject later on in his course of the debate in the Imperial Parliament.

Templemore Towed to Port.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The steamer Templemore, abandoned on fire off the Virginia Capes on Sept. 30, was towed into port yesterday by the revenue cutter Androscoggin, which picked her up, still burning, off the Georges Banks, six days ago.

Tom Watson On Trial.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 21.—Thomas E. Watson, lawyer, publicist and one time Presidential candidate of the People's Party, yesterday was placed on trial in the U. S. District Court here on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The specific charge against Watson is that he published in July, 1911, and April and May of 1913 certain alleged questions which he claimed were asked by Roman Catholic priests to persons in confessional, which questions, the indictment alleges, were obscene.

The questions appeared in a series of articles attacking the Roman Catholic Church and especially the priesthood.

Servia Complies.

BELGRADE, Oct. 21—The Servian Government yesterday notified the powers that it had ordered its troops to withdraw immediately behind the Albanian frontier fixed by the peace conference held in London at the conclusion of the first Balkan war.

The step complies with Austria's ultimatum.

BARQUE IS WRECKED

Lake Craft Had Two Harrowing Days in Gale

CREW SAVED FROM DEATH

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — Blown out into Lake Ontario and battered about during the night by a heavy sea, while water rushed in through her weakened planking, the barque Sligo finally came to grief off the eastern channel early yesterday morning and was beached in order to prevent her from sinking. The captain and crew of three men remained on board until the life-saving crew, in charge of Captain Frank Ward, effected a rescue. But for the pluck and bravery of Captain Dave McVickers the barque would have gone to the bottom of the lake many miles off shore and the men would have been lost.

On Friday last the barque rammed a bridge and divers had to make repairs to her planking. Owing to the unsettled weather the company decided to send along the Lake Michigan with the barque in case heavy weather should be encountered. A bad blow came up Sunday night and the steamer lost her consort in the dark.

Knowing that he must either beach the barque or let her sink in the lake with all on board, Capt. McVickers took desperate chances. He crowded on every inch of sail the boat could carry and still hold her masts. The gale had carried him many miles out of his course, and although he could not by any means secure his proper bearings he took charge of the helm and made for the direction of Toronto harbor.

Early yesterday morning the weary skipper sighted land. The barque was then taking water at the rate of two feet on hour.

Capt. Frank Ward saw signals of distress and put out in the surf boat. Captain McVickers told the life-savers when they came within speaking distance that the ship was sinking, and asked to be taken off. The crew responded and the captain and his men were taken to shore in the surf boat.

MUST REDUCE TARIFF.

Sir Wilfrid Says Reform Will Head Liberal Program.

JOLIETTE, Que., Oct. 21.—The necessity of reducing the tariff for the purpose of cutting down the high cost of living was announced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier here on Saturday as being the first item on the Liberal program, which was, said the leader of the Opposition, more important to Canadians than the building of Dreadnoughts. The second item was more railways, especially the connection of Montreal with the Transcontinental, and, finally, Sir Wilfrid repeated that the Liberals would oppose any tribute to England in the shape of a contribution of $35,000,000, as proposed by the Government at the last session of Parliament.

Land Tax Planned.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 21.—Direct taxation upon the unearned increments of the province is new legislation planned by Hon. Arthur L. Sifton, Premier of Alberta. The bill, which has been discussed at length by members of the Government at Cabinet meetings here, probably will be submitted at the present session of the Provincial Legislature, and it is expected the measure will receive immediate attention.

SUCCEEDS ALVERSLONE.

Sir Rufus Isaacs Is Now Chief Justice of Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The appointment of Sir Rufus Isaacs, the Attorney-General, as Lord Chief Justice, was officially announced Saturday. He succeeds Baron Alverstone, who recently resigned. Sir J. A. Simon, Solicitor-General, is appointed to the Attorney-Generalship. Stanley Owen Buckmaster succeeds to the Solicitor-Generalship. Baron Alverstone has been created a viscount.

The appointment of Sir Rufus Daniel Isaacs to succeed Lord Alverstone was generally expected, although in some quarters his connection with the

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MILITANT ADMITTED

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst Gets into United States

WILSON IS HER FRIEND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. — America's doors were opened yesterday to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, and during the few weeks covered by her lecture engagements the British militant suffragist leader is free to go where she will in the United States. An order releasing the much-discussed visitor from detention at Ellis Island, N.Y., and revoking the deportation order of the special enquiry board was issued yesterday after President Wilson had conferred with Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor, and a formal hearing before Immigration Commissioner Caminetti on Mrs. Pankhurst's appeal had been concluded.

Secretary Wilson announced that he and the President had agreed that Mrs. Pankhurst should be admitted "on her own recognizance," with the understanding that she should depart when she had fulfilled her lecture engagements. Both the President and Secretary agreed with Commissioner Caminetti in the opinion that there was an element of doubt as to whether the acts for which Mrs. Pankhurst has been convicted in England constituted moral turpitude, or were political in character.

Commissioner Caminetti last night issued a formal statement outlining the reasons for his decision in the case.

"Upon carefully considering the entire record and all of the circumstances of the case, I conclude," he said, "that the best disposition to make of the matter will be to accept the assurances of all parties concerned, and admit Mrs. Pankhurst on her own recognizance to depart from the country at the termination of her engagements, and so recommend."

Acting Secretary Post and Chief Parker of the law division, sat with Commissioner Caminetti and the array of attorneys was drawn up in a battery at a line of tables.

There was a rush for admission to the small chamber, and it quickly was filled with women who did not reveal their sympathies.

Herbert Reeves, attorney for the British leader, first presented a long brief, reviewing first, the facts, and then contended that the acts of which Mrs. Pankhurst had been convicted in England, were purely political offences.

"It is respectfully submitted," he said, "that at the time of the commission of the acts complained of, there was an uprising or revolt on the part of the present women in England; that this uprising or revolt was of a political nature, and that any crimes committed by Mrs. Pankhurst, if any were committed by her, were crimes purely of a political nature and not such as to involve moral turpitude."

At the end of his argument, Mr. Reeves announced that in the event of a decision against Mrs. Pankhurst, which, he said, parenthetically, he did not expect, he would ask Commissioner Caminetti to admit her under bond to fill her lecture engagements.

Starved Leader at Meeting.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A dramatic appearance at the weekly suffragettes meeting was made yesterday by Miss Annie Kennedy, organizer of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffragette organization. Suffering from the effects of a "hunger strike" in Holloway Jail, the idol of the women's movement, looking extremely feeble, was borne into the hall on a stretcher and given a memorable reception by the crowded audience of women who stood on chairs and cheered until they were weary.

This was Miss Kennedy's first appearance in public since her release and she reached the hall in an ambulance, escorted by a guard of militant suffragettes in taxicabs.

The stretcher, supported on chairs, was placed in the middle of the platform, where Miss Kennedy lay motionless and only able to whisper a few words to her friends.

Train Dynamited; Forty-Six Dead.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—Forty-six Federals have been killed by the dynamiting of a troop train a short distance north of Saltillo, according to information from a reliable source. The troops were proceeding from Mexico City to Torreon. There were 97 cars, containing 1,500 men in the train, which ran over a rebel mine. The locomotive and two coaches were destroyed. The Government authorities, it is said, had been warned to send the train over another route, but disregarded the warning.

Cold Storage Inventor Dead.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Charles Tellier, inventor of the cold storage system for the preservation of foodstuffs, died Sunday. He was 85 years old. Although others made millions from his inventions, M. Tellier was in very straitened circumstances, and a fund was raised amounting to $30,000, which was to have been paid over to him shortly.

Baby Incubator Doctor Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Dr. Solomon Wiechel, who introduced baby incubators in this country, and has since exhibited them extensively, died Sunday from the effects of acute indigestion. He had been married only on Saturday to Miss Anna Winter of Brooklyn.

NEGRO RUNS AMUCK.

Unknown Colored Man Wounds Four In Toronto.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Enraged by a dispute over the amount of money he had laid on the bar in Smith's Hotel, an unknown negro ran amuck at eleven o'clock last night, slashing four people with a razor, one of whom, John Consworth, a porter at the hotel, lies at the General Hospital in a critical condition. The negro, up to an early hour this morning, had not been caught by the police.

Walking up to the bar in Smith's Hotel, the man laid a five-dollar bill on the counter, and called for a drink. After he had received the drink and his change, he declared that there were two bills stuck together, and wanted more change. He was refused and commenced to show fight, upon which, Consworth, who has been a porter in the hotel for fourteen years, attempted to eject him. Drawing the razor from his pocket, the negro slashed Consworth across the neck, inflicting a deep wound which missed the jugular vein by one inch.

At the door his progress was obstructed by William Mackay, who attempted to hold him for the police, but once more the razor fell and Mackay stumbled forward with a gash in his neck.

The next victim was William Thompson, a merchant, living at 8 Henry street, whom the negro met opposite the Queen City Hotel, at the corner of Queen and William streets. Stepping up to Thompson, and exclaiming, "What do you want?" he slashed at him, inflicting a wound which extends from the neck six inches down the left shoulder.

To Investigate Emigration.

VIENNA, Oct. 21. — Official announcement is made that the great increase in emigration is evidence of the widespread secret organization for encouraging the emigration of persons liable for military service. The emperor has shown much interest in the situation, and has ordered an investigation of all emigration bureaus in the empire.

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough mixtures, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take five ounces of granulated sugar, add one cup of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (10 cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly. Any housewife can easily prepare it in five minutes.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this recipe, if the genuine Pinex is used. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you, if you ask him. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

By ROY NORTON

Mrs. Higgins looked at Lish curiously after the old man made his departure, as if rather expecting him to go also; but for a long time he sat there and watched in silence.

"I reckon you think I come here just ta get somethin to eat?" he ventured at last. And then, answering his own question, added: "I did not. I come because I wanted to have a talk with you."

"It might take quite a while to say all I got to say, ma'am".

"If that's so," she said tartly, 'you had better come around after dinner. The men will be in to their suppers in half an hour. I think you'd better wait till then."

He took the broad hint, and got up and walked away. He sauntered to the mess-house, where he was given a seat, and sat while the men filed in and ate quietly, as is the custom in mines, where men work hard, and eating is a serious business. He arose before the others had finished, nodded to the superintendent, and made his way back to where the burros were eating the succulent grass of the hillside. He appeared to be nerving himself for the forthcoming interview, and, when he judged it was time to visit the cook, made his way to the back door. A Chinese boy was just finishing up the washing of the dishes, and Mrs. Higgins stepped outside and seated herself on a bench by the door.

"Mrs. Higgins, ma'am," he said, with his usual bluntness, "I know your husband, Bill Higgins, and I saw him a while ago."

The woman straightened suddenly on the bench, and bit her lip. Watching her, he saw that her face had grown a trifle whiter and more drawn.

"I thought maybe you'd like to know how he's gettin' along," he ventured further. "Most women do sort of have an interest in their men-folks."

"Did he send you to me?" she asked, icily.

"No'm. Bill didn't know I was comin' this way."

She did not answer, but appeared to be straining her eyes off toward the sunset.

"Five years since he's set eyes on you. I think he said," he went on, as if ruminating.

"I think what he meant was that it has been five years since I set eyes on him," she retorted, with a cold chill in her voice. "He made me to shift for myself. And now I'm glad of it."

The prospector appeared mightily interested in a chip which he shoved backward and forward across the bare ground with the toe of his boot.

"But he wrote you, and asked you if he could come back, he said. Says he to me: 'Lish, that Marthy was the finest woman that ever walked, and I didn't know it. I'm a-eatin' my heart out for her,' says Bill."

"He told you that, did he? The drunken loafer!"

"Oh, he's quit drinkin for moren two year, Bill has," he sturdily insisted. "He's workin' all the time, to. Good miner, Bill is, Mrs. Higgins. One of the best hard-rock men that ever spit a fuse. He's foreman up there now. Good job, I reckon he thinks a heap of you."

She sat like a statue for a moment, and then Lish saw that her fingers, toil-worn and hard, were twisting together as if she were in pain.

"I'm through with him," she said at last, but there was a slight quaver in her voice.

He watched her for an instant longer and then grinned quietly to himself and his eyes twinkled.

"His post-office address is Keswick," he said. Thought maybe you'd like to know if ever you want a divorce. I don't blame you none. It's true he don't drink no more, but he ain't nothin' but a big, nasty, ugly brute, that somebody ought to shoot just on general principles. Why, ma'am, I agrees with you! That Bill Higgins ain't fit to live. He's a regular hellion, ma'am!"

That he was a queer diplomat was proved by the fact that in an instant she was on her feet.

"Nobody asked you anything about him," she said. "It's none of your business what he is. Drunk or sober, I expect he's as good as you are. It's queer how some men are always sticking their noses into other folks' affairs! I'm through with Bill Higgins, and I don't care to see any more of you. Good-night!"

She turned and walked back into the kitchen door, and slammed the door shut after her. The prospector stood up on his feet and walked away in the direction of the bunk-house, emitting a long, soft: 'Whew!' And, strangely enough, as he walked he chuckled with an air of great satisfaction.

She led him out to a primitive store-house in the opening of what had evidently been a prospect drift in the hillside, unlocked the door with a key which she had brought from the kitchen, and said: "Well, what is it?"

Considering the small amount he took, Lish was evidently hard to satisfy, and kept up a running fire of what was meant to be polite conversation.

"Of course, up at Keswick," he said, 'a feller can get anything he hankers for in the way of grub. Fresh vegetables up there, ma'am. You never saw anything like 'em! And fruit? Law-see! Finest fruit I ever saw. Cheap, too. Guess it don't cost much to keep house up there. I says to a friend of mine: 'This is the place where every man ought have a wife to look after him. She'd be so all-fired happy trampin' around these fine stores and spendin' his money.'"

"Suppose you hurry up a little will you?" she interrupted. "I haven't got all day to stay here."

He hurriedly paved over some more of the supplies, and appeared quite oblivious to her speech.

'Of course, I ain't talkin' about the kind of men that drinks, or blows in all they make, ma'am. That kind don't have nothin' to spend. I mean fellers that really have somethin', like Bill Higgins, your no-account husband, ma'am!"

'You can lock that door when you get through talking to yourself," he heard a voice outside, and, peering out, saw that she was hastening back to the kitchen. He grinned knowingly, and after that seized the first slab of bacon at hand, the first sack of flour, the first can of baking powder, and followed, with a solemn air of respect.

Her anger was so apparent when he told her the weight of the bacon and gave her the money in payment for the supplies, that he did not venture to say anything beyond an extremely polite "Good-day, Mrs. Higgins. Hope to see you again some time. I'll stick around here a while, I reckon, in this here vicinity."

It was to Jack that he confided as he threw the pack over that beast's back, and made his preparations:

"Sorry to have to make you tote this stuff when I've already got bacon and flour enough to run a month, but this is deeplomacy, old pardner; hey, you!"

He gave a vicious shove with his knee into the burro's belly as Jack, with palpable effort, swelled and blew himself up until he threatened to become a balloon and blow away. Jack gave a grunt, laid back his ears, pretended to bite, and snapped his teeth together with a sidewise twist that brought them within an inch of his owners leg.

"Some day," said Lish plaintively, "you and me'll have the dag-gondest fight about that! I never saw a place yet that you didnt like well enough to try to stay there. Be good now before I knock seventeen kinds of cussedness out of your hide!"

He paused at the top of the hill, where the last view of Canada Hill Mine was losing itself, and smiled back at the mess-house.

"Good-by, Mrs. Marthy Higgins," he said, whimsically, doffing his hat and sweeping it toward the ground. "Bill Higgins'll get you yet, if you don't watch out!"

He plodded his whistling, singing way over the two miles to the cut-off leading to the trail which Channel Smith called his own, and turned into it, on the general principle that the world was wide, and one place as good as another when it came to seeking gold. It was still early in the forenoon when he found the veterans cabin, and gazed in amazement at the work which the patient, old plodder had done. There were trenches and crosscuts scattered over a shallow valley, in the centre of which meandered a swift-running stream, and the trees seemed to have made way for it and formed a phalanx to shelter the glade. He found Smith bending over, his back as round as a rainbow, in the latest trench, and watched the old man straighten painfully with hands on knees when hailed from the clay bank above. He was made certain of his welcome by the greeting.

"You see, it's right lonesome up here, evenin's," Channel said, in explanation. "So Im sort of glad to have somebody for neighbour. A yaller dog would be better than nothin'."

He sat down on the edge, wiped the sweat from his brow and nose with his faded shirt sleeve, and prepared to be hospitable, although Lish scarcely knew whether to feel complimented.

"I patched up that cabin, there on the edge of the woods, nigh on to twenty year ago," Channel went on. "I always knowed there was somethin' in this gulch, and, by golly! I'll find her yet if I have to live to be two hundred year old!"

"Got any prospects?" queried Lish sympathetically.

The patriarch put a horny hand up to his mouth and mumbled into Lish's ear as if the whole world were filled with rapacious ears, instead of there being no one nearer than two miles:

"Got one pan that run forty cents. Yes, sir, forty cents!"

The prospector was instantly interested to the point of excitement—that is, as far as it seemed possible for him to be excited.

"Never got no more," the old man went on; "but she's here some place. They ain't nobody put their stakes on that ground up there, that I know of. You can stake that, and you can bunk in my cabin young feller! You couldn't want nothin' better than that, could you?

And Lish proved that he could not by beginning with this arrangement. In less than a week he discovered, by painful experience, that the ancient was probably the worst cook that ever put baking powder into water, then mixed the flour on top. Also, that his idea of cleansing a frying pan from bacon grease was to swab it out with anything that came handiest, be it a rubber-boot leg or a discarded sock. So he assumed the functions of cook. Likewise, the Forty-niner's ideas of measurement were distorted; for when he cut wood for the stove, it was either from one to six inches too thick to go into the stove door, or from one to six inches too long for the fire-box. So Lish cut the wood. Moreover, the veteran was nearsighted, and when he brought water from the creek he frequently scooped up considerable mud, dried leaves and gravel. So Lish uncomplainingly became the water boy. But if he felt any injury over these trivialities, he concealed them behind an immobile face and twinkling eyes.

"Jack, you're havin' it pretty soft, he communicated to the burro one day, as that person stood with his head in the door, blinking, and patiently waiting for bread scraps, while carelessly brushing flies. The burro, as if by invitation, calmly walked inside, his little hoofs clattering on the floor. Lish, leaning back with his hands behind his head blew smoke in Jack's face, and added: 'Say, who asked you to come on in? Ain't you afraid that old skeesicks, Channel Smith'll come and lam you? Well, dont you mind him. Hes all right. He sort of amuses me. He's a right-good old feller.'

And, as if by prearrangement, steps were heard outside at that moment crunching over the gravel, and Jack, with a switch of his tail, abruptly turned in a panic, bolted for the door, and almost bowled over the owner of the cabin, who happened, inopportunely, to be entering.

Channel Smith snorted in disdain.

RULES FOR CAKE BAKING.

In baking cake, divide the time required into quarters. First quarter, mixture should begin to rise. Second quarter, continue rising and begin to brown. Third quarter, continue brownisg. Fourth quarter, finish baking and shrink from pan.

It is sometimes necessary to cover cake with brown paper. There is, however danger of cake adhering to the paper.

Cake should be often looked at during baking. Providing oven door is opened and closed carefully, there is no danger of cake falling.

Cake should not be moved in oven until fully risen. About this time it it desirable to move it so that it will brown evenly.

Cake when done shrinks from the pan and does not retain indentation when pressed with the finger.

Red Hair and Temper.

"All mankind," said Major Hurst, a well known English student of eugenics, "may be divided into those who are red haired and those who are not red haired. It is a fundamental difference." In almost every case of a red haired child the major has succeeded in discovering a red haired ancestor, and he thinks that practically the whole of the red haired population springs from a single red haired man far back in the past. Here are some of his conclusions:

In order for red to appear it must be in the ancestry on both sides.

A red father and a dark mother, or vice versa, hardly ever have a red child.

Two reds always have red offspring. But it is exceedingly rare to find two reds marry, as they seem to have a mutual antipathy.

It is a popular fallacy that red haired persons have any distinctive temperament. They are no more hot tempered than other people.

When Servants Were Fined.

What would servants of modern times say to the following rules and regulations that were adopted over 300 years ago in the household of Sir J. Harrington, the translator of Ariosto?

A servant absent from prayers to be fined twopence; uttering an oath, a penny; leaving a door open, a penny; a penny fine for any beds unmade, fire built or candle lit uncleaned after 8; any one breaking any of the butler's glass, a shilling; twopence fine for any one who has not laid the table for dinner by half past 10 or supper by 6; any one being absent without leave, fourpence fine, a penny fine for any follower visiting the cook; a fine of a penny for any visitor's room left untidy for four hours after he or she has dressed; a penny fine if the hall be not cleaned by 8 in winter and 7 in summer; a fine of threepence if the stairs be uncleaned every Friday after dinner.

All these fines were deducted from the servants' quarterly payment of their wages.—London Standard.

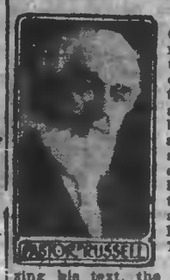
SACRIFICES NOT REQUIRED BY GOD

Offerings Under Jewish Law and Their Antitypes.

JESUS' PREACHING DOCTRINAL

Pastor Russell's Preaching—Why Not "Fashionable"—Why It Is Doctrinal—Eating God's Word—Unrequired and Undesirable Sacrifices—Acceptable Sacrifices—The Rewards of Accepted Sacrifices—The Better Sacrifices.

[The matter under this heading is supplied by the Pastor Russell Lecture Bureau, who conduct the Brooklyn Tabernacle (unsectarian) Bible Studies, and who have arranged for its insertion.]



Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—We report one of Pastor Russell's discourses from the text, "Sacrifice and offering and burnt offerings and offerings for sin Thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the Law." —Hebrews 10:8.

Before discussing his text, the Pastor answered the queries of some who ask why he does not preach "fashionable" sermons, and give his audiences a digest of his readings in the leading magazines, or some dissertation on scientific progress, public parks, better housing for the poor, etc. His answer is that this field is already over-filled with laborers; and besides that he has a different commission, which reads, "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because He hath anointed me to preach the good tidings to the meek; He hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted."—Isaiah 61:1.

Others again, ask the Pastor why he does not preach more against intemperance, the social evil, etc.—occasionally smashing chairs for emphasis. His reply is that the Master and the Apostles set the standard which he believes should be followed. Their preaching was neither rant nor cant. St. Paul emphasized this in writing to Timothy, saying, "Preach the Word!" St. Peter emphasized it when he said, "Show forth the praises of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvelous light." Jesus inculcated this when He said, "Feed My sheep," and again, "Search the Scriptures—they testify of Me."

The Pastor declared that he preaches doctrinal sermons, because he follows the example of Jesus and the Apostles, not considering himself wise enough to improve upon their methods and example. Jesus' preaching was doctrinal, though along the simplest lines, because most of His hearers had been begotten of the Holy Spirit. The Apostolic Epistles to spirit-begotten Christians set forth holy doctrines.

The Divine thought is expressed by the Apostle that beginners in the Christian way, as new-born babes, should desire the sincere milk of the Word that they might grow thereby, while advanced Christians should feed upon the strong meat. "Thy Words were found and I did eat them" is the Lord's way of representing the growth in grace and knowledge of those who are begotten of the Holy Spirit as New Creatures.

How very few Christians to-day understand the very simplest doctrines Divine! How few could explain justification by faith versus justification by works! How few could explain the Bible doctrine of sanctification! How few know anything about the hope of the "resurrection of the dead," or any other Bible doctrine! Truly the Bible declares of our day, "My people perish for lack of knowledge"; and again, "I will send a famine in the land, saith the Lord God—not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the Word of the Lord."—Hosea 4:6; Amos 8:11.

God never requires sacrifices. As our Creator, He has a right to make such demands of us as He will, and we would be obligated to obey. But such obedience could not be properly termed sacrifice. The word sacrifice signifies that which is voluntarily offered to God outside of any Divine requirement.

The sacrifices and offerings of the Jewish Law were privileges. By the offer of bullocks and goats the transgressions of the Israelites were covered year by year in advance, and thus they were permitted to have a continued standing with God. But our text tells us that the sacrifices were not wholly satisfactory to the Lord. They were merely typical of "better sacrifices," and were acceptable only as types.

St. Paul is quoting from the fortieth Psalm (V. 6-8). Through the Prophet David the Lord declared that the sacrifices of the Law, which could never really cancel sin, were not fully to His pleasement. Christ is here represented as taking note of the fact that the typical sacrifices of the Law could never take away sin, but that His own body had been especially provided as a Sin-offering. He had humbled Himself to take the human nature. The object of all this was to provide the better Sacrifice necessary for the redemption of Adam and his race.

Further, we read of the Master's consecration, when He was thirty years of age. His sacrificial sentiments are expressed in the words, "Then said I, Lo I come to do Thy will, O God, as in the volume of the Book it is written of Me." Everything that the Father had caused to be written, in the Law and the Prophets, respecting the penalty of sin and the bearing of that penalty by a Saviour and Sin-bearer, Jesus pledged Himself to carry out.

We should not overlook the fact that the typical Atonement Day sacrifices were plural, and that the Apostle speaks of the antitypes in the plural—"better sacrifices" than those offered under the Law. Here we find again the lesson elsewhere set forth; namely, that it had been from the beginning the Divine purpose that our Lord and Redeemer should have followers, members, who would pass through similar experiences to His own, of suffering, trial, dying, and afterward be associated with Him in glory on the Heavenly plane, His joint-heirs in the Messianic Kingdom.

In harmony with this thought, Jesus is the High Priest of our order, or profession, and we are the under-priesthood now preparing, as He prepared, for the glorious work of the Age to come. Hence St. Peter styles these a Royal Priesthood, because of the combination of kingly power with priestly service. These are merely preparations for the grand work of Messiah during His Millennial Reign of righteousness for human uplift.

Divine Law, having sentenced Adam to death, and indirectly including his race, nevertheless purposed a deliverance through a Saviour. Neither Moses nor any other fallen man could make a real atonement for sin. Israel's Atonement Day sacrifices were merely foreshadows, or types. God could not accept the death of a bullock, of a goat, or both, as an offset to the penalty against Adam and his race. Such sacrifices were not acceptable.

The Law read, "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a man's life for a man's life." Hence a bullock and a goat could never be acceptable to God as a substitutionary sacrifice for Adam and those involved with him. But God prepared Jesus with such a body as would be acceptable; and He "offered up Himself" an acceptable Sacrifice. The Divine acceptance of it was signified doubly:

(1) At the time of His consecration at Jordan, by the impartation of the Holy Spirit; and

(2) By the resurrection of Jesus, born of the Spirit, as a completion of His acceptance to the Divine nature, glory and immortality.

Our Lord's was the acceptable Sacrifice, yet it was not all that God had forepictured, or typed. As there was an offering of a bullock, typifying the death of Jesus, so there was a subsequent offering of a goat, typifying the sacrifice of the Church. (Hebrews 13:11-13.) Christ's sacrifice, the bullock, was fat; the Church's sacrifice, the goat, is lean—fat representing love, loyalty, perfection.

The sacrifice of Jesus, the High Priest, continued during the three and a half years of His ministry, and ended with His death. Forty days after His resurrection He ascended on high, with still further dignity and honor added—the Divine nature. He then made application of the merit of His sacrifice on behalf of all who desire to become members of the Royal Priesthood.

Those in the upper room at Pentecost were the first to be begotten of the Holy Spirit and to become acceptable sacrifices. Since then, others have been received from every nation. Gradually the foreordained number of such sacrificers, or priests, has been reaching completion. We believe that the sacrifices will soon be consummated, and that very shortly the Body of Christ beyond the veil will be completed. Forthwith the Messianic Kingdom will be established for the blessing of the world.

The Divine plan for the world is the reverse of the plan for the Church. Christ and the Church sacrificed the human nature in their loyal devotion to God. Their great reward is the Heavenly nature and the Kingdom. The world will have no opportunity for sacrificing the flesh, but every opportunity for perfecting their flesh.

The Apostle's words, "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice," do not mean that God urges us to sacrifice, but that the Apostle, discerning the opportunity to become followers of Jesus and thus to become joint-heirs with Him in His Kingdom, urges fellow disciples to appreciate the wonderful privilege of self-sacrifice in God's service.

Other Scriptures show us that our acceptance as sacrificers is not on our own account, but through the merit of the Captain of our salvation. In the Ransom-price for the sin of the whole world, the sins of the Church were necessarily included; for they are by nature a part of the world. But instead of receiving their share of Christ's merit in Restitution with the remainder of the world during the Millennium, a special dispensation operates on their behalf, permitting their share of the coming blessings to be imputed to them instead of being actually given them.

This imputation is made only to such as profess a desire to walk in the footsteps of Jesus and to sacrifice earthly interests, and life itself, for the Heavenly. The imputation covers all their deficiencies, and permits them to be accepted as members of the Body of Christ for sacrifice, and also to be counted in as members of the New Creation, the spiritual Body of Christ. And for such as faithfully live up to their Covenant of Sacrifice, the Divine provision is glory, honor, immortality and jointheirship with the Redeemer Himself, whose work will be the uplift of humanity from sin and death, and the destruction of the incorrigible.

Few seem to realize that sacrificing is a privilege. We have seen that the sacrifices possible to the best of humanity would be unacceptable, because all are sinners—to a lesser or a greater degree. Hence all who desire now to come unto the Heavenly Father, by the narrow way of sacrifice, must first be justified through the merit of the great High Priest of our profession. Now we notice that some whose sacrifices, presented by our great High Priest, which have been accepted by God, eventually are rejected.

Indeed, this class is described in the Bible as a great multitude, in comparison to the faithful and acceptable sacrifices, who are styled the Little Flock. There is a reason for the rejection of such sacrifices; for there is no partiality with God. The reason is that only those who have the spirit, the zeal, of the Master, the High Priest, are acceptable to God.

The sacrificing of Jesus was done with delight—as we read, "I delight to do Thy will, O God!" A half-hearted sacrifice, or sacrificing grudgingly done, would not be pleasing to God. The cold unbeliever is more pleasing in the Lord's sight than the lukewarm believer. As we read, "I would that thou wert cold or hot. So then, because thou art lukewarm, I will spew thee out of My mouth." (Revelation 3:15, 16.) This principle holds in respect to all who make a consecration of themselves to God. If they are consumed with loving zeal in the Lord's service, then the "fat" offering rises as a sweet odor to the Lord. But a half-hearted service brings neither joy to the sacrificer nor pleasure to the Lord.

Nevertheless, in much mercy the Lord recognizes that these, even while failing to live up to their consecration vow, are not His enemies. They indeed love righteousness and hate iniquity, but not with a sufficiency of zeal to warrant their being accepted as members of the Bride class.

This does not signify eternal torment, or any other terrible future, for these brethren of insufficient zeal. It does mean, according to the Bible, a rejection from being members of the Bride class. The Lord even has a goodly portion for such, if they still love Him, still love the Truth, even though they be bounden by the fear of dying, and thus are held back from full presentation of their bodies daily as holy, living sacrifices in the Master's service.

Under different pictures the Lord shows us what will be the fate of those who have made the consecration vow, who claim loyalty to Him, and who yet cling to the world and to Babylon. Instead of getting the crown of glory, these are represented as getting a palm of victory. Instead of being counted worthy to escape certain troubles in the end of this Age, these will be obliged to pass through these troubles, and to suffer destruction of their flesh, which they failed to sacrifice.—Revelation 7:14-17.

Again, as the overcomers, the Little Flock, are symbolically styled the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, so those not found worthy of membership in the Bride class will, through great tribulations, be made worthy to be bridesmaids, described as "virgins," the Brides companions, who will follow her. (Psalm 45:14.) They will have a glorious share in the Kingdom work as servants in the Royal Family; but, by their fear to accomplish their sacrifices, they will lose the grand distinction designed only for those who shall be found copies of God's dear Son. Their sacrifices being disesteemed of the Lord, they will be brought to perfection on the spirit plane through the destruction of the flesh.

St. Paul pictures these when describing the work of this Gospel Age. He says that every man's work shall be tried so as by fire: for the Day that cometh shall declare it. He that buildeth with wood, hay and stubble shall have his work destroyed, but he that buildeth with the gold, silver and precious stones of the Divine promises will receive the great reward. The Apostle proceeds to say that nevertheless all who build upon the Rock, Christ Jesus, shall not be confounded; that, although the fire of that Day (the Time of Trouble with which this Age will close) will consume their unsatisfactory faith-structure of wood, hay and stubble, yet they themselves shall be saved so as by fire.—1 Corinthians 3:11-15.

In view of this Scripture we see a force in the Apostle's exhortation that the followers of Jesus should lay aside every weight and every besetting sin, and run with patience the race set before them. We see that while the whole world is to have a blessing from the Saviour by and by—a Restitution blessing—they cannot get it yet. We see that only those who come to Jesus and accept the Divine arrangement of the narrow way of the Gospel Age are begotten of the Holy Spirit. We see that even this is not enough, but that "A Heavenly race demands our zeal, And an immortal crown."

We see that to be a Christian, of the first class, means to be a most earnest and most zealous saint, who, like the Apostle Paul, can say, I count that all things earthly are but loss that I might win Christ—a membership in the Church, which is the Body of Christ. Ah, something very intense indeed is meant by a nomination for the position which God gives to the faithful few! It means the opening of a door of opportunity whereby these may, if they will, make their calling and their election sure to glory, honor and immortality, the Divine nature.—2 Peter 1:4.

LIFE ON THE PLANETS

Venus the Only One Habitable Says This Astronomer

Mr. Walter Maunder, the eminent British astronomer, has revived the speculation as to whether the heavenly bodies are inhabited or not by publishing some careful calculations as to their temperature. He shows that the sun's temperature is more than 5,000 centigrade while the moon, owing to its lack of atmosphere, is at night at about the temperature of liquid air. Mercury, who always turns one face to the sun, must be far hotter than anything of which we have any knowledge, while Mars must always be at below freezing point.

The more distant planets—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune—are so far away from the sun that they receive scarcely any heat from him, while they are still in a nearly incandescent condition and, according to Mr. Maunder, have probably no solid nucleus.

Venus, however, has a mean temperature of 60 degrees centigrade, and at the equator one of 96 degrees centigrade, so that, allowing for the difference in pressure, water should boil at its equator. This would send forth such vast quantities of steam that the clouds would cut off much of the sun's heat.

Mr. Maunder denies that any planet but Venus can be habitable, and as to Venus he reserves judgment. The sun, Mercury, and the distant planets would be too hot for life to exist permanently, while Mars and the moon would be too cold, leaving only Venus as a possibility.

White Pearl Divers

The statement of Captain Tidbeys, a pearler, of Broome, Western Australia, that the experiment of working luggers with white divers had been a failure, and that the majority of the divers brought out from England were either dead or paralysed, has been contradicted flatly by divers. With the exception of two, all were, they said, very much alive, and were at present at work in different parts of the State.

Rural Ragtime

The ancient custom of "horn dancing" took place at Abbots Bromley, Burton-on-Trent, when costumed dancers carrying reindeer horns which had been stored in the church for four centuries, and astride hobby-horses, went through the countryside to the strains of ragtime music. The dancers called on Lord Bagot at Blithfield, Rugeley, and were entertained by him.

Harmony vs. Discord

HARMONY in the arrangement of a piano salesroom plays an equally important role in the making of a sale as harmony in the instrument to be sold.

When the prospective customer is protected from discordant, jarring notes, and the general appearance of a show room is suggestive of luxury and refinement, the salesman's work is simplified.

To the average purchaser of a piano, the transaction is one of the utmost importance. Most people consider it an event in their lives. They are sensitive to the slightest incongruity in their surroundings when making the final decision, and many a sale has been lost through the mere presence of an unsightly packing case on the floor, which should have been stored elsewhere.

OTIS FENSOM FREIGHT ELEVATORS

The installation of an Otis-Fensom Freight Elevator enables the piano dealer to keep his selling space free from the intrusion of discordant influences. The upper floors may be used as store rooms and repair shops, while the danger of scratching or otherwise marring instruments is reduced to a minimum.

An Otis-Fensom Freight Elevator makes possible the use of the regular line shaft power, or, if line shaft power is not available, we can supply a single belt type of elevator with an independent motor. This, in view of the prevailing low rates for electric power, makes a most desirable and profitable investment.

Our free booklet, "Freight Elevators and Their Uses," will furnish the desired information relative to the advantages of an elevator in your line of business. Write for it TODAY. A PRINCE'S FRIENDS

Queen Mary Likes More Serious People Than Her Son Cares For

That a normal young man, even though a prince, should enjoy the companionship of lively people is very natural. It is equally certain that when the members of the young Prince's set were being carefully chosen by Queen Mary, the chief qualification demanded was not liveliness. Piety, respectability, general stability and worth are well represented in the friends chosen for the Prince, and if any frivolity is present it has cropped out as rather a surprise. It is said, for instance, that one of the earliest friends chosen for the Prince of Wales by his mother was Lord Carrington, who soon became the Prince's closest friend. Lord Carrington was a studious, sober-minded youth, but of late has exhibited tendencies toward levity and joyousness that while they are delightful to his Royal chum are a source of some uneasiness to Queen Mary. Other of the Prince's friends are a jolly rather than a pious lot. There is no intimation at all that they are more than "smart." They are not "fast," but probably are more frivolous than the Queen might desire. Her Majesty has shown more than a mother's anxiety over the friendships the Prince might form, and the company he might choose, and if his new friends are causing her some concern he is only doing what any normal, healthy-minded, clean young man would do, selecting the people he likes rather than the people his mother would like him to like.

DUKE'S PRIVATE ARMY

Every Man of Atholl's Regiment Can Speak Gaelic Fluently

The Duke of Atholl occupies the unique position of being the only one of the King's subjects who maintains an army of his own. By a special act of grace the late Queen Victoria, shortly after she ascended the throne, presented the Atholl Highlanders with regimental colors, and thus they were duly constituted an "army." The Duke himself is colonel of the "regiment," while his eldest son, the Marquess of Tullibardine, and his two brothers, Lord James and Lord George Stewart-Murray, are officers. Many of the leading gentlemen in Perthshire also hold rank. The men, numbering 250 strong, are drawn almost without exception from the vast estates of Atholl. They are sturdy, stalwart Highlanders, many of them standing 6 feet 4 inches high. Their regimental attire is the old fashioned blue coat with white sporran and Atholl tartan plaid and kilt. Formerly they were armed with axes, Highland claymores, swords, etc., but these weapons have now been replaced by the more modern equipment, although the skean-dhu—a short dagger which played a prominent part in early Scottish warfare—is still worn in the hose. The army, which is probably the only survival of the feudal times, when the chief of every clan was surrounded by a bodyguard of retainers, drills at stated periods in front of Blair Castle. Every man can speak the Gaelic tongue fluently, and they have a characteristically wild dance of their own known as the "Ram's Reel." Many of the Atholl Highlanders have long records of service, some of them having completed fifty years in the corps.

and a V-shaped cutting section bent down from it, with sharp edges on both ends. By pressing this tool along the edge of the turf the overhanging grass is trimmed neatly and a smooth little trench is cut between the grass and the edge of the walk, or whatever the border is. This is a great improvement over the usual straggly borders that mar the appearance of otherwise attractive suburban places.

So I lent my ear to an agent's spiel

But the car soon shook this into my brain:

I sought to make a political deal.
Its benefits could be plainly seen.
The boss of my district made me feel

The methods aren't always exactly clean.

And charge of my bank account she takes!

In Borneo winged creatures are encountered where one would least expect them. Flying fish the size of herrings are found in all the waters, and there is the flying fox, the well known fruit eating bat, which the Malays call "kruang." They may be seen almost any evening winging their steady flight often at a great elevation well out of range of a shotgun. The flying squirrels at evening twilight comes are also seen. They glide down from one lofty tree to the base of another, up which they scramble to the level they started from. Wide expansions of skin between the fore and hind limbs act in parachute fashion and sustain them in their glide. They are of some size, but are quite harmless. The flying lizard is seen in the heat of the day in the jungle, gliding down with a flash in much the same manner as the squirrel. But he is much smaller and it requires a quick eye to detect him. The natives kill him with a clay ball shot from their blowpipes.—North Borneo Herald.

Spiders That Hunt Fish.

There are certain large sea spiders two feet from one to toe, called Colossendeis gigas, that live in the water and feed entirely upon mollusks and worms.

The carnivorous wolf spider, an amphibious inhabitant of the tropical regions of South America, is said to prefer a fish diet, though it is not averse to eating mice, young birds and even snakes, resembling in this respect the theraphosidae, or bird catching spiders, of India and Queensland, some of which equal a cat in size.

The colossendeis is the most formidable specimen of the spider family, measuring six inches around the body and possessing twelve long, hairy legs, with which it grips its finny prey. It attacks fish several times larger than itself and after biting them through the back and stinging them to death gluts itself by sucking the juices from the bodies of its victims.

Enterprise.

A well known business establishment recently sent out a circular to the trade with which it has dealings announcing the death of the head of the firm. To the astonishment of the firm, there was received from a printing house the following reply to the circular:

"Gentlemen—It is with deep regret that we learn by your circular of recent date of the great loss sustained by your firm, and we respectfully beg to express our heartfelt sympathy.

"In this connection we observe that your circular is printed by Messrs. Blank & Co. We feel confident that had you placed this order with us we could have quoted you cheaper and better terms than any other firm; consequently in the deplorable event of a future bereavement we trust that you will afford us an opportunity to make you an offer in this regard."—Exchange.

WITH THE SOCKEYES

An Irristible Lure to the People on the Coast

A rare and beautiful spectacle, seen once a year in coast towns like Vancouver, is that of the myriad of fishing boats which dot the fresh and salt waters. It is at night when the beacon lights of these cities of boats beckon from across the waves that the interested observer gets anything like an adequate conception of the number of those who hearken annually to the call of the sockeye which has since time immemorial proved an irresistible lure to the dwellers of the Pacific. These temporary boat cities claim an interesting variety of citizens for their floating population, from the man who is out for the mere sport of it to the cannery representative on business intent. It is an occasion when all nationalities are at one in a common interest, and the white man, the Japanese and the Indian sink their tribal differences at Neptune's altar. Along the shores of civilized and populated districts the salmon-nets are the chief ammunition of warfare and the sibilant, syphon-like sounds emanating from the wooden buttons which buoy them up from the boats possess a weird fascinating music unlike any other sound existent, and which invariably associates them with salmon hunting in the Pacific. In the wilds up the Fraser the Indian may be seen fishing in a more primitive manner with his home-made dip-net. But he is none the less skilful for that, and one might think that he is in league with the sockeye, so thoroughly is he versed in the secret of their ways and so successfully does he capture them. He is the most picturesque of all the fishermen and the unconscious harmony of his rhythmic movement as he raises and lowers his awkward dip-net from some precarious niche of the canyon walls fits him with the picture as perfectly as the jackpine under whose shadow he works.

THE FARM WOODLOT

Free Expert Advice Obtainable on the Subject of Proper Care

With the increasing inaccessibility of the forests and the consequent high price of wood, the small wooded areas common on the farms of Canada are also increasing in economic value. They frequently occupy soils unfitted for agriculture and with a little care can be made to furnish the farmer with a continuous revenue in fuel, fence posts, rails, poles and structural timber.

Unfortunately these woodlots are frequently allowed to deteriorate through carelessness or lack of knowledge on the part of the farmer. He takes great care to farm his agricultural lands to the best advantage, but often fails to realize that by farming his woodlot with the same care, he could get the same increase in productiveness. Cattle and woods are not permitted in a wheat-field, yet in the woodlot the cattle range at will, and instead of removing the weed-trees the farmer allows these to increase in number, removing only the trees best suited to his purpose.

To save the farmer from himself, the Dominion Government appointed a technical forester with head-quarters at the Forestry Branch, Ottawa, whose principal duty is to answer all inquiries, and give free advice on these matters. If necessary, arrangements can be made for a personal inspection of woodland properties by this expert. No conditions are imposed on the owner of the woodland, it being assumed that he who is anxious for advice will accept it when given. The expert looks over the stand, determines what species of trees are best suited to the soil and to the local market, shows how to improve the character of the crop and its rate of growth by proper thinnings, and, if desired, gives advice regarding tree-planting, hardwood-coppicing, felling-methods and the most profitable sizes to be grown.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

OLD BRINDLE

There it was flat and plain.

"Mamma told me yesterday that if I did not discourage you she would speak to you herself."

"But what can she have against me?"

"She says she's going to take me abroad next year and have some lord or duke fall in love with me. Oh, Will, I wish mother wasn't — wasn't such a goose!"

"And you'll give me up to marry a title?"

"N—o, and yet I must do as mother says, mustn't I? If you only go and do something heroic. Can't you save mother's life in some way? Can't some great danger threaten her and you rescue her?"

Will Pelham had known Glynn Burnham for a year or more, and he had been engaged to her for the last three months, trough it was a secret engagement.

He lived in the city and had graduated as a mining engineer and was looking for a place. He had no money to speak of, but those who knew him spoke in his praise. He had an uncle living near the widow's country house, fifteen miles out, and he had been coming down to see that uncle every Saturday afternoon, and finding his way over to the other house.

The mother had never had a very warm welcome for him. Now she had put her foot down. She wanted a rich titled son-in-law. He must not call at the house any more. If Glynn wouldn't elope with him he must give her up. While he was holding down a place in Montana or Nevada, a thousand miles away, she would be taken off to Europe to captivate some old man with a title and the gout.

Miss Glynn was tearful, and he was sad at the parting, though neither looked at it as final. It was too sudden. Two human hearts cannot be parted that way. They must have time to get accustomed to the separation.

On his way over to his uncle's young Mr. Pelham noticed the proud and ambitious mother in the meadow culling daisies. She had gone forth to give the daughter an opportunity to repeat her words.

Forty rods further along the highway he noticed a brindle cow looking over the fence at the widow and shaking her head and giving other signs of anger.

Only a civil or mining engineer, whose profession it is to surmount all difficulties whether above or below the surface, would have stopped for five minutes to wonder how to bring that brindle cow and that ambitious woman together. He looked at the woman as she culled, at the cow as she mumbled, as the solitary tree in the pasture, and he decided that it could be done.

He went home to ask of his uncle.

"Who owns that old brindle cow over there?"

"Why, Grigson does. I meant to tell you about her. Don't try to cross that field. She's pretty near killed two tramps this summer."

That was enough for a starter, and Will sat down to figure the rest out to scale. This would be an above ground affair, but there would be some points to solve.

For instance: How fast can a brindle cow run? How much faster than a brindle cow can a young man in love run? What are the first impressions of an ambitious mother at seeing a brindle cow coming for her in an open lot? Would her second impression bid her climb the tree within a few yards of her? Can a young man in love run around the trunk of a tree faster than a brindle cow not in love?

All these things entered into the engineering problem before the young man, but he had a week to work at them before coming again, and there was a hopeful smile on his face.

He knew by letter what had happened after he left the house. The mother had come in with her bouquet of daisies and said:

"I saw that person passing along the road half an hour ago."

"Yes, mamma."

"You told him what I asked you to?"

"Yes."

"And he knows my feelings on the subject?"

"Then we may consider the matter as settled. In reading the daily papers after this, if you come across any titled persons mentioned cut out the piece and save it. I am glad you have acted so sensibly about the thing. Every girl's mother knows what is best for her."

Miss Glynn was not weeping and she was not smiling. She was wondering how good a mining engineer Will Pelham was.

A week later and he was on his mettle. He was looking over the fence, throwing clubs at that brindle cow to stir her up. She was easily stirred. Mrs. Burnham was in the daisy field again, and the old bovine considered it a personal affront.

After a few moments the cow was engineered away from the fence and the rails thrown down. Then the engineer started for the tree, 30 rods away. H began to shout, at the same time, to the daisy gatherer:

"To the tree! To the tree! Swing yourself up into the tree!"

The first impression of the widow was to run. The second was to skip for tre tree. Could she climb? She could. It is plebian for a woman to climb the tree, but she seized a low-hanging branch and went up like a coon before a dog.

That brindle cow coming on the dead run, and gaining on the engineer at every jump, looked bigger than any title in Europe, just then.

Will Pelham could run. In running with a bride as the prize he could make a locomotive look tired. He reached the tree seven feet six inches ahead of the old brindle.

H hadn't planned to climb the tree. No heroics can take place up a tree. He sheltered himself behind the trunk, and the brindle cow passed it by an inch and drove on with a bellow.

"Oh-h-h, Mr. Pelham!" from up the tree.

"We shall both be killed!"

"I suspect that we shall, but I'll die—"

There was no time to add the word "game." The cow was coming back like a freight train on a down grade, and the engineer had to sidestep again. The bellows of rage as the target was missed would have done credit to a fog horn.

"Mr. Pelham, she will surely kill you, and then climb the tree and kill me!"

"I—can dodge her a little longer."

"My shoulder, you know—I can't climb. Hang on for your life—she's coming again!"

That brindle cow had sand. She had perseverance. She had ambition. She charged again and again. She hooked and bunted the tree and brought down screams and prayers. She kept the engineer dodging like a cat on a hot stove, and it was a long half-hour before she tired out.

"I can not die! Save me! Save me!" came down the branches for the tenth time.

"I will!" was repeated for the same number.

And it was done. Mr. Pelham left the shelter of the tree and made a dash for a piece of fence rail fifty feet away and got it. Then he went for brindle. She bluffed, but he hammered her horns and nose and spinal column and hind quarters, and he ran her back into her pasture a sadder and wiser farmer's friend.

He turned to see a crumpled woman lying at the foot of the tree. He advanced to find that it was Mrs. Burnham, and that she wanted to take his arm and go home.

They didn't say much during the walk. It was when they reached the verandah and the waiting, wondering Glynn that the quavering voice of her mother said:

"Glynn, this isn't a person—it's Mr. Pelham, and if you want to tell him that we've given up our European trip you can do so. Be sure to ask him to stay to dinner. How grand! How noble! How courageous!"

ROAD MAINTENANCE

Various Suggestions as to Distributing the Cost of Good Roads

With the appointment of the three highway commissioners by the Ontario Government come various opinions and recommendations regarding the good roads movement throughout the province. In the hope of getting suggestions the secretary of Ontario good roads communicated with the reeves of various townships scattered about the province, and the result was a decided tendency to ask more money from the government. The most common recommendation is that the government pay one-half the cost of good roads construction, instead of one-third, as provided under the Highways Act. A second common demand is that motorists be compelled to pay more towards the roads they help to destroy. Complaints are made that motors wear roads out faster than the townships can afford to keep them repaired, and that it is the motor and not the horse vehicle, which does the bulk of the damage. This seems to be particularly the case in townships lying close to the larger cities. Force motors to pay a high tax, proportionate to weight of the car, is the suggestion. From one county comes the recommendation that the roads leading from large centers of population, bear the full cost, and hold this out as an incentive to the more remote districts. Some districts are not inclined to favor the movement entirely, stating that more progress will have to be made at less cost, or the system will rapidly become unpopular among the people who are now paying the bills. The government, however, might absorb a good share of that cost. The suggestion of a frontage tax comes from another county. It is a recognized thing that improved roads increase the value of adjoining farms and the recommendation is that these farmers help pay for the roads in larger pecentage than those whose farms are benefitted less.

Don't Look Old Before Your Time

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

That backache, so common among women, brings with it the sunken chest, the headache, tired muscles, crow's-feet, and soon the youthful body is no more youthful in appearance—and all because of lack of attention.

There is no reason why you should be so unfortunate, when you have at your disposal a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—recommended for over 40 years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. We have thousands upon thousands of testimonials on file—the accumulation of 40 years—testifying to its effectiveness. Neither narcotics nor alcohol are to be found in this famous prescription. Regulates irregularities. Corrects displacements. Overcomes painful periods. Tones up nerves. Brings about perfect health. Sold by dealers in medicines, in liquid or tablet form.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers loads of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Three Mighty Forces Close Linked

Have you ever noted how an audience yawns in the face of an uninspired speaker?

On the other hand, have you noted how an audience will lean forward and grasp the chair arms when the speaker reveals enthusiasm?

Enthusiasm is the buoyant expression of truth. To impart belief in anything, a man must believe it deeply himself. We call such a man an enthusiast.

This applies to the written word also — particularly to advertisements. When the manufacturer really believes in his wares, his enthusiasm will almost inevitably find expression in Advertising. And enthusiasm will be contagious—his audience—the readers of the newspaper—will, figuratively speaking, "lean forward and listen intently."

To be convincing an advertisement must convey an unmistakable impression of enthusiasm. This it will only do when the article advertised has inherent worth.

Thus we have:

Sincerity -- Enthusiasm -- Advertising:

Three mighty forces, close-linked.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

London's Water Storage

The Metropolitan Water Board of London has under its control subsidence and storage reservoirs of a capacity of some 15,000,000,000 gallons. The normal consumption of the 7,000,000 persons in the Board's area of supply is rather more than 200,000,000 gallons per day, so that, were all the reservoirs full, the usual daily allowance could be provided from them alone for nearly eleven weeks. As a rule, at any time the Board has in storage sufficient water for a full forty days' supply, which would permit every man, woman and child during that period to be supplied daily with over thirty gallons of water.

Shooting Oil Wells

Keen interest is being taken in the development of the Manitoulin oil fields by Senator Poirer and representatives from all the chief centres on the island assembled at Green Bay to witness the shooting of some of the wells. E. A. Stokes, of Petrolea, was on hand, and a fuse was lighted, and a sharp shock was felt and the earth trembled, from the mouth of the pipe a greyish liquid shot into the air to a height of about eighty feet and fell gracefully to the ground. This was followed immediately by a second gush of a watery liquid which ascended to a height of about a hundred feet. About fifteen quarts of nitro-glycerine were used in shooting the well.

Three Mighty Forces Close Linked

Have you ever noted how an audience yawns in the face of an uninspired speaker?

On the other hand, have you noted how an audience will lean forward and grasp the chair arms when the speaker reveals enthusiasm?

Enthusiasm is the buoyant expression of truth. To impart belief in anything, a man must believe it deeply himself. We call such a man an enthusiast.

This applies to the written word also — particularly to advertisements. When the manufacturer really believes in his wares, his enthusiasm will almost inevitably find expression in Advertising. And enthusiasm will be contagious — his audience — the readers of the newspaper — will, figuratively speaking, "lean forward and listen intently."

To be convincing an advertisement must convey an unmistakable impression of enthusiasm. This it will only do when the article advertised has inherent worth.

Thus we have:

Sincerity -- Enthusiasm -- Advertising:

Three mighty forces, close-linked.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

ROAD MAINTENANCE

Various Suggestions as to Distributing the Cost of Good Roads

With the appointment of the three highway commissioners by the Ontario Government come various opinions and recommendations regarding the good roads movement throughout the province. In the hope of getting suggestions the secretary of Ontario good roads communicated with the reeves of various townships scattered about the province, and the result was a decided tendency to ask more money from the government. The most common recommendation is that the government pay one-half the cost of good roads construction, instead of one-third, as provided under the Highways Act. A second common demand is that motorists be compelled to pay more towards the roads they help to destroy. Complaints are made that motors wear roads out faster than the townships can afford to keep them repaired, and that it is the motor and not the horse vehicle, which does the bulk of the damage. This seems to be particularly the case in townships lying close to the larger cities. Force motors to pay a high tax, proportionate to weight of the car, is the suggestion. From one county comes the recommendation that the roads leading from large centers of population, bear the full cost, and hold this out as an incentive to the more remote districts. Some districts are not inclined to favor the movement entirely, stating that more progress will have to be made at less cost, or the system will rapidly become unpopular among the people who are now paying the bills. The government, however, might absorb a good share of that cost. The suggestion of a frontage tax comes from another county. It is a recognized thing that improved roads increase the value of adjoining farms and the recommendation is that these farmers help pay for the roads in larger pecentage than those whose farms are benefitted less.

Don't Look Old Before Your Time

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

That backache, so common among women, brings with it the sunken chest, the headache, tired muscles, crow's-feet, and soon the youthful body is no more youthful in appearance—and all because of lack of attention.

There is no reason why you should be so unfortunate, when you have at your disposal a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—recommended for over 40 years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. We have thousands upon thousands of testimonials on file—the accumulation of 40 years—testifying to its effectiveness. Neither narcotics nor alcohol are to be found in this famous prescription. Regulates irregularities. Corrects displacements. Overcomes painful periods. Tones up nerves. Brings about perfect health. Sold by dealers in medicines, in liquid or tablet form.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

London's Water Storage

The Metropolitan Water Board of London has under its control subsidence and storage reservoirs of a capacity of some 15,000,000,000 gallons. The normal consumption of the 7,000,000 persons in the Board's area of supply is rather more than 200,000,000 gallons per day, so that, were all the reservoirs full, the usual daily allowance could be provided from them alone for nearly eleven weeks. As a rule, at any time the Board has in storage sufficient water for a full forty days' supply, which would permit every man, woman and child during that period to be supplied daily with over thirty gallons of water.

Shooting Oil Wells

Keen interest is being taken in the development of the Manitoulin oil fields by Senator Poirer and representatives from all the chief centres on the island assembled at Green Bay to witness the shooting of some of the wells. E. A. Stokes, of Petrolea, was on hand, and a fuse was lighted, and a sharp shock was felt and the earth trembled, from the mouth of the pipe a greyish liquid shot into the air to a height of about eighty feet and fell gracefully to the ground. This was followed immediately by a second gush of a watery liquid which ascended to a height of about a hundred feet. About fifteen quarts of nitro-glycerine were used in shooting the well.

We see much of the idle poor, but where are the idle rich whom men talk about?

LIONS CAUSE PANIC.

Escaped Menagerie Animals Wander Through German City.

LEIPSIC, Germany, Oct. 21.—Five lions belonging to an American circus obtained their freedom in the streets of Leipsic Sunday night owing to a collision between a street car and their cars while it was on the way to the railroad station, after a performance. The cage was torn open by the shock, and the appearance of the wild animals in the centre of the city created a panic among the thousands of people here to attend the celebration of the centennial of the "Battle of the Nations."

One of the lions entered an hotel, rushed upstairs and proceeded along the corridors, driving the visitors before it into their rooms.

It was sometime before policemen arrived and shot the animal. The other four also were shot and killed in various parts of the city. Nobody was attacked by the lions.

Twenty-Two Were Killed.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 21.—Victims of Sunday's troop train wreck on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad at Buckatunna, Miss., were brought to Mobile early yesterday on relief trains. The list of known dead at eight o'clock was twenty-two, most of whom are members of the 17th Coast Artillery.

There were 74 seriously injured soldiers in Mobile hospitals, while a number of the less seriously hurt were taken to the Government Hospital at Fort Morgan.

Flights Countermanded.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 21.—Because of the disaster to the Zeppelin dirigible balloon, the Minister of War has countermanded all the proposed ascents of the military dirigibles, Zodiac and Belgique for this year.

He has also decided to suspend, and probably will abandon altogether the intended purchase of a new dirigible of the German rigid type.

SUNDAY MOVIES UPHELD.

Alberta Court Sustains Appeal From Fine of Lesser Tribunal.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 21.—Operation of moving picture theatres on Sundays, by placing collection plates at the doors, in lieu of selling regular admission tickets is not in violation, directly or indirectly, of the Lord's Day Act in Alberta, according to a majority judgment just handed down by the Supreme Court of the province sitting in Edmonton.

The ruling followed certiorari proceedings in the case of Grant Churchill, an American, who with three other theatre-owners in Edmonton, was fined $40 and costs by Inspector Raven in the municipal court on the charge of opening their houses on Sunday.

The ruling touched numerous points, one being that the fiat was not issued by the Attorney-General of the province, though he was in Alberta at the time. L. F. Clarry, Deputy Attorney-General, intimates that the cases will not be appeal to a higher court, but that another line may be adopted by the crown to enforce the law.

EPINAL, France, Oct. 21.—Lieut. Carnier and Sapper Janrot of the Epinal Military Aeroplane depot, were returning from Buc yesterday, when the engine of their monoplane stopped suddenly. The machine capsised and the aviators, falling from a height of 300 feet, were killed.

About the same time Corpl. Aviator Dautreche of the same depot, while making a flight near the depot, met with an almost similar accident. The engine of his machine became detached and the biplane turned over and fell into the River Moselle. Dautreche was drowned.

Clairvoyant Says He Netted Half a Million From Clients.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The confession of William R. Russell, an aged clairvoyant, who admits he has swindled clients out of half a million dollars, was made public Sunday night by States Attorney Hoyne. In it Russell reveals the regulation rates for operating with police protection, and names many detectives and a "go-between" to whom he said he paid thousands of dollars.

Russell asserted that he understood this money was to go to the state attorney's office and to high police officers.

Russell, who was arrested Friday at Columbus, Ohio, where he was known as Prof. Barr, said he has been a clairvoyant for fifteen of his sixty-five years, and in that time extracted $[illegible] from his victims in many cities. Advising them to invest in fraudulent stocks was his favorite method, he said.

He has been indicted here on charges of operating a confidence game.

MAY END TRIAL.

Kiev Ritual Murder Case Likely To Be Suspended.

LONDON, Oct. 21—The Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent says that there is ground for stating that the Minister of Justice intends to intervene in the Kiev "ritual murder" trial. He will order the case suspended, a further hearing to take place only after a strict inquiry is made into all the circumstances connected with the affair.

The St. Petersburg Gazette has published a sensational statement relative to the Kiev case, and reports that one of the convicts of the Lodge prison, named Bagnuiern, serving a term of twelve years of penal servitude, to which he was sentenced in Kiev, has declared to fellow-prisoners that he murdered the boy, Yushinsky, with the aid of accomplices. They were paid for doing so. The Gazette adds that the confession should be taken with reserve. An inquiry, however, has been ordered, which may throw light on the case.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved, at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 13 Strange Street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Snow Descends In Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21. — A light fall of snow was recorded yesterday morning in eastern and southern Kentucky. Trenton reported a fall of two inches, and in several other places the ground was covered with one inch or more. The earliest fall of snow previously recorded in this state was Oct. 27, nearly fifty years ago. There was a rapid fall in temperature last night, and freezing weather generally over the state is forecast for to-day. Snow began falling in Louisville last night.

HUMILIATED WOMAN

Would Not Attend Social Functions Because of Her Hair

There are many women in this world, handsome in features, perfect in form, graceful of movement and brilliant of mind, who keep in the background just because they have thin, colourless and lustreless hair.

In Paris they understand things about the hair that we do not know in this country. It was a Parisian, Dr. Sangerbond, who discovered that thin hair and dandruff are caused by a microbe.

It is Parisian Sage that proves Dr. Sangerbond's theory to be correct, for it is rigidly guaranteed to kill the dandruff germ and cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Parisian Sage is a delightfully pleasant hair dressing and invigorator; it is not stick or greasy. It should be used freely in Spring and Summer as it keeps the scalp clean and cool and free from odours.

Parisian Sage comes in large 50-cent bottles and is for sale by the Warne Drug Co. and leading druggists everywhere on the money-back plan. "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package. Made in Canada by The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES DARK, THICK, GLOSSY

Try Grandmother's Old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

KNIGHTS OF THE GARTER

Members of Famous Order Wear Costly Insignia

The Order of the Garter is the rarest title that can be conferred by the King of England, about one-third of the Knights at the present time being reigning Kings or Emperors. Excluding Royalty, there are twenty-five Knights of the Garter, although it has been customary from time to time to appoint "extra knights."

The admission of a new Knight of the Garter is one of the most gorgeous ceremonials in the world, the banners being hung in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, where, according to the original constitution of the Order, Knights assembled yearly on the eve of St. George. The insignia are very costly, the gold collar, made in twenty-six pieces, weighing 30 ounces. The famous Garter itself is a band of blue velvet an inch broad, heavily encrusted with gold, and bearing the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense" ("Evil be to him who evil thinks"), in letters of solid gold.

The Garter alone is valued at $7,000. In some cases they are heavily jewelled. Charles I. wore a Garter with a blazing array of 412 diamonds, while the Czar's Garter, made of the purest white diamonds, is reputed to be worth $50,000. The family of a Knight of the Garter is allowed to retain possession of the banner hung over his stall in St. George's Chapel, but the whole of the remainder of the insignia has to be surrendered to the Sovereign at death.

NON-DRINKING SHEEP

Apparently Thrive Without Water Except Dew and Plant Juice

Sheep on the Nebo national forest range, Utah, go four and a half months without water except for such moisture as they get from the dew and the juices of forage plants.

Grazing sheep on a range entirely destitute of water is a recent innovation due to the increasing demand for forage and the efforts of the forestry officers to find a place on the forest ranges for all the stock that can safely be admitted. The area on the Nebo which has proved usable by sheep is high and rocky, a portion of it being above timber line, and it has neither springs nor streams of sufficient size or accessibility to be used for stock watering purposes. The grazing season lasts from June 15 to October 31, and during this period of four and a half months the animals do not get a drink.

Under such conditions, however, the sheep do extremely well, and the bands from this range have an average weight at the close of the season of 65 pounds on the Chicago market, which is rather above the normal weight from that vicinity.

In one area on the Targhee forest in Idaho sheep get water only twice during the four-months' summer grazing season. There is no water on the range, but the sheep are driven to a nearby stream lower down the mountain side.

TIPPING A KING

Peasant Woman Did Not Know Who Did Her a Service

King George of Greece was once waiting upon the platform of a country station near Aix. A train arrived. Suddenly a cheerful voice called to him, "Hi! Sir, will you give me a hand here?" The voice belonged to a great, red-faced farmer's wife, who was struggling to open the carriage door of the fourth-class compartment. The king stepped forward and turned the handle with a vigorous twist of the wrist; and the farmer's wife fell into his arms at the same time asking, "Will you lift down that basket and box for me?" Without more ado the King did what he was asked, and carried basket and box to the waiting-room. Meanwhile his suite, who had gone off to find a kiosk and buy newspapers, returned to find the king quarreling with the peasant woman over a tip which he had refused. King George of Greece thus simply obtained a popularity at Aix which he only gained in the last year of his life in his own country.

GERMANS CAPTURED.

Mexican Rebels Use Them as Club to Check Federals.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21. — The holding of 43 Germans at Torreon by Gen. Francisco Villa as hostages against an attack by the Federal forces has aroused the German Government to make strong demands upon the Mexican Foreign Office to insure their safety.

Gen. Villa permitted the Americans to depart from Torreon, but held the Germans, about the same number of French residents, ten or twelve Britishers and several Spaniards, declaring that his purpose was to use them as a foil to deter the federals form attacking the city. He also let it be known, according to advices here, that they would be sacrificed unless the effort to retake Torreon was abandoned.

What action the Foreign Office proposes to take has not yet been determined.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The Figaro, according to an article published yesterday morning, has received information that a group of Mexican statesmen, whose names are not disclosed, have approached the French and British Governments, calling attention to the resulting advantages if the United States was not the sole power directly interested in Mexican affairs.

The Figaro says: "The group suggested particularly that prudently directed action would increase French and English prestige in Mexico and establish a precedent in conformity with justice and international law.

"Intervention," adds the paper, "would be justified because of France's and Great Britain's large Mexican interests."

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone

If you are bothered with headache, or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon.

It is a positive fact that Croxone promptly overcomes such diseases.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate lining of the bladder.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate, long standing cases.

You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time.

FORMER LOCAL MAN MISSING AT THE FALLS

James Bogue Nephew of Local Contractor Disappears From His Hotel Two Weeks Ago and Has Not Been Seen Since.

WELL KNOWN HERE

The many friends here of the young man were shocked yesterday at the press reports which stated that James Bogue, nephew of Mr. James Bogue, of Peterborough, was missing at Niagara Falls. He lived here for several years and made a host of friends among the young people of the City.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Oct. 19.—James Bogue, registered at the Empire Hotel, Oct. 8, at 10 p.m., as from London, Ont., and left on the morning of the 10th, without paying his bill or taking his suitcase. The hotel people called the police yesterday and opened the suitcase, which among other things contained two unstamped letters, one to John Pringle and one to H. P. Widdowson, both of London. The former says, "Am sorry to have to deceive you. I lost 300 dollars in July. Someone came in for American money. I gave him the money, but did not get any from him. I. V. P. pay car 50 dollars to some American 300. Soon I lost two more 20 dollars. I started to tell you the day I found it out, but put it off. When I went so far, could not. I am sorry. Yours, J. Bogue."

The letter to Widdowson says: "I have not had an hour's sleep since Monday. Have an awful pain in my head, and my heart does not seem to work right. It is like so much weight at my side. I want to tell you so much, but I can't hold my pen, and my eyes are nearly blinded. So farewell, a fond good-bye, Jim."

In the suitcase was a suit of clothes, in the pockets of which was $3.78.

To this the London Advertiser adds: Bogue was moved to this city from Burford some time ago. He has been in the employ of the Bank of Toronto for about seven years, having joined the staff at Peterborough, where he has an uncle, the only relative in this country.

He was well known and popular in this city, being a golf and tennis enthusiast.

For some time he boarded at a house on Dundas street, near Colborne, but removed from there a short time ago to a house on Talbot street.

Not in Trouble.

Mr. John Pringle, manager of the Bank of Toronto, said he had heard nothing outside of the press dispatches about Bogue being missing from his hotel in Niagara Falls.

"He was not in any trouble with the bank," said Mr. Pringle to The Advertiser. "He left two weeks ago for his annual vacation, and as his time is up on Tuesday morning I expect him back then."

The reference in one of the letters found in the suitcase to the pay car, is explained by one of the bank employees as a slight mistake which Bogue made some time ago, but which was rectified at the time.

The H. P. Widdowson referred to in the other letter, is a member of the Bank of Toronto staff in this city and resides on Maitland street. He has been out of the city since Saturday and could not be located.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 21.—Further inquiry into the disappearance of James Bogue, who left the Empire Hotel October 10, leaving his baggage there, tends to the belief that the man has ended his life in the river. Sunday, J. Tobey, a representative of the London, Ont., branch of the Bank of Toronto, arrived here from London to make an investigation. He said that Mr. Bogue was one of the trusted employees of the bank, and that nothing was wrong with his accounts.

He said that on several occasions, however, Bogue had talked of suicide and they fear his mind gave way under the strain of his work. He has relatives in Peterborough, Ont., and they have been notified. The effects left at the hotel have been turned over to the London authorities.

Bogue was 28 years old and evidently of good character. He left the bank on his vacation October 8, and the first intimation of trouble was when a letter was received by the vice-president which indicated that Bogue's mind was disordered.

WHAT BECOMES OF THE MILLIONS OF INFANTS THAT DIE?

The Salvation of Infants Was the Subject of the Morning Exposition To-day

AT BAPTIST CONVENTION

This morning's exposition at the Baptist convention was given by Rev. Prof. Thos. Trotter, D.D., L.L.D., who spoke of the "Doctrine of the Salvation of Infants." The subject was presented in the form of a paper rather than an address. He spoke of the fact that one-third of the human family dies in infancy. What becomes of the countless millions of these little ones. The question is one of vast importance and interest.

What content may properly be put upon the word "salvation" when we speak of the salvation of infants? The salvation of a believer is one thing of an infant another. The child who dies in infancy has not come to conscious moral choice. The first appeal respecting this doctrine is to the Scriptures, but they say little about the salvation of infants. The general tenor of the acts and works of Jesus gives us bright hopes. How God feels towards the little ones lead us to ground inference upon the words of Jesus and these inferences are broad and ample. What participation have the infants in the future life? They have had no conscious moral life. Have they any participation in the work of Christ for sinners? The dignity and possibilities of immortality seem to belong to the infant, according to the implications and silences of the Scriptures.

Is There a Need?

But has the infant the need of God's salvation? There is unquestionably a Biblical doctrine of the solidarity of the race. The Professor believes that the entire body and soul of the child is received from the parents, and thus the individual is the child of the race. Moral evil has corrupted the whole stream of humanity. Sin is not only personal but social. There is a kingdom of sin upon earth, and the infant is part of the sinful race.

In what sense and in what degree is the infant involved in the sin of the race? Has he a share in the sin of the first sinner? Or has he only a tainted nature? Dr. Strong and Dr. Clark, two of the foremost Baptist theologians, are at variance on this question, yet both believe that the work of Christ is sufficient for the salvation of infants. The holy fatherhood of God, the infinite worth of Christ's death, the unspeakable grace of the Holy Spirit give grounds for belief in the salvation of infants to eternal life.

How does salvation come to be realized by these infants' souls? They are undeveloped souls. Shall we think of them as remaining undeveloped? In the future life there seems to be moral progress and development for the child. There will likely be the awakening of moral consciousness in heaven and the child will develop naturally, a strong, noble and holy manhood or womanhood.

What means does God employ for the development of the child's soul? There we are landed in mystery. But God must have work for the child as He has for the adult, which will aid in his development.

The address was a beautiful, tender and comforting message.

Rev. B. W. Merrill, B.A., voiced the appreciation of those who had lost their little ones by death.

BLIZZARD DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Middle-West States and Rainy River District of Ontario are Swept by Severe Storms Causing Loss of Seven or Eight Lives

TWO INCHES OF SNOW

Examiner Special:

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A severe blizzard, which swept the Middle West States and the Rainy River District of Ontario, yesterday, made traffic on Lake Michigan, Lake Superior, and Upper Lake Huron very hazardous and cost at least seven or eight lives, as reported to date. Vessels are tied up in several ports of Lake Michigan fearing to brave the blasts of the terrific gale on the Lakes.

Fort William reports heavy gales and snow, but no damage to shipping so far as known. Four hunters have been drowned in the wilds of Northern Michigan, when their skiffs capsized in the storm. Two settlers in Minnesota, near the Ontario border, were found dead from exposure. There are rumours of heavy damage to the Canadian shipping on Rainy River, but the wires are down and nothing can be confirmed in this City. There are two inches of snow and a very cold wind is blowing.

Baptist Budget Boosted 25 Per Cent For Year

Convention Finance Committee Places it at $225,000 for the Coming Year

LAST YEAR'S WAS $162,000

The report of the Convention Finance committee at the Saturday morning session of the Baptist convention, which was read by Rev. Dr. Bates, showed that the committee had sent out two pamphlets to all pastors within the bounds of the convention, explaining the convention financial scheme for missionary giving, with the offer of free literature to Churches adopting the scheme. The committee reports a pressing necessity for improved methods in the Churches, and general approval by Churches of the proposed scheme. Fourteen associations endorsed the financial scheme, and one refused to do so. Eighty-eight per cent. of the pastors' replies to the circulars sent out approved of the scheme.

Budget Placed at $225,000.

The Budget last year called for $162,000. The giving has exceeded this by $18,000. The committee believes that the denomination could easily double its income if the scheme was wisely and enthusiastically furthered. The plan so far has been adopted by a large number of Churches. The committee decided to recommend that the Budget for the year should be $225,000, being 25 p.c. in advance of receipts of the past year.

The Laymens' movement is ready to put all other forces behind the whole budget, instead of only behind the four great missionary enterprises.

Rev. H. McDiarmid, B.A., Hamilton, seconded the adoption of the report, which was unanimously adopted and the budget placed at $225,000.

THE LAND OF GOLDEN DREAMS

All the adults taking part in the above play are requested to meet in St. John's School room at 7.30 p.m. to meet Miss D. H. Leonard.

CAPTAIN J. C. BARR, Commander of the S. S. Carmania, the first ship to go to the rescue of the Volturno. In some quarters there is some doubt since the details of the tragedy have been received, whether Captain Barr did all that could possibly be done for the rescue of the ill-fated passengers on the Volturno. The surviving officers of the Volturno say that Captain Barr and the other rescue ships declined to put out lifeboats for the rescue of the Volturno people until one of the boats from the Volturno itself demonstrated to him that it was possible for the boats to live in the high sea. Captain Barr is likely to figure in the investigation to be held by the London Board of Trade.

EVERY BOY IS INVITED

To the Y. M. C. A. Next Friday—Splendid Address by Rev. H. J. Keith to Boys Department

A cordial invitation is issued to all the boys of the City by the officers of the Y.M.C.A., to visit the building on Friday afternoon and Friday evening next, and inspect the spacious quarters of the local "Y" members.

The building will be thrown open to them, and the officers of the institution will see that they are piloted to all the rooms used by ticket holders. It is expected that a large number of boys will take advantage of this opportunity to see the interior of the Y.M.C.A., the equipment and fittings of which have been undergoing a very noticeable change for the better.

The Boys' Department of the Y.M.C.A. were given a very enjoyable and educative lecture last Friday night, when the Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, delivered a splendid lecture on "Pilgrims' Progress." It was enjoyed by every one of the boys present, who evidenced their appreciation in an unmistakeable manner. The address was profusely illustrated with lantern slides.

This was one of a course of lectures being arranged by Mr. G. Galley, Secretary of the Boys' Department.

THANKSGIVING DECORATIONS

Mr. Augustus Shraeder, 474 Gilmour street, is original to uniqueness in his ideas of observance of Thanksgiving Day. It is not usual to decorate public or residence buildings as a form of thanksgiving. The whole front of Mr. Shraeders residence yesterday was a blaze of flags. There's a splendid significance in displaying the flag in token of thanksgiving. The triple cross on the Union Jack symbolizes the Saviour, the divine Providence, the source of all our spiritual and material blessings. Mr. Shraeder took the noblest way of expressing gratitude.

RIFLE MATCHES A GREAT SUCCESS

Seventy-five Members of 57th. Regiment Spent Thanksgiving Day on the Ranges and Good Scores Were Made.

CAPT. WATT'S SUCCESS

The first Regimental Shoot was held at the new rifle ranges, yesterday, and keen competition marked the contests for every trophy.

Seventy-five members of the 57th Regiment were on hand to take part in the events, and the way they went after the honours in the various competitions, lead to results that were highly satisfactory to the officers.

Three competitions were shot for, the General Match, the Company Competition, and the Skirmishing Match.

Capt. R. P. Watt carried off the trophy and honours in the General Competition. The Peck Challenge Cup was taken by Capt. Carruthers' stalwarts of "C" Company, and the Bradburn Challenge Cup, donated for the winners of the Skirmishing Match, fell to the same redoubtable body of sharp shooters.

The Daughters of the Empire were present at noon and had lunch with the militiamen in the mraquee on the rangeh.

The shoot was in charge of the officers of the Regiment. The complete result of the shoot, and individual scores will be given in to-morrow's Examiner.

VICTIMS ARE ALL BURIED IN ONE GRAVE

Examiner Special:

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 21.— Intense grief of a great nation, mingled with manifestations of national ambition disappointed, were much in evidence to-day at the imperial funeral of the twenty-four victims of the Zeppelin airship disaster. The great military funeral took place from the Garrison Church, near the Imperial Palace. Kaiser William and all his family were there, also Count Zeppelin and a thousand other military officers and a large army lined the street and walked behind the funeral cars, which took the bodies to one common grave. Contrary to expectations, his Majesty made no reference in his remarks as to whether military balloon experiments would continue to be made. It is understood the matter is not yet decided. In spite of the catastrophe hundreds of officers and men have volunteered for further dirigible experiments. The spirit of the nation is apparently undaunted.

MRS. PANKHURST BEING LIONIZED

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 21.—Although convicted of moral turpitude, whatever that is, by the Immigration Inspectors of New York City, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst is being lionized by this City to-day. At the home of Mrs. C. H. P. Belmont, a leading society woman, she held court, while hundreds of Gotham's most prominent women called upon her. To-night her welcome in Madison Garden, where she will speak, is bound to be one of the greatest triumphs of her life. Interviewed today, she said she would not call on President Wilson in Washington, unless especially invited.

"HERO OF THE NORTH" AT THE BAPTIST CONVENTION

REV. N. C. McLean, B.A.,
Secretary of the Social Service Committee of the Baptist Convention.

The Magnitude of the North Country Exemplified in Speech—Stirring Scenes at the Monday Evening Session—A Man who was Pitched Through a second Storey Window A Passport to the Police Station.

REV. E. M. FULLER'S ADDRESS

"It's an extremely dangerous thing to turn a Sunday School man loose on such a general subject as Sunday School work. You should hold him down to something more specific." The speaker was the Rev. E. M. Fuller, B.D., Pastor of Point St. Charles Baptist Church, Montreal, and the occasion for his remarks was patent in the programme that was provided for the Monday evening session of the Baptist Convention. The meeting was characterised by the Chairman as "Sunday School and Home Mission Evening," and appellation that was self-evident before the meeting was brought to a conclusion, with the rendition of the National Anthem. Seldom has a more enthusiastic audience congregated in Murray Street Baptist Church than that which greeted the variety of speakers who filled out an intensely interesting programme. A Bulgarian quartette, who rendered a selection in both the English and Bulgarian tongue, and also gave several impromptu speeches concerning the missionary work in which they were engaged, comprised a few of the features that made a strong and sympathetic impression upon a large gathering that filled the auditorium of the Church.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. E. Alexander, and the usual song service was rendered under the able leadership of the Rev. H. C. Bryant of Lindsay.

"Baptist Principles"

In introducing his subject, Rev. E. M. Fuller, who has been actively engaged in Sunday School work for the past eight years, said that he would select "Baptist Principles" as the basis of his remarks. He proclaimed himself, a Baptist, both by inheritance and by conviction. He also inferred that some denominations were in a fair way to outstrip the Baptist denomination in the matter of Sunday School work, if some attempt were not made to keep pace with the ever-growing work which this department of the Church represented.

"It has been asserted," said Rev. Mr. Fuller, "that we have certain principles embodied in our doctrine that make it absolutely necessary that we should be Sunday School people if we are to be logical. One of our principles is our loyalty to the Scriptures. It is impossible to be loyal with something with which we are not familiar. Some men are loyal enough to enable them to face the guns of war, but when at home they are not loyal enough to uphold those principles that make for good in time of peace. There are many people who are prominent members of the Baptist Church, yet are not familiar with the Scriptures. People whom you find familiar with the Scriptures invariably represent a class who attend Sunday School. Because of that condition we must lay greater emphasis on the need of people attending Sunday School."

Another Principle.

"Another principle," said the speaker, is one which concerns the private interpretation of the Scriptures. In this respect we are as far apart from our Roman Catholic friends as it is possible to be. They insist that there should be no private interpretation of the Scriptures, while we insist that there should. If the Sunday School is what the supporters of the Baptist Convention indicate it to be, then we must believe that one purpose of the Sunday School is to encourage private opinion and the development of that private opinion concerning the interpretation of the Scriptures. A certain prominent business man in Montreal is authority for the statement that the Bible is the most up-to-date business book that could be procured and consituted a source from which many ideas were evolved.

A Problem.

"Another principle that we hold to so strongly as Baptists," continued the speaker, "is the principle of independence. We contend that each individual Church should be independent and not responsible to another Church or body as a denomination. There is in this very principle of Church independence an element of strength and an element of weakness and sometimes we are led to wonder which is the strongest. It has a tendency to militate against a denominational consciousness. We are absolutely responsible for the training of the young people of the Church. That responsibility does not cease with the establishment of Sunday Schools and the appointment of teachers. The solution of the problem rests with the Church with which the Sunday School is connected. If we are facing a problem in the Church it is because God has given us the power to solve that problem."

THE RECEIPTS WERE LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

Tag Day Campaign of Children's Aid Society Was Great Success in Spite of Bad Weather

NEARLY $1250 COLLECTED

1912	1239.31

In spite of the dull, wet, cold weather on Saturday, the annual Tag Day campaign of the Children's Aid Society was a grand success. Altogether the funds of the Society were enhanced by $1247.36, an amount in advance of last year. It was a grand showing in view of the weather conditions and reflects most favourably on the energy of the collectors and the generosity of the citizens. To the ladies who supervised the work and the girls who sold the tags the utmost credit is due. They braved the elements all day to make sales, and that they succeeded in improving on last year's collection is indeed a matter for congratulation. During the day $1049.34 was collected in the boxes. The citizens, generally, showed an appreciation of the work of the Society by contributing freely.

Collected Saturday, total	$1,049.34
To this is to be added the following:
Schools	87.22
Est. of Mrs. Jane Livick	100.00
His Lordship Bishop O'Brien	10.00

Requiem High Mass for Deceased Member on Thanksgiving Day Morning

The members of the Catholic Order of Foresters received Communion in a body at a requiem High Mass at eight o'clock on Monday morning. The Mass was offered for deceased members of the Society and was sung by the Rev. Dean McColl. Over 150 members were present. At the conclusion of the Mass His Lordship Bishop O'Brien complimented the society. He said the custom of remembering in their prayers their companions who had passed away, was a beautiful custom and truly fraternal.

COFFEE LOVERS.

Mr. J. Johns, the Tea Man, has installed one of the Royal Coffee Mills in his store on Water street, which are highly recommended for preparing the coffee for the coffee pot. The mill has steel knives which cut the coffee berry into clean cut particles, instead of grinding and crushing it. It is claimed that a pound of coffee cut in this mill will make more cups of full strength coffee than coffee ground in the old way.

A. Y. P. A.

The Rev. Canon Davidson announced in St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday last, that on Friday next at 8 p.m., in the school hour, a meeting will be held with the object of re-forming an Anglican Young People's Association in connection with St. John's Church.

The Canon particularly requests that as many as can possibly attend should make an effort to be present at this meeting, in order that the Association—which was in abeyance last year—may be placed on as strong a footing as possible, and some steps be taken to formulate a plan of campaign for social meetings for the forthcoming winter season.

A GREAT REPORT AND A GREAT REPORT-ER.

If evidences of "ripe and good" scholarship, graceful oratory, pleasing address, commanding dignity of presence, combined with diplomatic reserve, grasp of the situation, executive ability and almost inspired projection of vision are essential elements in fitness for the office, the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec has chosen wisely and fortunately in selecting Rev. W. E. Norton, D.D., as its President. And if his inaugural address, next year, shall present the same qualities of greatness and comprehensive scope as his illuminated and illuminating report, as superintendent, upon Home Missions, a magnificent keynote and note of inspiration will have been given the Convention, that will savour and sweeten and energize its deliberations.

Rev. Dr. Norton's presentation, yesterday, of the sixty-second report of the Home Mission Board, constituted a remarkable document; a closely studied analysis of the elements of the subject and a concise, and at the same time, comprehensive summary of results. The report struck the hearer as a remarkable combination of a treatise on political and social economy; of a bank president's statement, and of a business manager's report; of a prose poem—in parts, dry as dust; and in others, as refreshing as the wash of living water. It combined inspiration and reproach, chastening and encouragement, criticism and counsel, and was, after all, a keen, plain, business-like statement of achievement, a sermon in statistics. The report and amplification of the thoughts it begot are impracticable of summary, unless one would classify himself with the enemies of Job and delight the furnuncular patriarch by writing a book.

The essential idea of the report was the necessity, the duty, of providing against degradation of the standard of Canadian citizenship by christianising the hundred thousand foreigners who yearly seek Canada as their home. They come to us with not the highest ideals of manhood or citizenship, and it is evident that if we do not christianize them they will tend to heathenise us, and lower the plane of our civilization. The report shows how active have been the agencies under the jurisdiction of the Baptist Convention, especially the Home Mission Board, to this end, and the idea is suggested that if the elevation of Rev. Dr. Norton to the presidency of the Convention will lessen his capacity for effective service in the Home Mission field, his promotion is, to that extent, a misfortune. But whatever may be the effect, if any, upon Dr. Norton's relations to the Board, one may be sure that neither his interest, nor his solicitude for the work will be lessened. Broad will need to be the shoulders that wear his mantle of superintendent. His report shows, and there is doubtless other evidence, that in that capacity Dr. Norton is unique.

To the lay mind, the character, directness and specific effectiveness of the work of the Home Mission Board, is an argument against Church Union. It does not seem probable, if indeed possible, that such work conducted under the auspices of five or six loosely bonded church organizations as would obtain under organic union of the churches, could have the aggregate results that might be expected from each of five or six centres of energetic action, effective organization, concentrated incidence of effort and consequent result, as exemplified in the work of the Baptist Home Mission Board. A single spike welded of half a dozen nails would not have the effective penetrative capacity and grip of the half dozen separate nails applied individually to a board or wood.

Borrow money neither from a neighbour, or a friend, but of a stranger, where, paying for it, thou shalt hear no more of it.

Hope is the mainspring of happiness, and resolution the secret of success.

"THE COUNTRY WAS STOLEN" SAYS SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Chateauguay Won by Fraud and Corruption He Declares---Paving the Way to the Country's Downfall.

"Chateauguay was won by fraud and corruption, and nothing else. I am making serious statements. I recognise my responsibility. But what I say I affirm, and we shall be able to prove it to you when the time comes. If there are any Conservatives here, let me say this to them: 'You may carry one bye-election, you may carry two or three bye-elections by scandal, demoralization and debauchery, but you are making way for the downfall of your country.'"

JOLIETTE, Que., Oct. 19.—It was essentially a fighting speech which Sir Wilfrid Laurier made here yesterday afternoon, a speech carrying war into the enemy's camp with a vigour that belied his years. "Defeated? Yes," he said in reference to Chateauguay. "Disheartened? Never!" And there was no question about the Chieftain's reception. He was Laurier again among his own people, for it was within a dozen miles of Joliette that Sir Wilfrid was born, and in the neighbouring country that he passed his early years.

The day was dismal and almost throughout the evening the rain poured in torrents, but long before Sir Wilfrid arrived the Market Square was packed with people, waiting under their umbrellas like some regiment encamped beneath black tents, and they remained throughout the three hours of the meeting till the last of the speakers had sat down.

Confidence in Verdict of Time.

Of the possibility of an early retirement from political life Sir Wilfrid gave no hint but this: "I am no longer young," he said (he had been referring to the Manitoba school question). "I have passed forty years of my life in politics. I have not many more to spend in the arena, but the time will come when it will be said—and I make no pretence to vanity—when it will be said that Laurier settled this question in a statesmanlike manner; that no one could have done better under similar circumstances." And the statement was made rather in the sense of a commander calling his men to renewed assault. There was no indication of laying down of the sword.

County Stolen From Liberals.

Sir Wilfrid was unsparing in his criticisms of Government manoeuvres in Chateauguay. "We were defeated," he declared, "but we are not disheartened. My courage is the same in victory or defeat. And when I said that we were defeated, I was mistaken. The county was stolen from us. The Ministerial press has told you, members of the Government have said that the result in Chateauguay was a glorious one for the Conservative party; that it means a ratification by the people of a contribution to Britain. There are people who have the effrontery to tell you that."

No Courage to Defend Borden Policy

"The result in Chateauguay means so little the ratification of the Government's naval policy that the elected candidate, Mr. Morris, had not the courage to defend it. Mr. Morris never had any wish to defend the Borden's naval policy. And if the result is a glory unto the Conservative party, if electoral debauchery and the demoralization of an electorate are a glory, let us bow down before them. The Government is entitled to the glory.

A Triumph for Demoralization.

"The Chateauguay result was no triumph," Sir Wilfrid asserted, "for the Conservative party. It was a triumph for electoral demoralization. It was a triumph of theft. It was a triumph of vile instincts directed by skillful hands. Had we been fighting a general election, the result would have been different. Had we been in a general election, Mr. Fisher would have been elected by two hundred of a majority, for the Government would not then have been able to concentrate all the demoralizing forces it was able to concentrate in a bye-election. To say that the Conservative party were victorious in Chateauguay would be just as true as it would be to declare that the revolt of the angels in Paradise was a triumph of the archangel Gabriel, and not for Lucifer.

Paving Way for Country's Downfall.

"Chateauguay was won by fraud and corruption, and by nothing else. I am making serious statements. I recognize my responsibility. But what I say, I affirm, and we shall be able to prove it to you when the time comes. If there are any Conservatives here, let me say this to them: 'You may carry an bye-election, you may carry two or three bye-elections by scandal, demoralization and debauchery, but you are making way for the downfall of your country.'"

Honest Men Wish Principles to Win.

"We have free institutions and I wish to maintain them. I was beaten in 1911, and no one has heard me make accusations. I yield to the majority, although, as I have said before, a majority may be wrong. But I say that it is the duty of every honest man to rouse himself and lay violent hands on those whose desire it is to corrupt elections. Let it be the work of the Liberal party to make a stand against the corruptor, to see that light is put on what has been done in Chateauguay. What was done there may be done in other counties, and when light is thrown on Chateauguay I am sure that all honest men will be on our side and desire the triumph of principles rather than of corruption."

Liberal Programme—Tariff Revision.

As the first article in the Liberal programme Sir Wilfrid placed a revision of the tariff. "While Mr. Borden is trying to settle the question of peace and war in the Empire," Sir Wilfrid caustically remarked, "we of the Opposition want to have the cost of living reduced. You may be told that if the cost of living is high it is the farmer who profits. I say the farmer does not profit. The price you are paying does not profit the farmer. It goes into the pockets of the combines and trusts to the detriment of the consumer.

No Need to Fear.

"Our adversaries wil say that if you touch the tariff manufactures will be injured. But I say that you can revise the tariff without injuring manufactures. We did it in 1897, and what we did then we can do again. If the Government are unable to do it let them make way for someone else. You may ask us what should we do if we were in power. We should do as we did in 1896 — we should appoint a Commission.

"Is it not true," Sir Wilfrid asked, "that this question of the cost of living is more important than that of Dreadnoughts? Is it not more important than a navy? For my part there is no doubt over the question." Reasserting his policy of a Canadian navy, Sir Wilfrid called for three cheers for the Senate in honour of the rejection of the Borden bill.

A Lie, and Shameful.

"What," he went on, "will be the policy of the Government next session? Members of the Ministerial party have stated to the electors that the policy of Mr. Borden is simply one of a contribution of $35,000,000 to Britain and that will be all. Do you know how I would characterize a statement of that kind? In one way only, that it is a lie and shameful.

No Tribute Wanted.

"This is not the end of the Borden programme; it is the beginning. And those who make such a statement must think that there is something singular in the mental equipment of those to whom it is made. Mr. Borden has always said that he will have a permanent policy. And I ask: What is the Government going to do next session? I am not in the secrets of the gods, but I know what the Opposition are going to do. We shall meet every attempt at a tribute as we met it last session. We want no tribute, and every endeavour to impose one will meet with the same irresistible opposition."

Unable to break Liberal opposition by physical exhaustion, Sir Wilfrid added, the Government had been compelled last session to resort to the use of the gag.

Opening Up the North.

Dealing with the late Government's policy in railway construction, Sir Wilfrid predicted the opening up of many thousands of acres of fertile lands in northern Quebec following the completion of the National Transcontinental. The National Transcontinental, he said, was developing a country the existence of which had never before been suspected. What had been thought to be nothing better than arid plain was found to be agricultural land, a land of incalculable water powers and immense pulp forests.

Attracting Paper Manufacturers.

The Democratic tariff, he went on, had opened the way to freer trade with the United States. Thanks to the tariff. Canadian wood pulp and printing paper would enter the United States free. "Within twenty-five years," Sir Wilfrid predicted, "all the New England manufacturers of pulp and paper will transfer their works to the valley crossed by the Transcontinental."

NE TEMERE DECREE MAY BE ABROGATED

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—News from Rome announces that the Holy Office, of which his Holiness the Pope is Prefect, has ordered all over the world an investigation on mixed marriages by requesting the opinion of all the Bishops on the opportunity of favoring such marriages in certain countries.

An affirmative answer from all the hierarchy of Canada would mean the abrogation of the famous ne temere decree. The inquiry is ordered in a letter signed by Cardinal Rampolla, in which the following questions are asked:

"What was ten years ago and what is to-day in your diocese the number of Catholics, non-Catholics, and non-baptized?

"What is the average number of mixed marriages which have been concluded or attempted in the last ten years with and without dispensation?

"Have the precautions such as prescribed been omitted or refused, and in how many cases?

In other cases what results have such precautions brought, the one concerning the education of all the children in the Catholic religion especially?

"Finally, what rites, especially after the promulgation of the ne temere decrees, are followed in the celebration of such marriages? Are they celebrated in the Church, are they announced at the sound of the bells, while the presiding priest is clad in sacerdotal vestments with the usage of the organ, the benediction of the ring, a sermon or not?

"With all the answers you will please formulate your answers on the following question: In your diocese, considering the particular circumstances, would it be convenient in the future to favour or to oppose mixed marriages?"

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MORNING AND AFTERNOON SESSION OF THE CONVENTION

Interesting Report From the Representative on the Grande Ligne Mission---The Mission is a Growing Institution ---Report of Home Mission Board Indicates Progress in That Particular Department---Interesting Address by the Delegates.

The Monday morning session of the Baptist Convention brought out a large representation of delegates. The meeting was opened with a scriptural reading by the Rev. J. B. Kennedy, M.A., of Toronto. Thanksgiving Day was remembered in a prayer offered by Rev. E. J. Stobo, Sr., Quebec City. Rev. J. R. Stillwell, B.A., of India, gave an exposition on the "Doctrine of Salvation," dealing with "the doctrine of salvation as it existed among non-Christian nations, and as exemplified in the following points:

First—The Hindu idea of consciousness of unity with the deity is at one with Christ's statement, "I and My Father are one."

Second—Christ has given ethical consent to this idea of consciousness of unity with duty.

Third—Christ has given social consent to the idea of deity.

Fourth—Christ has humanized the idea of God.

Fifth—Christ has given a mighty moral dynamic to the conception of deity.

Grande Ligne Mission.

The Grande Ligne Mission which is an independent Baptist work conducted among the French-Canadians of the Province of Quebec, ad appeals for funds to the churches of the convention as well as to churches in the Eastern and Western conventions, submitted a report of its work for the year through the convention's representative upon its Board, Rev. D. W. Terry, B.A., Coaticooke, Quebec.

The report of the mission shows that the French population of Canada is now 2,054,890 or twenty-eight and one-half per cent. of the entire population. The Roman hierarchy's object is to bring this growing element into the nation's life not for religious purposes only, but also for political ends. The young French Catholic Association avows its purpose to bring about the absolute supremacy of the Romish church in all matters, both moral and religious. Also to have sole direction of the education of the young or the exclusion of the Government from the sphere of education, and the establishment of a united Catholic party in Canada. The suppression of "Le Pays," whose editor is Mr. Godfrol Langlois, was referred to. A free press is the safeguard of the peoples' liberties. The church would silence it. The educational status of Quebec calls for serious consideration from patriotic Canadians.

A Special Message.

To the French-Canadian people the Baptists have a special message. The Baptist teachingd ewands a personal experience of regeneration by the Holy Spirit. The Romans demand a regeneration at the baptismal font. The Baptist denies the doctrine of purgatory and teaches the assurance of a full salvation through Christ. This message tells of personal communion with God. During the past year the mission has employed thirty missionaries and teachers. It maintains a very fine acauemy at Grande Ligne, Quebec. There have been fifty-four baptisms. The total disbursements during the year have been $40,-364.01; of the receipt $15,076.39 were received from the Province of Ontario. The deficit is $430.94. Rev. Dr. Therrien, of Montreal, is the new president of the mission.

Rev. Mr. Terry in moving the adoption of the report of the convention's representative on the Board, eulogized the work of the mission and the deligence of its missionaries.

Rev. N. Schutt, M.A., of Toronto, in seconding the adoption of the report pointed out that the French population of Canada has during the last ten years increased about twenty-two per cent. He emphasized the part that the Grande Ligne Mission is a splendid evangelistic agency. The report was adopted unanimously.

A Special Committee.

Prof. J. H. Farmer, of Toronto, reported for a committee appointed last year to report upon the future relations of the Grande Ligne Mission to the convention. The committee reported progress, stating that in their judgment, the committee should be enlarged and should report at the next convention. There are four propositions before the committee: First—To bring the mission under a composite board made up from all the convention. Second—To add to the board. Third—To bring the mission under the Convention of Ontario and Quebec. Fourth—To leave the mission as it is. The adoption of the report of the committee was seconded by Rev. T. T. Shields, of Toronto. He made a strong argument against a composite board, and showing the contributions from Ontario and Quebec have been steadily increasing. The status quo cannot be maintained. The mission must, however, be properly related to the body that supports it so strongly. Rev. E. Bosworth, secretary of the mission, spoke of the growing interest in the mission in the Maritime Provinces. Next year the Ladies' Missionary Society are to give $2,500 to the Grande Ligne Mission. He contended that representation on the basis of contribution is an unsafe principle upon which to proceed.

President Ayer left the chair and made explanation respecting legal difficulties.

The report was adopted and the committee enlarged by the addition of Rev. T. T. Shields, Rev. Dr. Bates, Rev. J. J. McNeill, B.A., and Mr. James Ryrie.

Rev. E. J. Stobo, Sr., of Quebec, explained that he was the friend of the Grande Ligne Mission in spite of reports to the contrary.

Rev. Dr. Sullivan, of Montreal, gave a splendid address on "Why Give Our Protestant Gospel to Our Roman Catholic Neighbours?" and which embodied the following reasons: First—To save a great multitude of them from drifting into atheism and infidelity. Second—Because the Roman organization is a perversion of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Third—For patriotic reasons.

The Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. W. T. Alpine, B.D., of Delta, Ontario.

Home Mission.

The report of the Home Mission Board was presented and its adoption moved by Rev. W. E. Norton, D.D., the superintendent. This showed that during the year the Board has assisted in the pastoral support of twenty-nine churches and preaching stations, of these two hundred and twenty-one have been supplied by regular ministers and seventy have had the services of student pastors. The number of members in the churches assisted has been 9,500, or about one-sixth of the total membership of the denomination. The baptisms in these churches during the year were 563. The net gain in membership 391. Three churches have been organized in Toronto, Hamilton and Galt. Three churches have declared for self support. A number of churches have erected or are engaged in erecting new buildings. The total of these building operations will be considerably over $55,000. Four churches have purchased parsonages.

A Large Increase.

The income for the year is the largest in the history of the Board, about $49,000, an increase of the total revenue $27,543.00 came from churches. The Board reports an increased deficit, the deficit now standing at $16,-392.00(an advance of $4,395.00 over last year.

The report says that it has been easier than for some time past to supply pastors to Home Mission churches. The access to the ministry from the British Isles has been most gratifying, and most of the Britishers have done good work. Some of them, however, have failed and have created a prejudice against men from the Motherland. The Board emphatically records its appreciation of a very large proportion of the ministers who come from across the seas.

The Board maintains three Slavic Missions in Toronto, have other Slavic Mission in Montreal, Hamilton, and Fort William. Other centres desire missionaries. The Scandinavian churches report a good year's work. During the next year about $12,000 will be expended for Scandinavian and Slavic work in Ontario and Quebec. The Home Mission work all round was never in better shape.

The adoption of the report was seconded by Mr. Albert Matthews, Toronto. He made a special plea on behalf of the little struggling church.

An Excellent Pamphlet.

Rev. C. H. Schutt, M.A., spoke most appreciatively of the pamphlet written by Rev. C. J. Cameron, B.A., assistant superintendent, entitled "Foreigners and Canadians." He said it was the best thing dealing with immigration yet written. Rev. J. B. Kennedy, M.A., spoke of the increasing amount of work done amongst the foreign element, and the work achieved in New Ontario. Evangelism is the great need of the Home Mission churches to-day. He suggested that the Social Service Committee might very properly unite Evangelism with their other efforts.

Rev. E. P. Fuller, B.D., of Montreal, eulogized the report of the Board as a masterly and statesmanlike presentation of the situation. He spoke especially of the need or the non-English people in Montreal.

HAD BAD SORE FOR YEARS

ZAM-BUK HAS HEALED IT!

Mrs. Wilson, 110 Wickson Ave., Toronto, says: "About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor, but the ointment he gave me did not have any good effect. The sore continued to discharge freely, and was more painful. I had it cauterized, tried poultices, and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!

"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good, so I purchased a further supply.

"Each box did me more and more good, and, to my delight, before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks, I saw that it was going to heal the sore. In less than a month it was healed!

"I know a lady in the east of the city, whose husband suffered for years with an open sore on his leg. On my recommendation, Zam-Buk was tried in that case. The other day when I saw her, she told me that it had healed the sore completely.

"My daughter, who lives in Lethbridge, Alta., has also used Zam-Buk with the same satisfactory result. I think it is, beyond all doubt, the finest healing balm known."

Such is the opinion of all persons who have really tried Zam-Buk. It is a sure cure for eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, cuts, burns scalds bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. In case of skin disease, use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

DR. LANGFELDT'S APPOINTMENT

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt has received an appointment from the Dominion government to be in charge of the Canadian immigration office at Boston, Mass. On account of a nervous breakdown a year ago, Dr. Langfeldt, on the advice of his physician, ha sasked the Bishop for leave of absence in order to have a change of occupation for the benefit of his health.

Girlish Complexion Now Easily Acquired

"A skin of blended snow, cream and rose" is the way an Ohio correspondent describes her newly acquired complexion. She is one who has adopted mercolised wax in place of cosmetics, massage, steaming and other methods. Many who have tried this marvellous wax report that its effects are quite different from those of any other treatment. It produces a complexion of exquisite girlish naturalness, rather than one bearing evidence of having been artificially "made over." One that is indeed "Nature's own," the result of gradually absorbing dead particles of surface skin, permitting the younger, healthier skin beneath to show itself and giving its pores a chance to breathe. Mercolised wax, procurable at any drug store in original one ounce package, is put on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

I have also had many favourable letters from those who have tried the wrinkle-removing face bath which I recommended recently. If any have mislaid the formula, here it is: 1 oz. powdered saxolite, dissolved in ½ pt. witch hasel.—"Natalie" in the Women Militant.

REV. JOHN McNEILL TO SPEAK HERE

An eminent Baptist divine in the person of Rev. John McNeill, B.A., pastor of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto, will address the closing session of the Convention in Murray Street Baptist Church this evening. Rev. John McNeill is widely known all over Canada and the British Empire as a speaker of exceptional ability. For one month this summer he supplied the City Temple Church, London, England, of which the famous Rev. R. J. Campbell was pastor.

INDIGESTION OVERCOME

Overcome by Simple Remedy.

Hurried and careless habits of eating, irregular meals and foods that do not harmonize, tend to weaken the digestive organs and result in different forms of stomach trouble.

If you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this condition, eat simple foods only, slowly, regularly and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, Thomasville, Ga., says: "I suffered from a stomach trouble, was tired, worn out and nervous. A friend advised me to take Vinol. My stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have a perfect digestion and I wish every tired, weak woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good.

The recovery of Mrs. Smith was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cods' livers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron, which are contained in Vinol. We will return the purchase money every time Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid & Jary, druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

Services At Murray Street

Foreign Mission, Home Missions and Education, formed the subject for three inspiring sermons that were delivered in Murray Street Baptist Church on Sunday by Rev. H. E. Stillwell, B.A., Toronto; Rev. J. H. Boyd, London, and Rev. C. W. Rose, B.A., B.D., Brantford, respectively. The sermons comprised three services that were largely attended. Mr. George Schneider, as organist, rendered excellent service together with the choir. Among those who assisted in thes ervices were Rev. R. R. McKay, B.A., Field Secretary of the Home Mission Board; Rev. J. R. Webb. Prof. J. H. Farmer, of McMaster University; Rev. S. S. Bates, D.D., and Rev. W. E. Norton, D.D., of Toronto. At the close of the evening service Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson, of St. John's Church, appeared before the meeting and was given a seat on the platform. The service was closed with an appropriate prayer signifying the spirit of Thanksgiving.

The majority of the Protestantp ulpits in the City with the exception of the Anglican denomination, were occupied by Baptist ministers. The meetings were largely attended and some interesting discourses were recorded.

A WEST ENDER ON COLLECTION OF GARBAGE

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly insert the following, re garbage collection, in your valuable paper:

I noticed in your paper the other evening that the Sanitary Inspector had been complaining before the Health Board at som of the actions of the garbage collectors and also that the garbage collectors had made a counter-complaint asking that the citizens should be notified to put out their garbage at a certain hour.

Now, I should like to know why they demand that? I have come home from business many times at noon hour and still found that the garbage had not been collected.

I think that the citizens can just as reasonably demand that the garbage be collected somewhere around a certain hour. They have now been on the routes long enough to know how long it takes them to gather up the garbage. It certainly does not add to the beauty of the streets to see all kinds of antiquated receptacles filled with filthy rubbish and ashes, lining both sides of the street.

When reading about the alterations in the garbage collection a while ago I did not notice any alteration to the route to which Weller Street belongs and still last week people put out their garbage on the Wednesday morning all along the street and they were left there to adorn the street until the Saturday morning. It seems the collectors only come on Saturdays now. I would respectfully submit that is not often enough, and will be still less so when people start running their furnaces and stoves all the time.

Perhaps the Sanitary Inspector thinks I should bring forward my complaints to him, personally, and that brings forward another compaint.

The Inspector is so seldom seen around our quarter that it is not easy to complain to him and people who have their own business to attend to have not time to visit him at his office.

If made public the complaints may be quicker attended to, whereas they otherwise may be allowed to slip by.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours, etc.,

West Ender.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and failing hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring grey hair to its original colour, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavoris de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics.

Music & Drama

THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS.

At the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and evening large crowds greeted the dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's famous novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills." Many of the audience had read and enjoyed the book and they found the play even more enjoyable had gripping The dramatization by Mr. Wright, himself, and Elsbery W. Reynolds, adheres closely to the story and the result is a most enthralling play. Gaskill and MacVitty have supplied a splendid cast and the acting throughout was uniformly smooth and effective, the performance being one of the most appreciated of the season.

MARKS BROTHERS.

The Marks Brothers shows seem to have a wine-like propensity of improving with age. At all events, so closely is every detail looked after that each one of the companies managed by the famous brothers seems to be better every time seen. Just now the R. W. Marks Company, headed by the favourite May A. Bell Marks, is with us, opening a week's engagement at the Grand; yesterday, with matinee and evening performances that delighted the big holiday crowds in attendance. 'Dora Thorne' was the attraction in the afternoon, and at the night performance "The Convicts Sweetheart" was admirably given. May A. Bell Marks has lost none of her charm or skill and she is assisted by a splendid company with no weak spots in evidence. The usual high grade of specialties was given between acts. Bumper houses are sure to greet the company for the balance of the week.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

It is not the clock with the loudest tick that goes the best.

Those love truth best who to themselves are true.

Work postponed is peace dethroned.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Address On The R. C. Doctrine Of Salvation

Rev. Dr. Sullivan, of Montreal, Dealt With This Subject

AT BAPTIST CONVENTION

Saturday morning's session of the Baptist Convention was opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. Dr. B. D. Thomas, of Toronto.

The expository address was delivered by Rev. Jos. Sullivan, M.A., D.D., pastor of the Olivet Baptist Church, Montreal, whose subject was "The Roman Catholic Doctrine of Salvation." Dr. Sullivan was once a Roman Catholic, but has been 20 years a Baptist minister. He said that one has to be very careful of the sources of authority when stating the view held by the Roman Church. Even in quoting Cardinal Gibbons' book, "The Faith of Our Fathers," we must remember that even Cardinal Gibbons has no authority to speak for the church. The priest is apt to say things that do not entirely represent the teaching of the church. The attitude of the Roman Church is that she represents the authority of Christ in respect of religious teaching. She says that private judgment has to be left in abayance and the individual bow to authority. There is no room for private judgment.

Sense of Sin Impressed.

The Roman Catholic authoritative teaching respecting the need of salvation is bared in the nature of man. The best Catholic theologians consider that man was created a neutral being capable of good or bad according to the influences exerted. The church endorses the dire condition of men by nature. She brings home most strongly to the conscience and hearts of her people a wonderful sense of sin, and no man brought up in that communion ever loses sense of sin. The church is orthodox in her attitude on this point.

The ground of salvation according to the Roman Church is through the death of Jesus Christ, and Protestants can strike hands with them here. The Roman Church emphasizes the work of Jesus Christ. One of the most solemn hours in the service of the Catholic Church is when the Eucharist is elevated and the priest says: "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sings of the world." The Cross of Christ is the ground of salvation according to Roman teaching. The Roman Church is one with the Reformed churches in the need and ground of salvation.

Parting of the Ways.

The parting of the ways is regarding the application of salvation. The Catholic method if the application of what Christ has done for us is entirely sacramentarian. There are, if we may so speak, seven pipe lines—baptism, Holy Eucharist, matrimony, etc. Infant baptish is claimed to remove original sin. The child when he comes to the years of discretion begins to sin for himself. The sacrament of penance is said to remove these sins. The sacraments in the hands of the church are the means of the application of salvation.

In the last analysis salvation is in the hands of the church. She has usurped the place of Jesus Christ. When the man dies purgatorial fires are efficacious in applying salvation, but it is all in the hands of the church.

Doctrine of Intention.

According to the Roman Church Salvation is a thing that no one can be sure of. The doctrine of intention makes null and void every act of the individual whether he be priest or layman. A man may be in a state of grace to-day and by reason of some sin in the pit of hell to-morrow.

In contrast to all this the New Testament teaches that we are to trust the Saviour and to entrust ourselves into his hands.

"There is life in a look at the crucified one,
There is life at this moment for thee."

"I would not give a snap of my finger for a salvation that will not carry me through thick and thin," exclaimed Dr. Sullivan, and closed with the words, "Thanks be to God for his unspeakable gift." There is no salvation in works of righteousness which we have done, but only in Jesus Christ—not in priest whether Roman or Protestant, but only in Him.

It was a great address and much enjoyed for its careful, scholarly, sympathetic treatment.

MOTORING AND ITS DISADVANTAGES

(By Horse-Lover.)

The vagaries of the motor car are many. What with blow-out, engine breakdown, losing control, taking fire, running into the ditch, one is hardly safe nowadays—with some cars at least—to venture far beyond the city limits.

According to the best authorities, moreover, it would seem that the day of the automobile—as was the case when the private carriage and horse were discarded in the beginning of the reign of the auto—is on the wane.

The recent Underwood Tariff Bill in the United States, by the reduction or repealing of various deterrent duties on Canadian goods exported into that country, will reduce or abolish the duty on horses, of all classes.

It is said that a boom may be expected next year in the sale of Canadian harness and saddle horses, as many of the wealthy Americans are getting tired of the auto as a means of transport.

There is that exclusiveness about the pony and phaeton which will always live—a thing of delight, and that classiness which to many is a valued asset in their personal appearance. What is nicer than to see a well-groomed pony and neat trap on our streets!

An incident which brings up the auto subject in the mind of the writer came to his knowledge this week. On Sunday afternoon last an auto drew up at door of a certain house, not very far from this office. A party of four set off, in the bright sunshine of that day. Their venue was Keene. Their spirits were high—the air was exhilarating—the scenery and autumn colouring was all that could be desired. At length their desired haven was reached. A look around the place was taken, and the homeward run was started.

Before leaving home the autoists promised to return at five o'clock, so that they could go to church, and atone for their—well, I won't call it sins!

But Fate had its way this time. "The best-laid schemes, o' mice and men gang aft agley," as the Immortal Bard has aptly put it.

When only a few miles from Keene the unexpected happened—a blow-out. This was disconcerting for the occupants of the car, but they were not down-hearted. Back to Keene they went, visited the physician, and had a plaster put on the flatulent member. This was successfully accomplished, and the carload went on their way rejoicing. But, alas! 'twas shortlived joy. Bang! went the tyre again.

This was really serious, and some head-scratching was indulged in by the mechanics. What was to be done. Genius is the mother of invention — they decided to take the tyre off, and go home on the rim. Then was some fun poked at them — horses shied, people got scared, and as the party and car trundled—this is the best word to explain the sound—the good folks threw up their hands in may. "What, the road roller or a thresher out on Sunday!" No, it was just a tyreless auto jolting home!

About seven o'clock that car stopped at that same door, not very far from this office—and the autoists were all late for church! That auto owner vows he will never go out with his car on Sunday again.

This is just one of the great times with an auto.

READ THIS BOOKLET, "THE HAIR AND ITS CARE"

Sent Free Upon Request

The Herpicide Company want every one to have a copy of their booklet telling how to take care of and possess nice hair. The booklet contains much valuable information on the subject of saving and cultivating the hair.

If the present-day men and women would begin to live up to the teachings of this little booklet it is doubtful if he next generation would find a bald-headed man or lady wearing false hair.

It is just as easy to have robust and beautiful hair as to have thin, scraggy hair or no hair at all. If the scalp is kept clean and free from dandruff the hair grows naturally and luxuriantly.

The booklet tells how this may be most effectively accomplished by the use of Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide destroys dandruff, frees the head from dirt and scarf skin. The hair becomes light, fluffy and beautiful.

Newbro's Herpicide is "the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ," for which there are many imitations and substitutes said to be just as good. Buy nothing but the original.

Newbros Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes, is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in postage to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., and a nice sample will be sent with the booklet.

Women's Moreen Underskirts

THESE SKIRTS ARE OF $1.25, $1.69 AND $1.98 VALUES, the reason that they are priced so low, being that the manufacturer made them a little wider than present style demands. But considering the splendid value one receives for 69c, it is a trifling task to alter the Skirts to prevailing narrow proportions. Made of very good quality English Moreen, in black, pearl, dark grey, navy, and black and white plaid. Each Skirt has a deep fancy flounce, and every woman who is familiar with the long service that a good Moreen renders, cannot fail to see what a big saving there is in these Skirts on Wednesday. Reduced to 69c

We believe that $1.65 could not purchase a better blanket than this line at 1.39

Coatings, Suitings and Dress Fabrics 59c an End

THERE IS A SPLENDID ASSORTMENT IN these Mill Ends, the coatings being mostly one and one and a quarter yards long, while a number of dress fabrics are even 1½ and 2 yards long. In the whole case lot there is not a piece that is not worth $1.00, while we are sure that $1.25 to $2.00 an end would be needed to purchase over half the number in the ordinary way. Wednesday, per end 59c

Continuing the Dress Goods 29c per yard

BEING PRACTICALLY THE SAME AS LAST WEEK'S SALE, these goods are of 50c to 75c regular values. The collection includes a very wide range of colourings in Wool Taffetas, Cord de Soies, and light weight costume cloths, and because the low price means such a big saving, we would suggest your early arrival on Wednesday. "OUR NATURAL STRENGTH ITS NATURE AND ATTAINMENT

Rev. Canon Davidson in His Sermon at St. John's on Sunday Deals With Canadian Ideals and National Issues.

WHOLESALE IMMIGHATION

On Sunday evening at St. John's Church, Canon Davidson, in connection with Thanksgiving Day, dealt with National issues. His text was, "The People That Do Know Their Good Shall be Strong and Do Exploits' Dan. xi: 32. The ideal of the text commended itself naturally to all Canadians, but it was well to consider the kind of national strength to be aimed at and how it was to be attained. Was it averdupois, mere figures and numbers? No doubt with our immense undeveloped areas, the need of greatly increased population was naturally felt. But mere numbers might make a country unwieldy and unmanageable, and become a positive danger.

The speaker, as a Canadian, public man echoed the cry to the government from conferences and synods that wholesale immigration should be discouraged until this country had a chance to assimilate and weld together her heterogeneous population, especially in the Northwest. A keener discrimination should be exercised in regard to the incoming multitudes.

Let it be remembered, too, that with a country, as with a man, mere corpulency was not healthy or effective. Yesterday the day of merely physical efficiency had given way to that of mental efficiency to-day, while to-morrow, in the natural course of evolution, it would be a higher efficiency still, that of spiritual power and character. Canada, as the nation of to-morrow, should, while not neglecting the other sides, press toward the development of the higher power of spirit and character.

The Churches should devote their energies far more towards this and other great national needs. Our eyes should be fixed, not so much on the advancement of our own dominions, as of Canada and the Kingdom of Heaven, acting in increasing co-operation. Spreading a knowledge of God and the supernatural, we would promote national strength. Canada needed quality more than quantity of citizens.

It was important that our people should make up their mind what our country really stood for, and concentrate their efforts on this end. Did not Canada stand, from a national viewpoint, for quality of opportunity? If so, this should be widely circulated. And would not this endowment come from a practical knowledge and assimilation of the nature of the God of mercy and all pardoning love. With the Divine Copy before us, we must set ourselves to give everyone a chance, whether deserving or not. There should be no prejudice against those who were our fellow countrymen now, wherever they might have come from or whatever their past history.

Moreover, a practical realisation of God as our common family compled realisation of a fellowship between members of His family whatever our dislikes or prejudices might be. Let a greater comradeship be fostered between all patriotic Canadians and professing Christians of all names. Thus God-knowing and God inspired our people would necessarily, "become strong and do exploits."

At the conclusion of the sermon, which breathed throughout the spirit of lofty patriotism, "O Canada" was sung, followed by the National Anthem.

MR. A. A. AYER,
Of Montreal, the retiring President of the Baptist Convention.

A PERSONAL TRIBUTE TO CANON DAVIDSON

Before the close of the convention service at Murray Street Church on Sunday evening, the President referred to the appreciated presence of Canon Davidson, who had entered at the conclusion of his own service and been given a seat on the platform. They had not forgotten previous courtesies received from him at a previous conference, and as a token of appreciation, the Rector of St. John's was invited to take the closing devotions and to give the benediction.

Makes Unsightly Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Beauty Culture)

A smooth, hairless skin is possible for every woman if she uses a delatone paste to remove the ugly hairs. This simple treatment quickly banishes all hair or fuzz and leaves the skin firm and spotless. The paste, made by mixing water with powdered delatone, is applied to the skin for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to see that you get delatone in an original package.

REV. T. T. SHIELDS,

MISSION STUDY CLASS.

The Mission Study Class of the W. M. S. of George Street Church, which was to have met this evening, has been postponed until Thursday evening, (23rd), at the home of Mrs. B. Armstrong, 778 George Street.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

The addresses of Rev. Dr. Sullivan have been very much enjoyed. Dr. Sullivan has the inimitable wit of the Irishman, is a hard hitter, a strong scholar and a kindly spirit, and such a combination of qualities joined with oratorical power helps to make him a strong controversialist.

The slavic delegates created much interest in the convention. Their broken English and spiritual earnestness were very evident, and one was as evident as the other.

Through the kindness of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., twenty-five of the delegates were taken over the Lift-Lock in the Steamer 'Bessie Butler.'

The delegates who preached in the City pulpits report a happy time and much kindness received from pastors and people.

The kindness of the Visor of railway certificates is much appreciated. Every delegate received his transportation without having to visit the City ticket offices.

The Baptist Book Room did a splendid business and many delegates went home loaded down with literature for the coming winter. Theology was much in evidence.

The S. S. Board dined at Coleman's restaurant last evening through the kindness of its chairman, Mr. H. L. Stark of Toronto. The fish eaters and buckwheat pancake men from the Maritime Provinces had a rally on Friday last. Other social gatherings have also taken place.

The choir of the Murray Street Church have been very faithful in their attendance upon the evening sessions and their services have been most sincerely appreciated.

Rev. J. R. Webb, the pastor of the entertaining Church, and Mr. Mathews, the Chairman of the local committee, have been indefatigable in their efforts to make the delegates comfortable.

At to-night's session, Rev. John McNeil, B.A., of Toronto, the silver-tongued Baptist, speaks on young people's work. It is worth while coming out to hear him.

At 8.30 o'clock this morning, a number of the delegates gathered for a prayer meeting which was characterized by earnestness and thanksgiving.

One of the foremost speakers in the Baptist denomination in the person of Rev. John McNeil, B.A., of Toronto, will address the closing session of the Convenmon in Murray Street Baptist Church, this evening.

The sympathy of the Convention was extended to Rev. C. E. McLeod, whose wife passed away in May last following an operation.

"I, as the immigrant, pour out my blood upon the altar of labour, and yet I am regarded as the great American Problem." A paraphrase of the immigration question as presented to the Convention by Mrs. Weir, of Toronto.

Mr. J. P. Cunningham, of the Peterborough Music Store, and Mr. A. A. Ayer, President of the Conference, have been responsible for the gramophone concerts that have proved such an attractive feature of the Convention between sessions.

A special Thanksgiving service was held at eight-thirty this morning in Murray Street Baptist Church. A large number attended despite the early hour of the meeting.

It is altogether probable that the Convention will hold forth in Owen Sound next year. Dovercourt Road, Toronto, was one other place that put in a bid for the Convention. The matter was left in the hands of a committee, who it is expected, will make a report this evening.

The vacancies on the Sunday School Board were filled this morning by the following appointments: Messrs. R. C. Reid, Peterborough; R. W. E. Burnaby, Toronto; T. A. Pickard, Owen Sound, and Dr. E. A. Hardy, Toronto.

THANKSGIVING DAY AT THE CITADEL

Big Dinner for Juniors and Adults and Fine Programme—Nearly 600 in Group Picture

Thanksgiving Day was fittingly celebrated at the Salvation Army citadel, and was made a special occasion for the children. In the afternoon a photograph was taken of a group of Junior Workers, members of the Sunday School and others, between 500 and 600 being in the picture. Thanksgiving supper was held in the basement, tables being set first for adult members and followed by tea for the children. While the suppers were in progress there were concerts upstairs and a final concert brought a most enjoyable day to a close.

CYRIL MAUDE COMING

"The highest-priced actor in the world," is the way Cyril Maude is described by those acquainted with the terms under which this London idol has been induced to undertake a tour of Canada and the United States.

The great consideration is that Cyril Maude has finally signed a contract to appear for a single, limited season on this continent, but scarcely less in interest is the matter of terms which has brought about this yielding.

Perhaps the most fitting comparison is to be made with the case of Lewis Waller, a previous importation by the Liebler Company, under whose auspices Mr. Maude makes his introductory in this country. Mr. Waller was brought over at a weekly wage of 400 pounds, which, as they say in the country south of us, is quite some wages. At all events the figures established a high water mark.

But the high water mark has been passed away. When George C. Tyler, head of the Liebler Company renewed last spring his endeavours to secure Mr. Maude's signature to an American contract—which he had been doing every season for ten years—Mr. Maude gave him what the actor-manager believed to be a final negative.

Mr. Maude pointed out that he could scarcely be expected to leave London, where he is practically an institution, and where his productions had a cheerful habit of running 300 nights and more.

Mr. Tyler admitted the claim. "Nevertheless," he said, "you have your price. Every man has. How much is it?"

Then Mr. Maude sprung what was intended to be a crusher.

"Very good, Mr. Tyler," he said calmly. "I'll sign a contract with you—for five hundred pounds a week and a percentage of the profits.

Then he waited for the manager to faint. But he was disappointed.

"That is satisfactory to me," declared Mr. Tyler. "When will you start?"

After Mr. Maude had partially recovered from the shock and Mr. Tyler had removed the final objection by taking over the lease of the London Playhouse for a period covering Mr. Maudes absence from England, the details of the tour were arranged. The foremost English comedian will play an engagement at the Grand Opera House in "The Second in Command," next Monday, Oct. 27.

ADDRESS TO WOMEN'S COUNCIL

The local Council of Women will hold a public meeting in the Assembly Hall of the Public Library on Wednesday, Oct. 22nd, at 3.30 p.m. A large attendance of representatives and members of affiliated societies is desired, as business of importance is to be discussed. Mr. Spence, City Sanitary Inspector, will address the meeting. Convenors of committees will report on the work of their committees since the organization of the Council in May. The meeting is open to the public.

HERO OF THE NORTH

A Figurative statement.

A chart, showing the proportion of Sunday School attendance for various centres throughout Ontario was exhibited and explained by Rev. Mr. Fuller. The following figures apply to Peterborough:

Number of Churches, 22; number of Sunday Schools, 23; resident Church members, 1913; total Sunday School enrollment, 1819; percentage of Church members in Sunday School, 17 per cent.; percentage of Sunday School in Church, 21 per cent.

The figures on the whole were favourable in comparison with other places delineated in the chart.

In conclusion the speaker emphasized the need of maintaining an adequate supply of Sunday School teachers, and the possibility of having a waiting list. Speaking of the delinquency in Sunday School attendance, Rev. Mr. Fuller said that it was just as fair and reasonable for the Sunday School to be absent as one member.

"The Hero of the North."

Rev. H. B. Coumans, B. A., of Cobalt was introduced by the Rev. W. B. Norton, D.D., as the "Hero of the North." Rev. Mr. Coumans is not only Pastor of the Cobalt Baptist Church, but is Pastor of the Temiskaming district. He was among the first to establish the Baptist denomination in the land of the 'stunted poplar,' and his pastorate during the past few years has covered the greater part of New Ontario, where the need for Christian workers is greater, perhaps, than in any other part of Canada. "His ability," said Rev. Dr. Norton, "is only exceeded by his modesty."

"I am glad to be here as a representative of New Ontario,' said Rev. Mr. Coumans, by way of introduction. "Glad to be here as a representative of the land towards which the eyes of half the world is turned. In the Public Schools of Cobalt you will find playing and studying together children representing as many as thirteen nationalities. In a few more years the children of the foreigners will be speaking the same language, moulding the destiny of our nation, swinging it to the right or left, for better or for worse, as the case may be.

"A Godless Lot."

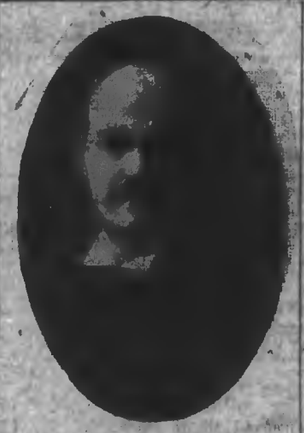
The name (New Ontario) concerns a territory equal to about one-fourth of the Dominion of Canada. Cobalt with its piles of crushed rock, resembling gigantic hills, surrounding their subterranean homes, and which eleven years ago was an unknown wilderness, in July last, enriched the world by one million dollars' worth of wealth. The country is also rich in gold as well as silver. One mine alone turns out over seventy tons. There is not a town or city in Ontario or Quebec that has not been benefitted in some way by the new found wealth of Ontario. Where the wealth is the people come. We are more concerned about the people than we are of the wealth. Away from home and its associations it has been said that they are a Godless, God-forgetting lot; but they are not a God-forsaken lot. God loves them as His own, and is ever ready and willing to receive them.

A Challenge.

"Besides the wealth of the mines there is the wealth of the land. Twenty millions of acres of the most fertile soil awaiting the hand of the settler. Virgin acres that will fill his barns and provide him with a comfortable living. The country is calling for settlers. There are a few French-Canadians there. He comes with his axe and his fiddle, and it is difficult to say which is the sweeter music—the thud of the axe or the strains of the fiddle. They are also followed by the priest, who are just as anxious as at any time in the history of the Roman Catholic Church to achieve supremacy. The northland needs men who are strong and decisive, and, above all, it needs the man of God. Men whose impelling nature is the Kingdom of God. New Ontario of to-day is a challenge to the Baptist denomination to go forth and realize it; to show that there is something real in our religion. In the name of New Ontario and Jesus Christ I would ask you to accept this challenge and go forth to conquer," said Rev. Mr. Coumans, in conclusion.

Coming Missionaries.

"The Three Andoff Brothers."—This cognomen, if attached a circus poster, would probably engender a mental convention of a trio of Japanese jugglers or tight rope artists but to those who attended the meeting in Murray Street Baptist Church on Monday evening, his inferential conception would be as far from reality as the polar extremities. They are performers in a sphere that has commended itself to the literal consideration of the Baptist denomination. They are not only Bulgarians, but are missionaries with a consecrated purpose that bids fair to be realized in a country that offers itself to the Slav races as a promised land of earthly compass. Their desire to be of spiritual service to their fellow countrymen, located in Canada, has attracted the attention of the Baptist denomination, and the result is to be found in Toronto, Montreal and other centres, where the foreign population is a quantity to be reckoned with, and where the need of missionaries is ever urgent. The three Andoff brothers, who might be classified as missionaries-elect, were presented to the meeting on Monday night. They also favoured the gathering with the rendition of a Bulgarian hymn in the Bulgarian tongue.



MR. S. J. MOORE,
A prominent man in the Laymen's Movement—also on the Board of Governors of McMaster University.

"I Beg Your Excuse."

"I beg your excuse," said Andrew Malanyn following his introduction to the audience by the chairman. Malanyn, who is a Bulgarian missionary of splendid physique and possesses a face that indicates strength of character, was apologising for any tax that he might unintentionally make upon the good nature of his auditors. For Malanyn was not very conversant with the complexities of the English language, and until three and a half years ago was a school teacher in his native country. He is a graduate of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, and contemplates the inauguration of a great work among the Slav population of the Queen City.

"A Man of Promise."

Mr. A. K. Naydovitch, another representative of a race whose nativity can be traced to the Balkan States, was authority for the statement that the Greek Catholic faith was insufficient for "his people." One day a priest who professed interest in Naydovitch's spiritual welfare, demanded the sum of two dollars in payment for a confession. Naydovitch was unable to pay this amount. It was at this juncture that Naydovitch decided to break away from the old faith and the faith of his forefathers and become a socialist. This he did following his arrival in Montreal. He eventually relinquished his Socialistic principles and became a convert to the Baptist doctrine. This was his first step towards the great work that he has undertaken in Montreal. "It is a great work," said Naydovitch, "and we need more helpers." Dr. Sullivan of Montreal, he maintained to give Naydovitch special attention, as regards him as a man of "splendid promise."

Mrs. Weir, who is engaged in Slavic work in West Toronto, gave an elucidative account of her work among the Slavs. She made a strong plea for the assistance of the convention and related a story which went to show that the children will even deny their parents after their arrival in this country. Mrs. Weir touched a pathetic chord when she read a letter from one of her former pupils, in which the latter joyfully outlined the progress he was making in the matter of acquiring a knowledge of the English language. A paraphrase of the immigrants point of view concluded as follows: "I as the immigrant pour out my blood upon the altar of labour, and yet I am regarded as the great American problem."

A Social Incident.

A Slavic missionary from the Ambitious city was the next speaker on the list. He was introduced as Paul Kolesnikoff. His work is centred among a foreign population of about seven thousand. He instanced one case of where as many as forty-five people were housed under one roof. The social life among the foreign element of Hamilton usually constitutes a passport to the police station. Kolesnikoff described one incident of where a man was thrown from a second story window. "How would you like to be pitched from a second storey window?" said Kolesnikoff with a wave of his hand. His reference to Rev. W. B. Tight, B.A., of Hamilton as "an Irishman," elicited a round of applause.

Rev. John Kolesnikoff, of Toronto, father of the Kolesnikoff boys, emphasized the need for more men if the work of reclaiming the Slavic races was to be advanced.

Staging Of The Convention Was Most Complete

Delegates Compliment Local Committee Upon Thoughtfulness Exhibited

MR. T. F. MATTHEWS BUSY

The Baptist Convention in progress at the Murray Street Church has been unanimously voiced as the most successful in its history. The number of delegates has been very large, the sessions have seen a great amount of work accomplished, the reports have been most encouraging and the general spirit of the convention has evidenced the fact that the Baptist Church is not only abreast of the times, but that it is looking forward to and preparing for future endeavours.

But there is one phase hidden away from the view of the general public. Not only the average citizen, but the average member of the church has had little idea of the strenuosities that have devolved upon the committees who prepared the stage for the convention. The delegates' every want was anticipated and provided for, and the facilities have been so complete that they have won the heartiest compliments from the visitors.

The Billeting Work.

To begin with, the billeting committee faced a big task. Over three hundred delegates were present and they were all comfortably provided for. As each delegate arrived and registered at the church he was conducted to the residence which had been secured for him. The members of this committee are Messrs. T. F. Matthews, Chairman; W. R. Breyfogle, A. F. Raddon, T. M. Somerville, H. J. Webber, and Dr. Scott.

Facilities Are Numerous.

The Sunday School comprising the eastern wing of the church is specially equipped for the convention. There are complete postal facilities. Incoming mails have been deposited at the church and a general delivery installed. The accommodations for sending out letters are equally efficient. Not only are there facilities for writing letters, but the committee provided a stenographer whose services have been greatly appreciated by the delegates.

There is also local and long distance telephone accommodation and telegraph wire has been installed. Railway information has been most complete. On a large blackboard the local hotels were listed with their rates, and restaurants were not overlooked.

A Check Room.

Several of the class rooms were devoted to check room purposes, and a number of the young men of the church were present continuously to make this department complete. Various rooms were allotted to different departments of the church work where meetings were held when necessary.

Mr. Matthews Kept Busy.

The convention entailed almost continuous work for Mr. T. F. Matthews, and the efficiency with which the minutest details were carried out has been evidence of the fact that he has had everything at his finger tips. As chairman of the billeting committee he was confronted with no light task, but his efforts did not cease there. He has devoted his time daily since the convention opened to the supervision of all the little details which, combined, have made this convention so successful. In this he has received the generous support of the members of the various committees, but the bulk of the work has fall upon his shoulders and the congratulations of the delegates indicate the success with which he fulfilled his duties.

REV. O. C. S. WALLACE, D.D.,
Of Westminster, ex-Chancellor of McMaster University. A delegate to the Baptist Convention.

WEDDING BELLS

CLAREY—PRIMEAU.

In St. Peter's Cathedral on Monday morning, October 20th, the marriage was solemnised of Miss Gertrude B., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Primeau, Driscoll Terrace, to Mr. Leo J. Clarey of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Phelan. The bride was given away by her father, attended by her sister, Miss Primeau, and Mr. Jack Clarey acted as groomsman, both of whom are from Toronto. Only immediate relatives were present at the ceremony. The bride wore a blue velvet suit with hat to match. After the wedding breakfast, which was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarey left for Buffalo, and on their return will reside in Toronto. Mrs. J. Clarey, Miss Clarey of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were the out-of-town guests present.

PARKDALES WON HARD FOUGHT GAME BY 12 TO 5

Paddlers Defeated Local Jun'or O. R. F. U. Team Here Yesterday---Scoring 11 Points in the First Quarter Peterboro' Finished Strong But Could Not Catch Up.

Parkdale juniors scored eleven points in the first quarter of the O. R.F.U. game at Nicholls Oval yesterday, and although Peterborough outplayed the visitors for the balance of the game, they could not overcome the lead, the final score being 12 to 5 in favour of the visitors. For some reason or other the Petes showed up with not a full team in uniform, and they wound up with a much stronger team than that which started. When Hill and Matthews were added to the team during the progress of the battle, the tide turned at once, and from then on the Padlers had to fight their way to hold their lead. The failure of the Peterborough line to protect their halves on a kick in the first few minutes of play gave Parkdale the game. Twice, with Peterborough in possession close to their line, the Parkdale wings broke through on Long as he was about to kick, and on both occasions he bunted weakly across the field, Parkdale nailing the ball and going over for easy tries. After the disastrous opening, the Petes showed better form. They bucked holes in Parkdales' lines time after time, but were unfortunate in losing the ball on a fumble or offside when within striking distance.

Neither team showed any inside Rugby, and it was straight football all the way, with the tackling on either side not of the best. Smith, the little flying wing of the Parkdales, was the star of his team. He had a sure pair of hands, and when he got his hands on the leather he tore down the field like a flash, being very hard to stop. McEachern, the centre half, did some fine kicking and running.

Hill and Matthews were in the limelight for the Petes. Matthews made his presence felt as soon as he came on by splendid bucking and tackling, and Hill's fine bucking and running were of immense assistance.

Rogers played stellar football at outside wing, his tackling being splendid, while Davidson and Ecclestone did some splendid work on the line.

Dr. McPherson and Elliot Green handled the game satisfactorily. The teams lined up as follows:

Parkdale — Flying wing, Smith; Halves, McEachern, Burrowes, Sparrow; quarter, Tuthill; scrimmage, Swaim, Raymer, Henderson; wings, Austin, Kelk, Langdon, Delaporte, Walker, Kaner.

Peterborough — Flying wing, Matthews; halves, Gibson, Smyth (Hill), Ecclestone; quarter, Legendre; scrimmage, Ecclestone, Dwyer, Hill; wings, Turner, O'Heron, Langley, Davidson, Long, Rogers.

Parkdale pressed from the start. When Legendre lost the ball in a buck one of the Parkdale wings got away for a long run, Smith saving a touchdown by bringing him down from behind. Shortly afterwards when Long made a weak kick from near his own line, Smith secured and tore out for a try. A short time later McEachern repeated on a similar play and this time the try was converted giving the visitors an eleven point lead.

The Petes had the better of the play in the second quarter, gaining their yards four times in succession by line plays and end runs. When they finally kicked, Smith relieved by a good run, relieving the situation for Parkdale.

With Hill on the back division in the second half, there was far more pepper in the Petes' play. At that, Parkdale scored the first point, McEachern returning along kick from Hill into touch-in-goal. Then the Petes by a succession of runs and bucks, carried the ball down the field. A combination run, Legendre to Gibson to Matthews to Hill gained twenty-five yards and finally the Petes pushed the ball over for a try, Matthews hammering the line for the distance. Langley spoiled the attempt at converting by handling the ball.

In the last quarter, Peterborough continued to tear holes through the Parkdale line, but fine runs by Smith and McEachern neutralized the ground gained. With the wind and seven points to make, a continuous kicking game might have had better results. At is was Parkdale, fighting deperately, held them scoreless until the final whistle.

Frugality.

The daughter of a Southern Congressman had recently been a bridesmaid at the marriage of a college chum. On her return home she was telling the family, including the old coloured mammy, of the ceremony.

"And just think, Aunt Comfort," she finished, "the bride wore the lace veil that had belonged to her great-grandmother!"

"Law, Miss Sidney, chile," exclaimed mammy, in tones of horror, "that sholy am one saving famly!"

THE NOMADS WON FROM BOWSER TEAM

Local Eleven Successful in Beating Toronto Visitors 4 to 0

The Nomads Football Club picked a team from their competition and easily defeated the Bowser Oil Tank team of Toronto four goals to nothing on the Exhibition park on Monday afternoon before a large crowd of football followers.

The game started out at a fast pace and Jeff and his men knew they had a hard battle before them and went in to do some scoring, and with some centres from Williams and Curtis, Butters had two shots, only to go over the bar. Then Follis had a try and his shot went under the bar in just six minutes of play.

The Bowsers got going with a goal against them, but their forward line found the Nomad defence too good for them and the ball was soon in possession of the Nomads' forward line, and a good many shots were put in. Some the goalie stopped, and others went wild, and then Butters, by some of his good work, scored goal number two on a lightning shot from the left wing after a throw in was taken, and in less than three minutes Hotston scored goal number three for his team mates.

With the score three to nil against them, the Bowsers kept right on fighting, but when their forward line would break away they could not go very far, for the Nomads' half-backs were there every time, ably suported by Gribb and Bishop on the back. Half-time was called with the score three to nil for the Nomads.

The second half was more even, as the Bowsers were working harder than in the first half and made many good rushes for goal, but could not get close enough to score, owing to good defence work by Jeff and his comrades.

The Nomads were not satisfied with three goals and so began to work to get another, and Williams on the left wing, was successful on a corner shot that the goalkeeper could not stop. This goal ended the scoring.

The Bowsers are a good lot of fellows and the Nomads hope to have them visit us again next spring. The Nomads play the return game in Toronto on Satrday, the 25th, and hope to take up their strongest team and show the committee of the Connaught Cup Competition, who would not give them a chance to play the Old Country team, that they have a team that is just as good, if not a little better, than the Old Country team.

Mr. W. Milburn gave good satisfaction as referee. The line-up of both teams is as follows:

Nomads		Bowser
	Goal
Morarity		Reesby
	Backs
Gribb		Jones (Capt.)
Bishop		Hawthorne
	Half-Backs
Mason		Tuck
Jeffries		Binns
Edwards		Mawson

Curtis		Newton
Follis		Mason
Butters		Young
Hotston		Taylor

INVITATIONS OF GOLF CLUB APPRECIATED

A few days ago the Peterborough Golf and Country Club tendered an invitation to the delegates to the Baptist Convention to make use of the golf links while in the City, and President Mulholland has received the following letter in regard to the matter:

Peterborough, Oct. 17. 1913.

Mr. Mulholland,
President Peterborough Golf and Country Club, City:

My Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Convention of the Baptist churches of Ontario and Quebec, I beg to express my appreciation of the courtesy extended by your club. Several of our delegates have found time to go over your course and more may do so before the close of the Convention.

Yours sincerely,
A. A. AYER, President.

FOOTBALL

There was only one game played in the competition on Saturday, owing to the bad weather, and that one was between the Costers and Glaziers, the two leading teams. The Glaziers won an easy game by the score of four to one.

The first half was pretty even and the Glaziers just managed to get one goal, a minute before half time, by a good shot from Gamble, but the second half was a runaway for the Glaziers, who tallied three to the Costers' one.

This win gives the Glaziers a three-goal lead, and they look like winning the medals and shield.

IN THE HOME.

The great thing to be desired in housekeeping is the comfort of all who live in the house. This goes before every other thing; and to secure it, order, punctuality, and cleanliness are necessary, but if the order of cleanliness are obtrusive comfort is impossible.

CONCERNING A PETERBOROUGH MAN

A copy of the Cobalt Daily Nugget has been received in this office, in which an extended account is given of a banquet tendered Mr. Sandy Hall, the new physical director of the Y. M.C.A., and who was formerly connected with the Y.M.C.A. work here. The speeches all contain flattering references to Mr. Hall and that of Mr. H. M. Gilchrist, also formerly of Peterborough, who proposed the toast, "Our Guest," is as follows:

"The last, and perhaps the most important toast was "To Our Guest," and which was assigned to Mr. H. M. Gilchrist, the secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. He said at the outset that the local "Y" ought to feel congratulated on obtaining Mr. Hall's assistance. He had considerable time in Y.M.C.A. work with Mr. Hall, had known him for some time, and could vouch for the fact that he was one of the best fellows connected with Y.M.C.A. work that he had ever met—and he presumably has met a bunch.'

Mr. Hall was taken somewhat by surprise at seeing such a banquet given in his honour. Mr. Gilchrist had intimated that there would be a little affair, but he had no idea that it would be on such a scale. Again, he would not say the Cobalt "Y" should be congratulated on obtaining his services, but on the other hand he felt congratulated on being offered the position. He reviewed the possibilities of the "Y" in the North Country, and said the position of the local branch was unique inasmuch that it had no competitors, and he was proud of the interest taken by the young men in handling this affair themselves.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT NEAR LINDSAY

A shooting accident that may terminate with fatal results, occurred in Lindsay on Sunday morning about 7.30, when a revolver in the hands of Lawrence Burke, son of J. C. Burke, who resides on the corner of Lindsay and Russell Streets, was discharged, the bullet striking the boy's younger brother, Earl, in the head.

The two boys, it appears, have quite a large collection of firearms, with which they often spend their time. On this occasion the younger brother, Earl, who is about nine years old, was entering the room of his fourteen year old brother, when he was 'held up' in a playful manner and shot at twice. There being two chambers of the revolver empty, no harm was done, but the trigger was pulled a third time, the revolver was discharged and the bullet, striking the little fellow in the face, passed through his right cheek, out the left cheek and lodging in his left-shoulder, striking the shoulder bone and glancing downward into his body. The bullet canot be located as yet.

The boy was taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. White. According to last reports the boy was expected to recover.

The Laymen's Movement Has Lost Its Force

Appointment of a Secretary Destroyed Interest, Said Rev. J. B. Kennedy at the Convention

RESULT MOST SATISFACTORY

The report of the Baptist Laymen's Missionary movement was presented by Mr. W. C. Senior, its secretary, at Saturday morning's session. The report pointed ou that the aim of the movement is not mainly financial. First of all it deals with the personal experience of men along the line of the spiritual. It appeals for loyalty to Jesus Christ in regard to sending the Gospel to the whole world. The call to make dominant in all relations of human life the principles of Jesus Christ is the call of the movement. The Baptists of Canada had as their first secretary of this work, Rev. Dr. W. T. Stackhouse, who, after a time, went to the United States and was succeeded by Mr. Senior.

The most loved Baptist in Canada," Mr. Jas. Ryrie, is the chairman of the movement in Ontario and Quebec. There is a strong executive committee of a hundred men. The movement offers the service of its members without cost to the churches, so that the best methods of finance may be introduced into congregations and interest in missions increased. The practical results of the movement have been of the most satisfactory kind and increased missionary giving. A campaign of education is being conducted this winter.

Mr. Ryrie's Address.

Mr. Jas. Ryrie of Toronto, made an address, during which he presented a motion approving on the idea of the appointment of a committee to lay out a comprehensive missionary programme for the next five years, and should it see fit to report to a special gathering of the convention in the month of May next. The thought is that the Board should have their funds on hand at the beginning of the year, instead of having "to go to it blind," in making appropriations as at present.

Rev. Dr. Brown, Foreign Missionary Secretary, in seconding the adoption of the appointment of a committee, spoke of the importance of having a comprehensive plan. In five years the Toronto Baptist Churches have increased their missionary offerings from $23,000 to $35,000, and something of the same sort can be done by the denomination as a whole, if the proper means be taken. He thought that the spiritual atmosphere of the convention is an index that the denomination is ready for a forward movement.

Rev. Dr. Norton, Home Missionary Superintendent, said that the Laymen's movement is to be used only to secure a great forward missionary movement in the denomination.

Mr. A. McNee of Windsor questioned whether a special convention would reach the whole denomination. Local conferences would do more he thought.

The reply was made that local conferences would follow the proposed convention.

Does Not Like the Name.

Rev. T. T. Shields of Toronto, said that there is a danger of splitting up the Church into many sections. He did not care for the term "Laymen's Missionary Movement." The place of the Christian Church in the work of God should be emphasized. Organizations outside of the Church should not usurp the functions of the Church. The laymen in suggesting this special convention had taken the initiative, but the Churches should stand behind the proposal for a comprehensive Baptist Missionary Forward Movement. He was heartily in favour of the resolution.

Rev. John McIntosh, B.A., of Toronto, said that 75 p.c. of the members of the Churches do not realize their responsibility as Christians.

Mr. Geo. R. Roberts of Toronto, thought that the care of worn-out ministers should should be comprehended in the scheme for a forward movement.

Strength is Gone.

Rev. J. B. Bennedy, M.A., Toronto, said the strength of the Laymen's Missionary Movement is gone and the appointment of a secretary for their work had destroyed interest. We are over-burdened with organizations. In the end the local Church has to do the work, and there is too great a discrepancy between the amount paid secretaries and the salaries paid to pastors. Thirty-one thousand dollars is being paid for organized work and he believed the denomination owes pastors $100,000 back salary. The raising of missionary offerings does not always mean that pastors are being paid a living salary. A starving pastor has no heart to work.

Mr. D. Bentley of Montreal, thought the local conferences would do much to increase missionary work.

It was agreed that a committee be appointed to consider the advisability of calling a special session of convention to co-operate with the executive of the convention in case such a session is called. The committee is composed of the following: S. J. Moore, Jas. Ryrie, J. H. Farmer, L.L.D., J. G. Brown, D.D., W. E. Norton, D.D., T. T. Shields, J. M. Shenstone, W. C. Senior, A. Matthews, S. S. Bates, D. D., John MacNeill.

DIAZ LANDS TO-DAY

Presidential Candidate Permitted to Enter Mexico

SOLDIERS ARE IN READINESS

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 22.—Gen. Felix Diaz, candidate for the Mexican Presidency, who is now on his way to Vera Cruz aboard the steamer Corcovado, will be permitted to land today, but there must be no demonstration.

A small army of detectives is here from Mexico City and troops are held in quarters. Should the enthusiasm of the Diaz partisans outweigh their judgment, and in the opinion of the authorities, the peace of the city be thereby disturbed, the soldiers and police have orders to shoot.

Col. Vidaurrasaga, secretary to Gen. Blanquet, the Minister of War, is aboard the gunboat Zuragosa. The gunboat has steam up, and unless the orders are changed, will run alongside the Corcovado before she docks. Col. Vidaurrasaga will request Gen. Diaz to counsel his partisans to maintain good order, and in return for this he will assure Gen. Diaz his protection.

The Corcovado should be in Mexican water to-day, but she is not expected to dock before to-night. She is a German boat, and close behind her comes the German gunboat Hertha.

Not a very great number of partisans are expected to greet their chief. Those here are headed by Jose Luis Requena, candidate for the vice-presidency. Senor Requena believes that the ticket will be withdrawn, but will have a conference with Gen. Diaz to-day on the subject.

The candidacy of Gen. Huerta and Gen. Blanquet was proclaimed in unsigned handbills which were distributed here yesterday. Adherents of Gen. Diaz profess to have information that the state officials throughout that part of the republic controlled by the Government have agreed to favor the Huerta-Blanquet ticket, and consider it probable that Diaz will readily agree with them that under such circumstances competition would be useless.

Gen. Diaz, in a wireless message received last evening, announced his intention of remaining here to-day and proceeding to Mexico City on Thursday.

OFFICIALS BRIBED?

Galician Emigration Scandals Involve All Classes.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Vienna despatch to The Telegraph says that more than one hundred arrests of police, gendarmie and other persons supposed to have been bribed by the emigration agencies, are reported from Galicia. Charges of corruption are being wildly bandied about by both sides, that is the champions of the Canadian and North German Lloyd lines respectively. The Emperor is said to have ordered the strictest supervision of all emigration agencies in the future.

It is stated that letters and telegrams of the Canadian Pacific Railway have disclosed the fact that several high officials, including two important functionaries of the Ministry of Commerce and two district commanders in Galicia, have entertained compromising relations with the C.P.R.

The papers seized at the offices of the company are said to shew that a number of Austrian members of Parliament were on very close terms with the concern. Several Hungarian politicians are included in the list of those alleged to be compromised.

Captain Inch of the Velturno—who, according to the announcement of the Uranium mine officials, will not lose his Captaincy, which generally happens with those who lose their ships. He will be given command of another vessel of the Uranium line as a reward for his exceptional courage and resourcefulness in connection with the disaster.

TO KEEP TO PROGRAM.

Germany Will Not Diverge From Naval Plans.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Daily Chronicle this morning publishes an interview its Berlin correspondent had with a distinguished German naval officer, who says positively that Germany will not depart from her existing program of naval construction and development. Winston Churchill's proposal of a "naval holiday" seems never to have been regarded very seriously in Berlin. The correspondent continues: Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz, Naval Secretary of State, spoke to me very freely on the naval situation. He does not wish to give any false impression to the British Government, but desires that the British people and Government should know the facts. "There is nothing," he says, "to conceal." He does not question the wisdom or necessity of anything Britain may do. As for Germany, the navy law will be carried on to its conclusion without hesitation.

The admiral stated that there never has been any acceleration in the execution of the German program. If any ships were laid down a little in advance this was merely to maintain regularity in the work at the shipbuilding yards. He laid stress on the fact that the German navy was purely a defensive function with no aggressive purpose like that of the army. It was to maintain the security of the Empire, besides enabling Germany to raise her voice in the affairs of the world. He was unable to see why this should be denied her.

He regards a war of aggression as unthinkable to Germany. He is lost in wonder at the German navy being regarded as a danger or a menace.

MAJORITY REDUCED

East Middlesex Returns Mr. Glass to House of Commons

MINISTERS IN THE RIDING

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 22.—Ald. S. Frank Glass of this city was elected to the House of Commons from East Middlesex, in succession to the late Peter Elson, M.P. The Conservative candidate's majority over R. G. Fisher, Liberal, is 362. Only one of the four municipalities in the riding gave the latter a majority. Of the 45 subdivisions all but 16 gave majorities for Glass. Eight of the remainder were in Westminster Township, a Liberal strong hold, which on this occasion netted Mr. Fisher 112.

The vote in detail:

	Glass.	Fisher.	Maj. for Glass.	Maj. for Fisher.
London Tp	1003	621	382	...
W. Nissouri	260	245	15	...
Westminster	424	536	...	112
N. Dorchester ...	368	283	80	...
Totals 3063		1685	430	112

The vote was about 500 short of that polled in the riding in the general election of 1911, when Mr. Elson was given 661 majority. Rainy weather and bad roads interfered with the getting out of the vote.

Mr. Glass in addressing a gathering at the committee rooms declared for the doctrine of protection for Canadian industries, and in Canadian aid to the Imperial navy.

Mr. Fisher in a statement after the result was known expressed the opinion that the presence of Cabinet Ministers and election "thugs" in the riding contributed to the result.

In 1911 Mr. Elson had a plurality of 661. This means that the Liberals have made a gain of 293 votes since the last election. Conservative organizers however declare that the normal Conservative majority in the riding is about 250 and that the Government's loss is made up of those Liberals who have resumed their party affiliations since the vote against the reciprocity treaty. Mr. Elson's majority in 1908 was 249.

Another factor in deciding the result was the feeling in some quarters that the constituency should be represented by a farmer. This sentiment led to considerable friction at the convention which nominated Mr. Glass.

ARRESTS IN LISBON.

Revolution Is Summarily Put Down By Portuguese Government.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 22.—Many arrests were made in the Portuguese capital late Monday night when several groups of opponents of the Government attacked police stations and detachments of the republican guard in various parts of the city and also attempted to release the political prisoners confined in Limoeiro jail. They succeeded in setting free one prisoner from the district prison.

The authorities eventually suppressed the outbreaks and the Government declares itself master of the situation.

The semi-official El Mundo, the only journal which gives any particulars of the plot, publishes the names of several well-known men as being involved in the rebellion. Some of these have been arrested, but others were found to have fled when their houses were searched.

Contract For Section Two of Welland Canal To Be Awarded Soon.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—The contract for Section 2 of the Welland Canal has not yet been awarded, but Hon. Frank Cochrane, the Minister of Railways and Canals, who has been absent for weeks, is here to-day, and is considering the tenders.

It is understood that the tenders of Hutchinson, Brawling & Co., the English firm of contractors, and Jas. Corbett of New Brunswick, are the lowest, and are very near each other. The Toronto Construction Co. and the Inland Construction Co. of Toronto and St. Catharines were considerably higher than the two firms first named, it is understood.

Sues Sir Thomas For Trunk.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R., was served with papers in a damage suit when he arrived yesterday. The railroad president was just entering the office of the president of another railroad when a deputy sheriff, after displaying a bright badge informed Sir Thomas that a man in Chicago was bringing action against the railroad because a trunk had been smashed.

The action was unique as it was brought under a new law against the head of a foreign corporation temporarily within the States.

NEW BLACKMAIL SCHEME.

It Is To Send Deadly Germs and Then Offer a Serum.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A blackmailer with a new terror is giving the post-office secret service men a field in which to exercise their talent. He sends to wealthy families a letter filled with a million or so of deadly germs, which he alleges will infect the person opening the letter at once. Death will occur in nine days from some mysterious fever, which he does not name. But he has a serum to prevent death, which he will send his victim upon payment of $2,500. It is more than nine days ago since Mrs. Frederick M. Steele of Highland Park received the culture bacilli, and although she opened the missive and looked curiously at the contents, she is well yet, but worried. Inspector James E. Stuart says other families have received like messages. The letter is 1,800. It reads in part:

"By opening this letter you have liberated 2,000,000 of healthy bacilli, propagated by myself, and without a doubt you are infected by this time, but do not become excited—my prophylactic will destroy any number of germs of this synotic disease in the body if used by the ninth day."

MEN GO TO PRISON

Women of Cheque Swindling Party Are Set Free

CULPRITS PLEADED GUILTY

WELLAND, Oct. 22.—The trial of Mrs. Clara Knapp on a charge of attempting to pass a worthless Union Bank check on the Imperial Bank at Niagara Falls on Sept. 30, and of the "check artists," Martindale, alias Walker and Albert Kindy, alias Allen, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the bank, was held yesterday before Judge Livingstone. Martindale and Kindy both pleaded guilty and were sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Kingston, being convicted on their evidence contained in signed statements to Chief Kimmins of Niagara Falls, in which they confessed their guilt. Mrs. Knapp was allowed to go on suspended sentence and Miss Helen Kelley, alias Mrs. Allen, who had been held as a witness, was also allowed to go.

From the pile of evidence gathered by Chief Kimmins the two men have served time and are wanted in many places. They are wanted in Toronto, for attempting to pass a worthless $350 check on a bank branch at the corner of Queen street and Roncesvalles avenue. Martindale, who comes from Owen Sound, has a wife and child in Toronto. He was arraigned in Sandwich, Ont., Nov. 13, 1912, charged with conspiracy and theft, and sentenced to twelve months in the Central Prison. On March 19, 1913, he was tried in Toronto for a similar offence, but sentence was suspended. He was paroled from the Central Prison August 11, and had two months and twenty-six days to serve.

Kindy was sentenced to twenty-four months in the Central Prison on a charge of forgery in Cayuga, Ont. He was paroled on July 26, 1913. In 1911 he was charged with mutilating documents in the Registry Office at Cayuga and fined $250.

Union Bank checks aggregating $30,000 were found on the two men, six of which were for amounts of five thousand dollars odd. Evidently they had intended to use these.

In Kindy's written confession to the police he states that his home is Selkirk, Ont. He met Martindale at the Prison Farm in Guelph four months ago. He was released in July last, and Martindale two weeks later. They both went to Toronto, and at the Imperial Bank branch on King street presented a worthless check which Martindale drew on under an assumed name, to be deposited in a savings account. The next day Martindale drew on the bank with a false check for an amount which he says was $350.

The two told of visits to Hamilton and St. Catharines. At Hamilton they forged a check, using the name of Wm. J. Aikens of Dunnville, and deposited it at the Union Bank at St. Catharines. Other forgeries and attempted forgeries against the Dominion and other banks were told of in the confession.

The men met the two women in Buffalo. The women up to the time of their arrest, had no knowledge that the checks were forged.

Rev. Scott Currie Missing.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—So far as known, up to a late hour yesterday afternoon, no trace had been found of Rev. Scott Currie, the Anglican clergyman, who on Saturday went on a hunting expedition near Glen Almond in Labelle county, Quebec, and has not since been seen. Three search parties, including a number of men from Buckingham, are in the field, and they are expected to be heard from to-day.

The theory that he accidentally shot himself is thought to be correct.

Madcap Princesses.

The three princesses of the court of Louis XIV. delighted in practical jokes and were for ever in some scrape or other. One night at Trianon they procured a petard and exploded it beneath the window of monsieur's bedchamber. Once when the court was at Marly the odor of an exceedingly pungent tobacco was wafted to the king's nostrils as he was on the point of retiring to rest, which, upon inquiry being made, was found to proceed from the apartments of Mme. de Chartres, where she and her sister were smoking pipes borrowed from the Swiss guard.—From H. Noel Williams' "A Rose of Savoy."

A Chinese Joke.

A courier, bearing important dispatches, was given a horse and told to make all possible speed toward his destination. Some time afterward he was found in the road, walking and pushing his horse before him.

"Why in the world are you doing that?" he was asked.

"Oh," he said, "I reflected, and I came to the conclusion that we should make more speed on six feet than we possibly could on four."

By ROY NORTON

"That-there Jack orter to be sold," he declared wrathfully. "We ain't got no use for him here nowhow, and we might just as well get shed of him.

Lish grinned, but made no reply, as the old man began preparations to wash his face.

"I think," he went on, "I'll unload him the next time I'm down to camp. I orter to get sixteen dollars for him. I wouldn't take no less."

Lish continued to watch him, as he performed that operation he called "sprucin up."

"Now," he said benevolently, turning toward the man who owned the burro, "if you'll hustle and get the supper ready. I'll be right obleeged. They's a team from the Canady Hill goin' down to Peaceful, and it'll pass my trail in about an hour. If you move quick, I'll let you do down to the camp with me."

Highly amused at the assumption of Channel Smith, Lish hastened to comply, and stood with him at the roadside when the big waggon came grating along over the boulder-strewn road.

Lish had not been in the camp for a week, and was glad for the opportunity. He sat on a seat by Channel Smith, and, therefore, in that flood of crack-voiced garrulity, had no occasion to speak during the progress of the drive. The waggon rolled into the camp in the moonlight of the early evening, and stopped in front of the Happy Home, with a loud "Whoa!"

The driver turned to the back seat and spoke to the prospector in a friendly voice.

"We all know about you," he said, "and dont you be scared to come in with us and get something to wash the dust out of your throat. We'll stick by you."

"Say," he said, "I'm not much of a fighter, and I'm right obliged to you; but I don't reckon I'll need any help. I'm not goin' in. You fellers can find me, when you want me, sittin' down around the Peaceful Hill house. I drank all that was comin' to me long before some of you old gents had graduated from square patches of tarpaulin to short pants. And, besides, I don't like lemonade."

He wandered on down the street, stopping at every shop to look in the window, until he came to the largest in the camp. Its most prominent display was a highly polished brass grocer's scales, on which the light of the kerosene lamp glowed with soft brilliancy. For a long time he stood and admired the beauty of workmanship, the clearly printed figures, the nickel-plated dial pointer, the solidity of the varnished iron table, and the cleanliness of the tin scoop. He had seen others in the storehouses of different mines, but never one so beautiful as this. A sudden glowing impulse seized him to buy it. He hastened in, asked for it regardless of price, and gamely met the demand by unrolling a worn leather wallet which he had kept concealed somewhere in close proximity to his skin.

"Want to take it with you" asked the storekeeper, "or can I send it somewhere?"

"Sure I'll take it," asserted Lish. "And, say, can you wrap her up in some fussy kind of paper? Got any tissue?"

The salesman assented, wondering at his customers peculiar tastes, and fifteen minutes later Lish stood at the kitchen door of the Peaceful Hill Inn. He asked for Maggie. She happened to be there in person.

"Hello," he said, by way of greeting. "How are you gettin along? I brought you a little present."

Quite proudly he carried it over to the table, and began unwrapping it while she stood and watched him. He turned to her with such an unconcealed pride that she bit her lip to keep from laughing.

"There," he said, "Did you ever see anything finer than that? Look at her dial. She shines like an angel. And her trimmin's! Ain't they all right? Pretty enough to keep on a table with flowers in her, ain't she?"

The waitress saw that whatever he lacked in taste, he made up in seriousness, and so strove to appear grateful. Perhaps the gift accomplished a result, however, for she permitted him to sit on the edge of the back porch and roll countless cigarettes and tell in his broken sentences of his work.

"I got the gun yet," he asserted. "You don't mind if I carry it a while longer, do you? It feels kind of comfortin' and homelike. Makes a man so peaceful to feel her nestlin' there under his arm."

Neither of them referred to his good-bye note; not even when a loud call from the front of the hotel warned him that the team from the Canada Hill was ready to return. He got to his feet and put on his hat. At the foot of the steps he turned and said, "Well, so long, Maggie," and went away, rather proud of that step gained, for he had wilfully dropped the "Miss," and entered upon familiarity which she did not resent.

In the waggon on the way home he rode with the driver, who finally turned to him, when the conversation behind was warm, and said: "Say! Has that old shellback, Chanel Smith, got anything up there? He's ben spoutin' his head off like a geyser about how his good showing it. The first thing you fellers know he'll have a stampede on up there. You ought to tell him to keep his mouth shut."

Lish dismissed it with a laugh, and he did not refer to it when he assisted the rather unsteady footsteps of the Forty-niner up the winding trail to his cabin. But it was recalled to him the next forenoon when he heard a voice above him and looked around to see a stranger standing alert, and calmly inspecting him. Something in the man's attitude warned him of trouble, and before he spoke he climbed up to the bank to be on equal footing.

"Whose ground do you think you're workin' on" the man demanded abruptly, without preliminary.

"Mine as near as I can calculate," asserted Lish, fixing the stranger with his eye.

"Better calculate agin, then," hotly asserted that individual. "This claim's mine. I don't know who you are, or where you came from; but I want you to get off this ground right away."

Lish looked him over quite calmly before he spoke.

"Got anything to prove it beside your word?" he asked.

This appeared to anger the other man. His face turned white, then purple.

"I don't need anything but my word!" he asserted.

"You do for me," was the steady retort. "I want to see the papers, before I move off. Better run along and get 'em."

At this the claimant lost his temper completely, and shook a threatening fist under the prospector's nose.

"You'll get off this ground, and now!" he declared. "If you don't, I'll put you off!"

The prospector appeared almost to wither under that threat, and his drawl became quite plaintive.

"Pshaw, now! Pshaw! Don't do nothin' like that to a greenhorn like me, pardner. There ain't no use in me and you lockin' horns. You go get your papers, and if they're right, I'll walk off as quiet as Mary's lamb."

"I told you I didn't need any papers," snorted the other man.

"I'm sorry; but I'm right afraid you'll have to have 'em before I go. I'm too lazy to run unless I get a head start, and I ain't got one now."

The claimant launched a quick blow at the prospector, who ducked like lightning, and, without ever shifting his feet, whipped his right arm upward. It was as rigid as an iron bar driven by steam, and met the point of a chin. The claimants arms suddenly whirled up into the air, and he fell backward. Lish, entirely unruffled, stood and looked at him for a moment, then dropped down into the creek bed, filled his hat with water, returned, and sloshed it over the upturned face. He rolled a cigarette and quietly watched the recovery. The man finally rolled over to his hands and knees, and then got shakily to his feet.

"Now, as you were sayin' a moment ago, mister," Lish said, lighting his cigarette, "it's the papers that counts. I'm glad you're so willin' to go and fetch 'em, because there ain't no use in you and me havin any fuss over nothin'. If youve got indigestion, or are feelin' weak, you can put your hand on my shoulder and I'll try and support you to the cabin down yonder, where 'most always that old pirate, Channel Smith, has a bottle of brandy cached away somewhere We're hospitable and peaceful up here, if we ain't nothin' else. Then, after that, you'll probably want to go and bring them papers, eh?"

The claimant appeared dazed, and obeyed in a perfunctory manner, until the cabin was reached and the brandy found, and absorbed. It appeared to revive him, and he thought the situation over. Finally he laughed, as he stared at Lish, who sat, a picture of solicitous timidity, on the opposite side of the crude little table.

"Say," he said, "you're all right! I don't want to, but I've got to admit I like you. It was my fault, and I got just what I needed. On the level, I own this ground; I've got a buckboard down on the road, and if you'll come and ride over to the Canada Hill with me, Dick Murdock, the superintendent, will tell you I own it, and that he saw me stake it, and that he owns the ground above, and that we registered together. There's not a foot of open ground on this gulch, unless it's due to lack of assessment work."

At this concise statement, so palpably true, the prospector for the first time looked his disappointment.

"You come along over with me, and I'll bring you back," the claimant insisted. "I have no papers here, or there. They are away over at my home in Placerville. Will you come?"

For answer Lish got up, walked to a peg on the wall and got his coat, stopped to wash his hands in the basin outside the door, and said: "All right."

He paused long enough to yell to Chanel Smith that he would be gone for an hour or two, and led the way to the waiting buckboard.

His late opponent climbed in and picked up the reins in a thoughtful way, glancing sidewise now and then at his passenger.

"My name is Martin," he said. I don't think I had time to tell you before."

Lish looked up at him as if thinking of something.

"Same name as the man that runs the Cricket," he remarked.

"Yes, he is my brother. I'm opening up another property back on the Divide."

In all the two miles they did not again refer to their recent combat, and Lish appeared to have forgotten it, although now and then Martin rubbed his hand over his chin, as if in his case it was not so easily dismissed. At the Canada Hill they stopped in front of the superintendents' office, and went in.

Murdock, who was looking over some assay slips, and comparing them with mill tabs, stared at them and greeted Martin with boisterous friendliness.

"What's the matter with your jaw, Harry?" he asked.

Martin grinned and turned a thumb in the direction of Lish, who stood quietly inside the door.

"We had some little difficulty in getting acquainted this morning," he said. "I made a mistake. I lost my temper. I don't think he did, and I don't care to be around when he does."

Murdock rolled backward in his office chair and let out a howl of laughter that could have been heard as far as the mess-house. In his paroxysm he leaned too far and the chair toppled over, and then he got to his feet and laughed louder than ever. And all the time the prospector stood, solemn-faced, looking at him as if astonished at his finding anything humorous in the situation.

"I brought him over here," Martin added when the mirth had subsided sufficiently to permit of speech being audible, "to prove to him that I own the ground adjoining Channel Smith's on the up-stream side, staked from rim rock to rim rock, and recorded."

The superintendent sobered instantly, and confirmed all that the claimant had stated.

"I did own the ground above that," he added, "but traded it to John Martin last week for some ground he had up above us here that I want for its water rights."

Lish's face expressed his chagrin.

"I'm sorry," said Murdock, with simple frankness. "Ive heard a good deal about you since you were here, and it strikes me we need a few more men like you around these hills. I think that most of the people down in Peaceful would vote to give you a medal. If a job will do you any good, there's one for you here at the Canada."

The prospecter shook his head. "Nope," he said. "I don't work for nobody."

"Then why don't you take a lease on that ground of mine," Martin hastened to suggest. "You've done a lot of work there. It's to my interest to have it opened up. I'll make a deal with you, I'll give you two-thirds of anything you take out in the next eighteen months."

Peps
What are they?

Peps is the name bestowed upon a new scientific preparation put up into tabloid or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

Did it never occur to you as peculiar that when you have a cough or a cold, or any chest trouble, you should apply medicine—not to your lungs, but to your stomach?

Look at it the other way round. Suppose you suffered from some stomach complaint—indigestion or ulceration. How strange you would think it if you were asked to take a medicine which had to be breathed in, and which went—not to your stomach, but to your lungs and breathing passages?

Peps—this newest remedy for coughs, colds, and lung troubles—go to the—lungs and breathing-tubes, direct. Peps are really pine fumes, and certain highly beneficial medicinal extracts specially prepared by a new scientific process and then condensed into tabloid form. It is like making a breathable gas solid!

You put a "Pep" on your tongue and let it dissolve. As it does so, the healing essences it contains turn into vapor, and you BREATHE them direct to your lungs and air passages!

Just as the out-door treatment for consumption—the "breathing" treatment—is now admitted to be the only rational treatment, so the "Peps" treatment for colds and lung troubles is the only rational home treatment.

Peps cure catarrh, coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, tightness or aching across the chest, difficulty in breathing, night cough, hoarseness, asthma, laryngitis, smoker's throat, etc. Best for children, because free from opium, morphine, or any poison.

All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25.

SHE BUILDETH HER HOUSE.

Smith's Falls Woman Sent Picture To King George.

Mrs. Lizzie McNeil, of Smith's Falls, Ont., decided to build a house for herself and plant trees, etc., so that she could sit under her own vine and fig tree and be beholden to no man.

She already owned a couple of lots, and, although the weather at the time was cool, she started operations. She planned out the whole arrangement and architecture herself, figuring out the amount of lumber required, then went to the mill and gave her order. The timber cost about $175. She commenced to build on the 20th day of December, and in six days had the framework up and ready for the shingles. On New Year's Day she accomplished a great day's work, starting at daybreak and continuing until dark. On the 20th day of January she moved in and took possession.

The house contains two comfortable rooms downstairs and a small bedroom upstairs. It has a front and side entrance, with walks leading to each. Since finishing the house she has added a convenient kitchen, furnished and comfortably fitted inside. She has also built a commodious henhouse at the rear end of the lot, with a convenient run-way, and it contains a number of fine poultry.

Mrs. McNeil, who is about forty-eight years of age, has a fence around the whole property, and intends to build another cottage and become a landlady. The photograph of the woman who built her own house from cellar to roof was sent to King George, and the King's reply, together with a duplicate of the photograph forwarded to Buckingham Palace, has been mounted and framed, and now occupies a conspicuous place in the little home, and the owner would not take twice the value for it.—Ottawa Citizen.

"Look, papa!" he exclaimed. "There's a two story man!"—Chicago News.

Chart Of Lake Ontario.

Surveys are being made of Lake Ontario at present for the first chart to be issued by the Canadian Government. Commander Hasbard of the Government steamer, "Bayfield" is in Toronto taking soundings of the harbor.

The charts under which Canadian navigation has been conducted have all been produced by the U. S. Government from Washington. Only two of these have been issued, the first in 1817 and the last in 1895, which is at present in use among the captains running on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. It includes these two lakes only.

It is expected that many changes will appear in the new chart which is being formed. The shore lines are constantly changing, forming new shoals and many rocks have been located since the American Government formed its last chart. The issue that is being made at present will not be published before next year. The survey has been under way for three years, and all along the lake shore you will find the little white marks placed by the surveyors for purposes of taking angles and measurements.

Reading His Fortune.

A negro, having won a dollar at a crap game, decided to spend it on having his fortune told. The fortune teller led him into a gloomy room with dirty hangings and misty red lights. She took his palm, traced it with a pin, spread out her cards and then said:

"You are very fond of music; you like chicken; you have won money at craps, and you have been in jail."

The negro looked at her with bulging eyes and finally ejaculated:

"Mah goodness, lady—why, yo' jest read mah inmost thoughts!"—Exchange.

Church Founded by Escaped Slaves.

A few days ago the Chestnut Street British Methodist Episcopal Church of Toronto, founded fifty-seven years ago by escaped slaves from the South-ern States, observed its anniversary.

Only one of the church's founders was present, Mrs. Sarah Wilson, of 109 Rose avenue, who has reached the nineties in age, and who came to Toronto by the "underground"—smuggled into Canada with her husband by the abolitionists before the slaves were freed in the States, as it was called at first.

Albert C. Jackson, a Toronto postman, while not a founder of the church, is one of its oldest members. As a baby, he was brought by his mother, under the protection of abolitionists, to Canada.

The church has seventy members and is free from debt. It stands on a valuable piece of land first bought from John Beverly Robinson for $200.

Letters by Barrowful.

Joseph Schwartz, a wealthy farmer of Rochester, Alta., who asked the assistance of the police of Edmonton some time ago in finding a wife for him, receives his mail in a wheelbarrow these days, and the postmaster of the settlement threatens to strike. The lone farmer has letters from every part of America, and from all parts of Europe, the writers being women of all ages. According to the letters, most of the writers are spinsters. They are ready and willing to make a home for Schwartz and live on the farm. Some of them are widows with children.

FACTS ABOUT BABIES.

Some That Surprised and One That Pleased the Professor.

"I never knew before I had one," said the professor of physics to his bachelor assistant, "just how closely our science could be applied to a baby. I have been astounded at the following true conclusions:

"As two similar bodies vary in weight as the cubes of their dimensions, I find that a baby two feet long should weigh just about one-sixteenth of a man five feet high; also that, as the surfaces of two similar bodies vary as the square of their dimensions, a baby as before would have about one-sixth the surface of the man. So the extent of surface proportional to weight in the baby is vastly greater than in the adult. In fact, a square foot of the baby's skin would shield just one-third the substance of what a square foot would on an adult.

"Arguing from this and knowing that the rate of cooling of a solid depends on the extent of surface, I found that a baby got cold quicker or warm quicker when exposed to a fire than a man; also, as any living body is higher in temperature than the surrounding air and has to lose heat continually—the rate of loss depending on the surface—it is readily seen that a baby, in order to keep up normal temperature, has to furnish more heat in proportion to its weight than man, and therefore has to eat more in proportion to its weight than man. To prove that a baby gives out an enormous amount of heat, keep the heat from escaping by wrapping a heavy blanket around it. In a half an hour the temperature under the cover will be almost unbearable to the hand, and the baby will be found covered with sweat.

"The same knotty problem comes up when the baby is bathed. You know yourself how cool you feel when you bathe in a cold room in warm water, but in very little of it, so that most of your wet body is out of the water on account of the heat of your body being taken to evaporate the water? The baby suffers much worse on account of that same big proportion of surface.

"But I find one encouraging thing in this peculiar geometrical problem of the human form. I find that if a dress is made for my little daughter two feet high and one for her mother five feet high, it takes only one-sixth the cloth to do it, although the dresses were made in exactly the same style."—Lawrence Hodges in Chicago Record-Herald.

J. R. R. and the Fruit.

John Ross Robertson, editor and proprietor of The Toronto Telegram, who might almost class himself as one of Toronto's landmarks, is the subject of a little anecdote concerning the youthful tendency to taste the sweetness of forbidden fruit.

The late Alexander McDonald, who at the time of his death was registrar of deeds at Osgoode Hall, owned an orchard in the olden days, bounded by John, Richmond, Duncan and Adelaide streets. This was noted for its fine fruit and, incidentally, for many invasions of it by youths of the city.

A few years ago Mr. Robertson's lawyer was negotiating with Mr. MacDonald for a piece of property and remarked to the owner that he probably knew the purchaser, who is an old resident of the city."

"Oh, yes," said Mr. McDonald, "ask him if he remembers the time I chased him out of my orchard to his home in Simcoe street and caught him, too."

Next time the lawyer met Mr. McDonald, he said: "I reminded J. R. R. of the incident you mentioned. He laughed and said he remembered it well. He said it happened 60 years ago and wants to know if you still hold a grudge against him."

Baked Hominy.

This is an excellent change from ordinary ways of preparing hominy. Have ready three-quarters of a cupful of hominy, a pint of water, a tablespoonful of salt, a liberal tablespoonful of butter and half a pint of rich milk. Boil the hominy in the water for twenty or twenty-five minutes, or until soft. Remove it from the fire and add the butter, salt and milk. Turn the mixture into an earthen baking dish and bake until thick and creamy. In summer it will make a delicious breakfast dish if it is served cold. It may be cooked the day before. As it is a rather "heavy" dish, some meat sandwiches only and a cup of coffee will make a hearty breakfast when served with it.

EARLY RAILROADS

In the Days When Making a Record Was Quite an Event.

FIRST MILE A MINUTE TRAIN.

This Honor Was Claimed by Two Roads, the Boston and Maine, With the Locomotive Antelope, and the Mohawk and Hudson, With the Davy Crockett.

The first achievements of American railroading are, in the greater number of cases, lost in the obscurity of tradition, and there has sprung up a host of interesting stories that go the rounds like Homeric tales. The honor of having created a record or a custom that is now commonplace has had many claimants in nearly every instance.

Take the first train to run a mile a minute. The Antelope, an engine on the Boston and Maine railroad, according to one of the most cherished of these legends, pulled the first train that made this record. Her run was between Boston and Lawrence, a distance of twenty-six miles, and one day in 1848 she is said to have made her last fourteen miles in thirteen minutes.

But it is just as earnestly upheld that the Davy Crockett of the Mohawk and Hudson railroad has this distinction. The Davy Crockett was the pride of the road in her day. It is said that her engineer, David Matthew, loved her better than he did his family. But she reached the pinnacle of her fame locally when in 1832, sixteen years before the Antelope was heard of, according to this other story, she covered a fourteen mile straightaway level stretch between Albany and Schenectady in thirteen minutes and made one stop for water besides. A letter written by Matthew in that year mentions having done better than a mile a minute with her on several occasions.

Running an engine at a mile a minute in those days was many times more dangerous than it is now. Three-quarters of a century ago the rails were light strips of iron spiked down to all sorts of ties. There were no tie or fish plates then, and in hot weather especially the sleepers and the rails would warp in the torrid sun and pull apart.

Not infrequently the ends of the light rails would curve upward from the track, forming the much dreaded "snake heads" which were the horror of engineers and passengers alike. Many tales are told of "snake heads" springing up under the jolting train, piercing the filmsy floors and impaling passengers [illegible]. Until a remedy was found for these "snake heads" by using better fastenings and more seasoned ties a large force of men was continually employed to walk the tracks and nail them down.

Broken car wheels were another ever present danger in those remote days. The present standard gauge is said to have been originally established by taking the distance between the wheels of the carts used on English highways. For the same reason, apparently, the first rolling stock was equipped not with solid wheels, but with cast iron models of the wooden wagon wheel, though of smaller diameter. These were not submitted to the drop test that is now universal and were of a dangerously light pattern. The result was that often interior defects in the casting would pass unnoticed until the wheel broke and the train was ditched. It took a bad accident, in which a number of people were killed, so runs the tradition, to bring about the testing of car wheels by tapping them.

Real time saving in running trains did not begin until 1851. Charles Minot, superintendent of the Erie railroad, was one of those given credit for inaugurating telegraph signals for the handling of trains.

He was in the cab of a passenger train one day, so the story goes. There were no double track railroads in these days, and trains had to lie out on sidings and wait for the train bound in the opposite direction to come along. However long the delay, the train on the siding waited.

On this particular occasion Minot's train took its siding. The operator at the little country station strolled over, remarking that the train in the opposite direction had got stalled on the grade some fifty miles down the line and that it would be two or three hours before she could patch up her leaky flues and get power enough to climb the hill.

Minot was in a hurry, and he decided to telegraph down the line that the train he was on would not wait at the siding, but would proceed—for station agents to watch out for the other train and have it wait on the siding nearest the spot where they would meet. The engineer refused point blank to take any such risk, saying that it was against all railroad law and custom. Minot finally discharged him, put him off the engine and ran the train himself to the end of the division, keeping posted by telegraph at each station. Everything worked out just as he had planned and was so satisfactory that he at once inaugurated a system of moving all trains on telegraph signals. —Thaddeus S. Dayton in Chicago Record-Herald.

Big and Little Ships.

Speaking of the problem of unsinkable ships, the New York Commercial says:

"Few people outside of practical shipbuilders and navigators understand the difference between a large vessel and a small one in point of structural strength. The strongest vessel that floats in the water is a common rowboat. One can take an ordinary rowboat and carry it by the ends or it can rest on cleats under each end without breaking in the middle. But the strongest man-of-war or ocean liner that floats today would break in two if subjected to a similar strain. The larger a vessel the weaker it becomes in this respect, and for this reason many apparently good ideas which work out well in model form have failed utterly when applied to large vessels."

Billions of Beans.

"Beans—what do you know about beans, even in New England?" writes an American from Manchuria. "Come to Dairen and see the bean mills which turn out 66,000,000 pounds of bean oil in a year and over 10,000,000 bean cakes, weighing about sixty-five pounds each. Some beans! The bean cake, from which the oil has been extracted, goes for the most part to Japan, which country received last year about nine-tenths of the product. Japan also took over 100,000 tons of beans in natural form. Some beans!"—New York Tribune.

Champion Room Man.

"My husband is a very mean man about some things," complained the wife to the woman around the corner. "He has a deaf ear, and every time I try to call him down he acts as if he didn't hear me."

"That's certainly provoking," said the neighbor. "But one of his ears is good. Why don't you talk into that?"

"He won't tell me which it is," wailed the wife.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Expensive Wharf.

Bernard Mullin, official stenographer in Hull and County of Ottawa courts, once worked as a journalist on an Ottawa newspaper when reporters were paid space rates.

One day Mullin wrote that a new wharf was to be built on the Ottawa river. Next day he announced that the plans for the work (which amounted to the big expenditure of a few hundred dollars) were ready. Then followed a story as to the first load of material arriving. The wharf came into the limelight again when Mullin wrote that the men had started work.

Final, G. W. Mitchell, manager of the paper, called Mullin. "This wharf, Mullin," he asked, "when do they expect to finish it?" Mullin thought in a few weeks.

"And how much will it cost?"

"About $500."

"Then I'm glad to hear that," concluded Mitchell. "In fact, I'm immensely pleased. For at that rate it may yet cost them more than it's costing me now." — Toronto Star Weekly.

Darken Grey Hair, Look Young, Pretty

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens so Naturally That Nobody Can Tell

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or grey; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

SOCIAL AND DIPLOMATIC NEWS FROM LONDON AND BERLIN

Kaiser's Snub to Envoy Arouses Berlin Comment

Mr. Leishman Had No Farewell Audience and Received No Parting Souvenir, Facts Attributed to His Daughter's Engagement to the Duke of Croy.

CANNOT USE GERMAN TITLE OF ROYAL HUSBAND

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Oct. 18.

THE German newspapers are commenting freely on the leaving from Berlin of Mr. John G. A. Leishman and calling attention to the fact that he is the first American Ambassador to leave without being granted a farewell audience by the Kaiser.

The fact that the Emperor returned to Potsdam the day before Mr. Leishman left and received two other retiring members of the Diplomatic Corps was emphasized as well as the circumstance that the Kaiser bestowed upon Mr. Leishman no parting souvenirs as is his custom.

When Mr. David Jayne Hill retired from his German post he was made the recipient of a magnificent vase from the royal porcelain works bearing on one side a portrait of the Kaiser, and also a tentative offer of orders was made him, which the regulations of the State Department prevented him from accepting.

In this connection the German newspapers also refer to the engagement existing between Mr. Leishman's daughter and the Duke of Croy, and express the opinion that should the marriage take place the magnates of the house of Croy would at once take action to prevent Miss Leishman from using the German title of her royal husband.

In that case she would receive the automatic titles of Duchess of Croy and Princesse de Soire, which belong to the Duke by his French and Spanish patents of nobility, which, however, would not be recognised by the German court.

FAREWELL TO MR. THACKARA.

A farewell dinner for the retiring Consul General, Mr. A. M. Thackara, will be given at the Hotel Adlon. The date of the event is not yet decided upon, owing to the fact that Mr. Thackara's leaving for Paris will be somewhat delayed, as the government at Washington has deemed it expedient to make no consular transfers until the new tariff is on a firmer working basis.

Mr. and Mrs. Thackara have been much entertained this week. Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Ruddock were their hosts at a dinner to which also were invited Mr. John G. A. Leishman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark Grew, Major G. T. Langhorne, Mrs. Alexander Kirk, Miss Heather Thackara and Mr. Ernest Ives. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. McFadden and Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis also gave a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Thackara.

TANGO THE RAGE IN BERLIN.

All Berlin stands under the sign of the tango, as the German idiom has it. This terpsichorean wave has rolled in with terrific force and at present there are no indications of an ebb tide. In this respect Berlin is diametrically different from New York, and American instability is not only bewildering but absolutely incomprehensible to the average German mind.

Society here is slow about falling into line, but, having once adopted any new measure, it is pursued with unswerving consistency. The tango to-day, the fish walk to-morrow, and the lame duck or some other zoological vagary the day after, is too swift a transition to find favor in Germany. Therefore, this season Berlin will tango persistently. One might almost add thriftily, for why expend a lot of time and money achieving the complicated evolutions of other dances if they are to be capriciously abandoned in a few weeks? This is apt to be the German's point of view.

THE TANGO ON THE STAGE.

The stage has been invaded by the Argentine importation, and while the tango, as isolated, turns out to be no novelty, it has never dominated the work until the "Tango Princess" made its appearance this week. In this latest operetta Mr. Jean Gilbert, who is no less prolific than his confrères, Mr. Lehar and Mr. Leo Fall, has proved that the well of his inspiration is by no means exhausted, and Berlin already re-echoes with his outstanding musical numbers.

Mr. Alvin C. Krauslein, the American athlete who came to Germany by invitation of the National Committee for the Olympic games to undertake the training of competitors in the 1916 event, says:—

"Germany's strongest hope in the coming competitions is in the army. I have found no one thus far in the various athletic clubs who could defeat the men holding championships, but hope to find better material among the soldiers whose profession has been a valuable schooling for physical development."

AIGRETTE WEARERS IN PANIC.

American women on the Continent have been thrown into a state of panic by recent despatches regarding the rigid enforcement of the clause in the new tariff bill prohibiting the importation of feathers plucked from live birds. As one woman wailed this week:—

"But my aigrettes are the pride of my life and cost such a lot of money. Whatever am I going to do?"

To which a practical minded friend, who resides in Europe, suggested:— "Enjoy them to the last moment and then have a bargain sale. Any one of us will be glad to take them off your hands."

Frau von Bülow has returned here from a three months' sojourn in France and Switzerland together with Mrs. Arthur King Lafflin of Boston. She went to Aix-les-Bains for the cure and later made an automobile tour through Switzerland and the Italian lake district. While at Geneva she made a flight in a hydro-aeroplane.

Mrs. Harry K. Devereux and her daughter, Miss Aileen Devereux, of Cleveland, are expected to arrive in Germany next week, travelling from America by the Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

BARON VON STUMM'S WEDDING.

Their first stop will be Hamburg, where Miss Devereux will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Fräulein Irma von Luttwitz, daughter of Colonel Baron Arthur von Luttwitz, commander of the Seventy-sixth Infantry, stationed at Hamburg, and his American wife, to Baron Braun von Stumm.

After participating in this event, Mrs. and Miss Devereux will come to Berlin to renew the many acquaintances made during their winter sojourn two seasons ago, at which time both mother and daughter were presented at court.

Mrs. Stewart White, wife of the well known lumber king of Grand Rapids, Mich., has arrived at Professor Krause's this week to see her son, Mr. Roderick Ivan White, a young violinist, who will be among the new appearances upon the Berlin concert stage this season.

OLD EWELL CASTLE IS NOW FOR SALE

American Flag Flew for Five Years Over Turrets on Site of Famous Stronghold.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

AFTER flying the American flag for five years, during which it has been held by Captain Clarence Weiner, Ewell Castle, in Surrey, is being offered for sale by Messrs. Collins & Collins, of 37 South Audley street.

Ewell Castle is interesting not only because it stands on the grounds of Nonsuch Palace, where King Henry VIII. and Queen Elizabeth held revel, and is overlooked by the picturesque ruins of the ancient stronghold, but it possesses the most beautiful Japanese garden in all England.

It was at Nonsuch Palace that the headstrong Earl of Essex was confined by Queen Elizabeth. It was from Nonsuch that Queen Elizabeth fled after the execution of Essex, because, it was said, of fear of the ghost of the man she had put to death. Later, for reasons which history does not clearly tell, the Duchess of Cleveland caused Nonsuch Palace to be demolished; and then at the foot of the slope Thomas Calverly built Ewell Castle. Five years ago it was bought by Captain Weiner, who renovated it and made that Japanese garden which is second to none in the world.

The octagonal turrets of Ewell Castle look over well ordered lawns and fields that slope gradually up to the old Nonsuch banqueting hall. In the Japanese garden an Oriental boat cave shelters a punt and a canoe, and a Japanese tea house with many windows crowns an island. There are rose temples, a Japanese bathing house, more modern necessities, such as tennis court, bowling green, polo ground, an eighteen hole golf course and an up to date farm and some good game shooting. The castle itself contains a spacious entrance hall, drawing room, dining room, morning room, smoking room, billiard room, seven large and eight smaller bedrooms, winter garden, indoor fountain and commodious domestic offices. It is also close to two stations and only twenty-five minutes' train run from London.

SMUGGLERS FLOURISH ON KENTISH COAST

Many Cargoes Landed Without Paying Duty, Deal Being Headquarters of Trade.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

THE capture of a small lugger, with a cargo of contraband brandy and tobacco, on the Kentish coast, and the issue of an Admiralty notice warning sailors that some of their privileges will be curtailed unless the practice is stopped in the navy, are reminders that smuggling is still extensively carried on on the south coast.

Apart from the smuggling practised by sailors, there are lots of cargoes landed on the south coast without paying duty. The little town of Deal, half pilot station, half pleasure resort, forms the headquarters of the southern artist in contraband. Here, mixing with the law abiding crowds that come from London, may be found the swarthy fishermen who are the successors of the smugglers whose feats delighted the boys of a past generation.

The Deal smugglers do not sneak up back alleys, accosting strangers with the hint that the parcel they carry has never paid duty. Their profession consists in running the goods ashore; the subsequent disposal is work for other hands. And for those who know their way about it is not difficult to get in touch with these sturdy relics of the romantic past. Their wares are mainly tobacco and spirits, though some lace comes through now and then.

In Eastern Kent the smuggled tobacco is in great demand. It comes in hard, black cakes, exceedingly pungent, and seems to suit the local palate. To the unaccustomed stranger it is not pleasant to smoke, but many a Kentish lad has been brought to the arrival of the smugglers carrying with his fresh supply.

A Snapshot at the Recent Military Manoeuvres

Prominent among those who watched the battle of Daventry at the recent military manoeuvres in England were Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill on horseback. The Right Hon. Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill has been first Lord of the Admiralty since 1911. In 1908 he married Miss Clementine Hozier, daughter of the late Colonel Sir H. M. Hozier, K. C. B., and they have one son and one daughter, Randolph and Diana, aged respectively two and four years. Mr. Churchill was born November 30, 1874.

Queen Mary as Society Leader

Buckingham Palace Is Being Prepared Appropriately for the Season's Social Entertainments.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

THOSE who are in a position to know say that Queen Mary, now that Prince Mary's début in society is in sight, appears to take her place as an actual leader of society.

It is well known that the Queen is fond of dancing and is an excellent waltzer and that the shade of aloofness which is the beginning of her reign gave an appearance of stiffness, which was said to be due to her very quiet upbringing, has now given place to a gracious kindliness which is exactly what is required of a social leader.

All the world may see that the outside of Buckingham Palace is being prepared appropriately for this new social change, but it is less generally known that the inside of the palace has been entirely redecorated, and the fine white and gold walls and the French curtains of rose color of the large drawing rooms will form a charming setting for the festivities being arranged for Princess Mary and her friends.

One of the great features of the coming months will be afternoon dancing, for the latter exercise is in the forefront of fashion even in the social altitudes, and thés dansantes are the last word in entertainments. A young girl gives a "tea" to her friends of both sexes and afterward the floor is cleared—an easy matter now that parquet and rugs are so usual—and dancing goes on till dinner time. It is said that there will be many such teas at Buckingham Palace.

If only for the number of bachelors' balls that are promised the "little season" should be gay. It is an acknowledged fact that bachelors make admirable hosts. They never cheesepare. The champagne is of the best. By all that one hears, afternoon parties are to be "the thing," which will give an opportunity to that important damsel, "the flapper," to show up.

Everybody seems to be learning the tango. Several hostesses have arranged when they return home to have private dancing classes at their houses, so as to give their friends an opportunity of perfecting themselves in the new dances. "It is much nicer than going to a public class," they say.

Quite Like It.

POWDERED HAIR COMING IN VOGUE

Likely to Become Fashionable for Evening Functions at London Social Gatherings.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

THE powdering closets which still exist in some old London houses may yet be restored to their former prestige, for there is now something more than a possibility of powdered hair becoming fashionable for evening functions.

"We expect to be very busily powdering during the 'little season' before Christmas," said the head of the hairdressing department at Selfridge's.

"Many followers of the fashion, of course, will get the same effect by means of gray or white wigs, for few ladies today find themselves able to spare the time which the eighteenth century grande dame patiently devoted to the powdering of her hair and the subsequent brushing out of the powder. White wigs are, however, expensive, so that there will be a great deal of actual powdering done."

"Powdered hair is quite a good idea from a spectacular point of view," said a theatrical costume designer, "and I quite believe in the rumors that it is to be worn again with modern dresses. Women have positively lapped up the Bakst theories of dress as decoration, and regard themselves more and more as pegs and backgrounds for weirdly decorative schemes.

"The woman with glorious red or blue black hair would be a fool to powder it, but those whose locks are what I once heard a little girl call 'hair colored' will find that powder gives them great distinction."

Another West End hairdresser confessed to having already fulfilled orders for white wigs. "The most expensive of these wigs," he declared, "we supplied to a lady who has bought several sets of the new dyed furs and quite rightly decided that only white hair would look well with her pink muff or her canary colored stole.

"The red fox which the furriers are displaying may encourage the demand for white hair. Already we have brightened the reddish brown hair of a few clients who wish to wear this fur and realise that it is not for the women whose tresses are dull."

A Spirit of Rivalry.

Washington Star: "As a matter of hard fact," said Mr. Cumrox rather testily, "the value of this picture depends on the signature of the old master."

"I must admit it."

"Well, my signature is just as valuable as his and it doesn't take me anything like as long to write a check as it took him to paint a picture."

Civil Marriage Is Increasing

More Than Twenty Per Cent Now Go Before Registrar, Avoiding Religious Ceremony.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

ONE of the most remarkable aspects of the apathy which is so prevalent in the present day in England is the astonishing decline in religious marriages. Forty years ago the percentage per thousand of civil marriages was very small. To-day it is more than twenty per cent. That is to say, of every thousand people married more than two hundred content themselves with the brief and formal declaration before a registrar.

In the course of a talk with the registrar of a populous North London district, he ascribed the increase to convenience and to the fact that a great many young people nowadays dislike the publicity attaching to the average wedding in church.

"A marriage before me," he said, "occupies perhaps ten minutes and does not necessitate any elaborate preparation in the way of dress. Many couples get married and immediately go to their respective places of business. A church ceremony usually calls for elaborate preparations, a good deal of expense and a number of guests."

A prominent bishop, asked what he thought about it, said:—"I was aware that the number of civil marriages was on the increase, but I did not realise to what an alarming extent. Twenty years ago very few people could be persuaded to be married before a registrar. It was not only considered unlucky, but was regarded in the light of a wedding without the sanction of the Church.

"It is easy, of course, to get married before a registrar, but many of the unhappy marriages are undoubtedly due to this. Young people rush into it without due consideration, which the Church urges, and lives are ruined. It was better in the old days before 1837, when there were no civil marriages."

The Rev. Stephen Herrass, the well known vicar of St. Lawrence Jewry, thought that publicity attending upon the church ceremony was largely the cause of the increasing number of civil marriages.

"There are a great many people," he said, "who very much dislike the idea of having their banns published in church beforehand. Many modest, retiring girls naturally object to it. I think the reading out of the banns should be abolished."

Finds Big Sea Monster at Titanic Wreck Scene

Second Officer of the Corinthian Sees Strange Water Giraffe with Neck Twenty Feet Long on His Last Trip from London to Montreal.

DIVED DOWN WITH A WAIL LIKE A BABY'S CRY

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

SURELY it would have been a mistake for the "silly" season to pass without its sea serpent. Down at the Surrey Docks just now is a man who has not only seen a fearful and wonderful marine monster, but has even sketched it from life.

It is not exactly the sea serpent of hoary tradition, but a sort of sea giraffe—an extraordinary looking amphibious animal which is puzzling the zoologists who have heard of it and seen the drawing.

Some idea of this weird freak of nature may be gathered from this first hand description of it:—"Has bonny blue eyes; cries like a baby; neck twenty feet long; body fifty feet; big head with long ears and snout; three horned fins adorn its bony head; two big flapping fins; skin like a seal; brownish yellow in color, with pretty dark spots."

A plain, commonsense seaman, who tells his story bluntly, without any frills or trimmings, Second Officer G. Bachelor, of the Allan line steamship Corinthian, describing his strange adventure with this sea giraffe, said:—

"We were bound from London to Montreal, and it was my turn on watch on the bridge in the early morning of August 30. It was a cold morning and the gray dawn was just breaking when, as I was keeping my eye straight ahead on our course, I picked up a queer looking object about a mile ahead. It disappeared, and as quickly it shot up again no more than two hundred feet away from the ship.

"I saw it distinctly rise out of the water. First there was a big head, with long ears and long snout, and bulging blue eyes that were mild and liquid. Then there was a neck—no end of a neck—and it swayed with the wash of the waves. What it was I couldn't guess. Twenty years of seagoing, including trips in tropical waters, I've never seen anything like this sea giraffe that was basking right at the Corinthian.

"As the thing seemed to eye me it lashed the water with its big front fins. Then it suddenly dived and disappeared, at the same time giving an odd little wail like a baby's cry. You wouldn't think such a huge animal could have had such a small voice.

"As soon as I went off duty I went below and made a sketch of the monster in India ink. When the Corinthian reached Montreal my sketch was shown to Professor F. H. Lloyd, of McGill University, an expert in zoology. The professor said that whatever it was, it wasn't a serpent, but a sea mammal. It was certainly built on high speed lines, and its finlike protuberance was well adapted for running things up.

"I located this sea giraffe in latitude 47 deg. 51 min. north, longitude 49 deg. 27 min. west, off the Grand Banks, and not many miles distant from the spot where the Titanic went down. I am inclined to think myself that the wreck of the Titanic has had something to do with the presence of this strange creature in water where nothing of the kind has ever been noticed before. Is it making food of the dead bodies below?"

Mr. Bachelor made the grewsome suggestion in all seriousness. He was evidently impressed with the absolute accuracy of his observations.

Mr. Bachelor, it may be added, is a canny Scot, and his view is that there may still be more survivors of an almost extinct race of sea beasts. Anyway, zoologists are not unacquainted with an "amphibious or aquatic reptile" called the sauropterygia, which curiously resembles the description of what Mr. Bachelor saw. This sea monster had a small head and an exceptionally long neck, but it is generally stated to have been extinct for ages.

Curious Customs at Eton College for King's Son

Many Things Which Prince Henry Will Have to Learn at Famous School Where Discipline and Oddity of Dress Are Followed by Students.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, Oct. 18.

THERE are many old and curious customs that a new boy has to learn on going to Eton, and Prince Henry, the King's third son, who has just entered the famous school, will have to become acquainted with them to become a full fledged Etonian.

A new boy gradually picks up these as he goes along. In fact, a boy who from the start always remembers to say "Mait" instead of term; "M'tutor" instead of "my tutor," "sap" instead of "swat," who says "ma'am" to his dame and touches his hat to palpable masters, who knows the meaning of the words "sock" and "puppy-hole" —well, that boy starts all right.

It is the frequent complaint of parents and other people generally that the Eton boy seems to be the slave of etiquette, but such things are an inseparable part of Eton, and a boy there likes to be correct. An Etonian always turns up the bottom of his trousers no matter what dress he may be in. The bottom button of his waistcoat is always left unbuttoned, which is an invariable rule at Eton. Then, if an Etonian has occasion to use an umbrella he is not allowed to roll it up unless he is a member of "Pop" (Eton Society). It is always the rule at Eton to walk on the right hand sidewalk when going into or coming back from the town, and no boy is ever seen on the left hand side except when he calls at a shop there.

Boys are not allowed to link arms with one another; this is a special privilege of "Pop," but a member of "Pop" may link his arm with a non-member. When a boy goes to the playing fields to watch games or to walk about he wears the coat of an ordinary lounge suit instead of an Eton jacket, and a cap instead of a hat. But when in a change coat (any coat that is not the regulation Eton dress) the collar must always be turned up. This rule is strictly adhered to, whether a boy is going to cricket, football or rowing, only "Pop" being allowed to wear them down.

Boys may not go outside the college except on the playing fields in half change or full change. Even at games the Etonian has to study etiquette. For football he wears knickerbockers of the standard gray cloth, buckled below the knee, a flannel shirt, a change coat or sweater, or both, a scarf, a cap and black boots. Brown boots may only be worn by members of "Pop," whereas by boys who have played for their houses in house matches; colored shirts are worn only by those with their house colors. For fives and other games certain clothes have to be worn.

The new boy at Eton has a great deal to learn in the way of names of various persons, places and things. At Eton, brother Etonian is always known as a fellow, whereas at Winchester he is known as a "man." A swell is almost called a "stud." The lamppost in the middle of the college is known by both masters and boys as "the burning bush." A boy who goes in for boating is known as a "wetbob."

One of the good old customs done away with is that of "heisting." It took place after school rowing events, and the winners of the various races were hoisted on to the shoulders of some "Pops" and carried from one end of the college to the other, the rest of the school running by the side cheering and waving their hats.

Then there is the custom of "bolting-down," which occurs when a boy is flogged by the headmaster, this being the duty of two fags. As a general thing force is not necessary, as the expression suggests, but it is an old custom rigorously maintained.

The Bible furnishes many names for places. There is the "Waters of Bether," so called because small boys used to "sit down and weep" there when they felt homesick. "Mesopotamia" is a cricket field, and "Jordan" is a stream that runs through it. Pupil room, the room which each tutor has for his small pupils, is commonly known as "puppy-hole," for obvious reasons.

There are numerous other terms peculiar to Eton. For instance, "Sock" is the Eton term for "tuck" of all kinds, while science is always known as "Beer" is known as "awiges," and it is generally known that upper boys are allowed to drink it, but only at "Tea," a public house in Eton.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Black House

A Mystery Solved

By ALICE GRAY

I was one of the detectives on duty at the Ramercliff-Halsey wedding receptions, where thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful gifts were displayed in the library and adjoining study, and my duties had confined me to these rooms, where a pageant of brilliantly gowned women and somber clad men passed in and out.

It was a marriage of youth, beauty and great wealth with talent and more wealth, for Dr. Ramercliff had a national reputation as a specialist in diseases of the brain, and it had been a matter for universal surprise when the grave and studious physician had stepped from the seclusion of professional life to court the brilliant young debutante and win her.

Now the bride had retired to don her traveling gown. They were to leave on the western express, and their destination was a secret.

Presently they came, and I shall never forget Dr. Ramercliff's look as he passed out of the door with his beautiful bride. His handsome face expressed maniacal triumph.

A feeling of uneasiness possessed me for days afterward, and I was not surprised when Benjamin Halsey, the father of the bride, paid me a visit in my private office.

He was looking haggard and worried, quite unlike the happy, genial gentleman who had presided at the wedding of his motherless daughter.

"Blair, I need your help," he said when we were alone.

"What is it, sir?" I inquired.

"You were at my daughter's wedding reception three weeks ago. You saw my daughter leave the house with her husband?"

"Yes."

"They have disappeared—completely disappeared."

"Well?" I was still wondering at his anxiety.

"Read that," he said, thrusting a tattered bit of paper into my hands.

It was a piece of brown wrapping paper, and on it were a few scrawled words: "Oh, father, come! This terrible black house! I am going mad! He is coming now! I must hide this paper."

"You believe that your daughter wrote that?"

"I do. It is her handwriting. It was received in my mail this morning, the envelope bearing a blurred postmark, and in addition to my name and address were the penciled words, 'Whoever finds this please mail at once.'"

He produced the envelope, and I studied the postmark through my strongest glasses.

"Looks like Woodrift. That's a little village down on Long Island," I said finally. "I'll go down there at once. You believe that both of them have met with foul play?"

He shook his head doubtfully. "Read that note over again, Blair. It's some of Ramercliff's work. I fear I should never have allowed Bess to marry him. He is almost mad himself over his profession, but he fascinated her. You will go at once, Blair?"

"Within the hour," I decided, replacing the time table in my pocket.

It was 4 o'clock when I reached Woodrift, a little north shore village surrounded on three sides by oak forests and on the fourth by a shallow harbor.

I made casual inquiry among the loungers about the postoffice and hotel where I put up, but none of them had seen any strangers thereabouts. The postmaster did give me a clew.

"The old Vale place was taken by strangers several months ago, but I don't believe any one is there yet."

"Who is the caretaker?"

"Search me!" said the postmaster, returning to his neglected duties. "Some queer foreigner who lives in the barn and buys his supplies over to Oakville."

I chose to take my first view of the Vale place by moonlight. I had traversed perhaps half a mile along the gloomy wood road, where moonlight fell in silver patches on the carpet of thick leaves, when a man passed me, going swiftly toward the village.

He paused and peered at me for an instant.

"Where you go?" he asked thickly, and I smelt whisky on his breath.

"Oakville," I said sharply.

"Oh," he said, with his foreign accent. "You on wrong road. Go back quarter mile, turn to left."

"Thanks," I murmured ironically, for I recognized the caretaker of the Vale place and his evident desire to lure me away from the house, which he was leaving unguarded.

To allay his suspicions I walked back with him and allowed him to place me on the right path. When he was out of sight I retraced my steps and, after walking for perhaps a mile, always following the more untraveled road, I finally came upon a high brick wall that wound around among the trees encircling the dark bulk of a large house.

It was a lonely spot enough, the woods closing around the house within the wall. The moonlight fell in patches on the ground, overgrown with coarse grass and briers. The shutters of the house appeared closed, but against the night sky I saw a thin trail of smoke from one of the chimneys.

As I studied the house I noticed a strange radiance that seemed to be diffused from the roof, a soft, steady, golden glow such as might be produced by a skylight in the ceiling of a brilliantly lighted room under the roof.

I swung myself into the branches of a huge oak tree that overhung the flat roof and was soon creeping on hands and knees over the tin covering the edges. Beyond that was an expanse of sash such as is used in greenhouses occupying almost the entire roof.

"Another freakish New Yorker," I muttered to myself as I hung over the edge of the glass roof and peered down into the lighted space.

Beneath me was a large room furnished as a bedroom and a study. There were a large table heaped with books and papers, a desk and comfortable chairs. The walls were lined with bookcases filled with volumes bound in uniform dark covering.

It was a workroom, the workroom of a student.

The student was Dr. Ramercliff. He was sitting at the desk absorbed in writing. He had already filled sheet after sheet of paper, all of which were scattered over desk and floor.

Suddenly he leaned back in his chair and an agonized expression convulsed his face. He reached his hand toward a small vial, shook some pellets into his mouth and dropped back in his chair, one hand gripping his heart. His eyes closed and he breathed heavily. Was his seizure a heaven sent opportunity for me?

I slipped back to my tree, gained the piazza and found entrance through a front window. I pried open the wooden shutters, smashed the glass with the butt of my revolver, turned the catch and raised the sash. As I entered I seemed to be smothered in folds of heavy drapery. Kicking myself clear, I found myself in total darkness.

I drew out my electric torch and pressed the button. "Heavens!" I shuddered as I realized my surroundings.

I appeared to be in a mortuary chapel, for walls and ceiling were paneled in black, the carpet was of thick black pile, the furniture of dead black lusterless teakwood, cushions, draperies—everything in that horrible room was the same grewsome black.

I opened the black enameled door and entered a black hall. I passed through a black library and a black dining room, and my nerves were a-tingle with horror.

The kitchen was a cheerful apartment compared to the others, for it was slate gray.

Up the black painted stairs I crept, feeling a strange depression stealing over me, the unwholesome influence of the dreadful house; through a black upper hall to the nearest black paneled door. There I paused.

What would I find within this grewsome place where Dr. Ramercliff, plainly a lunatic, had taken his beautiful bride, petted daughter of the millionaire?

I turned the handle and entered a black boudoir.

Her hair was white as snow.

I turned the light upon her, and I placed my hand on her arm, and she screamed with terror.

"Go away!" she cried. "Oh, go away!"

"Mrs. Ramercliff," I said—"Miss Halsey—Bessie!"

At the last word she turned and lifted her beautiful white face to me, a face wild with fear. Her black eyes widened, and she gave one great glad cry.

"Oh, take me to father!" And then she sank back unconscious.

I did not stand upon my going from that place. I gathered the poor little bride in my arms and carried her down the stairs and out of that awful house.

I was able to get a team that would take us to Oakdale, where I hired a motorcar, and about midnight we drew up to the Halsey residence, the white haired bride with my handkerchief tied over her lovely locks, garbed in black, and I the young detective with my first great case.

Mr. Halsey was in his library, and I shall never forget his glad face when I restored his daughter to him.

I remained long enough to hear her story, and then I left father and daughter together, for I must journey once more down to Woodrift and ascertain if that insane bridegroom had succumbed to the seizure I had witnessed from the roof.

He was dead when I reached the black house, a victim of heart disease. And so perished a brilliant mind that was destroyed by its own intensity.

Bessie's story was pitiable enough.

Her husband had taken her to the black house, and as coolly and impersonally as he might have watched the struggles of a butterfly impaled on a pin he studied the effect of color on the brain. In the dense black atmosphere of the black house he calmly watched the slow killing of the beautiful girl. He had told her of his intention, and she had struggled desperately to get a message to her father. Once she had escaped and reached the road, but when she found them in pursuit she tossed her letter into the bushes and allowed herself to be recaptured, but her message had gone forth.

That was all. Mrs. Ramercliff recovered her health and beauty, and the secret of her disappearance was never divulged.

Benjamin Halsey kept his word. He rewarded me. He made me the richest man in the world, for I married Bessie afterward.

Madison Square Garden Only Partly Filled for Mrs. Pankhurst.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, addressing last night in Madison Square Garden her first American mass meeting on her present eventful trip, explained why militant methods for the cause of woman suffrage are carried on in England but not in America, and defended the employment of such methods. She criticised the British Government as the most conservative on earth and held it responsible, through failure to enact legislation desired by women for women resorting to violence to obtain the ballot. Only through dynamite means, she declared, could English women hope to secure laws dealing with white slavery, industrial evils and other conditions affecting women.

Preparations had been made for an overflow meeting at Madison Square Garden, but the big hall, with a seating capacity of some 12,000 persons, was scarcely three-quarter filled. This was attributed by the suffragettes to the uncertainty that existed until almost the eleventh hour as to whether the immigration authorities would allow Mrs. Pankhurst to make her appearance on the public lecture platform in this country.

Some leading suffragettes of the country and a few "bunger strikers" from England met with Mrs. Pankhurst on a stage draped with a tricolored flag bearing the inscription, "Resistance to Tyranny is Obedience to God." Wearing small steel prisoner badges signifying that their militancy had resulted in jail terms, were Miss Elsie McKenzie and Miss Mary Keegan, English girls come here to accept business opportunities and Miss Lucy Burns and Miss Elizabeth Freeman, American girls who went to England to fight for "the cause." Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Miss Lavinia Dock, Miss Sylvia Wilbur, Miss Alberta Hill, Miss Fola La Follette, Miss Ida Craft and other American suffragette leaders sat with them.

Mrs. Pankhurst May Enter.

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—"V. D." Bartlett, commissioner of immigration, said yesterday: "If Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst visits Canada as a tourist or as a lecturer, we won't bar her entry, but if she starts to smash things she will be promptly apprehended and deported."

The number of postal packets undelivered, owing to absence or insufficiency of addresses, is estimated at over 23,000,000.

Huge Dam Is Now Busy.

BASSANO, Alta., Oct. 23.—Quietly, without preliminary announcement, or ceremony of any kind, the gates of the six million dam of the C.P.R., which is intended to divert the waters of the Bow River for irrigating 30,000 acres around Bassano, closed at three o'clock Thanksgiving day.

The operation will back up the river for eight miles, and the process of filling to the height of the dam, 45 feet, is expected to take four weeks.

Four Killed at Crossing.

CHICAGO JUNCTION, Ohio, Oct. 22.—Mrs. William Harwood, her two small sons, eight and three, and her mother, Mrs. Frank Weeks, of this place, were instantly killed yesterday at Nova, near here, when a buggy in which they were riding was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio express train. A freight train obscured the approach of the express, and when Mrs. Harwood drove on the track the accident resulted.

TO WIN INDEPENDENCE.

Tibet Has Won Victory From Chinese Invading Force.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 22.—News that Tibet demands complete autonomy without even Chinese official representation at Lhasa, its capital, and also asks for the indemnities from China, reached the Chinese Government yesterday from the Chinese Tibetan conference, in progress at Darjeeling, India.

Reports from the Tibetan frontier, where the Chinese troops were sent to operate, have for many months shown that the fighting has been in favor of the Tibetans, and, according to advices from various quarters, the Chinese troops there, on the Mongolian border, display no spirit for fighting.

The two great dependencies of Tibet and Mongolia, at the time of the anti-Manchu revolution, proclaimed their autonomy and have defended it ever since. China is now planning to maintain her rights against both of them respectively in the Provinces of Chili and Szechuen.

Victims Buried.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—A most impressive joint funeral service was held yesterday over the bodies of 23 out of the 26 victims of the disaster to the Zeppelin dirigible airship at Johannisthal on Friday last. The ceremony took place at noon in the old garrison church near the Imperial Palace, in the presence of the Emperor and his sons, and were accompanied by the Empress and the crown princess, while Count Zeppelin and about a thousand officers of the army and navy, together with a number of comrades belonging to the flying corps to which the dead men were attached, also attended.

Aged Pire-Eaters Reconciled.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The duel between Gen. Florentin and Gen. Bose, the two septuagenarian retired French officers, was abandoned yesterday, after Gen. Florent't stating that there was nothing personal in his action against the Society of National Merit which he desires to prevent wearing a button among its insignia and thus infringing the privilege of the Legion of Honor.

Gen. Bose thereupon withdrew his challenge.

Russian Premier Ill.

Approves Slit Skirts.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Without attempting to pass upon questions of taste or modesty, the U. S. Health Service has put its stamp of approval upon slit skirts and diaphanous gowns from the health standpoint. Assistant Surgeon-General Rucker announced yesterday that "women wear too many clothes anyway, and that the woman who dresses in up-to-date style is less liable to catch cold these chilly days than one who loads down her body with heavy clothing.

By Their Ribs You May Know Them.

Umbrellas sometimes speak louder than words. The traveling Englishman had become so cosmopolitan that the umbrella mender could not tell his customer was English until he opened the umbrella. Then he said:

"English, I suppose? Anybow, your umbrella is. Umbrellas have a distinct nationality, especially American and English umbrellas. By their ribs you may know them. American umbrellas are best provided with those supports. If intended for a lady an American umbrella has nine ribs. If for a gentleman ten or even twelve, as against eight ribs in English umbrellas for either sex. Even this number represents a big cut in the anatomy of an American umbrella, which formerly contained twelve or fifteen ribs for a woman and as high as twenty for a gentleman."—New York Sun.

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX.

Staten Island Electric Plant Destroyed by Bursting of Boiler.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Six men were instantly killed, four others badly injured, one probably fatally, and practically all of Staten Island was left in darkness and without trolley service last night as the result of a double boiler explosion at the plant of the Richmond Light and Power Co at Livingston, L.I.

The first explosion occurred in a small boiler and was immediately followed by the bursting of the main boiler, which wrecked the interior of the building. The cause is unknown. Until the list of employes is checked up it will not be known whether more men are missing.

Trolley cars are stalled all over the island and probably will remain so for a day longer.

WILL SHADOW MEN.

Ministers Provide Detectives For Wives and Sweethearts.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 22. — A protective agency, which has for its purpose the tracking of married men and near-married men, on behalf of their wives and sweethearts, has been started in this city.

"Our wife is furnishing the funds for its upkeep has not been disclosed, but it has been asserted that prominent ministers throughout the city are looking out for the welfare of the association. The organization is known as the Columbus Protective Association.

"Wives who have all-night husbands and girls who are contemplating marriage," said the Rev. J. J. Tisdall, leader in the organization, "will be furnished detectives to find out what wives want to know and will inform girls fully as to the conduct and habits of their beaus."

Varicose Veins And Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause — Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This latter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble, not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. R. J. Evans, 187 Munro Street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

RECESSION OF GLACIERS.

Northern Ice Fields That Once Met the Sea Are Now Inland.

Some attention is being directed to the fact that the Muir glacier is disintegrating along its face, and there is some speculation as to how long it will continue to present a great attraction to tourists. No one can answer this of course, for the causes of the unusual movement are not known. Neither is it known with any certainty for how long a time this great ice mass has presented this appearance, which made it famous.

Assuming that the earliest charts of the coast are correct—and there is every reason to suppose they are—there have been very remarkable recessions of glaciers along the Atlantic coast during the last century, so that ice fields that formerly came down to the sea are now a considerable distance from it. As we understand, the earlier charts do not indicate the position of Muir glacier, so there are no means of telling if it has receded.

The cause of the recession of glaciers is not fully understood, but it seems to imply an average amelioration of the climate. Glaciers are fed from snow fields, and if they become smaller only one of two explanations seems possible. Either the snowfall in the higher levels must have diminished or the temperature in the lower levels has grown higher. There are several reasons for supposing that the climate of the north Pacific zone is becoming gradually warmer, although the change is very gradual. Sir Charles Lyell, the famous geologist, in one of his books speaks of the breaking away of a great ice barrier near Greenland, which occurred, if we are not mistaken, in 1846, and says it was one of the most significant events in the modern history of the world.—Victoria Colonist.

A Mixed Quartet.

Among other curious things I have heard was a quartet sung simultaneously in four languages, writes a reminiscent contributor to the New York Sun. It was Clara Louise Kellogg's company in "Martha." Miss Kellogg sang in English, Brignoli in Italian, a German woman in German and a Frenchman in French. The audience never noticed the confusion of tongues.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1913

CLOSING SESSION OF THE BIG BAPTIST CONVENTION

Was Recorded on Tuesday Evening —Masterly Address by Rev. John MacNeill, of Toronto—"The Disposal of Our Personality."

A CROWNING TRIUMPH

It was moved and seconded that the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec adjourn to meet at a time and place to be designated by the Executive Committee.

The foregoing resolution, which was followed by the Benediction, offered by Rev. E. J. Stobo, Sr., of Quebec City, constituted the closing scene in the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec. The resolution, which was unanimously adopted, was read at the close of the Tuesday evening session. It was an illuminative conclusion to what has proved to be a successful six-day convention. The pronouncement of the benediction by the Rev. E. J. Stobo was particularly fitting and significant to those who remembered Rev. Mr. Stobo as a former Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church.

The evening sessions have been a dominant feature throughout the entire week and last night's meeting was no exception. In fact it might safely be characterized as the crowning-triumph of the Baptist Convention.

The preliminaries, comprising a song service and devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. H. C. Bryant of Lindsay, and Rev. H. F. Veals, B.A., of Hamilton, respectively. Rev. J. B. Webb, Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, occupied the chair in the absence of Mr. A. A. Avery, President of the Convenaion.

Rev. John MacNeill.

There was a significant silence when that master of impelling speech Rev. John MacNeill, B.A., Pastor of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto, rose to address a capacity audience upon the subject of the "Disposal of our Personality."

The speaker's remarks engendered the rapt attention of his hearers as he deftly and logically illustrated in word formation the means by which we must dispose of our personality, in the form of consecrated service to God, if the greatest results in this, and the life to come, are to be achieved.

"Besides being endowed with that great gift of personality, we also possess qualities that were bought with the blood of Jesus Christ," said Rev. Mr. MacNeill. There are three ways by which men might dispose of their personality. First, it might be allowed to remain undeveloped and wasted; second, it might be employed to disadvantage; and, third, it might be consecrated to the Lord. No man has a right to wrap the napkin of neglect around his own personality, which is the great gift of God. It is only a species of insanity that would allow a man to precipitate in his own experience such a tragedy as a wasted personality.

Is Intangible.

"One outstanding feature," said the speaker, in the relation of Jesus Christ to God is that the will of God is enthroned in the citadel of His being. We are gathered here to-night simply as men and women endowed with a great personality. Many have perhaps felt that the consecration of the personality to God is too vague and intangible to justify such an investment; yet all the great powers that exist, including the forces of nature, are nebulous and intangible. The mightiest powers are invisible, and the greatest results in life are indefinite. Things that are visible are temporal. Things that are not seen are eternal.

"Gathers Toll in Blood."

"The price of Christian life," said Rev. Mr. MacNeill, is sometimes regarded as tremendous. It is a big price. Those who enter into spiritual service find that the great Kingdom gathers toll in blood. It makes men old prematurely. The Hebrews took Christ for fifty years of age before He was thirty. There is no gain except by loss. No life except by death. No glory except by personal sacrifice. All the spiritual expenditure of sacrifice that man might make is justified by results. The smallest contribution that we can offer to God is a consecrated personality. A consecrated life to Christ constitutes a structure, the foundation of which was laid by Christ Himself."

The meeting was brought to a conclusion by the rendition of the Doxology and the pronouncement of the Benediction.

BEN DUSTY IS WOUNDED

Former Local Hockey Player Stabbed in Wrist by a Negro Who Went On a Rampage in Toronto Hotel.

THREE OTHERS HURT

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Four men were more or less seriously slashed with a razor by a drink-crazed negro C.P.R. porter in a dispute over the ownership of a five-dollar bill in Smith's Hotel last night.

Those injured are:

Andy McKay, 172 Simcoe Street—stabbed in neck and face.

Ben Dusty, 148 Baldwin Street—stabbed in right wrist.

The first three are in the Western Hospital, where this morning it was stated they would recover.

Found Five Dollars.

According to the police the affray arose when Cransworth, the porter employed at the hotel, attempted to eject the fugitive assailant, who was quarrelling over the possession of a $5 note, which had been found on the floor.

In a moment, the negro, who was in an advanced state of intoxication, drew a razor and slashed Cransworth across the neck. McKay and Dusty who went to arrest the razor wielder, were also scored by the weapon, and the negro made his escape.

Running down the street, he encountered Mr. Thompson, and before the latter could defend himself he had also fallen a victim to the negro's razor. Subsequently the police arrested one, Virgil Cobb, a C.P.R. porter, who is said to have been in company with the other negro during the fray.

This morning he appeared in the Police Court on a vagrancy charge, and was remanded for a week.

In the meanwhile the police are hunting for his companion, whose name is said to be John Shehan.

DELIGHTED WITH KINDNESS OF CITIZENS

Rev. Dr. E. J. Stobo, Official Reporter of the Convention, Says Baptists Appreciated the Hospitality Shown Them

IMPRESSED WITH CITY

Rev. Dr. Stobo, who was the official reporter of the Baptist convention, and kept the newspaper men informed about the business of the gathering, was interviewed this morning by a representative of The Examiner, and expressed his delight with the progress Peterborough has made since his last visit seven or eight years ago. As a boy he attended the old Collegiate Institute here, and remembers the time when Peterborough was only an ambitious country town. Now she is a bustling City, with factories and business houses of which she may be justly proud. The energy and enthusiasm of her citizens, their pride in everything that concerns the City, the great civic improvements now under way, the beauty of the City and her evidently splendid future impressed all delegates. The Baptists all spoke in the most appreciative terms of the kindness everywhere extended to them. People of all denominations seemed to vie with one another in making them welcome, and the Christian courtesy of the Anglican ministers produced a great impression upon a democratic body, which seldom meets with such treatment from a conservative denomination like the Anglican.

Dr. Stobo spoke of the arrangements made by the local committee as being perfect. The beautiful church was an ideal meeting place, the Sunday school hall was so spacious that there was no overcrowding, the every convenience for the comfort of delegates was provided, and Rev. Mr. Webb, Mr. T. F. Matthews and other members of the local committee did not spare themselves to make the convention a great success.

The good work of the press was discussed by many delegates, and The Examiner's reports were highly appreciated, Saturday's edition coming in for a good share of praise. In no city have better reports appeared, and the convention has had a ublicity that is most gratifying to Baptists.

Dr. Stobo also spoke of the delightful experiences of the ministers who preached in the City pulpits last Sabbath. The whole City, in fact, made them feel welcome, and, said the Doctor, "You need not sing will ye no come back again, for we will come if we get the chance."

Note.—The Examiner staff appreciate Rev. Dr. Stobo's kind references as will do the citizens, his tributa to the character of the city and the hospitality of the citizens. The staff of the Examiner and local press, and the representatives of the city press, Toronto and Montreal, are under a debt of gratitude to Rev. Dr. Stobo. From the more or less technical character of the convention proceedings, unfamiliarity with denominational terminoly and ignorance of the names of delegates and routine, the best reporter would be comparatively lost, or equally hampered, and in this regard Dr. Stobo's services in steering the press representatives was a matter worthy of the intense appreciation it receives. Dr. Stobo was trained in a school that helps develop the all-round man—he had training in newspaper work, and if his equipment for the work of the ministry is as excellent as his journalistic capacity, his prominent position in his sacred calling is accounted for, and a future of eminence assured.

MR. GILLESPIE AGAIN SKIMMED CHEESE BOARD

Called the Entire Board, Buying In at Two Prices—Meeting Again Opened Late

METHODS OF BIDDING

Tardiness on the part of salesmen drew a few caustic comments from W. S. Cook at this morning's Cheese Board meeting.

"If you're going to meet at 10.30 why don't you say so, Mr. President, and not have us coming here for 10 o'clock."

"I see you're on time this morning,' Mr. W. C. Switzer replied. "This is the first time this season."

"No, sir; I've been on time more often than any one else."

The Cheese Boarded.

Keene 90, Warminster 65, Shearer 90, Selwyn 75, Villiers 50, Warsaw 120, Westwood 140, Oakdale 65, Daisy D. 99, Myrtle 110, Ormonde 110, Young's Point 55, Laing 80, Indian River 66, East Emily 70, Trewern 78, Benefort 40, Norwood 120, Fleetwood 85. Total 1557.

The Bidding.

The first bid was 12c and quickly rolled up to 12 1-4c by Mr. Thompson. The following offers were received; 3-8c by Cook, 1-2c. by Morton, 9-16 by Gillespie, 5-8 by Morton, 3-4 by Cook, 13-16 by Morton, 7-8 by Gillespie.

The bidding stopped there.

"That's 318c higher than any other board is getting," W. S. Cook remarked.

The Sales.

Mr. Gillespie secured Warminster, Shearer, Selwyn, Villiers, Warsaw, Westwood, Myrtle, Laing, Indian River, and offered 12 13-16c. for further selections.

At this price he obtained Oakdale, Daisy D., Ormonde, East Emily, Trewern, Norwood.

Mr. Gillespie then offered 12 3-4 cents for the balance of the Board.

The representative of Keene factory arrived just then and was included with Benefort and Fleetwood, in the balance of the Board.

Fleetwood accepted and Keene refused the offer.

"I would like to get the same as the rest of the Board as it will probably be the last time," Mr. John Riddell, Benefort salesman stated, but finally accepted Mr. Gillespie's offer.

Young's Point salesman arrived when Mr. Gillespie had completed his calls and did not receive an offer.

Bidding Methods Discussed.

President Switzer spoke of the method of bidding, stating that he believed it untair to the salesmen, but it was a matter they should decide for themselves.

"Take this morning's bidding for example. Mr. Morton bid about the limit at 12 13-16c, and Mr. Gillespie raised it to 12 7-8. He took what he wanted and then bid back to 12 13-16 cents. When Mr. Gillespie had finished at 12 7-8 should not Mr. Morton be given selections at 12 13-16c.?"

Mr. W. S. Cook—"No, give it to Mr. Gillespie. He raised the market to get 300 cheese and dropped back to 12 13-16 for 300 more and thereby get a fair average."

Mr. Morton agreed with Mr. Cook. "A man who buys the board here doesn't steal them. Let him take them and pay the price.

Mr. Cook—It might be a good idea to stop a man when he gets 500 cheese, and give the rest of the Board a chance.

The buyers were free and easy in their discussion.

"I went back to 12 13-16," Mr. Gillespie stated, because I thought Mr. Morton would go up to 12 7-8. I did not want the last selections, but having paid 12 7-8 I did not want someone else buying at 12 13-16c. Bidding is mostly based upon your opinion of what the other man is going to do."

All the buyers were satisfied with the existing method and the question was dropped. An adjournment was called for two weeks.

PETERBORO' BOY ELECTROCUTED IN WINNIPEG

Herbert Miller Youngest Son of Local Relief Officer Finch Miller Meets Tragic Death in West

PARTICULARS LACKING

Word has been received from Winnipeg that Herbert James Miller, the youngest son of Mr. Finch Miller, Peterborough's relief officer, was killed in that city yesterday by being electrocuted. No particulars have as yet arrived as to how the terrible accident occurred. The young man was in the employ of the Municipal Telephone Company as a lineman. He was twenty-four years of age, and had lived in the West for the past sixteen months, before which time he was employed by the G.T.R.

Herbert Miller was very well known in Peterborough, and had a host of friends here who will be shocked to learn of his sudden death.

Mr. George Miller, of Chicago, a brother of the deceased, was notified of the tragedy and left at once for Winnipeg to take charge of the body which will be brought here for interment.

Besides his sorrowing parents the deceased leaves five brothers and one sister to mourn his loss. The brothers are George and Fred, of Chicago; Thomas, of Millbrook; Will, of Rochester, and Walter of Toronto, while the sister, Ada, lives in Los Angeles, Cal.

The bereaved family will have the sympathy of a very large number of friends.

BY-LAW TO EXPROPRIATE PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

CHARGED WITH STEALING $65

Fred Eastland Said to Have Relieved Drunken Man of Money on Thanksgiving Day

OTHER CASES TO-DAY

In Police Court this morning Fred Eastland was charged with stealing a silver watch and chain from Thos. McKinley.

"You have the right to elect to be tried by me or by a Jury," said Magistrate Dumble. "Which do you choose."

"Not guilty," replied the prisoner.

"Do you wish to be tried by me or by a jury?" repeated the Magistrate.

"Yes, sir," was Eastland's response.

Finally Eastland pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried summarily.

The circumstances of the case are, the Police will try to prove, that Thos. McKinley, a local man, was robbed while under the influence of liquor on Monday last, by Eastland. McKinley was drinking heavily at the Montgomery House and became helplessly drunk. When he regained consciousness he had lost his watch and chain, valued at $15, and about $30 in money.

This morning he was remanded until Monday next.

A local young man was charged with assaulting Detective Newhall. He was defended by Mr. G. M. Gordon.

It seems that the young man and his mother went to the Police Station to learn about his younger brother who had been seen drunk by Detectives Newhall and Meagher. The woman got into an argument with Detective Newhall and finally refused to leave the Station. When he offered to put her out the young man struck him in the face.

The young man was found guilty of the charge but was not fined. The Magistrate remarked that the Police were not to be tongue-lashed by every intemperate woman who chose to come to the Police Station for that purpose.

John McMurray pleaded guilty to being found drunk in a public place and was fined $2.

Herbert Hoggins was fined $2 on the same charge.

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN

Mr. J. H. McCannon Tells How They May Get a Start in Life

The problem of getting along and making a start in life is the big one that faces every young man. With so many attractions that promise a good time, and such a multitude of inducements held out to the careless youth to spend his hard-earned money, his salary scarcely lasts until the next pay day comes. Most young men of ambition and fairly steady habits are anxious to accumulate a nest egg that will give him a boost unto the first first rung of the ladder that leads upward to independence, and the best way to do it is the problem. One young man working on a very small salary, managed to save enough to make a small first payment on a lot in the growing section of Peterborough. He has held it one year, and kept up a small regular payment up to just lately, when he sold his claim and now, to his delight, finds himself possessed of a bank account of $300.00. He now has the incentive to go on and do better yet, as well as the encouragement his careful savings well merited. This just shows what a very small start, and keeping at it regularly with small additions will do in a real estate investment as a growing bank account, especially if the investment has been carefully placed by an experienced real estate man who is making his clients' interests his especial care.

Mr. J. H. McCannon, who is making a specialty of placing the savings of small investors in sale, growing property, would be glad to meet all who are interested in this important means of getting a foothold in the struggle for competence, as he has many splendid openings ready for them at the time.

Mr. McCannon is a practical builder and knows property values in Peterborough thoroughly, and his recommendations would be given honestly at all times, and past experience shows his clients have done well on his advice. See him at his office, 32 George Street, (office 'phone 740), or telephone him any evening after work at his house ('phone 722), and arrange for a meeting.

City Will Institute Proceedings Incident to Acquiring Plant of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

THE BY-LAW

By-law No. 1709, to exercise the power to expropriate the property of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, received the approval of the City Council at a special meeting, which was held on Tuesday evening.

The by-law, which bears the endorsement of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, enacts that the corporation without the consent of the owners or persons interested may enter upon, acquire and expropriate the lands, property and machinery of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature, the Act was amended so as to enable the City to institute expropriation proceedings, subject to certain conditions. The by-law, which was passed without any lengthy discussion, enacts as follows:

THE BY-LAW

All poles, wires, insulators, generators, meters, lamps, and all other materials, equipment, apparatus or plant owned, operated and used by the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) in connection with the arc light generating and distributing system or the alternating current system, or any other system of the company, within the City of Peterborough, including the generating equipment and apparatus owned by the said company, and installed in the stations of the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company, Limited, all easements, and rights which the said company now has to enter upon and erect, construct and maintain poles, wires, insulators or other apparatus necessary or useful any lands or property within the said City of Peterborough, and all other easements or rights in the nature of easements which the said company now owns or has a right to exercise in the said City of Peterborough, and in any wise necessary to be used by it in the construction or operation of the plant, apparatus or work hereby expropriated, and all other property of the said company used and operated in connection with or as part of the system, plant or appliances used or operated by it within the City of Peterborough, for supplying electrical power or energy to the customers of the company, and also all other property of the said company within the said City which under the provisions of said acts may be entered upon, expropriated and used by the Corporation of the said City, are hereby expropriated.

2. Such officials, servants or agents of the corporation as may be named by resolution of the Council, or in default of any such resolution being passed, as may be named by the Mayor of the City, are hereby authorized and empowered, either prior to or after the making of any award fixing the sum to be paid therefor, to enter upon, take possession of, and use the property hereby expropriated.

The adoption of the above by-law practically paves the way to expropriation proceedings, which have been contemplated for some time. Counsel will be employed by the City to undertake this work.

SUNDAY'S MUSIC.

Sunday's music at Murray Street Baptist Church was the subject of much favourable comment on the part of those who heard it. Amongst those who contributed to the success of the services may be mentioned Mr. Archibald Fraser, one of the visiting delegates, who gave a rendition of Champion's "Nineteenth Hime" in fine voice at the afternoon service, also Mr. and Mrs. F. [illegible], who rendered very acceptably a beautiful duet, "Do Thou Nigh," at the evening service. Miss Telgmann's finished rendition of the violin obligato of Bruch's "Angel's Serenade" captivated all

CLEARING THE AIR.

Rev. Dr. Sullivan, of Montreal, has been placing upon The Examiner the blame for not printing the letter he says he sent us in denial of the fact that he was, as falsely announced, a former priest of the Roman Catholic Church. The Examiner wishes to state that no such letter was delivered or received, or it would have been willingly published in the interest of truth and of defeating a propaganda for creating strife in the community, under false pretenses, to stimulate greater interest in the minds of the prejudiced and bigotted. Rev. Dr. Sullivan had better see as to whether his messenger was faithful and delivered the letter he says he gave to be given to The Examiner. Its publication would have promptly followed its reception, for it would have made known the truth, and saved the Baptist Convention or some of its prominent members, the trouble of repudiating a member of the Convention, being paraded by the unscrupulous as an ex-priest and consequently a great drawing card, since Rev. Dr. Sullivan never was a priest of the Roman Catholic Church.

VICE-PRESIDENT WEBB.

The Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec conferred a signal honour upon Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church in appointing him to the important position of vice-president; upon the church and upon Peterborough. The honour is reciprocal, for the Convention's choice reflects honour upon itself in selecting a man so well qualified and deserving—so far as human wisdom can measure desert—a man who will measure up to the responsibility of the office and justify his choice. He has been a most successful, as he is an able, pastor. In the three pastorates he has filled, Niagara Falls, Montreal and Peterborough, three new church buildings have arisen, and the last is greatest. The members of the Baptist Convention were loud in their praise of it, as an edifice; in its substantial character, in its architectural beauty, and completeness and convenience of equipment, worthy of the city it adorns, of the pastor and congregation it serves, and the great cause of which it is a centre. Not only has Mr. Webb's pastorate been instrumental in material church edification, but the general interests of the church in the spiritual and moral sense, have made a progress and development that constitutes an unsurpassed record. We are sure the citizens generally will join with The Examiner in extending to Rev. Mr. Webb the hearty congratulations the occasion calls for.

THE HANDWRITING IN EAST MIDDLESEX.

The Dutch captured Holland yesterday—in East Middlesex, when in the bye-election in a strongly Conservative riding the Conservative went through with a greatly reduced majority that suggests the handwriting on the wall. East Middlesex seems to be wedded to Conservatism, though not hopelessly. A reduction of one-third in a by-election where everything favours the Government candidate, shows a trend of public opinion that may, under the wider opportunities of a general election, release the riding from its thraldom. Ever since 1908, when the riding was rearranged in its present form, Mr. Peter Elson, (Conservative), has carried it by growing majorities—from 219 in 1904, to 661 in 1911. The reduction of the Conservative majority to 393 in yesterday's voting, is significant. The appeals of the invading host of Conservative ministers and members, cooperated with the press cry "make it a thousand," with the result that the Conservative majority was almost cut in half. The significant part is that the former vote contributed most to the reduction, showing that Mr. Borden's dependence and hold upon rural Ontario is weakening. While a reduction of nearly 300 in majority in Middlesex did not affect the actual result, a similar reduction in South Bruce, next week, would not only wipe out the Conservative majority, but give the Liberal a lead of 200. Mr. Donelly, the Conservative member, in 1911, had a majority of only 103 over Mr. Truax, the then, and the present, Liberal candidate. It is not being too optimistic to speak of the handwriting on the wall.

ELECTORAL CORRUPTION.

The Guelph Herald, Conservative, deprecates so much talk about electoral corruption, as injurious to the good name of Canada. The "talk" of corruption is not what hurts, but the fact. One would like to minimise and ignore, if possible, the existence of electoral corruption. But, unfortunately, we cannot do that. While man remains human, there will be manifestations of human crookedness. It is possible that in every electoral contest in the past there has been incidental and sporadic instances of undue striving for advantage outside the appeal to reason and principle. Individual zealots have sought the short road to success. This condition has always existed and probably always will exist. This of course is wrong, but it is trifling compared with organized and systematic electoral corruption with elaborate machinery and equipment. It is far different from the electoral corruption which gives occasion for the "talk" of electoral corruption the Guelph Herald deplores. It is what gives rise to and justifies the talk. A little incidental corruption is deplorable, but far more deplorable is the other kind. If the Herald is really concerned for the good name of Canada in this matter it might very well condemn the organized methods of electoral corruption which there is only too much reason to believe exists. It should condemn the prevalence and practice of corruption that has been developed into a system and practically made a department of the government with a cabinet minister in charge—by malign "merit raised to that bad eminence." If the Herald wants to protest in the behalf of the good name of Canada, here is something worthy its consideration.

AN INFAMOUS ELECTION.

A little over one year ago there took place in the electoral district of Macdonald, in the Province of Manitoba, a bye-election which has become a by-word throughout the Dominion. Not content with resorting to the ordinary devices and practices used to carry constituencies, certain wel-known and respectable Liberal workers were imprisoned without a shadow of reason or excuse, and were thus prevented from lending their aid to the Liberal candidate at the most critical part of the campaign. Immediately after the contest was concluded the imprisoned men were set free without even a pretence of prosecution. A few weeks later a protest against the return of the Conservative candidate was filed, one of the charges being that several Ministers of the Crown in Manitoba, including Hon. Robert Rogers and Premier Roblin, had connived with officers of the law, without justification, to deprive the imprisoned men of their freedom.

Since the filing of this petition counsel for the petitioner have done all they could do to have the protest brought to a trial in an election court. They have been met by obstacles interposed for the sole purpose of securing unreasonable and vexatious delays, as shown by the judicial findings upon them. As the result of these tactics the case has not yet come to trial on its merits, and it is apparently the intention of the objectors to secure for Mr. Morrison, the Conservative sitting member, the privilege of occupying for a second session a seat to which he is not properly entitled. Mr. Borden may as well understand that for all these doings he will be held by public opinion fully responsible. If he selects a colleague like Mr. Rogers, with a reputation for the perpetration of all sorts of electoral diabolism, he cannot reasonably expect to come off unsmirched. It is time for him to intervene peremptorily in the Macdonald case and insist that the trial proceed to a finish.—The Globe.

The Relation Of Liberals To Dominion Road Building

A most untruthful and unfair campaign leaflet, issued by the central publication office of the Conservative party, is in circulation in East Middlesex and South Bruce. It asserts that the Liberal party is against expenditure by the Dominion upon rural roads, and that "in 1912 when the Borden Government put the Highways Improvement Bill through the Commons and presented an appropriation of $1,000,000 for this purpose the Senate killed the bill. In 1913 the oGvernment put the Highways Improvement Bill a second time through the Commons, and presented an appropriation of $1,500,000 for the purpose. Again the Senate killed the bill."

It is a falsehood to say that the Liberal majority in the Senate killed the Highways Bill. The Borden Government killed the bill itself by twice refusing to concur in a most reasonable amendment defining the terms uder which the money to be granted in aid of road-building should be expended. The story of the dispute between the two parties which resulted in Mr. Borden dropping the Highways Aid Bill is best told from the official records. When Mr. Cochrane, on January 29, 1912, introduced the bill the following significant paragraphs appear in Hansard:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier—I would ask the hon. gentleman to tell us if there is any basis of allotment among the Provinces. The Provincial subsidies are based on population; is this based on population?

"Hon. Mr. Cochrane—It is to be on the same basis as that on which subsidies are granted to the Provinces, in other words, by population."

When the clauses of the bill were printed it was found that the Government instead of turning over the road grants to the Provinces reserved the right to spend it directly with the consent of the Provincial authorities on works to be undertaken by a proposed Federal road improvement department under direction of the Minister. That meant the creation of the same sort of political road-building machine that has of late years been used to debauch electors in various States of the Union that have gone in for road-building as a part of the political game. The Liberal party announced that it would stand unhesitaingly for the safe and sound principle of handing the road-way grants over to the Provinces, to be by them expended on road improvements dictated by sound public policy instead of the exigencies of Federal politics. Anything else, they declared, would mean the creation of a huge fund for the debauching of constituencies in which bye-elections were held, or for making friends in doubtful seats just before a general election.

The tenacity with which the Minister clung to the clause under which a Federal road-building bureau could be established indicated that the Government was more concerned over the road back to power than the highways of the country. The final stage in the struggle was reached when to clause three of the Government bill, which reads as follows: "The Governor in Council may in any year, and upon such terms and subject to such coditions as are prescribed by order in Council, grant to the several Provinces of the Dominion in aid of the improvement of highways or bridges, or the construction of new highways and bridges, or for all or any such purposes, subsidies not exceeding in the whole such sum as may in such year be voted by Parliament for that purpose," the Liberal majority in the Senate added the words: "The sum of money voted in any year to be expended under this Act shall be apportioned among and paid to the several Provinces of the Dominion in proportion to the population of such Provinces, respectively, as shown by the next preceding census."

"Had the Government accepted this fair and reasonable amendment, which merely embodied Mr. Cochrane's own statement when he introduced the measure, the bill would have gone through and the money would have been available. Rather than do so the Government killed its own bill. This was done by the adoption of the following resolution:

"That this House do not agree to the amendment of the Senate for the following reasons:

"(1)—Because substantially the same amendement has been already considered and rejected by this House.

"(2) Because the amendment is unnecessary and undesirable since (a) the supply bill will make provision for the apportionment of the proposed subsidies to the respecaive Provinces for the ensuing year, and since (b) such apportionment can be more conveniently provided for in the annual supply bill.

"(3) Because the said bill defines the ends, purposes, conditions, limitations, and qualifications to be established in respect of aids and supplies to be granted by this House, and the same are not alterable by the Senate."

It is therefore untrue to say that the Senate killed the Highways Bill. The bill was killed in the Commons by the supporters of the Government rather than accept a reasonable amendment calculated to prevent the improper use of the highways fund, and to require that it should be handed over to the Provinces to be spent.

Why did the Borden Government refuse to trust a good Tory like Sir James Whitney with the spending of the highways grant. Because it would have had to trust four Liberal Provincial Premiers throughout the Dominion as well as five Conservatives. It wanted to keep a hold upon the money so that in Chateauguay and East Middlesex, and South Bruce, and wherever opportunity served, it might add road fund corruption to the brand of public works bribery practised by the Hon. Robert Rogers. The Liberal party did well to fight that sort of vicious legislation to a finish.—Globe.

TEMPERANCE MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

An enthusiastic temperance mass meeting was held in the George Street Church last night, when Mr. A. B. Spencer of Collingwood, and Grand Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance of Ontario addressed the gathering.

Mr. Ward Gamble was chairman. In his address Mr. Spence outlined the principles for which the Templars stood. They advocated not only the total abstinence of the individual and prohibition of the State, but also the State lowering the insurance rates on those who are total abstainers. It was a splendid address and a vivid exposition of the aims of the Templars.

Postponement Of Offical Plans

Owing to lateness of season, I have decided to delay surveyors plans until Spring. I have however made careful measurements and a fairly correct sketch showing location and sizes of lots, streets, lanes etc. From this intending purchasers may select at once, and this should be done without delay by a large number of people who want to save a little of what they earn, who may prefer having a home of their own with a nice garden in Spring, or who may desire a special garden block to make money for them while they sleep. Low prices, easy terms, assistance to build. Every lot will save and make money by increasing values as city grows. Call for particulars.

OLD FORT COLTON

Now New York's Famous Aquarium at the Battery.

ONCE NAMED CASTLE GARDEN.

The Historic Building in Its Day Has Heard the Eloquence of Daniel Webster, the Fiery Oratory of Kossuth and the Divine Voice of Jenny Lind.

Before New York's famous old building at the Battery became the Aquarium it had changed from fort to reception hall, from chief amusement place of the city to gateway of the promised land. Long before it became the home of the finny tribe the building resounded with shouts for Lafayette, Andrew Jackson, Tyler, Van Buren. It heard the eloquence of Daniel Webster, the fiery oratory of Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, and the divine voice of Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale.

When the building was new it stood on a little island separated from the mainland by some 200 feet of water and was reached by crossing a drawbridge. A great part of Battery park was then water, and it was the filling in of this stretch that made the aquarium a part of the mainland. The reason for building it on an island away from the main shore was disclosed in a government order to Colonel Jonathan Williams, who had charge of the construction of the proposed fort. This order said to construct the fortification so that the guns could be trained on both the North and East rivers.

"A foundation should be made around the bastion of the old Battery, where the flagstaff is placed, extending forty or fifty feet from the present, and upon this foundation a battery should be constructed in such manner that the ren on the right will take in the North river, while that upon the left will range along the courtine of the old Battery."

Such were the orders the government gave Colonel Williams. But Colonel Williams said it was impossible for guns to command the entrance to the North and East rivers if they were placed at the old Battery. Two hundred feet out from the shore was the least distance at which that result could be accomplished, and some time afterward the secretary of war authorized the colonel's plan for the fort's construction.

In 1822, eleven years after its erection, when the military headquarters was transferred to Governor's Island, the federal authorities ceded Fort Colton—as the present aquarium was then called—back to the city. Throughout the war of 1812 not one shot had been fired at an enemy from this fort, nor has one been fired since. The embrasures for the thirty and thirty-two pounders that were never used against an enemy can still be seen in the nine foot outer wall.

It was then that the former fort became a place of amusement and received the name of Castle Garden, a name which it retained for three quarters of a century. Two years after the shifting of soldiers to Governor's island Castle Garden was the scene of a great reception given to General Lafayette when he visited America in 1824. It was also the scene of a great memorial service when he died ten years later.

It was there that Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, first demonstrated the possibility of controlling an electric current in 1835. During those early years, too, it was the scene of the receptions given to American presidents when they visited New York. Jackson, Tyler and Van Buren were received there, and later on the scene of Webster's greatest orations were delivered there.

Castle Garden was widely proclaimed as the first real home of opera in America. The great auditorium, now occupied by fish, ordinary and extraordinary, was then packed nightly with people who gathered to hear those famous artists of the middle nineteenth century: Malibran, Sontag, Mario, Grisi, the members of Jullien's orchestra and—best known of all—Jenny Lind, whom all the theatregoing public of the United States and Europe were mad over. The first night in 1850 that the Swedish Nightingale appeared at Castle Garden, under the management of P. T. Barnum, the choice seats sold for several hundred dollars. Her tremendous popularity was made even greater when she gave to local charities the $10,000 which composed her share of the box office receipts.

The next year Louis Kossuth, the famous Hungarian patriot, came from England to the United States and made an address to a vast and enthusiastic throng in Castle Garden.

This was one of the last great receptions held in the historic old building. Four years later it was converted into an immigrant station for the port of New York and from then until 1890, when the immigration office was removed to Ellis Island, it served as the gateway through which 8,000,000 of people entered to work out their destinies in the new world. In 1896 it became the aquarium.—New York Sun.

How Society Woman Wards Off Wrinkles

"Wrinkles are not strangers to me, but when I acquire such disfigurements I know how to lose them in a hurry." A well-known society matron confided this to me. I had wondered how she, with her strenuous social duties and late hours, could so completely ward off the usual marks of care and dissipation.

"I don't wear wrinkles in public, nor those horrid rings beneath the eyes," she continued, "since I've learned what plain, ordinary saxolite will do. When any of those hateful marks appear, I send to the drug store for an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half pint of witch hazel. I mix the two, bathe my face in the solution and—that's the whole secret. I've never tried anything that works so miraculously. My chin is inclined to double; this trouble, too, I keep in check in the same way."—Emily Dean in Town Talk.

The Bogus Beggar.

Several prominent literary men of Paris conceived the idea of making investigations among the beggars on the boulevards by disguising themselves as members of the begging fraternity and soliciting alms. They succeeded beyond their utmost expectations, both in discovering fraud cases of counterfeit cripples and blind men, and by the liberal tips which they themselves received. A good story is told of a number of these bogus beggars calling upon the Due d'Aumale, with appeals for relief, to each one of whom the duke gave 5 francs. At last, however, a genuine beggar appeared, to whom the duke said: "I have received about twenty mendicants of letters to-day, and I recognized them all, in spite of their rags, but I don't know you. You must be a bogus literary man. Get out!"

Minister's Parting Shot.

The minister had just reached his farewell sermon to the congregation with whom he had had much trouble.

"Think so?" said the deacon grufly.

"Why, yes. What better text could be find than 'In my Father's house are many mansions. . . . . I go to prepare a place for you.' By the way, where is he going?"

The deacon smiled sourly as he answered, "He becomes chaplain of the state penitentiary."

TO BENEFIT OTHER SUFFERERS

You May Publish My Letter About "Fruit-a-tives"

Mr. Jones is proud to acknowledge the great debt of gratitude he owes "Fruit-a-tives". He is glad to have his letter published in order that other sufferers may be induced to try these wonderful tablets made of fruit juices.

SARNIA, ONT., FEB. 5th, 1912

"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors, but derived no benefit whatever. Finally, I read an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives" I decided to give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial and they did exactly what was claimed for them. I have now taken them for some time and find they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended "Fruit-a-tives" to a great many of my friends, and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly"

PAUL J. JONES.

ARMORER'S TOOLS.

Fine Relics of Ancient Times in New York's Art Museum.

Very few people are aware that in the heart of modern New York is a complete armorer's shop, writes H. A. Buverkrop in the American Machinist. It is in the basement of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and is equipped with a complete outfit of over 600 armorer's tools. Many of these are very old, having descended from master to man or from father to son through many generations. Their workmanship is excellent. Where steel faces have been welded to iron bodies the welds are clean and perfect, and the junction of iron and steel is distinguishable only by the difference in luster of the two metals.

The tempering of the steel faces seems to be good and uniform, as neither cracks nor dents are apparent. A cursory glance at these tools will at once apprise us of the origin of many of our modern sheet metal workers' implements. The working faces of all the tools are highly polished, so that they do not "grip" the metal being worked, which it is free to "slide" to the shape desired by the armorer.

Every collection of ancient armor requires technical care for its upkeep. The objects must be kept free from rust, occasionally remounted, and from time to time restorations must be made to preserve these priceless specimens. In order to carry out this work the museum has arranged the shop referred to so that these necessary operations may be carried on. The armorer's tools once belonged to Daniel Tachaux, but are now the property of the museum. Mr. Tachaux brought them to this country when he came from Paris in 1909 to make some repairs in the museum's collection of armor. The outfit consists of over 600 tools and includes nearly 100 kinds of stakes and a great variety of hammers, swages, etc.

"Now, that surely is one of your best works hanging on that nail there?" she said.

"Oh, that," explained the master, "is my palette."—London Bystander.

YOUR MILLINERY.

In the Fall Hats Women Will Look Older.

In the majority of fall models women will look older. This is because the toques, mushroom and bell shapes have given way to the hat with an upturned brim, and to be strictly in style the brim must turn at the back.

If you are young and fair to look on, by all means wear a chin band on your new fall hat. This can be of velvet ribbon, taffeta or moire or of tulle and maline. It can have a fastening by means of a hook and eye, or the streamers can be tied at one side, coquettishly, under one ear or just in front. The chin band will be noticeable on hats for afternoon and evening this season.

One "cap" is of velvet, with a puffed crown and a visor which comes down in front. At one side is a panache mounting to great height and giving a dashing effect that would look well with a military suit. On a black velvet hat for evening there is used chantilly lace for the brim and for the wired bow at the back that holds the turned up brim. The illustration shows an exceedingly stylish piece of millinery—a jaunty sailor of black velvet, with fancy quills. The upstanding medici ruche worn with this chapeau will add ultra chicness to any costume.

TRAVELER'S LUNCH.

Home Fare Often Better Than Dining Car Meals.

To pack lunch for a traveler requires much more finesse and care than if you were preparing for a day's picnic. Traveling is apt to be tiresome, for long hours of riding, even in a comfortable twentieth century train, have many drawbacks, and if a lunch is to be enjoyed on the road the same must be the acme of daintiness. Many travelers prefer to carry several meals instead of patronizing the dining car service when going on a long journey, and if each meal is packed separately and offers enough variety there is no reason why the last should not be as enjoyable as the first. Have white clean pasteboard boxes, wrap each in white paper and mark neatly. Use the best grade of white paper napkins, dishes and waxed paper. A small fruit knife or butter spreader, aluminium fork and spoon and a collapsible cup can be carried in one's grip.

When using these recipes remember all measurements are level. Use a graded half pint measuring cup and sift flour before measuring.

Pimento Cheese Sandwiches.

One soft cream cheese, one teaspoonful of cream, one canned red pimento, one teaspoonful of pimento oil; mash the cheese with the cream to a smooth paste, cut pimento into small bits, add that and the oil which will be found in the can, mix well and then spread on unsweetened crackers.

Boston Sandwiches.

One cupful of baked beans, two thin slices of bacon, one teaspoonful of ketchup, one teaspoonful of mustard sauce, steamed brown bread. Run the beans through a fruit press, cut the bacon into tiny cubes and fry to a golden crispness; drain off the fat and add the cubes to the beans; add other ingredients and rub to a smooth paste; spread between thin buttered slices of brown bread.

Marshmallow Fingers.

Split lady fingers and spread with marshmallow icing, put a little sprinkling of ground almonds between; press together and ice on both sides, placing a half blanched almond on each center.

Deviled Macaroni.

Boil, blanch, drain and chop four ounces of macaroni rather fine. Rub two tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour together, add one-half pint of milk and stir it till boiling. Press three hard boiled eggs through a sieve or chop them very fine, and add them to the thick sauce. Add one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne pepper, a grating of nutmeg and one tablespoonful of onion juice. Now mix in the macaroni and a small quantity of cayenne. Put in individual shells, cover the top with breadcrumbs moistened with melted butter and run them into a quick oven to brown. When done make an indentation with the back of the spoon in the center of each, put in a teaspoonful of tomato ketchup or chili sauce and serve at once.

TAKES IN PHOTOGRAPHY.

It is well known that the nearer an object is to the camera the larger it appears in proportion to other objects in the picture, and by taking advantage of this fact some astonishing pictures may be obtained, particularly if a lens of somewhat short focus is employed. Not long ago the writer saw reproduced in a popular magazine a photograph which was described in all seriousness as depicting a cabbage of gigantic proportions.

Doubtless most people who looked at the picture were deceived, for the cabbage partially obscured a whole family of five or six persons who stood somewhere in the background. Yet in reality the vegetable was of only ordinary proportion and merely looked large in proportion to the human beings because of its nearness to a lens of short focus.

In the same way if a fisherman has caught a fish six inches long it may be made to appear gigantic in the photograph. By means of his rod and line the fisherman may hang the fish a good six or eight feet nearer the camera than he himself is, and the lens does the rest.

Very laughable caricature photographs may be made by simply mevigating the "swing back" of the camera out of the perpendicular. Your friends may to made to look like reclining giants or dwarfs with big heads. In fact, an almost endless variety of quaint deformities may be devised by varying the elevation of the camera and the angle of the back. Care must be taken, however, to "stop down" the lens as much as possible in order to bring the whole picture well into focus. This, of course, means that a good light is required; otherwise the exposure must be a long one and your model may move and spoil the picture.

How It Was Becoming.

"That dress is becoming, my dear," said the man who thinks he is a diplomat.

She looked at him coldly for a moment and then replied:

"Yes. It is becoming threadbare."

Scalding a Brand.

To scald a brand is to make a brand look old. The way to scald a brand is to put a wet cloth on the animal where the hot brand is to be placed. The brand will show plain and the hair is not burned.

And Now He Doesn't.

Howell—Do you like congregational singing?

Powell—I did until the cats in our neighborhood adopted the idea.

A Queer Servian Belief.

To hatch a chicken by holding an egg for the allotted time in the left armpit is believed in Servia to be a certain charm against violent death, more especially if the bird be swallowed whole forty days after it comes to life. A robber who had devastated the district of Kolubara for many years was, writes a Belgrade correspondent, known to have accomplished both these feats, which accounted for the apathy of the peasants in pursuing him, persuaded as they were of his invulnerability. He was finally, however, killed by the mounted police, thus discrediting a time honored Servian superstition.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has been so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment: Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

EASY CHANGE
When Tea and Coffee are Doing Harm.

A lady writes of the results of a four years' use of the food beverage, Postum:

"Ever since I can remember we had used coffee three times a day. It had a more or less injurious effect upon us all, and I suffered almost death from indigestion and nervousness.

"I know it was coffee, because when I would leave it off for a few days I would feel better. But it was hard to give coffee up, even though I realized how harmful it was to me.

Tea is just as harmful because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.

"At last, I found a perfectly easy way to make the change. Four years ago I abandoned the coffee habit and began to drink Postum and I also influenced the rest of the family to do the same.

"Even the children are allowed to drink it as freely as they do water. And it has done us all great good. I no longer suffer from indigestion, and my nerves are in admirable tone since I began to use Postum. We never use coffee any more.

"We appreciate Postum as a delightful and healthful beverage, which not only invigorates but supplies the best of nourishment as well." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOLS SHOW AN INCREASE FOR YEAR

Report For Ontario and Quebec Shows a Total of 47,356 Scholars Enrolled

MISSION GIVINGS INCREASED

The report of the Sunday School Board was presented at yesterday morning's service of the Baptist Convention, and was moved by Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M.A., Superintendent of Sunday School Work.

The report shows that the scholars enrolled in Sunday Schools number 47,356, an increase of 1,988; teachers and officers, 5,586, an increase of 362; total number of Sunday Schools, 621; scholars, members of church, 11,788, an increase of 509; scholars baptized during the year, 1,805, an increase of 234. These schools contributed to Baptist Missions $14,700, an increase of $1,550. They gave to the S. S. Board $9.75; expended for school purposes, $34,158.97, an increase of $2,081.66.

Superintendent's Activities.

The General Superintendent reports having travelled 12,455 miles and having held 620 meetings, and having given courses of lectures at the summer school of the Ontario S.S. Association, and at the Baptist Summer Assembly at Orillia. The Board reports disbursements of $2,921.06, and has exceeded its income by $630.94. The Board has prepared a beautiful Twentieth Century Standard of Excellence Honour Diploma, which will be awarded to schools that reach the demands of the Board in this connection.

Rev. W. C. Pearce, B.A., of Colborne, seconded the adoption of the report, and spoke most appreciatively of the work of the General Superintendent.

Rev. J. R. Webb raised a question respecting the value of a Home Department.

Rev. B. W. Merrill, B.A., of Toronto, eulogized the work of the General Superintendent. Attendance upon 620 meetings and travelling 12,000 miles is no small task. Mr. Merrill is a firm believer in the Home Department. In a strong and informing address Mr. Merrill showed the value of the office of General Superintendent.

The report was discussed by Mr. W. C. Senior, who spoke of the "shed" nuisance in the country church. The Adult Bible Class movement was of great value in reaching the men. Rev. H. R. Nobles, B.D., emphasized the value of Rally Day.

Developements In Mexican Situation

Examiner Special:

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 22. — The Mexican situation has again became serious. Following the tales told by refugees who arrived from Durango, Mexico, by the steamers, one passenger told of the revolutionists of General Carranza seizing a man and wife in their home. The husband was tied fast and the wife was tied to the bed where she was finally killed. Twenty-seven Americans were lined up against a building to be shot and were only saved by Mexican maids pleading for their lives. All through Durango the fine residences of the rich have been turned into stables by the rebels.

This closure, if it may be called such, has been coming on for several months past, and is the first since the organization of the Canadian Cereal and the merging of a large number of small flour mills.

"WOMEN'S PLACE IN LITERATURE"

Father McColl's Interesting Address—Ladies' Literary Society Met

The first meeting of the season of the Ladies' Literary Society of the T.A.S. took place on Friday evening last.

The meeting was opened by the president of the society, Mrs. A. Lehane, who made a few remarks, thanking the members for their interest, and encouraging all to renewed effort in the coming season.

The following musical programme was given:

Instrumental solo — Miss Bernice Giroux.

Reading from Adelaide Proctor—Mrs. Bruce Law.

Vocal solo—"I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls"—Miss Molly Young. Accompanist—Miss L. Hurley.

Rev. Father McColl gave a short but very interesting discourse on "Woman's Place in Literature," giving instances of her influence in this direction from the earliest times, not only in production, but more as the inspiration of good work in others. The speaker dwelt particularly on this point—the inspiring force of good women behind so many of man's greatest achievements. It is true that history does not give credit where it is due in many cases, because the work is accomplished silently and quietly.

During two or three centuries—from the sixteenth to the eighteenth—civilization was practically at a standstill. The people were very illiterate, and it was during this period that women lost many of the rights and advantages they had enjoyed previous to that time, and for the restoration of which they are striving so heartily now. The speaker deplored the militant spirit of modern suffrage, saying that it was probably merely a passing phase. He finished with a few remarks on the debasing influence of bad books, and the importances of good reading as an incentive to higher ideals. "Women with high ideals are the leaven of society, and the influence of their good works will never cease."

Rev. Father Galvin spoke for a few minutes, heartily endorsing Father McColl's views. He said that to a student of literature, it was noticeable that very few writers had strong heroines, this being particularly the case in the work of Shakespeare, whose heroines are nearly all weak. He regarded the literary society as a noble work. It would aid its members to acquire a good vocabulary and a knowledge of the works of the great English masters. He said, "Literature is merely a vehicle, by means of which truth is conveyed to the intellect."

The trained nurse has even greater opportunities than the doctor himself to watch the action of medicine in specific cases.

For years the writer of this letter has been recommending the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills among her patients, and is firmly convinced that no treatment is so prompt and effective.

This is the most valuable evidence obtainable, and we believe that all who know Mrs. Duffy will appreciate it to the full, knowing that she would not recommend anything in which she had not the fullest confidence.

PRESENTATION TO MR. HEYES

About twenty fellow-workmen and friends assembled at the White House on Thursday evening last to bid farewell to Mr. Alfred Heyes, who is returning to the Old Country. A very pleasant evening was spent, and at the conclusion of the festivities Mr. Arthur Paget presented Mr. Heyes with a valuable scarf pin on behalf of the oil switch department of the C.G.E. On making the presentation, Mr. Paget in a few words expressed the general feeling of regret that was shared by the entire department, at the loss of Mr. Heyes, and sincerely trusted that in his new sphere Mr. Heyes would have his lot cast among people who would be able to appreciate his many sterling qualities. Several other fellow-workmen also testified to the recipient's popularity, and expressed good wishes for his future well being.

Mr. Heyes thanked his friends briefly and feelingly. He mentioned that after settling up the family affairs, which was the reason of his leaving Peterborough, he might possibly return and settle down in the place where he had spent so many happy hours. The evening was brought to a close by singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Remember the people you and I live among are the ones we can get the most help from.

Sovereign A. Graham, in the canacity of Council Commander, unveiled the monument. The Council Commander of Lindsay camp also acted for the Peterborough camp. The Peterborough camp quartette rendered good service under the leadership of Mr. Chandler.

WATERY BLISTERS INTENSELY ITCHY

Between Fingers. Spread to Tips. Would Swell Up, Itch and Burn. Did Not Dare Put Hands in Water. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Carman, Manitoba.—"A breaking out between my fingers was the first trouble. It was very itchy and spread to my finger tips affecting the nails. It first appeared in watery blisters and they were so intensely itchy I scratched them and let the water out making sores. They would swell up, itch and burn and finally the nails would loosen and come off. I spent most sleepless nights. I did not dare to put my hands in water except to wash them.

"I kept using ointments, ——, —— Ointment, but was not cured. Sometimes the remedies would help a little but I wanted free from it altogether. I was that way for nine years trying everything. I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for them and before I had used them half a dozen times I noticed an improvement. By washing with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Ointment frequently I was cured in three months." (Signed) Miss Florence E. Sanderson, May 30, 1913.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp that torture, feel, burn, scale and destroy sleep. C.P.R. NOTIFIES CITY BRIDGE WILL NOT BE BUILT

City's Demand for a Swing Would Entail Too Great an Expense

MAYOR BRADBURN EXPLAINS

The C. P. R. have notified the Council that they will not proceed with the construction of their new bridge over the western section of the river because of expense resulting from the City's demand respecting provision for a swing bridge. The following letter to Mayor Bradburn from R. L. Wanklyn, General Executive Assistant, was read at Tuesday nights' meeting of the Council.

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 14th inst., regarding the proposed swing span in the Railway bridge over the Otonabee River. I regret that you are unable to concur in my suggestion for a swing, providing a clear water way of at least 33 feet on either side of the pivot span, which would be placed in the middle span of the existing bridge.

After submitting your letter to our Vice-President, I am directed to inform you that under present circumstances the Company has decided to withdraw its application to reconstruct the fixed bridge to accommodate its heaviest locomotives, and will allow the existing fixed bridge to remain. This will, of course, prevent our using the heaviest type of locomotive over this part of the railway, but this is preferable to incurring the enormous expense of providing an entirely new bridge with swing span."

The Company's Offer.

Ald. Anderson — What was their proposal?

Mayor Bradburn—They were going to put a swing bridge in the second span of the western section, leaving a 33 foot passage. The locks in the Canal are only 33 feet wide and the water is always calm and easy to navigate in. But the river at the bridge is very rapid and no pilot would want to take a chance of going through that space. I insisted upon the swing in the span at the west end of the bridge.

Mayor Bradburn suggested that he acknowledge the letter in view of the fact that no other action could be taken at present.

No. of active members	6496
No. of associate members	1592
No. of junior members	1037
No. of Societies organized	210

The above figures represent a few outstanding features of the report of the Provincial Baptist Young Peoples Union as presented at the closing session of the Baptist Convention by Rev. H. R. Nobles, B.A., B.D., Secretary of the Union and pastor of Christie Street Baptist Church, Toronto.

TWO PROBLEMS

"Two of the problems incident to indenominational life," said Rev. Mr. Nobles, as he rapidly and vigorously reviewed the work of the Union for the past year, concern the rural districts on one hand and the congested centres in the city on the other. In one instance there are not enough people and in the other there are too many. The Baptist Young People's Union is designed to give the young people of the community an opportunity of taking part in a special work that will eventually fit them for active service in the parent church. Its purpose is to create a home that will thrill with the atmosphere of warmth and sociability, and to train the young mind of its members."

STEADY GROWTH

In the Ontario and Quebec Convention there are about five hundred Baptist churches and a total of two hundred and ten Young Peoples' Societies. Twenty-four Unions were organized during the year, and several more are in the making. During the year over three hundred and fifty young people connected with the Union consecrated their lives to God.

The disbursements for the year totalled $833, and a balance remains in the treasury of $21.01. The Union contributed over five thousand dollars for the support of a missionary in the foreign mission field. It is not the policy of the Union to raise funds for missionary purposes but rather encourage the members to contribute through the church in the regular way.

The report which was seconded by Rev. W. J. Pady was unanimously accepted by the convention.

Fiery Eloquence Smith, K. C., in Action!—There's a young Unionist M. P., who is being talked of very seriously just now as a possible successor for Leader Bonar Law, of the British Unionists. His name is F. E. Smith and they call him Fiery Eloquence Smith. Strangely enough he is a great friend of Winston Churchill, but on the Home Rule question, they must differ very much, for in the Ulster crisis Smith represents English Unionism in his whole-hearted support of King Carson. The picture shows him addressing Orangemen in his recent campaign—From the Tattler

Hospitality Appreciated

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the Baptist convention yesterday:

Resolved: That this Convention place on record its most cordial appreciation and admiration:

1. Of the Pastor, Deacons, Trustees, Members and Adherents of the Murray street Baptist church, whose thoughtful and diligent management of all needful details has done so much to secure cheer, comfort and good will to the delegates, as well as efficiency to all the sessions of the Convention;

2. Of the Organist, Soloists, Choir, and members of other choirs, whose cheerfully rendered services have been so full of music's charms and spiritual inspiration;

3. Of all those into whose homes the delegates have been so heartily welcomed, and would make special mention of the marked hospitality shown in many homes of sister denominations;

4. Of the Press of the City of Peterborough and elsewhere for the excellent reporting of the meetings of the Convention. Also for the general welcome tendered by the Council and the Ministerial Association of the City, and that we express our admiration of the ability and cheerful service of Mr. T. F. Matthews, who has not only acted as Chairman of the Billeting Committee, but has secured for us many advantages which are not usually enjoyed by conventions.

It Meant A Long Walk Back Home

A hunting party, composed of Messrs. W. J. Warne, Ernie Warne, R. Hutchinson and E. Lillico, were returning on Monday night from a hunting trip in the northern part of the country when their car came to a sudden standstill fifteen miles north of Buckhorn. The rough roads in the unsettled part of the townships made a rough passage for the automobile, and back in a lightly settled section something missed fire in the inner workings. Not far from this party Mr. Herb. Stinson's car had come to a halt and it is understood that he offered it to the first party if they could coax it back to life. This was finally achieved, but only a short distance along the road it temporarily gave up the ghost.

The result was that two members of the party, Messrs. Lillico and Hutchinson, walked the fifteen miles to Buckhorn along muddy roads and were fortunate in securing a ride to Peterborough, arriving in the City at four o'clock Tuesday morning.

NEW SEWERS TO BE LAID

Sewers to the extent of two thousand and twenty-seven feet will be laid during the current year on the following streets in the lengths designated:

George street from Wescott to Lake street, 385 feet of twelve inch sewer pipe.

The total cost will be in the neighborhood of $2,880.30, and will be apportioned as follows: Share to be borne by the land, $1,785.02; by corporation, $1,011.28; total $2,880.30. The estimated annual special rate per foot frontage equals 0.0352745. The number of private connections included in the above is forty-one. These will be installed at a cost of $510.

Terrible Conditions In Dublin

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 22.—(Special Cable) — English indignation against the merciless policy of Dublin employers in the labour war is growing daily. Official report on Dubling housing gives a further shock to British conscience showing a large majority are living in homes which are a national disgrace. Seventy thousand live in single room tenements. Six thousand live seven in one room, and nine thousand live six in one room. The Dublin death rate is nearly double that of London. The bitterness between masters and men has been intensified.

DIRECTORY OF OPPORTUNITIES.

It is a good plan to take the time to acquaint one's self with the opportunities that are presented through the Examiner Want Columns.

Opportunities for employment, for renting, for selling, for buying, for exchanging, chances for investment—all are enumerated from time to time in the "Want" Columns of the EXAMINER.

IMPORTANT JUDGMENT

The civil action that was entered at the Peterborough Court of Assize, and which concerned the Northern Electric Manufacturing Company, and the Cordova Mines Limited, was dismised in Osgoode Hall, Toronto, with costs to defendant company. Mr. G. Grant of Toronto, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. R. E. Wood, Peterborough, for the company. G. F. Shepley, K. C., and W. N. Tilley appeared for Hughes & Mackenzie, who were also named as defendants. The case was tried before Mr. Justice Middleton and the full sitting of the High Court, and was adjourned to Osgoode Hall.

THE JUDGMENT

Plaintiff company sues on behalf of itself and all other creditors of defendant company to recover $800 due it by the company, and to have it declared that a certain mortgage given by the company to defendants Hughes and Mackenzie, for $60,000, is ultra vires defendant company and void, and is a fraud upon the plaintiffs and the other creditors of the company. Judgment: There is no doubt that the company possessed an existence and individuality entirely distinct from the individuality of its shareholders, yet where a transaction is not in its nature beyond the powers of the company, and is assented to by every individual shareholder, and no fraud upon creditors is intended, the transaction cannot be regarded as ultra vires. There is no statute prohibiting the giving of a mortgage by a company. There is no statute which only permits the mortgage to be given for a present advance. The action fails and must be dismissed with costs. It may be that the applicants will not consider it desirable to press the winding-up and I am not sure that the facts proved at the trial are technically in evidence upon that motion. I shall withhold decision on the winding-up aplication until the matter is further spoken to. Action dismissed with costs as to all defendants save defendant company (against whom judgment already entered for debt), and declaring validity of the mortgage in question as against the company and its creditors.

150 MILES OF CONCRETE ROAD

The Essex County Council has recently prepared a by-law for presentation at the January elections providing for the raising of a million dollars for 150 miles of roadways, connecting the towns of the county. On the recommendation of Provincial Engineer Huber, concrete material has been selected for the work.

STONEY LAKE BREEZES

The New Government, prize-package wharf at Kawartha Park is growing apace. Mr. Harry Hockiday, of Young's Point, is the lucky contractor. It is of rather pretentious dimensions; twenty-eight feet by fourteen, set out into the lake twenty-five feet from shore, (at low-water mark) and conected thereto by a narrow stone fill-in. Five tiers of timber rise from the sandy bottom on top of which there will be a thick cap of stone and concrete. At present there are about four feet of water at the front of the wharf.

A strange discovery was made during the location of the stakes. A large derrick was dug out of the sand which, according to the story of the settlers, had lain there for many years, possibly from the time of the construction of the Burleigh Falls locks.

Mr. B. F. Ackerman is having his wharf at "Britannia" repaired. The entire filling of stone had to be removed to allow the timbers to drop to their proper position.

Mr. Robert Neil is having a cement run-way constructed from his boat house to the water's edge.

Contractor Ayotte is rushing the construction of Mr. H. W. Stock's garage and icehouse, as well as the erection of Dr. Husband's cottage.

Mr. Stock and Mr. John Crane motored up to Kawartha Park last week.

Dr. Zimmerman, accompanied by his son, George, motored from Toronto to their cottage last Wednesday. They returned at the end of the week.

New glance piers are being constructed at Burleigh Falls, to facilitate the progress of logs over the rapids above the falls.

Controller McCarthy, Mrs. McCarthy, Davis and Voureen, of Toronto, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lindsay, of Peterborough, motored to McCracken's Landing last Friday and spent the week-end at "Emerald Isle."

Mrs. A. L. Davis and party, of Toronto, expect to occupy "Glen Oak" next week.

The steamer "Beaver," owned by Mr. Lejeunesse, of Peterborough, had the misfortune to become "stuck up" on a mudbank in the river just below Young's Point—a direct result of the low water.

Several huge piles of cordwood are still awaiting the coming of scows to raft them to Peterborough, but, alas, for the poor, they will have to remain where they are as the lowness of the water prevents their removal.

We heartily thank the weather man for providing such delightful days and nights. We hardly dare ask for more.—M. M.

Place cake as nearly as possible in centre of the oven. If too near gas one side will burn before the other side is cooked.

The oven should be kept as nearly uniform in temperature as possible.

DELEGATES LEAVING

Tuesday afternoon's session of the Baptist convention witnessed a marked diminution in the attendance of delegates. After devotional exercises, led by Rev. C. H. Schutt, M.A., the report of the committee on Non-Resident Membership was read by Rev .C. J. Cameron, which showed that about one-eighth of the membership of the Churches are non-resident.

It was recommended that the duty of Church members towards the Church be emphasized. A uniform plan of procedure should be pursued by the Churches of the convention.

Central Bureau Proposed.

A central bureau or clearing house for non-resident members should be established, to which pastors could send information respecting these members and through which efforts could be made to bring the member into relations with the local Church in the place in which he lives.

The report was seconded by Rev. B. W. Merrill, B.A.

The discussion brought out a difference of opinion in respect to the establishment of the proposed bureau.

Mr. Norton was afraid that pastors might lean too much upon such a bureau.

Rev. Jas. McEwen, B. Th., of Buckingham, Que., thought that the local Church should keep up communication with the non-resident members.

Rev. C. H. Schutt, M.A., Toronto, thought that the local Churches needed the help of some other agency in connection with the care of these non-resident members.

Rev. B. W. Merrill, B.A., supported the committee's recommendation. He thought that the Home Mission office would be the natural channel through which the non-resident member could be looked after. The American Baptists had found the proposed bureau to be of wonderful advantage.

Rev. T. T. Shields thought the experiment was worth trying.

The committee was thanked for its work, and continued until next convention, when it will again report.

LOCAL YOUTH ESCAPED FROM JAIL IN PICTON

PICON, Oct. 21.—James McDonald, sentenced to Central Prison for two years on each of two charges of burglarising the Bristol store, and stealing a horse and carriage, and Russell McColl, awaiting trial on a charge of assault and robbery, broke jail Saturday afternoon.

By using a clothesline fastened to a pole, and by swinging, one of them with the assistance of a confederate, managed eventually to swing astride the jail wall with the line. They descended by means of a huge grape vine growing on the outside of the wall, and made their escape.

By means of the rural telephone they were located by farmers living on the main road west of the Village of Bloomfield, five miles distant. The Chief of Police was notified, and with the assistance of an automobile, ran the prisoners down. McDonald and awaiting transfer to the Central Prison at Toronto.

McColl is a local youth and has an unenviable record in this City.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morrow should exhibit a continuance of the bullish tactics observed in the last day or so. There is a considerable amount of short covering, but it seems to be based on the fact that the scales buying to which we referred lately, has reduced the amount of stocks necessary to relase short contracts. This applies to the standard railroads and industrial issues. There are weak spots in part of the list, but by operating in the standard issues, daily operators will get good results. There is improvement in the currency outlook. The money situation. The Mexican advices privately received, and the shorts are afraid of what the steel earning figures, soon to be published, may show, notwithstanding the gloomy talk recently.

Business for foreign account amounted to at least 10,000 shares, all on the buying side. The purchases represented for the most part covering of shorts sold to New York prior to the opening there. We look for a strong bullish market for the balance of the week. Would purchase on recessions S.P., C.P.R., U.P., G.Q., Atch. and St. Paul.

London sold 4,000 shares of A.C.P., but did very little else in our market. A.C.P. has been pressed for sale in London prior to opening here.

Good buying is reported in Rdg. This information comes from a good source.

Geo. Robinson Took Fourth Prize in Hamilton Herald Race

HAMILTON, Oct. 22.—Out of a field of twenty entries, only four started in the annual round-the-bay race of The Herald this morning.

All finished fresh. It was the smallest field in twenty years that the race has been run. Rain and the heavy going were responsible.

The winner was James Duffy, Ramblers A. C., Hamilton, formerly of the Eaton A. C., Toronto. He won last year, when he made a new record of 1h. 48m. 15s., beating the record of Sammy Mellor, made in 1904, of 1h. 48m. 43s. The time this year was 1h. 48m. 38s., which also beats Mellor's record.

In view of the heavy going, the race this year was remarkable. Duffy was ahead of last year's record at Stone Road Junction, near the twelve-mile post, by nearly a minute, but he lost time in the muddy stretch there.

William Allen, who ran under the colours of the Tiger Athletic Club and direction of Bobby Kerr, finished second in 1h. 59m. 25s. George Hepburn, the Winnipeg Telegram race winner, finished third in 2h. 5m. 10s., and George Robinson, Brinton A. C., Peterborough, fourth, in 2h. 13m. 54s.

Duffy led from start to finish, and at the end of the race was leading by nearly two miles. The prizes were presented by Controller Cooper at the Temple Theatre.

A Medal For Geo. Robinson

The Hamilton Herald says: So well and pluckily did George Robinson, of the Brinton A. C. of Peterborough, run on his first appearance in the big race, that the race officials have decided to reward his efforts with a medal. He came here yesterday morning, and ran over the course for the first time. Early in the race it was realized that he did not have a chance to get any of the three places, but he gamely stuck it out, and finished strong. In fact, all of the four starters finished in good condition, and this proved that long-distance running even under the conditions of yesterday is not so injurious after all.

COLLEGIATE BEATEN BY LINSDAY C. I.

The Collegiate Institute team journeyed to Lindsay on Saturday, and were beaten somewhat easily by the Lindsay Collegiate by the score of 35 to 6. Lindsay had the advantage in weight and used it all the way.

While the Peterborough students were handicapped by their lack of knowledge of the Intercollegiate rule in regard to interference on the line, being at a loss to stop the winners' mass plays, Peterborough scared the first touch down of the game, but Lindsay soon evened up, and from then on the end of the game piled up a score.

The score at the end of each quarter was: First quarter, Lindsay 12, Peterborough 0; second quarter, Lindsay 22, Peterborough 6; third quarter, Lindsay 25, Peterborough 6; fourth quarter, Lindsay 35, Peterborough 6.

A. G. Simpson refereed, and J. Biglow was umpire.

The teams lined up as follow:

Lindsay C.I.—Flying wing, Thorburn; halves, Coombs, Williamson, Weeks; quarter, Tolmie; scrimmage, Dougan, Bigelow, Burgess; wings, Carew, Flavelle, G. Weekes, Stewart, Sutcliffe, O'Laughlin.

Peterborough C.I.—Flying wing, Eastwood; halves, Rogers, Long, Peever; quarter, Stratton; scrimmage, Cann, Kennedy, Carruthers; wings, McDonald, Smith, Canniff, Stevenson, Austin, Jobbitt.

The return game will be played here on Saturday.

Canadian Officer Wins.

An assault at arms was held at Bangalore, Mysore, in India, during the last week in July, consisting of fifty-four events, open to the British and Indian officers and troops of the Indian army, and from papers received the competitions were keenly contested, and the cup for the best British officer at arms (dismounted) presented by Lt.-Gen. Sir John Woon, K.C.B., commanding 9th Secunderabad division, was won by Lieut. Alan S. C. Rogers of the 61th King George's Own Pioneers. He received many congratulations locally for his brilliant achievements in the numerous events in which he competed, and as an ex-member of the Queen's Own Rifles and an old boy of Trinity College School, Port Hope, and a graduate of the Royal Military College at Kingston, his many friends and comrades here will rejoice at his success, and it speaks highly of the training he received at the Royal Military College at Kingston.

He is a nephew of Col. Sir Henry M. Pellatt, Kt., C.V.O., and a son of Mr. Edwin R. Rogers, inspector of prisons and public charities, Parliament buildings.

Radish Red and White.

A horticultural freak has been discovered in the garden of 16-year-old Frank Marvyn, of Balmy Beach, Toronto, in the form of a radish which tried to be of the common red variety, but changed its mind and grew white as well. The radish is the large winter grade, and for the first three inches under ground was red, then came a small neck, apparently with the intention of turning into a root, but instead of the root here grew another radish over two inches in length and perfectly white. Horticulturists may be able to explain the two grades growing upon one root, but Frank cannot.

Sewer Level A Foot Above Cellar Floor Is Useless

Reported to Council at Special Session—C. P. R. Siding By-law Stands—Bell Telephone Work Next Year.

WANT MR. P. THOMPSON

A special meeting of the City Council was held on Tuesday evening, although it looked for a time as if a quorum would not materialise. Mayor Bradburn and Aldermen Anderson, Johnston, Duffus and Gillespie arrived on time and then Ald. Gordon appeared, making a sufficient number to open the meeting. A little later Aldermen Duncan and Green entered, having just come from the C.P.R. local. Ald. Gordon was called away shortly after the arrival of the last two aldermen.

Inefficient Sewer.

The following letter was read from Messrs. Benett and Goodwill:

We are instructed by the Misses Dickson, of 490 Dickson Street, to advise you that the sewer recently installed at their residence by way of McDonnell Street, is absolutely useless to them, being, as it is, one foot above their cellar floor.

We understand the sewer opposite Mr. William Davidson's residence is 14 feet below the surface and that from there it was so rapidly reduced in depth, until it came to Mrs. Wald's that satisfactory extensions and connections beyond Mrs. Wald's became impossible.

Although the Misses Dickson were away with the work was done, the house was open for the purpose of ascertaining levels. We must ask you to remedy the matter at the earliest possible date so that the plumbing may be completed this fall.

The communication was referred to the Board of Works.

Will Claim Damages.

The Toronto Savings and Loan Co. wrote in regard to the height of the curb on the south side of Hunter Street, between George and Chambers Street, stating that they would hold the City responsible for damage caused by overflow water in the spring at that point.

Mayor Bradburn—They claim that the curb is not high enough on that side of the street. Mr. Parsons considers it all right. Refer it to the Board of Works.

Recommend Mr. Thompson.

Messrs. C. A. J. Duranceau, A. W. Archibald, F. R. J. McPherson, R. J. G. Sutherland, R. G. Sturgeon & Co., F. A. Rathbone, Cater & Wilson, and Geo. A. Brenton wrote, asking that Mr. Peter Thompson, the present assistant plumbing inspector, be appointed plumbing inspector for the City. The plumbers signing the petition stated that during the past seven years Mr. Thompson had fulfilled his duties most successfully.—Referred to the joint Property and Fire, Water and Light committee.

Permits For Sewers.

Certificates were received from Mr. J. S. McCullough, Provincial Health Officer, approving Mr. Parson's plans for sewers on the following streets:

George, from Westcott to Lake.

George, from Romaine to King Edward.

Dublin, from Water to George.

Alfred, from Albert to Chamberlain.

Chamberlain, from Alfred to the Monaghan Road.

Bell Telephone Wires.

A letter was read from the general manager of the Bell Telephone Co., Montreal, stating that information had been forwarded from Mr. G. O. Cameron, the local manager, to the effect that paving on the streets on which conduits are proposed to be laid, will not be carried out this year. The company proposes to do the work as requested by the City, but requests an agreement from the City for rights-of-way in certain alleys for distribution purposed The underground extensions are now on George Street, from Wolfe to Brock; Hunter Street, from Aylmer to Water; Charlotte Street, from Stewart to George.

The company will carry out the proposed extensions next year on the following Streets: George Street, from Brock to McDonnel, and two branches on Charlotte Street.

Dangerous Wire.

Ald. Duffus called attention to a "guy" wire at the corner of Park and Simcoe Streets which, on account of the new sidewalk across the tree line, he considered dangerous to pedestrians.

"Some one will hang himself on it," he said.

Mayor Bradburn mentioned the poles at this corner and stated that he would speak to the City Engineer about both matters.

Siding on Water Street.

Ald. Duncan stated that he wished to present a motion asking the Railway Board to take no action in regard to the proposed C.P.R. siding on Water Street to the Peter Hamilton Company's plant, until the matter was definitely settled.

Mayor Bradburn—You will have to give notice of a resolution asking for the cancellation of the motion that was passed.

City Solicitor Hall — The Railway Board has the by-law before them now.

Ald. Duncan — And I think they ought to be notified to take no action until we know what we are going to do.

Finally Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the City Solicitor write the Railway Board asking them to take no action regarding the construction of said siding until the Board receives further notice from the Council.

Ald. Anderson—I don't understand the intentions of Ald. Duncan. The matter was passed by the full Council.

Ald. Duncan—Not by the vote of the full Council.

Ald. Anderson—I think so.

The motion was defeated on the vote. It was supported by Aldermen Duncan and Johnston, and opposed by Aldermen Gillespie, Anderson, Duffus and Green.

BAPTISTS FAVOUR THE MOVEMENT FOR PROHIBITION

Rev. J. Kennedy, of Toronto, Said Liquor Question is Biggest Problem Confronting Canada

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

By a standing vote, the delegates to the Baptist convention on Tuesday afternoon expressed their approval of the "abolish-the-bar" movement by passing the following resolution:

"Resolved, that this convention, being in hearty sympathy with the most advanced temperance legislation, expresses its gratitude for the earnest and continued work being accomplished by the Dominion Alliance, the W. C. T.U, and kindred societies, recommend all our churches to continue their generous support and furthermore cherish the hope that in the near future these provinces into which so many foreigners are coming, will be able to banish the bar and the barroom."

In moving the adoption of the report, Rev. J. B. Kennedy of Toronto, said a resolution was wanted for the total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicants in Canada. We are living in a fool's paradise. We think we are living under a government of the people, for the people, and by the people, and it's a government of the whiskey people, for the whiskey people, in the interests of brewers and distillers. Ten years ago Ontario gave a majority of 90,000 for prohibition. In Peterborough a few years ago, a majority was given for prohibition, but did the people get it? They did not. The majorities have represented the best interests in the land. Whiskey and the beer leg are the menace of the foreigners coming into this country. This is the biggest question before Canada to-day.

In supporting a resolution in regard to the white slave traffic, Rev. Mr. Gregory told of a young lady graduate of the University of Toronto, who was lured into one of these places, drugged and ruined. That such a thing could take place in this country is unbelievable.

Thanks to Mr. Matthews.

Rev. C. E. McLeod moved a resolution expressing appreciation of the splendid services rendered to the convention by Mr. T. F. Matthews, the chairman of the local committee. This motion was carried with a standing vote.

The names of Revs. H. E. Allen, H. R Noble, Dr. Graham, Dr. Sanderson and G. Grant, D. Moyle and A. R. Minard were added to the Committee on Social Service. A strong plea for bilingual pastors for Eastern Ontario and Quebec was made by Rev. Prof. Trotter. Rev. S. E. Bing, J. B. Kennedy, M. C. McLean and W. J. McKay were appointed to the Council of the Dominion Alliance. Rev. J. D. Freeman, of Leicester, England, was appointed representative on the Baptist Colonial Society.

WHEN YOUR APPETITE COMES BACK TO YOU

It Is a Sure Sign Your Stomach Is Able to Work. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Give You a Rousing Appetite.

It is the greatest joy in the world to be able to eat what one wants and no misery can compare with that which comes when an appetite fails.

When the stomach cannot digest food the system revolts at the very idea of eating, but when the digestive apparatus is restored to its normal condition every quality of mind seems to make a man cheerful.

"That's the Way I Used to Look. What'a you think of me now?"

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets mix with the food you eat. The stomach by its peristaltic action churns and moves the food around the stomach walls, the powerful ingredients in these tablets instantly begin digesting the food as they are forced through it and around it.

These tablets regulate the strength of gastric juices. If there is too much acid or alkali then Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets reduce or dilute these evil conditions and prevent the irritating and raw stomachs which always come with dyspepsia, indigestion, etc.

It is the very essence of pleasure to a stomach sufferer to know that he can digest any meal if he will only take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after eating.

The use of one of these Tablets after meals will in a very short time restore your appetite to its normal condition and you will be able to enjoy your food with an old-time relish.

Bruises In Furniture.

Here is a method which has been of great use in removing bruises from furniture: Wet the part with warm water; double a piece of brown paper five of six times; then soak it in warm water and lay it on the dent. Apply a warm (not hot) flatiron until the moisture has evaporated. If the bruises are not gone, repeat the process. You will find this very good, and if the surface of the furniture is not broken the dent will disappear and leave no trace.

The Aloe.

In Africa the leaves of certain species of aloe provide material for bowstrings, hammocks, fishing lines and ropes. With the Mohammedans the aloe means much. For instance, those who have returned from a pilgrimage to Mecca hang it over their doors as a sign that they have made the great journey.

Her Cleverness.

She Mary Graham is certainly a very clever woman, yet she has little to say.

He—That's where her cleverness comes in. She leads a man to believe that she thinks he is worth listening to.

Splendid Address By Miss Haine

"We hope our meeting here will be a helpful one to you and me."

This was written upon the place cards at the high tea, held last evening in St. Paul's schoolroom, and expressed the aim of the executive, who planned and carried out with gratifying success the evening with Miss Laine, Superintendent of Elementary Grades for the Province.

There was a splendid response from the schools of the City to the invitation. When all were seated there were few vacant chairs.

The Elementary Grade colours, green and white, were combined with the Thanksgiving thought, in the decorations, which were beautiful.

After tea, "The Teachers Prayer" was sung, Miss Robertson at the piano. This hymn, being a favourite with primary teachers, is usually sung at every meeting of the Unions:

Guide my hand, good seed to sow,
That its blossoming may praise Thee,
Wheresoever they may go.

Miss Laine had with her, samples of helps in the work, many and varied, and found by experience, indispensable.

The round table conference upon methods of work, was full of inspiration and suggestion. 'Our Motto' was repeated in unison at the close:

"Good, better, best,
Never let it rest
Until good is better
And better best."

Before closing the evening, the Union elected officers for the year, and decided to meet the first and third Tuesdays of each month, in St. Paul's, at 7.30. The following were the officers elected:

President—Mrs. K. D. Lewis.
Vice Pres. Beginners' Dept.—Miss Cameron.
Vice-Pres. Primary Dept.—Mrs. S. Carver.
Sec.-Treas.—Miss Effie Munro
Literary and President of Council—Mrs. Thistlewaite.

The night previously Miss Pankhurst was the central figure of a fierce struggle between the police and a crowd of suffragettes, after she had addressed a gathering at Bow Baths, in the east end of London.

TO CONTROL LANDS

New Minister's Powers Wide, Says Lloyd George

"SETTLEMENTS" MUST GO

SWINDON, Eng., Oct. 23.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George yesterday afternoon dotted the "i's" and crossed the "t's" of the speech in which he inaugurated the Government's land campaign at Bedford, on Oct. 11. He then said that it was his object to "free British land from landlordism and get the people back on it."

The two purposes the Liberal Government had set itself, he said yesterday, were to attract and to retain the rural population on the land and to devise means to develop both the quantity and the quality of the total agricultural production of the British Isles. Everything, he asserted, would be subordinated to the attainment of these two objects.

As the first step, said the Chancellor, it was purposed to establish a ministry of lands with control and supervision of all questions dealing with the users of land both in towns and country, and the functions of the present Board of Agriculture would be transferred to the new ministry.

The Government, he said, intended to take the land out of chancery. Hereafter, if a landlord found that "some silly settlement" hampered his schemes for improving his land, he could apply to the Ministry of Lands, which would enable him to override the barrier.

The new ministry, he continued, would operate through commissioners who would act in a judicial capacity and have the same power to reduce rents on small farms as the Scottish courts now possess.

Large farmers also would have the right to appeal to the commissioners for a reduction of rent if the action of the state caused a rise in the wages of the farm laborers. In such an event the landlord would have to come in as a contributor, and in times of great agricultural depression a temporary lessening of the rent would be obtainable.

The new Ministry of Lands, according to the Chancellor, is to be given full power to acquire, at a reasonable price, all waste, derelict and neglected tracts of land, and to plant them with forests, and to reclaim and drain the springs on such lands, with a view to their cultivation to the full limit of their possibilities. The Ministry is to be not only empowered, but instructed to act, and the resources of the state would be placed at its disposal for this purpose.

If men want sport, said the Chancellor, it must be at their own expense, and the game laws would be revised in this direction.

The establishment of a fair minimum wage for laborers with reasonable hours of work, decent housing and the prospect of the laborer obtaining a bit of land for himself would all be within the scope of the powers of the commissioners, who would have authority to fix the price of land in the case of compulsory acquisition.

The Government proposed, the Chancellor concluded, to remedy the grave deficiency of cottages in the country by building some themselves with state funds, "and we have got a nice little fund at hand—the insurance reserve fund."

The announcement of the land proposals by Chancellor Lloyd George was made by an absolutely unanimous decision reached at recent meetings of the Cabinet.

PURCHASED IN CANADA.

Jewelry Then Smuggled Into U. S. Say Secret Service Men.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The arrest of Wm. Levy late yesterday on a charge of smuggling watches, watch cases and works into the United States from Canada is believed by customs officials here to unearth the operations of a large band of jewelry smugglers. Federal officials say $45,000 worth of jewelry on which no duty was paid has been brought from a Toronto, Ont., wholesale firm into the United States through Windsor, Fort Erie and Sault Ste. Marie in the past year. It is said the jewelry was shipped here and disposed of in stores which make a practice of holding "auction sales."

Wm. Levy was held under $5,000 bond for a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Daoust Monday next.

WANT HEARING DELAYED.

Murderers of Herman Rosenthal Not Ready to Go On.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Attorneys for the four "gunmen," who are under sentence of death for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, yesterday requested the court of appeals to postpone the hearing of their appeal until after Nov. 17. The appeals of the "gunmen" and former Police Lieut. Chas. Becker, convicted for instigating the murder, were to have been argued on Oct. 13, but the court of appeals was prevented from convening on that date because of the sessions of the high court of impeachment. No application for a stay in the Becker appeal was made yesterday.

The "gunmen's" attorneys asked for postponement on the ground that they had but recently been retained in the case. The court took the matter under advisement.

C.P.R. TRAINS MEET

Head-on Collision Results in Death of Five Men

FIVE MORE ARE INJURED

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 23.—A disastrous accident, in which five were killed and seven others injured, occurred on the C.P.R. main line near Weyland station, west of Chapleau, yesterday morning about seven o'clock, when a work train returning from a gravel pit collided head-on with a fast east-bound freight train, piling engines and cars in a heap, pinning the crew of both trains and workmen in the wreckage.

The men reported dead are: Conductor H. Cummings, of the freight train; Brakeman A. Bourcq; Steam Shovel Engineer J. Pattrie and two unknown foreigners of the work train.

Those injured: E. J. Moore, conductor of the work train; Foreman Johnston, of the work train; Fireman G. Stewart and four unknown foreigners employed on the train.

The above are all seriously injured, some of them not being expected to live. The foreigners may live. The dead and injured men all reside in Chapleau.

The accident was caused by the misunderstanding of the orders on the part of the crew of the work train. They were given orders by the operator at Weyland to remain on the siding until the freight train had passed. The first section of the freight train was allowed to pass. The work train then started ahead, the crew evidently taking no notice of the orders or thinking that both sections of the freight had passed. When they reached the switch at the siding, the crew of the work train noticed the approach of the second section of the freight. Both trains were travelling at high speed. The engineers on both trains made an effort to reverse their throttles, but it was too late to avert a collision and the two trains crashed head-on, the engines and cars piling up on top of each other. The men on the two trains, on seeing that the crash was unavoidable, attempted to jump from their engines, but it was too late and they were all pinned in the wreckage.

Wrecking crews and doctors went to the scene of the accident and the dead and injured were rushed to Chapleau, where medical assistance was rendered the injured trainmen and laborers. The wrecking crews worked hard clearing the tracks, but it was not until late last night that they had the tracks entirely free of the wrecked engines and cars. All trains on the line were late.

Barge Keystone To Be Raised.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 23. — The steam barge Reliance of Montreal, with her crew and Contractor A. J. Lee, is in port preparing to leave for Chippewa Point, near which the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co.'s steambarge Keystone struck a rock and sank on Oct. 26 of last year.

Lee secured the contract for raising the barge from the underwriters, and will use the compressed air system. The outfit was delayed here owing to a mishap sustained by the Reliance at the head of the Soulanges Canal, while coming west. Her wheel struck a broken log and damaged two buckets, which will be repaired in time to commence operations to-day.

NOTHING AGAINST BEILISS.

ExPolice Chief Gives Startling Evidence In "Ritual Murder" Case.

KIEV, Oct. 23.—The former chief of police of Kiev, Krassovsky, gave important testimony yesterday at the trial of Mendel Beilliss, charged with the murder of the Christian boy, Andrew Yushinsky, in March, 1911. He had made a searching investigation into the crime, and declared on the stand that he had found nothing to implicate Beilliss in any way. He repudiated the suggestion that he had made no investigation to discover evidence against Beilliss.

Krassovsky described his examination of the house where Beilliss lived, the brick kiln and the watchman's lodge, where he found a blood-stained knife in a sack. He also told how he had caused the wells, tanks and ditches to be pumped dry. He interrogated all persons employed at the brick works at the time of the murder and made enquiries concerning them, and became convinced that none of them had any connection with the crime.

The witness said that Beilliss had been arrested by the secret police, the head of which body at Kiev at that time was Col. Kuliaboko, who told him, he says, there was no need to make a visit to Vera Tcheberiak's home. The testimony was taken as bearing out the report that the Tcheberiak woman had been shielded by the secret police.

AGAINST HAIR CROPPING.

Prisoners at Kingston Say It Is Hardest Thing To Endure.

KINGSTON, Oct. 23.—The members of the Prison Reform Commission yesterday afternoon listened to the stories of three convicts as regards conditions in the penitentiary, and what they had to suggest for the betterment of the institution. Names of witnesses were suppressed, but it is known that they are men who occupied prominent positions in business life before being sentenced.

One suggestion offered was that young boys sent to the penitentiary should be separated from hardened criminals. The stone pile was characterized as degrading work. The uniform also was denounced and the cropping of the hair, one convict stating that this was the greatest humiliation he had to endure. Another stated that he suffered from colds every time his hair was clipped.

While it was admitted that food served at the penitentiary was good, the cooking was declared to be bad. After the commission has cleaned up the specific charges, it is the intention to go more fully into the system with a view to recommending some radical changes in the institution.

Death of Former Canadian.

CORNWALL, Oct. 23. — Word reached Mrs. Ellen Warner of this town yesterday that her brother, George M. Pitts of East Claire, Wis., had been instantly killed shortly before noon Tuesday, when he came into contact with a wire carrying 24,000 volts, while repairing a leak in the roof of the power house at the paper mill. Mr. Pitts was a Canadian by birth, but had resided in Eau Claire for a good many years. He was born at Wales, a few miles west of here.

Coon Comes by Post.

GRAFTON, W. Va., Oct. 23.—The postmaster at Webster Springs thinks that all wild animals are fit material for parcel post shipments, except skunks, and on this basis the first shipment of wild animals was received here from that point. Dr. A. S. Wartier received a nine-pound live raccoon from his friend, Tim Woodell, of Webster Springs, by parcel post.

MINERS ENTOMBED

Explosion in New Mexican Pit Imprisons 230 Men

RESCUERS HARD AT WORK

DAWSON, New Mexico, Oct. 23.—Two hundred and thirty miners are entombed in shaft No. 2 of the Stag Canon mines here, following an explosion at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to an unofficial estimate.

Two men found on an upper level were taken from the mine last night. Rescuers were called from all parts of the southern Colorado coal fields. The Stag mine is owned by the Phelps-Dodge Co. of New York. The day shift working in shaft No. 2 numbered 230 persons.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. Fire had not broken out, though smoke was seen issuing from the second level of the shaft. It was believed by rescuers that this smoke came from the explosion and not from fire.

Immediately after the explosion all shifts were called to the work of rescue, and those miners who were employed in other shafts were put to work drilling through the debris which was said to have blocked the mine below the second level.

The U. S. rescue car stationed at Trinidad was summoned and every available man in Dawson last night was aiding in the attempt to reach the entombed miners.

Rescuers worked heroically to supply air to the men.

Three Italian miners were rescued from the debris at the opening of the Stag Canon mine at 9.30 o'clock last night. This makes five miners who have been rescued. The rescue party is making slow headway against the tons of coal and debris which is blockading the mine. The five men rescued were separated from the main body of miners at the time of the explosion and could tell nothing of it.

Train Rushed To Scene.

TRINIDAD, Col., Oct. 23.—A special rescue train, carrying scores of experienced miners, equipped with rescue apparatus, left here at six o'clock for Dawson, shortly after the news of the explosion was received.

Dawson is more than 135 miles from Trinidad over branch line railroads, and it will be several hours before the special train reaches the scene of the disaster. Two automobiles loaded with five oxygen tanks and other apparatus left here for Dawson, approximately 90 miles distant over mountain roads.

Dawson is a town of 1,500 population near the northern boundary of New Mexico. Coal mining is the main industry, and it was said last night that the output would be curtailed by 25 per cent.

A Model Mine.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—While no direct word was received here last night by Phelps-Dodge & Co. regarding the explosion in their coal mine at Dawson, N.M., it was stated by officers that the mine is so nearly perfect in its construction that it was inconceivable that there would be any great loss of life.

"The mine has been operated 15 years without an explosion before to-day and has a most complete system of rescue work through a corps of first aid workers trained to enter the tunnels with oxygen supplies in emergencies of this kind," said an official yesterday.

IS STORK BUSY?

Rumor Says Buckingham Palace Is All Agog Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A cable from London published here yesterday, says: There was a ripple of excitement in intimate circles of the royal family to-day, when it became known that the new year will bring with it an addition to the family of King George and Queen Mary. The correspondent learned on excellent authority that the interesting event is expected the latter part of February. This explain why Queen Mary has been keeping in the background during the recent social functions; notably, the Connaught-Fife wedding.

Royal doctors are now in constant attendance at Buckingham Palace. It was their frequent visits which gave the first inkling of the anticipated event. Queen Mary has lately taken a great interest in eugenics. It is said the Queen is overjoyed at the prospects. A birth to the reigning sovereigns would be an occasion for great rejoicing throughout Great Britain.

Another Disaster Averted.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Another tragedy involving the lives of twenty persons was only averted by a hair's breadth in the disastrous Senghenydd mine during excavation operations yesterday. A party of 20 rescuers, all prominent mining officials, were overcome by gas in a distant part of the mine and were nearly wiped out. A rescue party was rushed down the pit with life-saving apparatus and reached the sufferers just in time.

Four Nations Protest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Protests from Great Britain, France, Germany and Belgium against the seaman's servitude bill were taken up informally yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The four countries have voiced the hope that the United States will take no legislative action until after the International marine conference in London, Nov. 12.

WILL SQUELCH PAPER.

"The Suffragette" Is Too Plain Spoken For Purity Leaguers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Steps to stop the sale of The Suffragette, the English militants' official organ, may be taken to-day by Anthony Comstock, when he will decide whether criminal action will be taken against those responsible for its circulation.

Mr. Comstock, as head of the New York Society for the Prevention of Vice, held a long conference on the matter with District Attorney Whitman in the latter's office late yesterday afternoon. The discussion of white slavery and sex hygiene, it is said, transcend the laws of decency.

Neither would disclose their plans afterward, but it was learned that Mr. Comstock had decided to go into the matter thoroughly so that no trouble can come in case it takes an international turn, and if satisfied with the criminality of the paper's sale to procure such warrants and raid every place and home he knows the copies to be in. Also then they will be to prosecute both the distributors and the purchasers.

There was a report that the postal authorities will also take action, but this could not be verified.

Thousands of copies of the paper have been distributed since they were first put on sale at the lecture by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

This Teacher Unpopular.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., Oct. 23.—Two hundred boys and girls of the Lockport High School went on strike yesterday afternoon because the Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night failed to reach a decision regarding their complaint against Principal Walter Severance. J. W. Peterson, school trustee-elect, urged the students to return and 125 of them did so, but 75 boys remained out. A recent order abolishing school fraternities and lack of sympathy and co-operation in promoting the school's sports are the causes of complaint against the principal.

"THE MEDIATOR"

By ROY NORTON

Lish shook his head. "Nope. Can't tie myself down for that long! But I'd sure like to know what's in the ground up there. It's right interestin', and, besides, if I make good it would help out Channel Smith. He's a fine old fellow is Channel, and he's so daggoned old, and so poor, that it'd be a godsend to him if somebody could find somethin' on the next claim above."

Martin and Murdock smiled at each other. They saw that the prospector was wavering, and all because he wanted to assist the querulous, queer, old Smith.

"You don't have to bind yourself to stay a day longer than you wish," Martin insisted, and that proved the deciding argument.

"All right. You're on," Lish said, turning toward the door as if that were the end of it. Suddenly he faced back and held out his hand toward Martin. "There aint no hard feelin's, is there? I'd be right sorry if there way. I've got an orful rotten disposition. There ain't nobody tries harder'n me to be peaceful; but it just does seem like as if ever since I come here to this neck of the woods nobody'll let me tend my own business."

Martin shook the outstretched hand, at which the prospector evinced a pathetic pleasure. He announced that he would be back in a moment, and walked down the trail to the messhouse. He poked his head inside the door and discovered Mrs. Higgins at her work. His reception was not cordial. She did not even answer his cheerful "Good-mornin', ma'am." But it did not alter his demeanor.

"Thour it maybe you'd like to know, ma-am, that I got a leter this mornin' from that old bum that married you. I understand they've raised his wages again, but what for, God only knows, because if there ever was a no-account slob it's that same Bill Higgins, ma'am!"

Before she had time to vent her fury in words he was hurrying rapidly off on the trail, grinning to himself and saying, "Lord! What a liar I'm a-gettin' to be! But I'll bet I'll make Marthy and Bill make up, or bust a suspender and the seven commandments tryin'!"

CHAPTER XI.

The Trouble-Making Burro

The philosophy of the prospector would not permit him to be downcast for any great length of time; so it was that, after the first pang of disappointment at finding that he was not working on free ground, he accepted the situation with equanimity. He did not even treasure any ill feeling against Channel Smith for having misinformed him, and made reference to it but once, on the day after his return from Canada Hill.

"You ain't been here very long, have you, Channel?" he asked solicitously.

"Nope, not very long," acquiesced the old veteran. "Lemme see." He sat and laboriously calculated on his fingers, checking off time by important events. "Nope, not very long. I located this ground forty-five year ago this spring. By cracky! I thought it were longer ago than that!"

"Well, you sure kept good tab on what was goin' on around you!" exclaimed Lish, but without much enthusiasm. "Didn't you ever get time to browse up and down the gulch a little? Didn't you ever see stakes, the bright, shiny kind, with notices on 'em, when you were gallivantin' off on one of them big towers as far as the next claim? I sort of thought you were some walker. You got the trail in the other direction worn two feet deep—the one that led to pie!"

The old man did no answer, but his air expressed so much of penitence for his blunder that whatever sarcasm Lish had at the end of his tongue was silenced.

"You dont need to feel bad over that claim above, Channel," he said. "It's all right. If she's good, two-thirds is enough. If she ain't, it's just two-thirds more than any man wants. And anyhow, there ain't nothin' more to bother me now. Everything's peaceful and pleasant, and this is the country I've been lookin' for."

On the following morning Jack came gaily tripping into the cabin, thrust his nose deeply into a batch of bread which Channel was preparing and snorted loudly in sheer enjoyment. The batter blew out and spattered over the floor. Simultaneously with this Mr. Smith attempted to chastise the burro with a chair hastily seized for the occasion, and the burro, evidently annoyed, elevated both heels with remarkable deftness. Quite accidentally they landed on the big, tin dish pan of batter, which sailed upward, and with astonishing lack of forethought awaited Mr. Smith on his whiskers and forehead. Mr. Smith was annoyed. David Elisha Henley, forgetting diplomacy, rolled over and over on his bunk, voicing an untimely merriment.

The old man disappeared outside the cabin, and the cracking of his joints as he threw the most convenient missiles at the retreating burro, and his storm of quavering epithets, seemed to amuse Lish still further. He got up and went to the door and looked out. Jack would turn his face toward the enraged Channel, and blink at him and switch his tail. Then, when a two-pound stone came hurtling in his direction, he displayed a good judgment of distance by standing still if it fell short, or bounding out of the way and kicking up his heels if it threatened to be well aimed. At sight of Lish in the doorway, he sobered. Lish ran out, thinking it time to interfere lest Channel Smith die of heart failure, and shook his fist at Jack.

"Youhit it up for the hills!" commanded the prospector, reaching for a pebble. And the burro, knowing from painful experience that if he wished to save a save a swift thump on some part of his hide, he must retreat, hastily laid his ears back, his tail between his legs, and sprinted away until swallowed from sight by the forest.

Channel Smith bestowed an angry look at Jack's master, and then, mumbling profanely, turned toward the basin beside the cabin door.

"It's a fine old world to live in as long as a feller can have somebody like Channel to amuse him," he decided, some two hours later, and stopped to look around at the high hills, sleeping peacefully in the forenoon haze, the motionless patches of green leading away toward the timber line, and the belts of white on the peaks where rested the perpetual snows. His acute ear, attuned to strange sounds, caught a soft noise from below. He turned his head in that direction to discern a man plodding up the trail and looking to right and left as if searching for something. The man came closer. He was a sun-tanned individual, with stooping shoulders.

"Sure," replied Lish, leaning on his pick-handle.

"A little, mouse-coloured one, cross on his back quite plain. His name's Jack," went on the man, coming closer and still looking around.

"Sure I've seen him. What did you want with him?"

"Why, I've seen him several times when comin' around this way, and I jinst bought him," explained the stranger.

"Bought him?"

"Yes. I paid Channel Smith sixteen dollars for him down there on trail. He says he ain't got no further use for him, and told me he'd come if I called him Jack," the man stated with admirable simplicity.

Lish threw his pick up on the bank with an exclamation of annoyance. It was all very plain to him that the man was telling the truth. He stood and stared at the ground for an instant, not quite knowing what to do, and lacking his customary decision. It was plain to him that the doddering old man had sold the pet burro, and that, at least, would never do.

"Look here, mister," he said, "I'm goin' to tell you somethin'. That burro don't belong to Channel Smith. He belongs to me and I'd sell the best friend I've got jinst about as quick as I'd sell Jack. The old feller's sort of queer, so you don't want to pay any attention at all to him. You say you gave sixteen for the burro. Well, here it is back."

He fumbled inside his shirt, drew out a bell, opened it, and counted out sixteen sweat-stained, worn dollars, in faded currency, which the stranger hesitated to take.

"I'd like the burro," the man said; "but if he belongs to you and you don' want to sell him——"

"Whis is exactly the case!"

"Then I reckon I'd better go to that old codger and get my money back."

"Never mind that," Lish said emphatically. "I'll get it back from him, and this'll save time."

The man took the money, shook his head with a great show of bewilderment, and turned back down the trail. Lish stood on the bank and watched him go, then followed along after him until he saw him turn into the road where the trail ended. He went back to his work with a troubled spirit.

"It just does seem as if it's one thing after another botherin' me," he said to himself with a show of wrath. "No sooner do I get one thing straightened out and think everythings all right, before another happenin' comes to make a fuss."

At noon he waited for Channel Smith to speak. The patriarch shoveled in his food industriously, but for a long time did not look up. He finished his meal, and then took sixteen dollars from his pocket and laid them on the table.

"What's this for?" demanded the prospector, looking at him.

"That's what I got for that pesky burro," the old man growled. "I got rid of him this mornin'. You can have the money."

"That's right good of you," answered Lish, pocketing the money.

Something in his tone caused Channel to look at him more closely. Feeling a trifle ashamed of himself, the patriarch hastened out of the cabin and over the little trail leading to his trenches. Quite anxiously, throughout the afternoon, he looked up at intervals, waiting to see if the prospector was coming; but always there was the same stillness and lack of life in the scenery. He began to regret his sale of the burro and to wish he had suffered that animal's pranks more patiently. He dreaded returning to the cabin, and worked later than usual, to at last throw down his shovel and climb stiffly out and plod up the trail. He came around the bend and saw the cabin. There was no smoke curling from its stove-pipe, and the door was closed. The old man sustained a terrible fear, and went more rapidly toward it, and threw the door open. The place was empty, as it had been before Henley came to join him. A note on the table caught his attention, and he went to the shelf and fumbled around for his steel-bowed glasses, which he adjusted to his eyes with trembling fingers, after which he carried the note outside, where the light was stronger, and read he and Jack aint goin to bother you no more, he is a mischeevus little cuss and I don't blame you for wantin' to get shet of us, we cleaned the cabin and left her just as she was when we came.

David Elisha Henley.

A great sense of outrage swelled in Channel Smith's bosom. The idea that this prospector should take the loss of a burro so much to heart was incomprehensible. It would have been different if he had sold Jack and kept the money; but to desert in this fashion, and leave him to cook his own meals, and cut his own wood, and carry his own water, was certainly a rank injustice. And that, too, after he had been so kind to the prospector, and assisted him to locate on another man's claim! He asserted loudly that times and men weren't like they used to be in forty-nine, and consigned Lish and his burro to a unpleasant hereafter.

Girl's Nerves Fully Restored

Was Never Able to Obtain Lasting Benefit Until Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Was Used.

Too many girls grow up with weak, anaemic bodies and exhausted nervous systems. Indoor life and too much application in school are sometimes the cause.

The blood needs enriching and the nerves need strengthening by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is doing wonders for many thousands of girls whose parents had almost despaired of their ever developing into strong, healthy women.

Mrs. J. Bagnall, 305 Woodville Avenue, Toronto, writes: "My daughter suffered from nervousness since childhood, and any medicines she tried did not do any lasting good. We read in the papers about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my daughter used it with wonderful results. This treatment has built up her system and so strengthened the nerves that she feels like another girl."

SMITH TWP. COUNCIL

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council Chamber, Peterborough, on Monday, Oct. 13th, at 10 o'clock. All the members were present with Reeve Garbutt in the chair. Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Messrs. P. P. Young and R. A. Charlton addressed the Council and presented a petition signed by a large number of the ratepayers of Young's Point and vicinity, requesting that the Council make a liberal grant towards the construction of cement sidewalks, and also that the Statute labour in that Road Division go towards the work.

Reeve Garbutt said that in this case the Council would be governed by the Municipal Act and that it would be expedient to obtain legal advice before proceeding.

Moved by Mr. Northey, seconded by Mr. McKee, that the matter be referred to the Township Solititor, and that an estimate of the cost of construction be made. Carried.

Messrs. Moher and Ivey addressed the Council in favour of a petition which had been presented, requesting that the Council take immediate steps to have Downie street opened.

Reeve Garbutt explained that after the last meeting, the Township Solicitor was consulted and instructions were given that a written report be made. This report had not been received and as Mr. Peck was absent on two weeks' vacation, the matter was laid over until his return.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Mixed.

There was a quaint newspaper paragraph in a country paper the other day. It was an obituary paragraph, but a fire story had got mixed with it, thus:

"The pall-bearers lowered the body into the grave. It was consigned to the flames. There were few, if any, regrets, for the old wreck had been an eyesore to the village for years. Of course there was some slight individual loss, but this was fully covered by insurance. 'Good riddance' seemed to be the universal sentiment."

The Horse's Defect.

A horse owner was trying to sell a wind-broken horse and was trotting him around for inspection. The owner stroked the horse's back and remarked to the prospective buyer:

"Hasn't he a lovely coat?"

But the other noticed that the horse was panting, and answered:

"Ah, I like his coat all right, but I don't like his pants."

Not Much Awed.

The American abroad does not lose his head easily. An Italian showed a Yankee tourist Vesuvius in eruption, and thought surely that must stir his awe. But the American, after gazing for a moment at the burning mountain, said:

"We've got a waterfall in America that would put that out in five minutes."

The Kind We Want.

In spite of all this proverb cant
I think 'twill be agreed
It is a friend in funds we want,
And not a friend in need.
—New York Sun.

Diplomacy.

Spectator: "Why don't you rush in and end the row?"

Policeman: "I'm trying to decide whether it's a case for meditation or intervention."—Brooklyn Life.

NATURALLY.

"You want to get married on thirty shillings a week! What are you thinking of?"

"The girl."

The Importance of Being Bryan.

This is selected by Collier's Weekly as Secretary Bryan's best story:

The year after coming to Nebraska, in 1888, I delivered fifty speeches against the Republican candidate for governor, and in each one made it clear why he should not be elected.

He was elected, however, by the usual majority.

On the following St. Patrick's Day I was to make a short speech, and Governor Thayer (whom I had tried to defeat) presided. It was a varied program, consisting of songs and recitations and vaudeville numbers. It was the first time I had been in the presence of the governor, and I wondered whether he felt any resentment toward me for all the work I had done against him.

At last my turn was reached. The governor, having been prompted by another man, arose and said: "The next person on the program is W. J. Bryan," and as I came forward he stepped toward me, smiled, and extended his hand. I felt greatly pleased that he did not harbor any resentment against me, and grasped his hand warmly as he drew me toward him and whispered: "Quick! Do you speak, sing, or dance?"

He had never even heard of me.

Explained.

"Atkins," said the sergeant angrily, "why haven't you shaved this morning?"

"Ain't I shaved?" asked Atkins, in apparent surprise.

"No, you're not," insisted the sergeant; "and I want to know why."

"Well, you see, sergeant," replied the soldier, "there was a dozen of us using the same mirror, and I must have shaved some other man."—New York Mail.

Popularity Counts.

Michelangelo beckoned to Rembrandt.

"I see they've found another of you're pictures, Remmy!"

The master sighed.

"They found four last week," he said, "and five the week before. Funny, isn't it?"

"That's where the boys who write have the best of you daubers," said John Milton. "You don't hear of any Paradise Lost's being found in out-of-the-way places."

"Nor any Pilgrim's Progresses," added John Bunyan.

"Nor any Hamlets," put in Will Shakspere.

Rembrandt smiled.

"No," he answered; "I don't. All these discoveries seem to depend on present market values."

And pulling his big velour hat over his eyes he waved his hand and stalked away.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Worse Still.

A professor of an American college overhearing an undergraduate using profane language, went up to him and said:

"Are you aware, sir, that you are imperiling your immortal soul, and, what is worse, incurring a fine of a dollar and a quarter?"

Over the Phone.

"Burr-r-rr!" went the telephone, and the following dialog ensued:

"Are you there?"

"Yes."

"Who are you, please?"

"Watt."

"What is your name, please?"

"Watt's my name."

"Yes, what is your name?"

"I say my name is Watt: — John Watt."

"Oh! Well, I'm coming round to see you this afternoon."

"All right. Are you Jones?"

"No; I'm Knott."

"Who are you then, please?"

"Will Knott."

"Why won't you?"

"I say my name is William Knott."

"Oh! I beg pardon."

"Then you'll be in this afternoon if I come round, Watt?"

"Certainly, Knott."

"Burr-r-rr!" went the ring off; and Knott, as he sat down again at his desk, began to ponder whether Watt said he would be in or not.

Town Councillor: "Have you heard, Mr. Skinflint, that our generous townsman, Mr. Cashbags, is defraying the cost of a new promenade all round the town?" We think a wealthy man like yourself might also do something for us."

Skinflint: "Well, what do you say to my giving you a park of oak trees?"

Town Councillor: "Oh, you noble hearted philanthropist! Why, do you really mean to—"

Skinflint: "Yes, yes; I'll make the town a present of an oak forest. You have only to find the land, and I will supply you with as many acorns as you may want for seed."

HER CONVICTIONS—AND HIS.

The Prospective Tenant (viewing house): I think, after all, a flat would suit me better.

The Caretaker: Well, Sir—For meself, I find a flat so much like a prison; but then, of course, it all depends on what you're accustomed to.

Too Swift.

"Do any of the good things you hope for come to pass?"

"They all come to pass; but they come and pass so doggoned swift I can't grab 'em."—Houston Post.

Remembered.

"Did your uncle remember you when he came to make his will?"

"Yes; he remembered me so well that he left my name out altogether."—Buffalo Express.

Mutual Joy.

"Were you glad to get back to school and see your dear teacher?"

"Well," replied the very observant boy, "I guess I was just about as glad as dear teacher was to get back and see me."—Washington Star.

Neighborly Help.

Jess: "Miss Schreecher is going abroad to finish her musical education."

Tess: "Where did she get the money?"

Jess: "The neighbors all chipped in."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Just to Oblige.

"The doctor says I must quit smoking. One lung is nearly gone."

"Oh, dear, John. Can't you hold out until we get enough coupons for that dining room rug?"—Washington Herald.

Impotent Rage.

"It has been a long time since I have read any contemporaneous poetry that moved me to tears."

"Only the other day I read a poem that moved me to tears."

"How did it move you so?"

"I wept because I couldn't get at the author." — Birmingham Age-Herald.

Only Surface Coloring.

Willie: "Mama, what's that stuck in papa's throat?"

Mother: "That's papa's Adam's apple."

Willie: "And did he swallow it green?"

Mother: "Don't be grotesque, dear; papa wears a brass collar-button."—Cornell Widow.

The New Way.

"What will we put in the magazine this month?"

"About 46 pages concerning what we had last month."

"Yes."

"And 46 more about what we will have next month."

"And then?"

"That ought to be enough for this month." — Washington Herald.

Not in the Orders.

Jim's boss sent him up on the roof to paint it. That was early in the morning. Toward nightfall the boss clambered up the ladder to see whether his workman had flown away or been eaten up by the birds. There was Jim sitting on the edge of the house, singing.

"Jim, you lazy piece, what you been doing?"

"Nuffin'."

"Didn't I send you up here to paint the roof?"

"Yassir."

"Well, did you do it?"

"Yassir."

"What else did you do?"

"I went to sleep."

"Why didn't you come down if you had finished?"

"'Deed, boss, you jes' said paint de roof. You neveh said nuffin' 'bout comin' down."

Famous in the Morning.

Here is one that was recently told by George M. Cohan, the playwright, in demonstrating that fame sometimes comes to one quite unawares.

At an elaborate social function at a prominent summer resort, a young man took more wine than his constitution was registered for, and the result was signag pedestrianism.

A friend, on calling at his rooms on the following morning, found the super-wined one rather remorseful.

"You don't know how badly I feel," said the sad party to the friend, with a soulful sigh. "I took more wine than was good for me, and I am afraid that I must have walked so unsteadily that everybody is laughing at me."

"Laughing at you!" exclaimed the friend, with an expression of wonder. "There's where you are making the mistake of your life! Why, you are famous, old man! Everybody is handing you to the skids for inventing a new dance!"

Conviction.

"No man can serve two masters," observed the good parson, who was visiting the penitentiary.

"I know it," replied Convict 1313. "I'm in here for bigamy."

Cook (aghast): "Ooh, mum, I've spilt a taycup o' milk over the front of me best dress, an' I'm thinkin' I'm afther spilin' it intoirely!"

Mistress: "Oh, Mary, how could you! Was it all we had?"

Sex Sarcasm.

"Anything fresh or new this morning?" said a reporter to the young lady typewriter, as he lounged into a railway office.

"Yes," she replied.

"What is it?" asked the reporter, grabbing an envelope.

"That paint you were leaning so very gracefully against."

Fashion's Limit.

"She must dress in all the latest styles."

"What makes you think so?"

"I just overheard her telling a friend that she hasn't a thing fit to wear."

Of Two Evils, Choose the Lesser.

Footpad: "Your money or your life! Quick! An' no foolin'! See!"

Silverstein: "Well, take my life, and den carry dis pocketbook to Mrs. Rebecca Silverstein, 476 West Eleventh street!"

Petted Daughter: "They asked me to play at Mrs. Highup's this evening, and I did; but—"

Fond Mother (proudly): "Were not they entranced?"

Petted Daughter: "Hum! When I played 'A Life on the Ocean Wave' with variations, half of them left the room."

Fond Mother (ecstatically): That is wonderful! They must have felt sea-sick."

His Consent.

A young man, his suit having been rejected, hissed:

"Why, false girl, do you spurn me after having led me on?"

"How on earth did I lead you on?" the girl asked.

"Didn't you tell me," he replied, "that the fortune-teller had predicted that you'd marry a handsome, brilliant young man, with the face of a Greek god, and the voice of an Aeolian harp?"

Look of Realism.

Eke: "What ridiculous, impossible things these fashion plates are!"

Mrs. Eke: "I know they used to be, but today many of them are engraved from photographs."

Eke: "Well, this one can't be. Here are two women going in opposite directions, both with brand new gowns on, and neither looking back at the other."

An Object of Distrust.

"Have you any objection to my marrying your daughter?"

"No, replied the father. "To be candid, I've taken quite a liking to you."

"Then I may count on you as a friend?"

"I shouldn't do anything like that if I were you. If you introduce yourself as a friend of mine, mother and the girls will take it for granted that you haven't any social standing whatever."

Discussing a recent political scandal in which an official was accused of dishonesty, Richard Harding Davis, lunching with a number of theatrical stars, said with a sigh:

"He is a man I would have thought incapable of baseness. It is sad to think that every man has his price!"

"That paint you were leaning so very gracefully against."

"Yes," said a comedian, "but a sadder fact still is that half the time he can't get it."

"Did you hear that Johnson had married his typist?"

No. How are they getting on?"

"Oh, same as ever. When he starts to dictate she takes him down."

AN UNPROFESSIONAL NOTION.

Doctor—"Well, how is the patient this morning?"

Broker—"Fine, doc.! My temperature slumped three points last night, but I slid this morning, and now is above par!"

A charmingly realistic writer says: "A woman's crown of glory is a fine head of hair." It must be a great satisfaction to a woman to know that "a crown of glory" can be purchased for thirty dollars—always provided she has the thirty dollars. —Norristown Herald.

Uncouth Young Man: "May I kiss you, Miss Jones?"

Miss Jones (indignantly): "What do you mean, sir?"

U. Y. M. (surprised): "Don't you know what a kiss is yet? Well, you are the funniest girl I ever saw!"

Natural Query.

"Pa."

"Yes, Willie."

"Teacher says that we are here to help others."

"Of course we are."

"Well, what are the others here for?"

Drowning the Noise.

Caller: "Who is that singing?"

Hostess: "That's our new maid. She always sings at her work."

Caller: "What a happy disposition! Mercy! how loud she sings!"

Hostess: "Yes. When she sings loud, she's breaking something."

No Riddle.

"She told me to kiss her on either cheek."

"And you"—

"I hesitated a long time between them."

Innocent.

"Do you assimilate your food, aunty?"

"No, I don't, sah! I buys it open an' honest, sah."

This is So Sudden!

Bleecker: "Daisy Headliner has promised to give me my answer tonight. She—

Baxter (showing evening paper): "The press-agent and the reporters have got ahead of you, old top; it's 'Yes!'"

The Right Place.

An Englishman at a dinner in New York hailed with delight the conviction by the courts of an American who had stolen millions by means of bogus mines.

"But a friend of the criminal heaved a sigh and said:

"Poor old Charlie! His heart's in the right place, anyway!"

"Yes," said the Englishman, "and so, thank heaven, is the rest of him for the next four years."

Leading a Nurse.

"Waiter," asked the customer, "do you call this oyster soup? Why the oyster in it isn't big enough to flavor it."

"He wasn't put in to flavor it. He is jes' supposed to christen it."

An Historic Spot.

A lady carrying a little dog in her arms was riding in a bus that went along Park Lane. All the way up she worried the conductor to know whether they had come to No. —, mentioning a house nearly at the top. When they reached this number the conductor stopped the bus, thinking the lady wished to alight there. Instead of doing this, however, she went to the door of the bus, and, holding up the dog, said: "Look, Fido, that's where your mother was born!"

The teacher of a village school in Newcastle sent one of her scholars to buy a pound of plums from a fruit-vendor outside, and as she handed the little girl sixpence, said:

"Be sure, Mary, before buying the plums, to pinch one or two, just to see that they are ripe."

In a little while the girl returned with flushed face and a triumphant look in her eyes. Handing the fruiterer the bag of plums, she placed the sixpence on the desk, and exclaimed:

"I pinched one or two, as you told me, and when the man wasn't looking I pinched a penny!"

Just a Light Lunch.

They were on the subject of girls.

"Look here!" exclaimed McFarland. "Did you ever take a girl out to lunch when she felt a little faint?"

"Er—no," admitted Smith reluctantly.

"Well, take my advice and don't. One day I took Miss Jennie Westcott into a restaurant. At first she declined to eat anything, but then she said she believed she did feel a little faint."

"Did she take anything?"

"Did she take anything? She seized the menu, glanced over it, said she didn't feel very hungry and ordered—"

"Well, what did she order?"

"Oysters, bouillon, lobster, cutlets, sweetbreads and peas, chicken, shrimp salad, biscuit glace, macaroons, coffee and creme de menthe. It cost me three dollars."

"Well, you ought to be glad," said Smith.

"Glad? What for?"

"Why, glad she wasn't hungry."

At the Concert.

Enthusiast (at concert): "We shall hear more of this young man."

Sufferer: "Not tonight, I hope."

THE WIDOW'S MIGHT.

Comparative Emotion.

The bride's father was wealthy, but fond of his money. Yet he screwed up his courage sufficiently to send the bridegroom a check for £1000. The bride took the check.

"Felicia," said her father upon her return, "did you give him the check?"

"Yes, father," answered the daughter.

"What did he say?"

"He didn't say anything," replied Miss Felicia, "but he shed tears."

"How long did he cry?"

"Why, father, I didn't time him. I should say, however, that he wept fully a minute."

"Fully a minute," mused the father. "Why, daughter, I cried an hour after I signed it."

High Time.

One day, Smith, returning from a shooting trip with the usual accompaniment of an empty bag, it occurred to him that his wife would make fun of him if he returned without even one proof of his oft-boasted skill. So he purchased a brace of partridges to deceive his trusting spouse. As he threw them on the table in front of her he observed: "Well, my dear, you see I am not so awkward with the gun after all."

"Didn't" replied the wife, turning from the birds with a grimace, after a brief examination, "you were quite right in shooting those birds today; tomorrow it would have been too late."

A wag asked a barrister, "Do you think any office would insure your life?"

"Certainly," was the reply. "Mine is a very good life, I hope."

"Ah, but you should remember that yours is a brief existence," came the rejoinder.

Mother: "Johnny, you said you'd been to Sunday-school."

Mother: "How does it happen that your hands smell of fish?"

Johnny: "I carried home the Sunday-school magazine, an' the outside page is all about Jonah and the whale."

Bishop Blougram, who was delivering a lecture in Duluth, paused and smiled. Then he said:

"The smart man, dear friends, is he who is able to put the shoulders of others to the wheel."

Hope.

"Erma, go and look for mushrooms with him. If he kneels down he may take advantage of the opportunity and propose."

A Difficult Prescription.

Doctor: "It's most important for you to have good, nourishing food."

Patient: "That's impossible, doctor; I keep a boarding house, and have all my meals with my boarders."

"Father," said the young man, earnestly, "if a chap is out with a crowd who are standing drinks, and he has no money to treat, what should he do?"

"Retreat," grunted the father, "and quick, too."

A Yankee attorney was addressing a jury on behalf of a prisoner.

"Gentlemen," he said, "witnesses have sworn that they saw the accused fire his gun; they have sworn they saw the flash and heard the report; they have sworn they saw Pete Jackson fall flat; they have sworn that this bullet was extracted from Pete Jackson's body; but, gentlemen, in the name of justice, I ask you where is the evidence that the bullet hit Pete Jackson?"

Pink Palms.

He: "What has made the professor so wild?"

She: "Oh, he was guessing about botany, and so I asked him if he had ever seen a pink palm. He said 'No,' and I showed him my hands."

Didn't Have Time.

"You tell me," said the judge, "that this is the person who knocked you down with his motor car. Could you swear to the man?"

"I did," returned the complainant, eagerly, "but he didn't stop to hear me."

Corrected.

She had written on the blackboard the sentence: "The toast was drank in silence," and turned to her class for them to discover the mistake.

Little Bennie Sheridan waved his hand frantically, and, going to the board, scrawled the correction, "The toast was eaten in silence."

Each for His Own.

During an election in America a young man shouted out: "Hurrah for Jackson!"

An old man who was present, intending to put him down, exclaimed: "Hurrah for a muskrat!"

"Ah right," said the young man, "we shall not quarrel over such small matters. You can hurrah for your favorite candidate, and I shall do the same for mine."

A Ghost Story.

The Irishman was relating to some friends in Glasgow how one night, on retiring to bed, he fancied he saw a ghost, and, having a revolver handy, he fired at it. Next morning he examined the object he had shot and discovered it to be his shirt.

"What did you do then?" exclaimed one of the company.

"Bedad, I just thanked heaven I wasn't inside ov it," replied Pat.

A Job Awaiting Him.

An American merchant discovered that a man had been falsely representing himself as a collector for the firm, and taking more money than any two of the firm's accounts.

"And so," said the merchant to the police, "I want him collared as quickly as possible."

Detective: "All right. I'll have him in jail in less than a week."

Merchant: "Great Scot, man! I don't want him put in jail! I want to engage him."

A GUILTY CASE.

Insurance Vent: Are you sure your auction is with an approved society? Many fines: I dunno. She's just gone to see the Vicar.

Host: "He married her for her title."

Parent: "You mean the other way about, don't you?"

Host: "No; her title to a valuable estate."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

His Start

He Got It by Luck and Assurance

By F. A. MITCHEL

At a meeting of the Booneton Medical society, there not being a quorum, half a dozen doctors sat around chatting. The conversation fell upon the new science of medicine, which practically had its beginning in the investigations of M. Pasteur, and is making great headway in those experiments carried on by scientists who devote themselves to original research. Commenting on the great change scientific research has wrought in the medical profession, Dr. Elderkin, a retired physician, told the following story:

When I started to practice, though it was in the latter half of the nineteenth century, our profession had lagged far behind the progressive spirit of the times. Though we are still woefully ignorant, we know far more than we did then, and when we remember that we had at that time but recently advanced beyond the universal remedy of bloodletting, originally practiced by the barber who shaved our ancestors, we get some idea of the low condition of the science of medicine half a century ago.

Being naturally of a scientific mind, I realized this. Upon finishing my course at the medical college I was surprised that there was so little really known. Indeed, beyond the fact that vaccination will prevent smallpox, I don't remember a single certainty in medicine that I had learned in my college course. What a difference from the present, when we have antitoxins that work with absolute certainty; the X ray, by which to look into the human body, and have proved that diseases are transmitted by the fly and the mosquito!

I settled in this very town and hung out my shingle. Experience was then the doctor's best card. A bald head, a pair of mutton chop gray whiskers, a presence that bespoke wisdom—these were sure to bring success to any practitioner. This impressive person of half a century ago did not know one-tenth as much as the poorest student in a class graduating in a medical school today. But since there was nothing but experience on which to base confidence, the old practitioner had it all his own way, and the young man had no show at all.

I looked like a boy and was treated as a boy, for never did a patient darken my doors. I was socially well received by the young people of town and formed the acquaintance of a number of young girls, who thought me "a nice little fellow" and snickered when they called me doctor, their idea of a physician being the elderly party I have mentioned. One of these young ladies I admired very much and thought that if I could marry her possibly I might inspire some confidence and make a beginning. But she was the daughter of the principal man in the place, John Parkinson, and there was an awful gap between her and a towheaded, blue eyed doctor who didn't look old enough to treat a cat. As to being called in to treat Mr. Parkinson or any member of her family, there was no more chance of that than being struck by lightning.

His family physician, Dr. Swinbourne, in his younger days had bled his patients for every disease, and so wedded was he to the treatment that he still carried a lancet in his medical case. The Parkinsons revered him as a man of great experience and he was supposed to have a wonderful advantage in knowing the constitution of every member of the family, including the last child born, who was but eight months old and round as a nut. The chance of my supplanting this august person as physician in the household was as remote as being called upon to treat the president of the United States.

But no matter how firm one is settled on any soft spot let him beware of being undermined. His very greatness is liable to give his competitor a chance. Mr. Parkinson was fond of horses and owned some valuable stock. One of his animals was sired by a racer and had cost $3,000. One day this horse was taken sick. Would his owner insult the great Swinbourne by asking him to treat a horse? Never! A veterinary surgeon was called in. It is quite likely that he knew as much about what ailed the horse and how to cure him as the M. D.—he certainly knew as much as I did—but, despite his valuable efforts, the animal grew worse and the veterinary finally gave him up as a candidate for button and glue material.

Mr. Parkinson was one of those persistent men who never say die, and it occurred to him that I might not feel very much insulted at being called in to treat a horse. But he could afford to insult me, though he could not afford to insult his physician. For if any of the family were taken ill and the doctor refused to treat the patient there was likely to be crape on the door. At any rate, I was called in to have a look at the horse.

My first impulse was—from force of habit—to feel his pulse, but I remembered that I might get nearer his heart than his fetlock, so I put my hand behind his fore leg. There was still a faint beat and I knew he was not yet quite dead.

My ignorance of what was the matter with him and what to do for him was such that I stood doubtless looking as ignorant as I felt. Mr. Parkinson had his eyes on me and turned away with a look of disgust. It was this that nerved me at the turning point of my life.

"Mr. Parkinson," I said, "your horse is dying of digitalis."

I was obliged to choose a word so suddenly that I hit upon the name of a drug and feared my man would know that it was a drug and not a disease.

"Well?" he said somewhat more confidentially.

I was tempted to make an excuse to go to the druggist, to get a dose for the brute, but seeing the effect of my first bluff I resolved on another.

"I don't like to leave him," I said. "Would you mind getting me a messenger? I wish to send for a remedy."

"Not a bit. I'll call Tom. I don't know why he is not here. This is his place, especially at such a time."

He went to the house, a few hundred yards distant. He was absent some time. Not being able to find his man and while he was gone I upset a peck measure used for carrying oats, but now filled with salt. Some of the contents fell on the horse's tongue, which was protruding from his mouth. I noticed that the member quivered. I picked up a little more salt from the floor and dropped it on the tongue. Slowly it was withdrawn into the horse's mouth. Taking up a handful I opened the jaws and thrust it in.

I stood there, or rather knelt, feeding the horse salt till Mr. Parkinson returned. The other had disappeared, doubtless thinking he would be blamed in the matter of the loss of the horse and the master was abusing him to me when he caught sight of the patient licking his chops with his eyes open.

"Why, he seems to be better."

"Certainly."

"Do you think you can pull him through?"

"I think I can."

"What's that you're giving him?"

"A saline remedy I've found beneficial in such cases."

He didn't ask where I got it, or I would have told him I had it in my medicine case.

Well, it happened that my knocking over the salt had given my patient just what he needed. I don't know even now what his trouble was, but I do know that animals must have salt. At any rate a few handfuls of it effected a change in his condition, and he improved rapidly. I followed up the treatment by giving him water to drink, and it was not long before he stood up on his feet.

"By Jove!" exclaimed Mr. Parkinson. "That was the most marvelous cure I ever met with. I must tell Swinbourne about that. What did you call the disease?"

"Mr. Parkinson," I said, assuming an injured tone, "I have cured your horse, but I object to furnishing medical information to one of these old school doctors. I beg you not to mention the matter to Dr. Swinbourne."

"Why, it might lead him to take an interest in you."

"Not at all. You, as a layman, are not aware of the jealousies existing in our profession. Should you tell Dr. Swinbourne of this cure he would doubtless assert that your horse would have recovered just as well without my treatment as with it."

I shot a glance at him to see how the thrust struck him, expecting that he would deby that Swinbourne was any such man. I was agreeably disappointed.

"You're right, my boy," he said. "Never give away anything you've got unless you've something to gain by it."

Gentlemen, if you ask me what gave me a start in a practice which became for half a century all I could have desired I reply blind luck, followed up with a dose of concentrated gall. Besides, the lesson I learned was of great benefit. I made it a rule the less I knew about a case the more to pretend. And why not? Does a doctor gain anything by losing the confidence of a patient? By no means. On the contrary, the patient loses heart, and that is the worst thing that can happen.

But to finish my story. Mr. Parkinson let it be known that he would have lost his valuable horse had it not been for my skill, and I was installed as physician to the family, to be called upon for slight indispositions, Dr. Swinbourne being summoned to treat troubles of importance. This led to some outside practice, and in time I assumed sufficient boldness to pay attention to Miss Parkinson. By this time I had become known not as the man who had cured a horse, but one who had cured human beings. I finally married Miss Parkinson, but this was not till Swinbourne had retired and I was installed not only in his place, but succeeded to the bulk of his practice. In fact he retired because he found that I was forging ahead of him.

In claiming precedence in what we know now to what we knew then I am sorry to say that in the majority of cases it is still guesswork with us. We try a remedy and if the patient does not respond we try another and another, till either we have tried them all or the patient succumbs or recovers. But we have the satisfaction of knowing that both in America and Europe men are engaged in devoting their entire time to investigation, and every year we know more than we knew the year before.

My wife never knew how accidental was the success that gave me my start till we had been married many years.

HERE IS GOOD ADVICE TO TAKE

It will help those who have Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

There are other "old enemies" similar to the one mentioned in this testimonial. Kidney and Bladder Troubles are always enemies to good health. As soon as you start to take GIN PILLS these ailments begin to disappear. It is the same in cases of Lumbago, Sciatica and like complaints. This letter illustrates the benefit of GIN PILLS.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6th.

"I have been a sufferer from Lumbago for some years past and during Christmas week had a very acute attack which confined me to the house. About the latter part of April, I met your Mr. Hill and mentioned my complaint to him. He advised me to take GIN PILLS. I have been taking them at intervals during the early part of the present winter, and up to date have had no return of my old trouble—in fact, I feel better than I have for years and think that my old enemy has vanished for good and all." This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite, and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, croup, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to the Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Greater than Panama's Bridge of Water

The Panama Canal is the logical outcome of the trend of modern commerce—it is monumental evidence of the present-day need for shortening distance—for lessening time and for reducing cost of distribution between maker and consumer.

In point of distance, the Panama will bring the Pacific nearer to the Atlantic by 1,000 miles. In point of time, the sea voyage between Halifax and Vancouver will be shortened by 24 days. In point of cost, the canal will very materially lessen the expense of carrying freight between these places. But there is a stronger factor than even the Panama in shortening distance, lessening cost and saving time between manufacturer and user.

It is Advertising—

It is the quickest—
It is the most direct—
And it is the cheapest—means of communication between the maker and user of goods.

For instance, Advertising enabled a manufacturer in Nova Scotia to carry a demand for his product from his factory to the Pacific Coast

— in a few days
— at an insignificant cost compared with slower and more laborious selling methods.

In one week, thousands learned of his product where it would have taken years for the news to get around without advertising.

To the Manufacturers of Canada:

You will be alert to take advantage of the Panama route for the physical transportation of your goods. Have you considered how quickly, how far, and at what small cost the Advertising Trade Route will carry demand for those goods?

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

Gold Not Popular.

The demand for Canadian gold coins has almost reached the vanishing point. When the first issue was made a considerable sum was placed in circulation. It gradually fell off, however, and at the present time there is scarcely any in circulation.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Maas, Lunenburg, N.S. "Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

UNTIDY CUFFS.

Hint For Home Sewers Concerning Ready Made Blouses.

If you buy a ready made blouse of any kind you will probably find that the cuffs have no fastenings. They are generally made large enough to slip over the hands and so large that they bag about on the wrists and look very loose and untidy.

A thing of this kind is bound to spoil the appearance of any blouse, so you must alter it, of course. But there's no need to split the cuff and make the usual kind of fastening. You can get the same tidy look without wasting all that time and trouble.

Sew on two or three little buttons down the outside of the cuff, and then work loops to match them a couple of inches further along, more or less, according to the size of your wrist. The loops should be made of silk or cotton worked with buttonhole stitch.

When the blouse has been put on you just fasten the loops over the buttons, and then the cuff is drawn up so that it fits your arm quite closely. A fastening of this kind is very neat and quite easy to manage.

Remember that you must leave more space between the buttons and loops at the wrist than between the buttons and loops higher up, for the wrist part will need to be tightened a little more than the rest of the cuff.

BYLAWS CARRIED.

London Ratepayers Vote to Electrify Port Stanley Line.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 23.—After one of the most strenuous campaigns ever waged in London, the bylaw to raise $700,000 in debentures to electrify the London & Port Stanley Railway was carried yesterday by a majority of 746. The storm sewers, West London breakwater and the Board of Control bylaws all carried by large majorities.

The bylaws to spend $40,000 for sleeper subways carried by 1,926 majority; London west will have a $25,000 breakwater, the majority for this being 2,166; while the citizens decided in favor of a board of control by a majority of 1,843.

In 11 subdivisions only did the opponents of the scheme carry, and in two others the vote was a tie. In the other 53 there was a majority ranging from 1 to 91. This was a remarkable showing, and demonstrated the faith of the residents of the eastern section of the city in the feasibility of the electrification of the London & Port Stanley Railway.

Throughout the main portion of the city the vote was close in a number of subdivisions. The opposition scored well in certain portions of South London. Ward 3, the east end ward, did handsomely by the Beck scheme and made it certain that the bylaw would carry. The vote was larger than some anticipated. There were 8,500 voters on the list, and of these practically 5,000 were polled. The organization on both sides was very good, the electrification advocates having the better.

James Ross Left $15,000,000.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Among the bequests made by the late Jas. Ross, the president of the Dominion Coal Co., whose will was probated yesterday, is a gift of $10,000 to his sister, Mrs. Mary Grace Ross, "in addition to the other provision already made."

The total value of the estate is $15,000,000, half of which is in C.P.R. stock.

PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

ARE ENDED BY ZAM-BUK

When you have any deep-seated pain in the joints, the back, the wrists or elsewhere, place a liberal supply of Zam-Buk on the fingers or on the palm of the hand and rub it in. The penetrating power of this "embrocation-balm" is very great. It kills pain and removes stiffness.

Mrs. Frances Wyatt, of 25 Guy Avenue, Montreal, says: "I have found Zam-Buk most soothing and valuable in a very bad case of rheumatism, and also for stiffness of joints and muscles. I suffered long and acutely from rheumatism, and tried one liniment after another in vain. I also took medicine internally, but it remained for Zam-Buk to effect a cure. I began applying this balm when I felt the aches and pains of rheumatism coming on, or felt any of the stiffness. The result was truly wonderful. Zam-Buk seemed to penetrate to the very seat of the pains, driving them completely out, and I am now quite cured."

If rubbed on to the chest and between the shoulders in cases of cold, Zam-Buk will give speedy relief.

Apart from its use as an embrocation, Zam-Buk is a cure for eczema, rashes, ringworm, cold sores, ulcers, abscesses, chapped hands, piles, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c. or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

CROWDS WERE DISCREET.

They Refrained From Cheering Diaz For Fear of Troops.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A Vera Cruz cable says: Gen. Felix Diaz arrived here yesterday from Havana aboard the German steamship Corcovado.

Silent crowds awaited him at the pier because of the popular impression that Huerta had ordered his soldiers to fire on too noisy demonstrators.

Government agents endeavored to induce Diaz not to land, but he refused to pay any attention to them.

Gen. Diaz, in defiance of the intimation from the Government that he proceed to Tampico aboard the steamer Corcovado, and there disembark, has decided to remain at Vera Cruz, at least temporarily. He is unwilling to admit that he is not free to come and go and talks of a trip to the capital to-day or to-morrow. According to reports current last night, he is likely to return to Havana aboard a Mexican warship, and unless the orders from the capital are altered he will be left no choice.

Gen. Diaz was to have been notified on the high seas of the Government's wishes, but the captain of the gunboat Zaragoza, who put to sea in the middle of the night, with Col. Vidaurraraga, secretary to the Minister of War, to whom the mission had been entrusted, lost his course. A new captain for the Zaragoza was named yesterday.

San Ignacio Taken.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, Oct. 23.—San Ignacio, an important town of the State of Sinilao, has been captured by the Constitutionalists, according to a telegram yesterday to Gen. Venustine Carranza. Col. de la Vega, the federal commander, and the mayor of the town were executed.

Gen. Avaro Obregon is on the way southward to-day at the head of a strong force of infantry and artillery to attack Culiacan, the capital of Sinilao.

Benign Old Gentleman—Poor little chap! Where did that cruel boy hit you?

Tommy—Boo-oo-oo! We were 'aving a naval battle, and 'e 'ad ordered me in the engine room!"—New York Journal.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably also trouble of the cause of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary magnesia and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Bisurated magnesia is quickly made granular, pleasant to take with impunity if the name is followed with a little bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

A by-law was prepared and given its first and second reading, the third to be given on the 17th of November, allowing them to occupy 18 feet of road for the term of twenty years at a rental of $1 per year. On account of the large number of mail boxes placed close to the travelled road, endangering the travelling public, the Council desires to draw the attention of persons obstructing the highways to the provisions of the following by-law, which would relate to mail boxes or any other obstruction placed on the highway:

First.—That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to obstruct any road or bridge within the said municipality, either by placing anything thereon or upon any part thereof or by allowing anything to be placed thereon or upon any part thereof.

Second.—That in case any obstruction has been placed upon or may hereafter be placed upon any road or bridge within the said Municipality or upon any part thereof, by any person or persons, that then such person or persons shall at once forthwith remove such obstructions, and in case default is made by any such person or persons in removing such obstruction or obstructions, that then it shall be lawful for the said Municipal Corporation to have the said obstruction or obstructions removed at the expense of the party or parties in default, and they may recover the expense of removing the said obstruction or obstructions with costs, by action or distress, and in case of non-payment thereof, that then the same shall be recovered in same manner as Municipal taxes.

Third—Any person or persons guilty of committing a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law, shall, in addition to any pecuniary liability under Section two, be liable on conviction thereof before any Justice of the Peace having jurisdiction in the premises, to such pecuniary penalty as such Justice may think proper, not exceeding for any such breach the sum of fifty dollars and costs, such penalty and costs to be paid at such time as such Justice may direct, and in default of payment of such fine as aforesaid and costs, the same may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or offenders, and if no distress found out of which such fine can be levied, then the said offender or offenders may be imprisoned with or without hard labour, in any lock-up house in the Township, or in the County gaol of the County of Peterborough, for any period not exceeding twenty-one days, unless such fine and costs be sooner paid.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys. Then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have headache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming trouble while it is only trouble.

THE SANITARY INSPECTOR ON SANITARY CONDITIONS

"The Word Slum Should Have No Place in the Canadian Vocabulary," Says Inspector Spence —Address on Sanitation to the Local Council of Women.

HOUSING CONDITIONS

Sanitary Inspector Spence made his debut before a meeting of the Local Council of Women, which was held in the Assembly Hall of the Public Library on Wednesday afternoon. There were about fifty members present when the presiding officer, Mrs. J. C. Davidson, rose to address the meeting. Matters pertaining to Education and the "white slave traffic" were touched upon; while that timely subject concerning local sanitary conditions and its relation to public health was dealt with in a comprehensive and concise manner by Sanitary Inspector Spence. Miss Annie Weir, secretary of the Council, was complimented upon the able manner in which she performed her duties as recording officer.

In dealing with the question of local sanitary conditions, Sanitary Inspector Spence said that it was with a feeling of gratification that he accepted the invitation to address the Local Council of Women on local sanitary conditions and how to improve them, because it shows a desire for co-operation in the work, and the co-operation of the public in sanitary matters is very essential. "The well being of the public," said Mr. Spence, "must mainly depend on their own exertions and self-restraint. Sanitary improvements in man's material surroundings will not compensate for social transgressions against laws of morality, for public virtue is essential to public health, and both are essential to national prosperity. What is needed is a spirit of what I might term civic patriotism. Now what is the sanitary condition of Peterborough. From personel experience in the course of my inspection, I regret to say I must pronounce it as bad—very bad. Time will not allow me to touch upon many of the insanitary conditions that exist in this city. I will only take one or two of the most prominent.

Housing Problem.

"I will deal first with the housing problem," said the speaker, "and need of improvements. Pure air is as essential to health as pure water, although the public are very ignorant of the fact. Unfortunately the air of our rooms may be loaded with impurities without any visible sign being apparent that such is the case. And although some of us have timely warnings of evil in the shape of headaches and feelings of depression, others seem to possess an unfortunate immunity from any such indication of danger.

Probably children suffer helplessly from this, in fact, it must be so when we see some of the hermetically sealed and overcrowded homes in which they are reared. Remember that the weak and puny children of to-day will become the puny parents of a punier generation.

"Our Mission."

It is our mission to combat this deplorable anticipation. Impurity in water is in some cases indicated by its turbid appearance, but the air of our rooms, however impure it may become from over-crowding, presents no visible evidence of the fact. This is a pity for few people I should imagine would be so callous as to continue to bathe foul air, or allow their babies to do so if the fact were apparent to them. Although much improvement has been made of late years in the sanitary arrangement of dwellings it should be laid down as a rule by every tenant in search of a house that he should have the sanitary condition carefully inquired into, and any defects removed before he takes possession. When a person buys an article of food, or any commodity, he is entitled to sound value for his money, and in the same way when he pays for the rent of a dwelling place he is entitled to receive a place fit for living in, in exchange for his rent.

But what do we find? queried Mr. Spence. I tell you that the majority of cows in the dairy farms from which we get our milk supply are housed in stables that for sanitary conditions and comfort, are far superior to many occupied houses in this city. And it isn't the fault of the inmates either.

A Disgrace.

There are to-day here in Peterborough unfortunate people living under conditions that are a disgrace to any civilized country, and must not be tolerated. The word slum should have no place in the Canadian vocabulary, and yet slums exist right here. I use the word slum advisedly. Twelve years of my life was spent in working amongst the poor in the slums of East London, and I have seen as bad conditions in Peterborough. These conditions must be stamped out before they get a firmer foothold.

Again, there are houses in this city where the inmates' lives are positively endangered by the defective sanitary arrangements, and the owner who

GRAND TRUNK PAY CAR COMES NO MORE

The "Bread Waggon" Has Been Called In and Men Are Paid at Each Station

OLD CAR WAS WELCOME

The G.T.R. "bread waggon," more commonly known as the "pay-car," which brought to the company's employees in Peterborough their monthly salaries, will be seen here no more. This month a new system of paying the men was adopted, and the currency was handed out at the station.

To the employees the old pay car was the most welcomed piece of rolling stock that swayed along the line. When it arrived at the station the men had to go on a platform to meet it, and their envelopes were handed out to them. Now, however, the pay sheets are made out and the money dispensed at each station and the pay-car is no more.

The pay-car was an institution common to all the stations on the G.T.R., and its monthly arrivals were looked forward to with the same interest in the cities and small towns, and from the fact that it brought the wherewithal for daily sustenance, it was termed the bread-waggon.

Appointments Are Made

Ontario Government Has New Representatives in Peterboro'

Owing to the resignation of E. S. Hopkins, B.S.A., and J. P. Sackville, two new appointments have been made to the Peterborough County branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. F. C. McRae, B.S.A., and C. E. McDowell, were recently appointed to represent the Ontario Department of Agriculture in this county.

The office has been established to aid the farmer in every possible way. Its duties are to assist. Demonstration orchards will be featured. Drainage surveys will be made free of cost. Assistance will be given to the organization of clubs. Short courses in live stock, seed, and grain judging will be held. Measures will be taken to control weed and insect pests and plant diseases. Aid will be given the rural schools in the endeavour to introduce the study of agriculture into the curriculum. New features of district representative work are being planned.

The office in Norwood is open every day except Sunday, while the branch office, located in Room 12, Bank of Commerce Building, Peterborough, is open every Saturday afternoon. These offices are equipped with the very latest literature relating to agriculture. The latest copies of the best farm papers are there available to the farmer wishing to keep in touch with the improved methods of farming.

Pugilists Pay For Disturbance

Two representatives of the Scotch and French races who took it upon themselves to demonstrate the fistic superiority of their respective nationalities in front of the Roller Rink, on Monday night, submitted to the indignity of having their actions questioned in the Police Court this morning.

Alexander Irwin, champion of the Scottish cause, and Albert Lagros, representing the honour of France, both tried to lay the blame for the commencement of the conflict upon the other. The evidence of John Meharry and Dr. McClelland did not settle the matter, and the two pugilists, whose only regret seemed to be that an issue was prevented by the interference of the police, were each assessed $5.75.

When J. Meharry remarked that the language used by the combatants was extremely bad, Dr. McClelland volunteered the information that such was a nightly occurrence on Brock street.

Frank Campbell, a local labourer, took pity on a thirsty blacklister and came through with a supply of liquor. His charity however, was not commended by the Court and he paid $27.00 toward the enforcement of the laws, and administration of justice in this City.

RUSHING THE WORK TO COMPLETION

Street Paving Contract Will Terminate With Completion of the George Street Section Now Under Construction.

NEW CAR TRACKS

With favourable weather the work of laying the concrete base on George street from Brock to Charlotte streets should be completed this week. Foley and Gleason, paving contractors commenced operations on the east side of George street this morning and there is every reason to believe that the intersection of Hunter street will be crossed before the five o'clock whistle records the completion of another day's work. The contractors are rushing the work through as rapidly as possible in order, if possible, to complete the George street section before a break in the weather occurs. The latter is rather an uncertain quantity at this season of the year; a fact which is patent to the contractors as well as the Street Railway Company and other interested parties.

New Car Tracks.

Eight or nine days must elapse between the time of laying the concrete base and the surface coat of asphalt. The latter is ready for traffic almost as soon as it is laid. It is the intention of the Street Railway Company to lay bricks between the car tracks and also for a space of several inches on the outside. Owing to the scarcity of brick it will be impossible this fall to secure sufficient quantity to fill in between the rails. In view of this, the company will fill in the space with gravel until next spring. Brick for the outside of the rails has been laid and nothing remains for the contractors but to complete the work of laying the pavement. New street car tracks have been laid from Brock to Charlotte streets. These are of heavier pattern than the old rails.

It is hardly probable that any additional paving will be undertaken this fall. The weather is conceded by the contractors to be too unreliable to justify further expansion in the street paving programme; and as soon as the present section is completed the work will be closed down for the winter. It will be a source of satisfaction to the merchants on George street to have the main thoroughfare paved, a fact which will be better appreciated in the spring when the seasonal transition takes place.

Major Bradburn stated to-day that the George street section would not be extended this fall beyond the crossing situated in the centre of the block between Simcoe and Charlotte streets.

The work of laying the wearing surface on the Hunter street section between George and Water streets will be commenced to-morrow.

SPEECH WAS A SENSATION

Lloyd George's Address at Swindon Has Left the English People Breathless

THE LAND QUESTION

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 23.—(Special Cable.)—Lloyd George's Swindon speech leaves England breathless. Men realise that it spells the beginning of an economic and social revolution which must extend far beyond the land. England's peaceful revolution has begun. The speech has shattered all hope of a non-partizan treatment of the land question. It has been enthusiastically received by the entire Liberal press.

The landlords and vested interests are naturally in arms, but everywhere among the mass of towns the people who are tenants and from the countryside come signs of wholehearted approval. The Unionists are planning a counter programme. The scheme may lead to an appeal to the country after Home Rule. The Times regards the campaign as an effort to distract attention from the gravity of the situation in Ireland, saying: "Lloyd George resembles the man who continues to dig his garden when the house is on the point of bursting into flames."

Conditions Are Splendid In The West

Examiner Special:

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 23.—Reports from many points to-day show that not only is the crop of 1913 safely gathered, but preparations are complete for early seeding in the spring, and fully eighty per cent. of the fall plowing is done. In Manitoba the yield is good with quality away above the average. The threshing is complete with yields from 25 to 30 bushels to the acre. There has been no car shortage or delay. Saskatchewan is in a better position than ever before in history, the shipments double last year's.

TRACK ENCLOSURE WILL BE GRADED

And Rolled—Fair Directors Will Arrange a "Bee" and Grounds Within the Half Mile Track Will be Ploughed, Harrowed and Rolled.

WILL BE BEGUN THIS FALL

At a meeting of the Fair Directors on Wednesday night it was decided to hold a ploughing "bee" in the near future for the purpose of putting the enclosure in the western section of the Exhibition Park in good condition.

This project has been under consideration for some time, and it is felt that it is but a preliminary step to a complete development of the ground within the half-mile track. To begin with the proposed "bee" is expected to attract a large number of directors and friends of the Exhibition, and the ground will be ploughed, harrowed and rolled. This work will be done during the present fall when the ground has been softened by expected rains.

It is understood that from undefined plans that have been received a certain amount of consideration may materialize into a big athletic park within the race track suitable for all kinds of athletic games, and possibly for league baseball. It would also provide splendid football accommodation, and will be made sufficiently level for tennis and other games.

The first step is the "bee" that is being arranged, further particulars of which will be published later.

Gives Some Hope To Suffragettes

Special Cable to The Examiner.

SWINDON, Eng., Oct. 23.—Chancellor Lloyd George to-day told a deputation of suffragettes that he had not despaired of them getting the vote shortly, but it would not be during the present Parliament. Militancy had created the worst situation. He advised them to undertake pilgrimages as that had gained objects in other countries.

World's Series Pictures At Royal Theatre

Manager Clayton has a special attraction for the last two days of the week at the Royal Theatre that will undoubtedly attract big crowds to the popular theatre. He has secured a number of remarkably clear, life-size pictures of the recent world's series games between Philadelphia and New York, which will be shown for the first time in Canada at the Royal on Friday and Saturday. These pictures will be a treat for baseball fans, who will appreciate the enterprise of Mr. Clayton in securing these pictures ahead of any other theatre in Canada.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The boys of Peterborough, 17 years of age and under, are again reminded that the Y.M.C.A. will be thrown open to them to-morrow afternoon and evening. A cordial invitation to all who wish to see the 'works' of the local branch of that institution, is extended by its officers, and the large number who contemplate paying a visit are assured that it will be well worth the trouble. Even if the only result of their visit is to become personally acquainted with Secretary Hainsworth, Secretary Galley or Physical Director Thompson, they will be glad they were on the job.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the Boys' Bible class will meet.

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon a paper chase for all members of the Boys' Department will take place. An exciting afternoon is promised for the participants.

The Employed Boys' Bible class will meet on Monday evening. The usual good attendance is looked for.

General Secretary A. A. Mainsworth opened his new class of senior members for the study of "Religion" last night, and the occasion was a gratifying and auspicious one. Over thirty were present to take part in the first of a course of twelve lessons, and the study was entered into with an enthusiasm that ensures the augmentation of the class before many weeks. The new class is conducted by Mr. Hainsworth, and will meet every Wednesday evening from 7.30 to 8 o'clock.

Last night a study of "Religion" in general was taken up. Next week the "Religion of the Hindu" will be dealt with, and papers on the "Origin of Hinduism," "Cast Distinction of Hinduism," "Life of Hindu Women," "Transmigration of the Soul," "Relation of Brahamism to Hinduism" will be prepared.

The class will meet at 6.45 next Wednesday to partake of a banquet, and enjoy a programme before the half hour of study.

260 MINE WORKERS ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION

Fire Has Broken Out Following an Explosion and the Chances of Rescuing Any of the Victims is Considered Slight.

RESCUERS HANDICAPPED

DAWSON, New Mexico, Oct. 23.—That a fire has broken out in Stag Canon coal mine in which 260 miners were entombed by an explosion yesterday, was the report in circulation to-day. Up to noon to-day 23 miners had been rescued alive, and six corpses had been recovered. There are about 260 men entombed with little hope of rescuing them. The crews are working feverishly removing the debris from tunnels, but the task is exceedingly slow. Hundreds of women and children rushed to the mine's mouth and have refused to abandon their vigil. Most of them are hysterical and are controlled with difficulty. The officials of the company claimed that unless the men were trapped they might yet be alive. Rescue work has been under way 12 hours.

After-damp, following the explosion which wrecked the interior workings, is very heavy, and it is certain death for rescuers to attempt to enter the shaft unless equipped with oxygen helmets. To-day half a dozen rescuers were taken out of the mine shaft, unconscious, having been overcome by gas. No explanation of the cause of the explosion is yet given.

ADVOCATES CHARGING OF HIGHER RATES

Chairman of Grand Trunk at Annual Meeting To-day Says Increase Should be Made to Meet Expenses

GIVES HIS REASONS

Examiner Special:

LONDON, Oct. 23. — Chairman Smithers, at the annual meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway, here, today moved strongly in favour of increased rates. He declared the public were placing higher demands upon the railways, both in service and expense of operating, wages, and the price of fuel had gone up, and if the railways were to get their dues an increase in freight and passenger rates would be necessary. He did not believe either the American or Canadian people would raise any strong objection.

Sent Less Wheat To Old Country

Special Cable to The Examiner.

LONDON, Oct. 23. — The official figures of the trade between Canada and Great Britain show that in September of this year Canada sent less wheat to England than a year ago. MECHANICS ARRIVE IN PETERBORO'

The population of Peterborough will be augmented this week by the influx of a considerable number of skilled and unskilled workmen who were formerly employed in the De Laval Dairy Supply Company's works in Montreal. These will be given positions in the Separator manufacturing branch, which it is expected will commence operations next week.

The removal of the separator department of the industry from Montreal to this City has been completed, and the machinery will be fully installed and ready to turn out the finished products in the course of the next few days.

Some of the employees who are following the concern to this City, have already secured residences and others are living at the local hotels preparatory to securing suitable homes in Peterborough.

Superintendent French of Montreal, head of the Separator Department, has come to this City, where he will reside in future. Chief Engineer Meredith Leach of Poughkeepsie, is also in the City in connection with the opening of the separator plant.

The new mechanics will, no doubt, be welcomed with pleasure by the residents of this City.

LINGERING FIGHT WITH DEATH

After a lingering fight of three years against death Mr. George McLean of Norwood, passed away in his 61st year. The nature of his death and circumstances surrounding it are particularly sad. Owing to the development of some internal trouble deceased was unable to swallow any food through the proper channels and to keep himself alive was compelled to feed himself with liquids by means of a tube. On two occasions kind friends sent him to Rochester, Minn., where he consulted specialists but nothing could be done for him, and he returned home to continue his struggle against fate, gradually growing weaker, until he succumbed to the grim reaper. He was a shoemaker by trade and carried on a business here in that line for several years. He is survived by a wife and four small children.

The funeral took place to Norwood cemetery, Rev. H. P. Orse, B.A., conducting the service.

The late Mr. McLean was a frequent visitor to Peterborough, where he was well known.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION IS ON HAIR TRIGGER

Examiner Special:

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 23.—General Felix Diaz faced a peculia situation today. To refuse to obey the order of General Huerta to proceed to Havana he was liable to arrest and court martial for insubordination, and if he went to Havana it would cost him his chance of becoming president, Diaz, therefore, to-day had refused to obey the order to quit Mexico, and talked of a plan to go to Mexico City by special train. The situation is set on a hair trigger now.

WAR AND WASTE.

We may expect the jingoes and militarists, who clamour for Canada being armed to the teeth on land—though they favour no Canadian warships on the water, to sympathize with Austria which is fighting against immigration of its citizens to Canada because they will be lost to the fighting line—won't be available for spending three years in unproductive idleness in military service. The war spirit, the demands of militarism, are checked by the Austrians coming to Canada to be productive instruments in the development of Canada and the development of their own manhood. Sensible, sane normal people think it is better for the Austrian people, and for Canada, and for the hungering world to have them wholesomely employed in growing wheat, than to have them drilled and skilled and trained to murder their fellowmen in the wholesale way that war involves. Of course, the jingoists and the swashbucklers won't believe this, but will insist on spending our money in amateur militarism to an extent far beyond our needs. Everybody will admit the necessity of our maintaining a small standing army of a few regiments as a nucleus of an army that can be recruited to effective fighting strength at any moment there is need from our modest volunteer militia corps, who with the training they have had in the past are of an intelligence and proficiency that make them good soldiers no matter when called upon.

The contingents Canada sent to South Africa, though not trained on the 10 million dollars a year plan, gave a good account of themselves, and could even hold their own with, and even show the way in the fighting game to, the pipe-clay perfect regular regiments of the British army. Actual war is waste enough without the waste of unnecessary preparation in times of peace.

CORRUPT PROMISES.

Mr. Borden's path to power was paved with virtuous and valourous promises; his path in power is paved with the shards of these broken promises. He promised in opposition, economy in expenditure; he has doubled the national expenditure in fewer than three years. He promised reform of the civil service. He has bedevilled the civil service and made it an instrument of party advantage beyond precedent—of the worst kind. When in opposition Mr. Borden, vigourously declared his discontent with the alleged neglect of the Liberal Government to hold by-elections simultaneously—to "synchronize" them. He charged the Liberal Government with deliberately stringing out the by-elections to gain party advantage, to permit concentration of sinister effort—to defeat the Conservatives in detail; and promised—by implication if not specifically, that no such injustice and sharp practice should be permitted or practised if he gained power. He has proven himself worse than the Grits, for the records show that the Liberals did not deliberately delay and "string out" by-elections; that when convenient several were brought on together. For instance, December 14th, 1898, was the date of no fewer than five-by-elections under Liberal auspices. What has been the fulfilment of Mr. Borden's policy of holding by-elections simultaneously? He has utterly ignored it, and segregated the by-elections so that undue government influence—Rogerism and Manitoba methods could be applied in the interests of his party following in Parliament. There was no earthly reason why Chateauguay, East Middlesex and South Bruce elections should not have been held on the same day as Mr. Borden's complaints and promises demanded. There is no secret that the object of separate dates was to permit concentration of government argument in the shape of money, whisky and public works bribery upon the constituencies individually and separately. In spite of the perfection of organized corruption in the government's interests, it was not elaborate enough to cover three or four ridings at once. The minister of the department of organized corruption could not sub-divide himself sufficiently to debauch three or four constituencies at once. Mr. Borden's promises for fair elections were corrupt promises. They furnished inducements for electoral support, on false pretences—false promises falsely unfulfilled.

COMPLIMENTARY.

The Peterborough Review says: "Our own experience of boys, and of men, is that most of them are naturally barbarians, and it is only discipline of some kind that has kept them from periodically slaying and eating each other." This is a rather strange way to boost the home town. We did not know Peterborough had such lawless citizens. We do not believe it has. It is the J. H. B. type he has in view.—Catholic Register.

EAST MIDDLESEX.

The reduction of 293 in the Conservative majority in East Middlesex must rob Mr. Glass' supporters of much of the sweets of victory, and certainly takes away the sting of defeat from the Liberals.

In three of the four municipalities of the riding, the Conservative losses were pronounced. The Conservatives improved their showing in Westminster, but in the last election the Liberal candidate was a popular resident of that Township, known to every voter in it. Taking out the suburbs of London, which are still in the constituency, the vote reveals a change in the rural districts which is highly encouraging to the Liberal party. Mr. Glass lives in the suburbs, and naturally drew strength from the purely local circumstance. After the next redistribution his strongholds will be divorced from East Middlesex and transferred to the city, where they properly belong. Unless the county is gerrymandered, East Middlesex will be then fair fighting ground.

Mr. Fisher has reason to be proud of his inroad on the Conservative majority. He has equal reason to be proud of the campaign he conducted. He fought almost single-handed against a battalion of cabinet ministers and lesser politicians, reinforced, it is more than suspected, by the devious arts taught in the Manitoba school of politics. For neither the result of the election nor the methods employed in his behalf will he have need for apologies or regrets. The contest was refreshingly free from personalities on both sides.

The drop in the Conservative vote is probably the measure of the recession of the wave which swept the Conservative party into power two years ago. The same ratio of loss over the whole Province would greatly reduce the Government's Ontario following in the House of Commons. —London Advertiser.

"MERELY SOMETHING SMALL."

Many a burning loyalist, many a zealous centralist, must have read with some wonderment an editorial in the Mail and Empire of Saturday entitled, "No 'Big Navy' for Canada." That editorial must have proved an anxious subject of discussion at Round Table Club soul-searchings on Saturday and Sunday.

The Mail and Empire, which, if it is not in the secrets of its party, always walks on its toes and peeps around corners as if it were, seems to have given the Imperialists and Centralizers a new tip in its Saturday editorial. It was so entirely different from what they were listening for that it must have caused a lot of Sunday telephoning.

Without previous warning the Mail reversed the whole diet of its patients. It changed the policy of its party on the navy question. It sang a song new and strange in Ontario.

The talk about the Laurier navy, "a tin-pot navy," is over and done with. Instead of that, it is to be denounced as too big, too formidable, too expensive, greater than necessity calls for. After giving the world-situation, as it sees it, the Mail and Empire declares:

'This leaves a comparatively small part to be done by each of the Dominions. Instead of going to the frightful expense of making itself even a third-class naval power, each Dominion can by a relatively small outlay help to make the common naval defence impregnable."

This is a new line. Something comparatively small is what is wanted. We must, it now appears, guard against doing too much. Our contemporary almost warned us against the vortex of militarism. The Mail insists on the word "small." It adds:

"Mr. Borden thought the time opportune to make a small acknowledgment of our past obligations. He therefore proposed to send three powerful battleships to strengthen the British Navy."

There is only "a small part to be done" by Canada. A "small acknowledgment" is to be made. There is not to be assumed "the frightful expense" Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed to undertake. The Mail is the chief organ of the loyalist, militarist, Imperialist, Conservative party in Ontario. The navy that was the tin-pot not long ago is colossal now!

The fact that Chateauguay is past and South Bruce to come explains the change. The party having won in Chateauguay by a certain line of talk, sees visions of further wins in Quebec. News from South Bruce is to the effect that the electors up there are now keen on having millions spent for Dreadnoughts. The very talk that was used in Chateauguay—isn't it what South Bruce wants? The bye-elections being held on different days, each constituency can have whatever line of talk it likes.

But while the "something small" of Mr. Borden is extolled over the big outlay that Sir Wilfrid would entail, the colonels and captains are privately let a tip to keep quiet while the bye-elections are on. They are given the hint that this "small" business is for the bye-elections only and that Mr. Borden's permanent policy will come up at the general elections.

Whatever your views may be on the navy question, take the Mail's word for it. Borden's your friend, not Laurier. Are you opposed to naval expenditure altogether, or do you want lots of it? Do you favour a policy of permanent contributions or are you opposed to this and are you in favour of building a fleet of your own? Take the Mail's word for it, Mr. Borden is entirely of your opinion.—Toronto Star.

LITTLE COMFORT FOR CONSERVATIVES IN BYE-ELECTIONS

Comparison of Bye-election Results in First Two Years of Two Recent Regimes

Great efforts are being made by the Conservative Government and newspapers to claim that the result of the by-election in Chateauguay should be taken as evidence that the whole Dominion is enthusiastic in its support of the Naval Aid Bill and the few other odds and ends which represent what Mr. Borden is pleased to call his policy. Probably it is felt that this is an occasion for rejoicing since it is the first time since the elections of 1911 that the Government can claim to have more than held its own. As to the means by which the victory in Chateauguay was achieved—that is a matter the exposure of which will give little cause for rejoicing to either the Government or its supporters.

The Borden Government has now been in power two years. During that time there have been 5 contested by-elections. The Liberals have held 2 seats, the Conservatives have held 1 against a Liberal opponent and 1 against a Labour-Nationalist, and they have gained 1 seat from the Liberals. Their parliamentary majority now is 49. In November, 1911, it was 47.

This is the record of the two years from the contested by-election viewpoint:

No. of contested by-elections ..	5
Cons. gained from Liberals	1
Cons. held by ind. majority ..	1
Cons. held against Labour-Nationalists ..	1
Liberals held by decreased majority ..	2
Total Cons. gains in Parliament	1
Total Cons. gains, majorities ..	1679

During the first two years after the Liberal Government came to power in 1896 there were 21 contested by-elections. Of these the Liberals won 18, the Conservatives 2 and the Patrons gained 1 from the Conservatives. The Liberals gained 8 seats previously held by the Conservatives, and came back to Parliament after two years of office with an increased straight majority of 16, or, counting the Patron member, who defeated a Conservative, a voting increased majority of 18.

This is an analysis of the contested by-elections during the first two years of the Laurier Government:

No. of contested by-elections ..	21
Libs. gained from Cons.	8
Libs. held by inc. majority ..	6
Libs. held by reduced majority	4
Cons. held by reduced majority	2
Cons. lost to Patrons	1
Liberal victories	18
Conservative victories	2
Liberal defeats	2
Conservative defeats	19
Total gain in Liberal majority..	6970
Total Liberal losses (including 2153 in one Toronto election)..	3408
Net gain in Liberal majority ..	3562
A turnover of	7124

In comparing the record of their first two years of power as judged by their appeals to the people, with the result of the first two years of the Laurier Government, there can be little to convince anyone that the Borden administration is backed by any such wave of popular approval as that which followed the return of the Laurier Government to power in 1896.

CONSERVATIVES ARE DEMANDING UNTAXED WHEAT

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the Government by western Conservative members to take prompt action, as soon as Parliament meets in January, to put wheat and flour and semolina on the free list, thus taking advantage of the reciprocity offer in the new United States tariff for free trade in these products of the wheat fields. Letters have been received by Premier Borden and Minister of Finance White from many supporters of the Government in the west, urging this course as being both politically expedient and in the interests of the Dominion as a whole.

Government Inclining its Ear.

Dr. Schaffner, Conservative M.P. for Souris, Wm. Sharpe, M.P. for Lisgar, and other supporters of Premier Borden in the Commons, are known to be strongly in favour of quick action by the Government to secure the removal of the present American countervailing duty on Canadian wheat and flour, and have already made strong personal appeals to the Government to get in ahead of the Liberals, who will undoubtedly move as soon as Parliament opens for the removal of the duties. The Government has not yet reached any decision on the matter, but it is known that the pressure now being brought to bear on the Ministers is causing them to incline a favourable ear to the doctrine of free wheat, despite the attitude assumed and the arguments used by them in the anti-reciprocity campaign of 1911.

One of the chief difficulties in the way of the removal of the duties has been fear of the Canadian milling interests. According to the provisions of the Wilson tariff the removal of the Canadian duty on flour must accompany the removal of the duty on wheat in order to secure the removal by the United States of the countervailing wheat duty of 10 cents per bushel.

The Government here has been afraid to touch the protection now given to the milling interests, who for the most part supported the Conservative cause in 1911. But it now appears that no very strenuous opposition may be made by the Canadian millers to free trade in flour. Several prominent milling men who have been sounded on the question say that free access to the American market for Canadian flour would perhaps be welcomed by them. They are apparently not much afraid of American competition in the home market, while in the United States there is a demand for Canadian high quality flour which might be profitably mixed with the American product from lower grade wheat.

No Injury, but Benefit by Removal.

Economic conditions of milling on either side of the line do not seem to really require any adventitious help from a protective tariff. On the other hand the consumers' and farmers' interests would undoubtedly benefit by a removal of the present tariff restrictions. Present indications point to legislative action by the Government during the coming session to meet the insistent demand of the West for free access to the American market for wheat, with its accompanying products of flour and semolina.

WHY HE DIDN'T DO IT.

The old coloured deacon accosted the parson on the roadside.

"Pahson," he began, "Ah want to ask yo' a question. Who was the most patient man on earf?"

"Why, bruddah," responded the parson, "Job was, ob cose."

"No, sah! Ah tell you Noah was."

"En how do yo' make dat out?"

"Why, Noah had two skeeter on de ark en carried dem around foh 40 days en nights. Ef he could resist slappin' at dem all dat time he was de most patient man on earf."

Postponement Of Offical Plans

Owing to business of moment I have decided to defer surveyors plans until Spring. I have however made careful measurements and a fairly accurate plan showing position and description, size, etc. From this intending purchasers may select at once, and this should be done without delay as a large number of people who wish to have a little of what they want, when spring opens, having a house of their own within easy reach of business in Spring, or who may desire a central garden block to make money for them while they sleep. Low prices, easy terms, conditions to build. Every lot will save you money by increasing values as city grows. Call for particulars.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

OLD COUNTRY FOOTBALL NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Rsendale United have undoubtedly one of the best forward lines in the combination.

There was a great demand in the closing stages of the Bolton-Burnley match for the sponge.

Ashton, the ex-Preston North End player, is proving a capital centre for the Dark-lane team.

Thomas and Bowley are players with a future. Freeman could not shake the young centre half off.

Although the excursion season is nearly over, trips are still fairly plentiful on the football fields.

Teddy Hill's decision in the team made a wonderful difference, and soon had two goals to his credit.

The Simpson-Shea wing will bring the best, and occasionally the worst, out of opposing defences.

Rumours are afloat in the Rossendale Valley that Buckburn Rovers are anxious to secure Teddy Hill.

The Wanderers made a great rally at Burnden, but could not break down the defence of the great "Jerry."

Sunderland's Holley is the right stamp of player, big, swift and clever, and as enthusiastic as a schoolboy.

The old Athletic half was not Sharp enough for the wily Meredith. He was in fact, quite "out of the hunt."

If Prior would only learn to centre with half the precision of Conour, he would be far more useful to the Shakers.

The nine league goals scored by Derby County have all materialized after the interval. This speaks well for their training.

Bury have only four goals to their account in four matches, and three of these are credited to Cameron, the old Bolton Wanderer.

If the Shakers hope to obtain promotion this season, their forwards will have to play as befits their name, to adopt more worrying tactics.

Harrison's debut on the Everton left was full of promise, and he looks like a young man who will cause his opponents many anxious moments.

Bolton Wanderers' present trio of half-backs are the youngest and cost the least of any trio in the league. But are by no means the least effective.

South Liverpool 7, Haslingden 0; St. Helens Town 3, South Liverpool 1, on successive Saturdays was right from the sublime to the "can't believe it."

Little Lever Congregational are passing through very rough waters this season, their latest humiliation being a 9—1 defeat by Halliwell United.

It's a long time since Glasgow Rangers failed to score in two successive matches. During the whole of last season they failed to score on only four occasions.

The receipts at the Everton and Liverpool match at Goodison park amounted to £1502, or £76 less than was taken in the corresponding game last year.

Up-to-date, one of the most noteworthy features about the season's play have been the blunders several of our reputed goalkeepers have been guilty of.

Out of the last 14 games played at Goodison, Liverpool have humbled Everton six times; but out of the same number played at Anfield they haven't beaten the Toffeeites once!

A tit-bit for the form men; Sheffield United 5, Derby County 3, at Derby; Manchester City 3, Sheffield United 1, at Sheffield; Derby County 3, Manchester City 1, at Manchester.

In the team selected by the Irish league to meet the English league at Belfast, there are no fewer than four ex-Evertonians, viz.: Walter Scott, Clifford, Joe Smith and McEwan.

One of the worst failings in a team, or player, is bad finishing or want of direction when shooting. If players were to practice shooting from a reasonable distance more goals would accrue.

Barton, the ex-Westhoughton and Hindley Central back, is playing in splendid form on behalf of Slaybridge Celtic. Probably we shall be seeing this player in higher circles shortly.

Steve Bloomer, who is coaching the Reserve team of Derby County, had his shooting boots on, when in a Central alliance match with Shirebrook he shot four goals. He played centre forward.

In view of the local rivalry it seems a pity that Referee Pellowes' decision should have led to Liverpool's triumph. One would have thought that the alleged offence might at least have been overlooked as a Fairicul!

The two Bellfounds, Evans and Orr, were both dropped from the Exeter City team against Crystal Palace, the forward's position being taken by Lee, who is also not unknown in Bolton Wednesday league football.

Barnes, the Derby County inside left, has scored in each of the five League I matches played by his club this season. The ex-Sheffield United centre, Leafe, now with West Ham United claims a similar record.

Hughes, late of Bolton Wanderers, turned out for the Wolves at Grimsby, and one critic writes that he "held his team together in splendid style, and Needham and Lockett gave him excellent support. The three players seemed to work as one man."

A conspicuous figure at the Sheffield Wednesday ground on Monday was T. E. Harris, who joined his colleagues, at the meeting of the management committee of the league, after seven months' absence. He was accompanied by his daughter, who has nursed him.

RUGBY

Local Rugby fans will be given an opportunity to see a rattling good exhibition on Saturday afternoon when the Lindsay and Peterborough Collegiate fourteens will clash at Nicholls Oval. The teams are both well trained and conditioned, know the game thorough, and as is usually the case with young players, they play with all the energy and vim at their disposal. The Lindsay team defeated the Central Park aggregation in Lindsay on Saturday, but the local team is confident of turning the tables on Saturday. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

CURLING

Under the new constitution of the Ontario Curling Association there is now but one general meeting a year and the gathering at the Granite Club, Toronto, was the first held under the new conditions. President J. W. Corcoran, of the Queen City club, Toronto, occupied the chair, with Secretary G. S. Pearcy at his right hand.

Mr. R. M. Waddell of Peterborough is a member of the Executive Committee.

Laying out the Season's Play.

The proposed plan of tankard grouping created discussion with the very first group. Cobourg finds it inconvenient to play in Lindsay, and it was proposed to sub-divide the eastern group, adding Cobourg and Port Hope, and playing one section in Belleville. Eventually the original draft was agreed to, the suggested changes being borne in mind for next year.

The Collingwood delegates thought Barrie should not have two chances, as is the case with two clubs in different groups, but in the end the grouping for both tankard and district cups was approved as proposed by the executive, as follows:

Peterborough will figure in Group 2 in the Provincial Tankard. Competition as follows:

Group No. 2.—Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Peterborough, Port Hope, Bobcaygeon, Cannington, Norwood, Cobourg, Hastings. Play at Lindsay. Umpire—J. D. Flavelle.

The District Cup grouping also finds Peterborough allocated in Group No. 2, as follows:

District No. 2—Cannington, Peterborough, Keene, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Port Hope, Norwood and Hastings play at Peterborough. Umpire—R. M. Waddell.

Squire Brunton is President.

Thos. Thauburn of Brampton declined to be a candidate for second vice-president against his friend, C. Turnbull of Galt, Granites and made the nomination unanimous. R. Mahaney's withdrawal also made a ballot for the Executive unnecessary.

The Closing Festivities.

President Brunton and Vice-President Turnbull were installed in their new offices and returned their thanks.

Mr. Thauburn's motion to reduce the number of ends in a game from 18 to 16 were withdrawn.

To Scotland in 1914-15.

Vice-President MacFadden announced that though no official invitation had been received, it was known that the Royal Canadian Curling Club had decided to invite a visit from a Canadian team during the winter of 1914-15.

HOCKEY

The fine Italian hand of a well-known author-referee is seen in the following hockey items from the Toronto Star. The writer has given Peterborough considerable advertising in the past:

St. Thomas will be represented by teams in both the junior and intermediate series of the O. H. A. this winter. The players commence active training this week, running, basket-ball and indoor baseball.

There is some dissension in hockey circles in Peterborough. The rink managment is said to be to blame. The "Petes" will be under new management this season, an entirely new executive having been elected. It is their intention to retire from the Senior O.H.A. and place teams in the intermediate and junior series. The Lift Lock City should put a particularly strong intermediate seven on the ice, having the entire senior team of last year, also many of their intermediate and junior players fromwhich to select their team.

Due to lack of players, Cobourg will in all probability play only intermediate hockey this winter. Gray, their promising junior centre of last winter, has been removed by his bank from Cobourg, and some of the veterans of the lake shore town team have announced their retirement.

A meeting will be held at the Toronto Rowing Club to-night, when the club will consider again being represented in the senior O. H. A. this winter. The T. R. C. are still members of the O. H. A. although they have not played the past two seasons.

Dug Addison, who played goal for the champion T. R. and A. A. team last winter, will be found defending the nets of some other local team this winter, but as yet he is undecided with whom he will play.

The intermediate clubs in Eastern Ontario will be glad to learn that Woody Bearss will not be found on the defence of the intermediate Peterborough team this winter. He is in the West. Bearss' questionable tactics got him into disfavour with opposing teams last year.

"Hockey should boom in Whitby this winter," said an executive officer of last year's team recently. "We will have our new rink and have all of last year's players available, but the old trouble with the rink management has again cropped up, and unless favourable arrangements can be made it is doubtful whether or not we will have a team."

The Ottawas are looking for a couple of amateur forwards with speed and backbone, and expect to get them in Toronto.

Peter Thornton, left-wing of last year's junior champion O.H.A. team moved from Orillia to Toronto this summer, and his srvices are being sought after by several local senior teams.

The Ottawas will present a very different line-up this winter, Lesueur, Shore and Broadbent being about the only members of last year's team who will be retained. Ottawas are anxious to sell Benedict and Darragh.

Railway Commissioners in the West.—Chairman Harry L. Drayton, of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, and Commissioner Dr. Mills, who are starting out from Ottawa next week to hold sittings in several western cities and towns, and clean up a lot of local business, after which they will return to help tackle the freight rates case.

THE FLORIST'S GIFTS TO PETERBOROUGH

What Jordan Bros., Have Done and are Doing to Cultivate the Love of Home-grown Flowers

It has been truthfully said that "Peterborough people are great lovers of flowers." Certain it is, that in recent years, especially, the growth of the local demand for flowers has been rapidly increasing and becoming more and more insistent. Our people must have flowers. At certain seasons of the year, the supply has been altogether inadequate to the demand, and home-grown flowers could not be had for "love or money." Our local florists have done what they could in the past to grow enough of their own stock to meet the local demand, but it has always fallen short, and they have been compelled to import what they could from foreign greenhouses. This fall, however, the assurance of a steady demand for flowers has stimulated our City florists to increased enterprise, with the result that they have enlarged their greenhouses and increased their hot house output.

It would surprise our citizens if they would take a peep into the Argyle Street greenhouses, conducted by the Jordan Bros., and see the long stretches of greenhouses and the large quantities of flowers and plants under cultivation. The fragrance and the beauty show is alone well worth the visit. Fancy a Carnation greenhouse 200 feet long, with 6,000 of these exquisite flowers all coming on in various stages of growth. Then alongside of this, a Chysanthemum greenhouse, 110 feet long, with 5,000 of these popular flowering plants, white, pink and yellow. These much-sought-after blooms have been scarce all over the country, but Jordan Bros. can boast that their extensive collection of home-grown chrysanthemums should fill every local demand. Among the early varieties are the White Kalb, Shaggy Whites, Pinks, Yellow Baby 'Mums, etc.

Besides this large greenhouse production of early blooms, there is another large house of midsummer chrysanthemums which will be ready by the time the others have all been cut. Other houses contain a wonderful display of blooming plants, foliage plants, graceful ferns, stately palms and exotic plants. A good new showy bloom is the "Pompon" — very attractive for bouquets and table decorations. Also the beautiful violet, so much admired for lovely bridal bouquets, and Boutonnieres.

It will be seen, therefore, that Jordan Bros. have accepted the responsibility of providing her citizens with an abundant supply of home-grown flowers, such as should obviate the necessity of ordering from a distance. Home-grown flowers possess far more of their healthy characteristics than the foreign bloom shipped in from a distance. They are, of course, much more lasting and less perishable; and Jordan Bros. can now assure their patrons of the freshest home-grown flowers being supplied. Many a smart wedding is spoiled through inartistic and limpid flowers.

This is bulb time. Nothing is more attractive than a fine bed of Tulips or Hyancinths coming into flower in the early spring—just after the long, dreary winter. Jordan Bros. have received an import order of 35,000 flowering bulbs from reliable growers in Holland and France, which our flower-loving citizens will, no doubt, be glad to take advantage of.

NEED OF IMPROVEMENT AT KINGSTON

Examiner Special:

KINGSTON, Oct. 23. — Chairman McDonnell, when the Penitentiary Commission resumed to-day, stated that he was satisfied that radical changes were desirable. No further evidence was necessary on the unsuitability of the hospital and asylum buildings, lack of proper equipment, and lack of proper sanitary arrangements. Ex-Warden Dr. Platt suggested that every applicant for a position in the penitentiary should be put on a probation list and pass an examination like the civil service examination. He favoured allowing prisoners' families a percentage of the earnings made in the penitentiary.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE CATTLE MARKET

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—The cattle market was fairly active and good. Receipts 197 cars; 4385 cattle, 325 calves, 1900 hogs, 1751 sheep and lambs, stockers and feeders $9 to $9.75, hogs, $9.65 f.o.b. two drovers, $9, fed and watered $9.25, off cars.

LIKE MATTY OR ED. PLANK

I do not ask for Johnson's speed;
I would not seek the cunning skill,
To make the spitter flop;
Just write me down a has-been
Of poor and lowly rank,
With nothing but a prayer and glove,
Like Mathewson or Plank.

Some crave for curves that twist and turn
And crackle, singe and pop,
Some want a fast one, shoulder high,
That travels with a hop;
But not for me, soft on that stuff,
I'd rather draw a blank;
And be a grand old, time-bent wreck,
Like Mathewson or Plank.

Now take the slow one, there's a ball
That makes 'em stop to think,
And often sends 'em to the bench
To get a rest and drink;
All well and good, but here's my roll,
I'm cleaned out at the bank;
And make me just a crumbling ruin
Like Mathewson or Plank.

These flashy goods are well enough
When everything's a cinch;
I want to be the sort of guy
They yell for in a pinch;
To be these turning out the stuff,
When hope just went and sank,
With nothing but a player and glove
Like Mathewson or Plank.

Bishop O'Brien Is Attending The Congress

Of the Roman Catholic Missionary Movement Which is Being Held in Boston, U. S. A.

ABLE ADDRESSES

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 22.—Ontario prelates are occupying places of honour in the business sessions and church functions in connection with the great Roman Catholic Missionary congress. Their attendance in such large numbers brought forth a graceful compliment from Cardinal O'Connell of Boston.

Among the Ontario clergy who are attending are: His Grace Archbishop McNeil, Toronto; Most Rev. Joseph Weber, Berlin; Rev. L. Minehan, Toronto; Rev. G. Kernahan, Toronto; Rev. William B. Carlton, Metcalf; Rev. J. P. Tracy, West Toronto; Right Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Peterborough.

The address of Very Rev. Francis C. Kelley, of Chicago, president of the American branch of the Church extension society, furnished the principal theme for discussion at the morning session. He said that there was no question of the successful work of he society during the past eight years.

Rev. John B. Pitaval, archbishop of Santa Fe, N.M., made a plea to the wealthy members of the church in behalf of the less fortunate dioceses. While magnificent cathedrals were being erected in large cities some churches and chapels in small dioceses were going to ruin. Unless these churches were renovated the work at the missions would be seriously impaired.

The Science of Servant finding is now reduced to the last word of Simplicity--OUR Small Want Ads act as a "Magnet for Maids."

A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharges of nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

"West-Ender" Once Again

Makes Some Suggestions for Benefit of the Garbage Collector

To the Editor The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—May I again encroach upon your valuable space to first thank the garbage collector for his courtesy in answering my letter, though his reply is unnecessarily curt and inefficient.

How is the householder to know when the collector considers the garbage not in a proper state to remove? If the garbage is not as it should be he ought to go to the door and tell the householder so, and also wherein the fault lies, it may then be possible to obviate a further denial to remove the garbage, and also lighten the work and lessen the complaints against him.

The collector's curt announcement that the collection of garbage is curtailed from twice a week to only once does not alter the fact that once is insufficient.

What are we going to do with all the ashes during the winter? I notice that some families have to already put out as many as four receptacles of a large size when two ought to be considered sufficient.

Would it not be more consistent with public health and also add to the beauty of the streets if the garbage was collected from the back doors instead of the streets? The extra cost would undoubtedly be trifling.

I notice the sanitary inspector keeps silent as to his regular (or otherwise) duty visits in the west end.

Again thanking for the privilege of using your paper, I remain,

Yours truly,

West Ender...

RSIAN LAMB FOR ISLAND PROVINCE

ce Edward Island to Add Persian mb Fur Farming to Fox Fur arming—A Subject of Great Economic Interest to Ontario

here passed through Toronto on day last on their way to Prince ward Island, from the State of ho, a shipment of 318 Lincoln p, which will be used in extend- the nw famous fur-farming Indus- of the island Province. The ship- t was in charge of Mr. J. Walter es, B.S.A., of Carlottetown, whose ort to the Conservation Commis- n on fur-farming in Canada, has e him a recognised authority on breeding and raising of fur-bear- animals in captivity.

r. Jones, in an interview with Globe, outlined the basis of the recent, and what seems likely be, the most lucrative phase of fur-farming industry in Prince ward Island. "It is that of raising sian lamb," stated Mr. Jones. have now on a farm near Char- towns herd of eleven pure-bred rakule sheep which were brought from the desert of Bokhara to last spring. These animals are in their native country to pro- e Persian lamb, Astrachan, Krim- and Broadtail, or baby lamb These different kinds of fur e from the offspring of the Kara- sheep, the very best Persian b fur being secured from the young animal as soon after birth as possible.

Shipping Pelts Next Year.

"I have just been at Chicago, where I met a shipment of 350 Lincoln sheep, purchased by a nw company, of which I am the Secrtary, from ex-Governor Gooding of Idaho." "These Lincolns," explained Mr. Jones, "will be used on our farm to cross with our thoroughbred Karakule stock, and we expect that early next year we shall be supplying pelts to the London markets." "Government tests in the United States, where he first herd of these foreign sheep were brought in 1908 by Dr. C. C. Young, the eminent Russian experimentalist, with the cooperation of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, show that Karakule sheep when crossed with English long-wool breeds, such as Lincolns, Cotswolds, or Highland Black Faces, will produce skins valued at from $6 to $13 each in wholesale lots of 160 to 200 skins per lot."

May Get Texas Herd.

According to Mr. Jones, the prospects of the Persian lamb fur industry in his Province are exceedingly bright. Dr. Young, who has been conducting his experiments since 1908 in Texas, with the only other herd of pure-bred Karakules which was brought to America from Bokhara, is interested in the new Prince Edward Island company, and will shortly take up his residence in Charlottetown. Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of Dr. Young's herd of sheep from the Middle Water Cattle Company of Texas, and if this supply can be added to that now owned in Prince Edward Island, Canada will have within the confines of its baby Province the sole source of supply for the Karakule sheep business in America. Any few scattered remnants of Dr. Young's original herd, which were sold in a couple of the States adjoining Texas, will be bound by blood lines, in the case of the future extension of the industry across the line, to Prince Edward Island.

Millions for Fur Pelts.

Mr. Jones points out that America has been paying out every year for a considerable period, some $14,000,000 for the fur pelts of the Persian lamb, which he explains, by the way, is not a product of the Persian sheep. "Persian lamb" is merely a commercial term established by furriers, and that fur is really produced from the Karakule sheep which are found in greatest abundance on the Bokhara desert, north of Persia.

First Lord of the Admiralty as a "Horse Marine"—This is one of the latest pictures of Right Hon. Winston Churchill and his wife. Those who saw Churchill on his visit to Canada, some years ago, will remember him as a well-dressed, well set-up young fellow. Just now the tailors of Old London are commenting on the First Lord's careless dressing. They intimate that it affects their business. Mr. Churchill is more rotund and less adaptable to good clothes than he used to be. Mrs. Churchill is a clever horse-woman.

Cattle Drovers Are Being Sued

A peculiar case has come to light among the cattle drovers of the north part of Victoria County through the financial difficulties of an old-established commission firm of West Toronto Junction. It seems three well-known drovers of Haliburton and Kinmount bought a large number of cattle for the Toronto firm before the tangle arose and had them shipped to Toronto. They were given cheques for the money. At a branch bank near the stockyards they exchanged the firm's cheques for the special drovers' cheques issued by the bank and which are as good as the money. These latter were cashed for currency at banks in Victoria County.

In the meantime the commission brokers got into deep water financially, and when the Toronto bank presented the firm's cheque at the firm's own bank there were no funds to pay it, and they were returned.

Thed rovers had been given the guaranteed drover's certificate by it and had received their money therefor.

The bank that issued the drover's certificate is now suing them for the return of the money as that bank will be the loser for guaranteeing the amount before making certain of the daily balance of the brokers, who heretofore have had good financial standing.

One Kinmount man is being sued for the return of over $1,000, and two other drovers of Kinmount and Haliburton for $1,100.

SANITARY INSPECTOR ON SANITARY CONDITIONS

knowingly allows such conditions to continue has an awful responsibility. I assert it is nothing less than a criminal act to endanger the lives of innocent children and ignorant adults by forcing them to live under such conditions. And yet by forcing improvements to be made by the landlord we are imposing hardships on the tenants in many cases and putting money into the landlord's pocket.

Disposal of House Refuse.

The great principle to keep in view, continued the speaker, is the satisfactory disposal of house refuse, also the immediate and thorough removal of all fluid refuse and the retarding of decomposition in all solid refuse until it can be completely removed. Putrefaction is in all cases the result of an attack upon dead organic matter by minute living germs or bacteria ever present in the air. The process is really fermentation. Under favourable conditions these germs multiply with enormous rapidity causing obnoxious odours and gases to contaminate the atmosphere. This alone must seriously affect the health of the inhabitants, and if it is not directly responsible for the production of disease there is not question but that it greatly favours the extension of diseases of the infectious class. Warmth and moisture are the great agents that encourage putrefaction, and for this reason it is essential that all refuse matter while it remains on the premises should be kept dry and not exposed to the sun or heat, hence the important place the garbage can occupies or should occupy in our sanitary household arrangements.

Garbage Collection.

One of the best things this city ever undertook in the interests of the public health was the installation of a garbage collecting system, and though there is much room for improvement in the modus operandi it on the whole is a benefit to the community. At its inception I stated that such a system would not be entirely satisfactory unless it was undertaken by the Council, and not let by contract. I shall stand by that assertion, and I think my statement is justified. What I consider an ideal system would be conducted on the following lines. Each house should be provided with a galvanized iron receptacle, where every kind of refuse would be deposited. To eliminate as far as possible the danger of putrefaction all food refuse should be wrapped in paper. In large houses or hotels where the garbage can would not be big enough, a properly constructed ash-pit would be built. All this would be collected by the City Council's own men in properly constructed garbage waggons. The men would be supplied with some disinfectant which they could sprinkle into the receptacle after emptying. That is the system I advocate and shall work for if I continue to hold this position.

Other Problems.

Another outstanding problem in the sanitary condition is the state of our back lanes and yards.

These conditions can be improved by education.

People must be taught that good conduct, personal cleanliness, and the avoidance of all excesses are the first principles of health preservation.

Promulgate a spirit of civic patriotism in the place of the spirit of "I don't have to," that is so prevalent, said Mr. Spence in conclusion.

This Leaves the Skin Smooth and Hairless

(Boudoir Secrets).

The electric needle for removing hairy or fuzzy growths is fast falling into disfavour among beauty specialists, because quicker and better results are obtained with the aid of a paste made by stirring together a little powdered delatone and water. This is applied on the hairs not wanted, and in 2 minutes rubbed off, and with it comes every trace of hair. The skin should then be washed to remove the remaining paste and it will be left smooth and spotless. Buy delatone in original packets only.

"First Aid" To The Injured

A demonstration in "first aid work" will be given by Mr. G. R. Collins, a member of the St. John's Ambulance Society one week from to-morrow night. Through the courtesy of the Y.M.C.A. officials a room has been secured at the institution wherein to conduct the work. It is altogether probable that His Worship Mayor Bradburn will be in attendance and will occupy the chair. Several employees of labour have signified their desire to be present. Some thirty-five or forty names of prospective members have been handed in to Mr. Andrew Forrest, 328 Downie Street, Secretary of the Organization. Many more are expected. The public ar invited to attend the meeting, which will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening, Oct. 31st.

"THE QUAKER GIRL"

"The Quaker Girl"—she of the lilting song and the graceful dance is coming to the Grand at an early date to tell in a burst of song the tale of her trials and triumphs, her piques and relentings. It is a story of love and romance, seductively charming, embellished with coaxing melody and contagious comedy. The success that has attended the career of this musical comedy has amazed even the most optimistic. It has been endorsed in London where it ran for two years at the Gaiety and Adelphi theatres, one year in Paris, one year in Australia, one year at the Park Theatre, New York, and is now making a limited tour of the United States and Canada, where it is being greeted by capacity houses. There is only one company presenting the piece this season and that is the original No. 1 company, which is headed by Victor Morley, and includes Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, Dixie Gerard, William Blaisdell, Mlle. Corday, Connie Mack, Gladys Parsons, Murray Stephen, Phil. J. Moore and Adelaide Folger. The chorus and ballet are features of the performance, and include some stunning young women. A special orchestra is also a feature.

If cake is put in too slow an oven, it rises over sides of pan and is coarse in texture. If oven is too hot it browns before sufficiently risen, and in its attempt to rise breaks through the crust.

COUNTY TEACHERS' FIRST SESSION

Was Held at Normal School This Morning

The first session of the Teachers' Institute of Peterborough County was held in the Lecture Room of the Normal School with President Tremouth in the chair. After the minutes and correspondence had been read, the president gave an excellent address on "Education." This was followed by a discussion on "The Strathcona Trust," led by Mr. Andrews, of Havelock. After the report on "The Ontario Teachers' Alliance" was read, a discussion was held on the use of the School Manuals. Inspectors Broderick and Lees were both present.

The New Blouse of French Flannel

The trim appearance of these natty blouses, at once suggests their perfect adaptability for all occasions when a neat shirt waist is required.

The fine French flannel of which they are made is a fabric beautifully soft and warm, and comes in different colours the garment being finished with long sleeves and double cuffs, while the collar is also double and of medium height. A smart style touch is added in the way of the drop shoulder, and one must admit that a more seasonable, more serviceable blouse would be hard to produce. Prices are

Bungalow Net Curtains

Are a Charming Setting for Any Window

It may be in a mansion, or it may be in a cottage, but wherever it is, a window can make or mar the good looks of a home both from the outside and from within.

And besides, there's something more in the attractiveness of a bright, neatly curtained window, for it expresses one's taste and is the only furnishment in the home that is in constant view of the passers by. Then speaking about net curtains, one cannot deny that they always add charm to every window in the house, and are particularly suited to the bedroom windows.

They are procurable in all widths from 30 to 54 inches, some being plain, some just edged, and some edged and bordered too.

In heavy Bisge pattern there are small net designs, while there is a host of floral and conventional effects, making in all a range of choice, designed to meet everyone's need and fancy. The prices are

And seeing that it is an absolute necessity to be warm if one wants to sleep, the question of bed coverings is of vast importance during the cold weather.

Some folks depend upon a hot water bottle, or a humble flat iron, to lull them to sleep with its grateful warmth; but what could feel better and look better than a handsome, downy "Maish" comfort?

PERSIAN LAMB FOR ISLAND PROVINCE

Prince Edward Island to Add Persian Lamb Fur Farming to Fox Fur Farming—A Subject of Great Economic Interest to Ontario

There passed through Toronto on Tuesday last on their way to Prince Edward Island, from the State of Idaho, a shipment of 318 Lincoln sheep, which will be used in extending the nw famous fur-farming industry of the island Province. The shipment was in charge of Mr. J. Walter Jones, B.S.A., of Carlottetown, whose report to the Conservation Commission on fur-farming in Canada, has made him a recognised authority on the breeding and raising of fur-bearing animals in captivity.

Mr. Jones, in an interview with the Globe, outlined the basis of the most recent, and what seems likely to be, the most lucrative phase of the fur-farming industry in Prince Edward Island. "It is that of raising Persian lamb," stated Mr. Jones. "We have now on a farm near Charlottetowne herd of eleven pure-bred Karakule sheep which were brought over from the desert of Bokhara to us last spring. These animals are used in their native country to produce Persian lamb, Astrachan, Krimmer and Broadtail, or baby lamb fur. These different kinds of fur come from the offspring of the Karakule sheep, the very best Persian lamb fur being secured from the young animal as soon after birth as possible.

Shipping Pelts Next Year.

"I have just been at Chicago, where I met a shipment of 350 Lincoln sheep, purchased by a nw company, of which I am the Secrtary, from ex-Governor Gooding of Idaho." "These Lincolns," explained Mr. Jones, "will be used on our farm to cross with our thoroughbred Karakule stock, and we expect that early next year we shall be supplying pelts to the London markets." "Government tests in the United States, where he first herd of these foreign sheep were brought in 1906 by Dr. C. C. Young, the eminent Russian experimentalist, with the cooperation of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, show that Karakule sheep when crossed with English long-wool breeds, such as Lincolns, Cotswolds, or Highland Black Faces, will produce skins valued at from $6 to $13 each in wholesale lots of 160 to 200 skins per lot."

May Get Texas Herd.

According to Mr. Jones, the prospects of the Persian lamb fur industry in his Province are exceedingly bright. Dr. Young, who has been conducting his experiments since 1906 in Texas, with the only other herd of pure-bred Karakules which was brought to America from Bokhara, is interested in the new Prince Edward Island company, and will shortly take up his residence in Charlottetown. Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of Dr. Young's herd of sheep from the Middle Water Cattle Company of Texas, and if this supply can be added to that now owned in Prince Edward Island, Canada will have within the confines of its baby Province the sole source of supply for the Karakule sheep business in America. Any few scattered remnants of Dr. Young's original herd, which were sold in a couple of the States adjoining Texas, will be bound by blood lines, in the case of the future extension of the industry across the line, to Prince Edward Island.

Millions for Fur Pelts.

Mr. Jones points out that America has been paying out every year for a considerable period, some $14,000,000 for the fur pelts of the Persian lamb, which he explains, by the way, is not a product of the Persian sheep. "Persian lamb" is merely a commercial term established by furriers, and that fur is really produced from the Karakule sheep khich are found in greatest abundance on the Bokhara desert, north of Persia.

First Lord of the Admiralty as a "Horse Marine"—This is one of the latest pictures of Right Hon. Winston Churchill and his wife. Those who saw Churchill on his visit to Canada, some years ago, will remember him as a well-dressed, well set-up young fellow. Just now the tailors of Old London are commenting on the First Lord's careless dressing. They intimate that it affects their business. Mr. Churchill is more rotund and less adaptable to good clothes than he used to be. Mrs. Churchill is a clever horse-woman.

Cattle Drovers Are Being Sued

A peculiar case has come to light among the cattle drovers of the north part of Victoria County through the financial difficulties of an old-established commission firm of West Toronto Junction. It seems three well-known drovers of Haliburton and Kinmount bought a large number of cattle for the Toronto firm before the tangle arose and had them shipped to Toronto. They were given cheques for the money. At a branch bank near the stockyards they exchanged the firm's cheques for the special drovers' cheques issued by the bank and which are as good as the money. These latter were cashed for currency at banks in Victoria County.

In the meantime the commission brokers got into deep water financially, and when the Toronto bank presented the firm's cheque at the firm's own bank there were no funds to pay it, and they were returned.

Thed rovers had been given the guaranteed drover's certificate for it and had received their money thereby.

The bank that issued the drover's certificate is now suing them for the return of the money as that bank will be the loser for guaranteeing the amount before making certain of the daily balance of the brokers, who heretofore have had good financial standing.

One Kinmount man is being sued for the return of over $1,000, and two other drovers of Kinmount and Haliburton for $1,100.

SANITARY INSPECTOR ON SANITARY CONDITIONS

knowingly allows such conditions to continue has an awful responsibility. I assert it is nothing less than a criminal act to endanger the lives of innocent children and ignorant adults by forcing them to live under such conditions. And yet by forcing improvements to be made by the landlord we are imposing hardships on the tenants in many cases and putting money into the landlord's pocket.

Disposal of House Refuse.

The great principle to keep in view, continued the speaker, is the satisfactory disposal of house refuse, also the immediate and thorough removal of all fluid refuse and the retarding of decomposition in all solid refuse until it can be completely removed. Putrefaction is in all cases the result of an attack upon dead organic matter by minute living germs or bacteria ever present in the air. The process is really fermentation. Under favourable conditions these germs multiply with enormous rapidity causing obnoxious odours and gases to contaminate the atmosphere. This alone must seriously affect the health of the inhabitants, and if it is not directly responsible for the production of disease there is not question but that it greatly favours the extension of diseases of the infectious class. Warmth and moisture are the great agents that encourage putrefaction, and for this reason it is essential that all refuse matter while it remains on the premises should be kept dry and not exposed to the sun or heat, hence the important place the garbage can occupies or should occupy in our sanitary household arrangements.

Garbage Collection.

One of the best things this city ever undertook in the interests of the public health was the installation of a garbage collecting system, and though there is much room for improvement in the modus operandi it on the whole is a benefit to the community. At its inception I stated that such a system would not be entirely satisfactory unless it was undertaken by the Council, and not let by contract. I shall stand by that assertion, and I think my statement is justified. What I consider an ideal system would be conducted on the following lines. Each house should be provided with a galvanized iron receptacle, where every kind of refuse would be deposited. To eliminate as far as possible the danger of putrefaction all food refuse should be wrapped in paper. In large houses or hotels where the garbage can would not be big enough, a properly constructed ash-pit would be built. All this would be collected by the City Council's own men in properly constructed garbage waggons. The men would be supplied with some disinfectant which they could sprinkle into the receptacle after emptying. That is the system I advocate and shall work for if I continue to hold this position.

Other Problems.

Another outstanding problem in the sanitary condition is the state of our back lanes and yards.

These conditions can be improved by education.

People must be taught that good conduct, personal cleanliness, and the avoidance of all excesses are the first principles of health preservation.

Promulgate a spirit of civic patriotism in the place of the spirit of "I don't have to," that is so prevalent, said Mr. Spence in conclusion.

This Leaves the Skin Smooth and Hairless

(Boudoir Secrets)

The electric needle for removing hairy or fuzzy growths is fast falling into disfavour among beauty specialists, because quicker and better results are obtained with the aid of a paste made by stirring together a little powdered delatone and water. This is applied on the hairs not wanted and in 3 minutes rubbed off, and with it comes every trace of hair. The skin should then be washed to remove the remaining paste and it will be left smooth and spotless. Buy delatone in original packages only.

"First Aid" To The Injured

A demonstration in "first aid work" will be given by Mr. G. R. Collins, a member of the St. John's Ambulance Society one week from to-morrow night. Through the courtesy of the Y.M.C.A. officials a room has been secured at the institution wherein to conduct the work. It is altogether probable that His Worship Mayor Bradburn will be in attendance and will occupy the chair. Several employees of labour have signified their desire to be present. Some thirty-five or forty names of prospective members have been handed in to Mr. Andrew Forrest, 328 Downie Street, Secretary of the Organization. Many more are expected. The public ar invited to attend the meeting, which will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening, Oct. 31st.

"THE QUAKER GIRL"

"The Quaker Girl"—she of the lilting song and the graceful dance is coming to the Grand at an early date to tell in a burst of song the tale of her trials and triumphs, her piques and relentings. It is a story of love and romance, seductively charming, embellished with coaxing melody and contagious comedy. The success that has attended the career of this musical comedy has amazed even the most optimistic. It has been endorsed in London where it ran for two years at the Gaiety and Adelphi theatres, one year in Paris, one year in Australia, one year at the Park Theatre, New York, and is now making a limited tour of the United States and Canada, where it is being greeted by capacity houses. There is only one company presenting the piece this season and that is the original No. 1 company, which is headed by Victor Morley, and includes Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, Dixie Gerard, William Blaisdell, Mlle. Corday, Connie Mack, Gladys Parsons, Murray Stephen, Phil. J. Moore and Adelaide Folger. The chorus and ballet are features of the performance, and include some stunning young women. A special orchestra is also a feature.

If cake is put in too slow an oven, it rises over sides of pan and is coarse in texture. If oven is too hot it browns before sufficiently risen, and in its attempt to rise breaks through the crust.

COUNTY TEACHERS' FIRST SESSION

Was Held at Normal School This Morning

The first session of the Teachers' Institute of Peterborough County was held in the Lecture Room of the Normal School with President Tremouth in the chair. After the minutes and correspondence had been read, the president gave an excellent address on "Education." This was followed by a discussion on "The Strathcona Trust," led by Mr. Andrews, of Havelock. After the report on "The Ontario Teachers' Alliance" was read, a discussion was held on the use of the School Manuals. Inspectors Broderick and Lees were both present.

GIANT FAN IS TO WEAR STRAW HAT ALL WINTER

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 23.—The burgh has one ardent admirer of the New York Giants, and just to prove it he is obliged to wear a straw hat all the coming winter, zero weather not excluded. As a way of showing how far his loyalty reached, George Hennessey bet a friend that in the event McGraw's aggregation could not outdo the Athletics he would wear a straw hat for one year, dating from to-day.

Hennessey was the object of much curiosity when he appeared on the streets to-day wearing his straw hat.

Gen. Booth's Plans Changed.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Gen. Bramwell Booth has changed his plans, and instead of sailing on the Imperator to-day will sail on the Lusitania on Saturday.

Commissioner Lawley sailed on the Baltic last week to make final preparations. Col. Kitchener, private secretary, is the only officer accompanying the general, who reaches Toronto on Nov. 1, and remains till Nov. 6, and then goes to Winnipeg till the 11th, afterwards proceeding to the United States. Several officers' councils will be held both in Toronto and Winnipeg.

More Domestics Needed.

Canada has not enough of the right kind of women and the old country supplies are not coming fast enough, that is the conclusion arrived at by J. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration.

Walker says that this is a most extraordinary fact when one takes into consideration that women get better wages here, have better homes and owing to their scarcity for domestic service, receive more consideration than in the old country. Canada at least does her best to remedy the defect.

By far the greater number of women immigrants are Scotch. "However," added Mr. Walker, "nationality has nothing whatever to do with the question. It is character that counts." The second largest supply of single women for Canada comes from England. Ireland is third, but sends very few through to the west. Most of the Irish women go to the United States, where so many of the blood are settled.

Mr. Walker makes the emphatic statement that 99 per cent. of immigrant women to Canada make good here, and others fail simply because they will not adopt themselves to the circumstances here.

South American Oil Bird.

One of the animal curiosities of South America is the "oil bird," or guacharo. It breeds in rocky caves on the mainland, and one of its favorite haunts is the island of Trinidad. It lays its eggs in a nest made of mud and the young birds are prodigious in fat. The natives melt the fat down in clay pots and produce from it a kind of butter. The caves inhabited by the birds are usually accessible only from the sea, and the hunting of them is considered an exciting sport.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has been so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.35 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

You will probably see irregularity in the stock market to-morrow with cross currents. The recovery has been extensive and hesitancy would not be surprising with higher prices assured. On declines would buy the good rails for turns taking profits on the major portion of holdings for the present when the market advances reasonably. We think the steel stock are likely to be hammered at from time to time until the readjustment is completed in that department. On the other hand the copper shares are in so strong a position that they might well be bought on reactions. The Railroad stock showing good margins of safety over earnings may be confidently bought on recessions. We think the tractions may be taken up soon. To-day there was a little spirit of bullish activity, but it sold off a little. Large interests thought the market might not for a time and probably sag a little before resuming its advance.

Health and Beauty Aids

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Quinivere: Yes, you can overcome the results of the careless treatment of your hair which has commenced to destroy its natural beauty and cause it to grow dull, "grimpy," brittle and fall out. I shampoo occasionally by using a teaspoonful cantharox dissolved in a cup hot water. This greatly invigorates the scalp tissues and hair roots and produces a healthy condition in both, insuring a beautiful growth of even-coloured, lustrous, fluffy hair. I have found cantharox shampoo is extremely soothing to tender, itchy scalps and allows the hair to dry very quickly.

Lotta M.: Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment for hairy growths: Mix a thick paste with some powdered coalstone and water. Apply to hairs not wanted and in two or three minutes rub off and the skin will be smooth and hairless. Then wash the skin to remove the remaining coalstone.

Darling: Yes, it is true that fat always destroys the beautiful lines of the figure, but if you do as I have before advised in these columns, you can get rid of the fat and your form will be plump and beautifully proportioned. In one cup hot-as-you-can-drink hot water dissolve four ounces parmint tablets. Let this cool, then take one tablespoonful before each meal. This treatment produces no wrinkles, for future ill effects and gradually destroys the unnecessary fatty tissues. Try this parmint treatment and you will either have any reason to feel embarrassed because of your shape.

Pearl: You girls were right when you decided that fine powder clogs the pores, even though most is blown off the skin and leaves a spotted effect. You can avoid this annoyance and make a softer, healthier, finer complexion if you apply a squirrax lotion. This is quite inexpensive and is prepared by dissolving four ounces glycerine in one-half pint witch hazel or hot water, to which is added two teaspoonfuls glycerine. The squirrax lotion is invisible when on and requires no further attention. You will find it especially nice to banish summer's freckles and tan and the sallow, unhealthy cast of powder-smothered skin and to give a delightful freshness and youth-tint to your skin.

Johanna: Yes, you have a good reason to feel alarmed about your hair. But you can remove the dandruff and overcome that dryness without paying a large sum to a hair specialist. Just make up and use the quinsain hair tonic I frequently advise and it will put the scalp in a healthy condition and your hair will grow in thick and beautiful. Here is the recipe: Into one-half pint alcohol pour one ounce quinsain, then to this add one-half pint water. This gives you a full pint of the finest hair tonic and I know its use will insure a clean, healthy scalp and a wealth of brilliant, fluffy hair.

Dull Eyes: I had been told that so many doctors use a plain eyewash solution for minor eye troubles that I tried it and found that for sore, tired, aching or blood-shot eyes this simple tonic works wonders. It is one of those inexpensive home remedies that should be convenient to hand for use in emergency foreign parties and to reduce inflammation. To prepare, dissolve one ounce crystos in one pint clear water, then put two or three drops in the eye as required. This crystos eye tonic is fine for giving a sparkle and youthful expression to the eyes.

Mrs. L.: For years I have avoided wrinkles by protecting my skin against that too-ready tendency to show what you describe. Besides, I escaped the dubbiness which would have gradually wrinkled my skin by using this wrinkle remover which a friend suggested. Get an ounce of timocoin, dissolve in one-half pint water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine, stir and let stand one day. At low cost, this makes a perfect wrinkle remover in the form of a protecting and stimulating cream-jelly. It is a pleasant thing to use and most delightfully beautifying in results. Use it freely, both before and after exposure to cold winds. It will not grow hair but will act as a preventive of the loose sagginess which makes wrinkles.

Dora: For your pimples and tiredness I am giving the formula for the best blood tonic I know. It is the best because it acts on the liver and kidneys and, as you say, your are troubled with sores and constant headaches it is an indication that your kidneys and blood need attention. To prepare, put one ounce sarbos into one half pint alcohol. Tablets should not be used; then add one-half pound sugar and hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before meals is the dose. This sarbos tonic gently expels poisonous waste from the body and tones up the internal organs so they can do their work well.

In Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24. — Dr. James E. Crichton, health officer of Seattle, said yesterday the bubonic plague rat situation in Seattle was serious, but that the health department hoped to prevent an outbreak of the disease.

"Not for six years," he said, "has there been a case of bubonic plague in a human being in Seattle. In those six years we have found twenty-four plague rats. A considerable number were taken during the plague outbreak six years ago, and recently seven were killed in a section of the waterfront which has been thoroughly isolated."

"Movie" Actor Comes to Grief in Niagara Whirlpool

BIG CROWDS SAW PLIGHT

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Oct. 24—Over four hours in the grasp of the Whirlpool in a small motor boat, Peter W. Langaard of Detroit was rescued at eight o'clock last night, more dead than alive. He was taken to an hotel on the Canadian side, where it was said he would be all right in twenty-four hours, although his nerves were badly shaken by the ordeal through which he passed.

Langaard made the trip through the Whirlpool Rapids from the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side of the Whirlpool to furnish a subject for a moving picture film. The trip had been made several times before without mishap.

Langaard navigated the rapids safely, but when he swung into the Whirlpool driftwood clogged the propeller of his boat and he was powerless to bring the craft out of the centre of the vortex. For nearly three hours he endeavored to clear the propeller by leaning over the stern of the boat, but the driftwood was so tightly jammed between the flanges and the hull that he could not remove it, and the careening of the boat when it was sucked into the very centre of the whirlpool made it necessary for him to devote nearly all his efforts to keep it from overturning.

When darkness closed in over the gorge headlights were taken from trolley cars along Canadian side, and in their dim rays the crowd watched Langaard fight for life. In the meantime the fire department from Niagara Falls, Ont., had been summoned and several unsuccessful efforts were made by the firemen to send out a rope attached to a float. Shortly before eight o'clock Fred. Preston of Niagara Falls, Ont., volunteered to swim out with a life line attached to his waist.

Langaard by this time was exhausted and lay still in the bottom of the boat, which bobbed around in the vortex like a cork.

The crowd, that numbering nearly 1,000, cheered when Preston struck out for the rescue. Half way out his life line became entangled in driftwood, and he was compelled to return to shore. On the second attempt he reached the side of the boat. He was afraid to climb into the craft, which then was half-filled with water. Clinging to the side of the boat, he called out to the rescuers on shore to pull.

Aided by instructions called out by Preston, the boat was finally manoeuvred out of the danger zone and was slowly drawn ashore. Preston was given a great ovation by the crowd.

THREE GOT AWAY.

The Fourth of Stefansson's Ships Is Caught In Ice.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—Capt. John Backland, a whaler, who left Point Barrow, Alaska, Sept. 1 and arrived here yesterday, reported that in August three of Vilhjalmar Stefansson's exploring ships—the whalers Karluk and Belvedere and the steam schooner Mary Sachs—struck a lead in the ice east of Point Barrow and steamed away northeastward.

Stefansson's fourth vessel, the Alaska, found shelter in a lagoon east of Point Barrow, but on Sept. 1 it was frozen in the ice and had drifted five miles from the lagoon. However, the ice pack was solid, and if the vessel were crushed its men could easily have reached shore.

GRANT IS FORFEITED.

Ottawa Separate School Board Is Refused Government Aid.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—The stand taken by the Ottawa Separate School Board in regard to the bilingual question resulted yesterday in the board being notified by the Department of Education that owing to the fact that there has been no report from the inspector of schools for the last school year that the separate schools of Ottawa were conducted according to the school act and regulations, all grants due for the current fiscal year have been forfeited. The attention of the board is called in the communication to section 107 of the regulations, which states 'that the trustees of every school shall be held personally responsible for the amount of any school monies forfeited by or lost to the board in consequence of neglect of duty. This means that an amount of money equal to the Government grants may have to be made up by the members of the board themselves. It is understood that a special meeting of the board will be called to consider this communication.

The trouble appears to be over the question of the enforcement of rule 17 relating to the teaching of French. At a meeting held a short time ago a resolution was passed by the Ottawa Separate School Board declining to enforce the instruction contained in this rule. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to the Ontario Department of Education, and the sequel lies in the notification received by the board this morning. Some interesting developments are likely to follow.

NOMINATIONS MADE.

R. E. Truax and W. D. Cargill Running In S. Bruce.

WALKERTON, Oct. 24.—At the conclusion of the formal nominations in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon of Mr. W. D. Cargill as Conservative candidate and Mr. R. E. Truax, Liberal candidate, in the bye-election in South Bruce, Mr. Cargill spoke first and was followed by Mr. Truax.

On the record of the Government Mr. Cargill asked for the support of the electors. The extension of the rural mail delivery system and the parcel post system, which is to be introduced at the first of the year, were pointed out as features of the Government program which must appeal to the farmers.

Mr. Truax, in his speech, declared that Conservative members of Parliament were traversing the roads and back lanes securing votes by doubtful methods instead of coming out openly on the public platform.

Hon. Mr. Meighen, Solicitor-General, and Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M.P. for South Wellington, also spoke.

All Committed Atrocities.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Troops of all the Balkan countries committed atrocities, according to a report of an investigating committee just made.

While it was found that the Bulgarians had committed the greatest faults, the soldiery of other nations taking part in the war were also guilty of many hideous acts. The committeemen appear to be of the opinion that, had other belligerents been roused to such a pitch of fury as were the Bulgarians, they would not have acted much better, judging from what happened on certain occasions and by letters captured from Greek soldiers.

Sees Babe Burned; Kills Herself.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 24.—An unusual tragedy occurred in this city yesterday. Mary, the three-year-old daughter of Mrs. John Most, was playing with matches when her clothing caught fire. The mother heard the little one's cries and went to her assistance. The daughter, however, died in a short time from burns. The mother became frantic and rushing to her room, procured a revolver and standing in front of a mirror shot herself through the head, dying almost instantly.

RIOTERS PUNISHED

Nanaimo Strike Sympathizers Must Go to Jail

TWO YEARS THE MAXIMUM

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24. — Judge Harvey passed sentence yesterday on more than two score Nanaimo rioters. The maximum sentence was two years. Many union officers will spend the next year in jail.

Three men and two boys were sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary, twenty-three were given imprisonment for one year and fined $100 each, and eleven were sent to jail for three months and will have to pay a fine of $50 each. All sentences date from the time of arrest. This means that those sentenced to serve three months will be liberated in about thirty days' time.

Those sentenced to serve two years are: J. J. Taylor, vice-president of the British Columbia Federation of Labor and vice-president of the Ladysmith local of the United Mine Workers of America; Samuel Guthrie, president of the Ladysmith Union; Paul Heacenniak, a leader, and two boys, John Morgan, son of a prominent mine foreman, who was also given a jail term, and William Simpson, jr., son of a mine contractor.

Taylor and Guthrie pleaded guilty to having taken part in the disturbances, and gave as their excuse that they headed processions of the union miners which led to disturbing the peace.

A sentence of one year in jail and $100 fine was imposed upon John Allsopp, J. H. Armstrong, Carl Axelson, E. F. Caugman, William Baul, George Baul, George Baumgartner, Sam Brightman, James Colley, Robt. Castar, Peter Kluska, H. H. Langdon, Duncan Mackenzie (secretary of the Ladysmith Union), Joseph Mairs, jr., James Marshall, Charles Mortimer, Steve Merus, Steve Puyanich, George Porter, William Stackhouse (formerly a lieutenant in the United States army, and a prominent business man of Ladysmith), Martin Stogar, James Wallace, Robert Walkinshaw and Charles Yogle.

DRINKING WATER DIRTY.

Experts Call Railroad's Supply Diluted Sewage.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. — One great railroad system has been furnishing drinking water to its passengers, which the experts of the public health service have pronounced after examination, to be nothing less than diluted sewage.

Surgeon-General Blue yesterday reported to Assistant Secretary Newton, of the Treasury Department that an investigation disclosed that a railroad company has been filling the water-tanks of its passenger coaches at a supply 300 yards down stream from the outlet of a large eastern city. An examination disclosed more than 50,000 bacteria in each teaspoonful of water. The investigators reported that the water was "turbid," had a "pronounced taste" and was "grossly polluted."

Pending the outcome of a notice to the railroad company to change its source of supply officials have withheld the name of the line.

Cabinet Crisis In Spain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A cable from Madrid says: Both in Government and political circles it is admitted that the situation has never been quite so complicated as at present. The King arrived Wednesday from Biarritz, where he underwent a slight operation, and had a long conference with Premier Romanones.

It is currently believed that a Cabinet crisis will certainly supervene before the end of the week, the efforts made by the King having failed to reconcile the factions of the Liberal party. What the solution will be even the most experienced politicians fail to foresee.

Storm In Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24.—A terrific storm, that is reported to have taken at least nine lives, injured almost half a hundred persons, and done great property damage, swept over a narrow strip of southern Louisiana early yesterday.

Two million dollars will be expended by the Alberta Government in telephone extension work next year, according to the statement made in the House by the Premier.

Striking copper miners in the Calumet, Mich., district attacked deputy sheriffs yesterday while workmen were going to the mines. Ed. Beaudoin, a deputy, was seriously stabbed.

The contract has been let for the construction of a Government experimental cold storage plant at Grimsby. The plant will cost $25,000 and will have a capacity of 50,000 cubic feet.

The French Minister to Mexico was instructed yesterday to protest energetically against the augmentation of fifty per cent. in the duties on foreign products imposed by the Mexican Government.

Premier Borden proceeded to St. Malo, Que., yesterday, where he laid the corner-stone of the new Transcontinental Railway workshops and later he laid the corner-stone of the River St. Charles' locks.

Four Millions For Cornell.

ITHACA, N.Y., Oct. 24.—A gift of approximately $4,000,000 to Cornell University Medical College was announced yesterday on behalf of the board of trustees. Another Stork Episode.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — News has reached the British royal family that the Czarina of Russia is again expecting the stork. Special importance attaches to the event owing to the continued rumors of the ill-health of the czarowitch, who, according to a recent report, can only live a few months.

Clean Within!
Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills
Purify the Blood and Prolong Life

Vigorous health at 70 due to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

If as much intelligent care were given to keeping the body clean and pure within as well as without we would see more healthy, vigorous old men and women. The daily bath does its part by keeping the pores of the skin open so that they throw off much of the body's impurities, but it is even more important that the bowels and kidneys should be kept regular and active.

If the bowels fail, as they often do late in life, to move regularly at least once a day, the waste matter from the food accumulates, decays, poisons the system and upsets the stomach.

If the kidneys are sluggish the impurities which they should filter from the blood remain and cause rheumatism.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills regulate the bowels, stimulate the kidneys and open up the pores of the skin. The result is a body clean within—pure, red blood—good digestion—and a hale and hearty old age.

Three generations have proved the value of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, and their sale is steadily increasing all over the world.

OUTLOOK IS GRAVE

Mexican Situation Causes Pessimism at Washington

DIAZ IN FEAR OF ARREST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—An atmosphere of gravity sombre silence enveloped the Mexican situation here last night, not only with regard to the dissatisfaction of the United States at Great Britain's attitude but as to the critical state of affairs in Mexico City as the election of Oct. 26 draws near.

There were no tangible developments, but an incident of the day which official Washington interpreted as ominous was President Wilson's flat refusal to discuss Mexico or any phases of the problem when he met the Washington correspondents in their usual semi-weekly conference.

Secretary Bryan showed equal reticence. The conclusion drawn generally was that a crisis was slowly approaching, that the arrival of Gen. Felix Diaz appeared to complicate internal affairs in Mexico, and that stern measures by the Washington Government would not be surprising.

It became apparent in well-informed quarters that Great Britain's failure to repudiate the action of Sir Lionel Gardiner, British Minister to Mexico, who presented his credentials immediately after Huerta proclaimed his dictatorship, has caused administration officials to feel that they could no longer depend on the help of England in solving the Mexican problem.

The officials do not discuss the British attitude in any way. Persons close to the administration say the policy of Great Britain has created an embarrassing situation here, with an ever-increasing tension. It is not likely that Ambassador Page and the British Foreign Office will discuss Mexico until after the elections of Oct. 26, as Sir Edward Grey was reported as intimating that he would not bind the British Government to any policy until after these elections.

Diaz Keeps Out of Sight.

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 24.—Gen. Felix Diaz, who arrived here Wednesday on the steamer Corcovado and went soon after landing to the home of his mother-in-law, and has remained there ever since. He, so far, has escaped arrest, but his friends believe that if he appears in the streets of Vera Cruz he will be taken into custody by President Huerta's forces. Detectives and police are watching the house and all plans formulated by Gen. Diaz regarding a visit to the capital appear to have been abandoned. It is considered probable that Gen. Diaz will take refuge in one of the consulates. He conferred for several hours yesterday with several of his intimate friends while others remained outside the house, eyeing the Huerta guards and talking resistance if the police or military authorities attempted to serve an order of arrest.

Diaz insists that he will not flee the country and is still reluctant to believe that the Huerta-Blanquet ticket has official sanction, although he admits that the wide distribution of the announcement of what is commonly regarded as the official candidacy, renders other tickets impossible.

This was the anniversary of the recapture of Vera Cruz by the Federals, after the Diaz revolt, when Gen. Diaz and his entire staff were made prisoners.

The Vera Cruz authorities deny the receipt of an order for the arrest of Gen. Diaz, but the assurance is not sufficient to cause the general to venture from the house into the street.

The gunboat Zaragoza last yesterday received a bill of health and it is reported will sail with five passengers. It is supposed that these five are the officers who were arrested for failure to obey the orders to remain in Havana. They are now confined in the island prison of San Juan de Uluca. The civilians arrested on Wednesday have been released.

Awaiting Diaz at Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Several hundred adherents of Gen. Felix Diaz waited two hours at the railroad station yesterday for the arrival of their leader, whose coming from Vera Cruz had been announced in the morning newspapers. In spite of the advice given by the organ of the Diaz party that no demonstration be attempted, the general's followers had prepared to give him an ovation.

It is now expected that Gen. Diaz will arrive at the capital to-day, though his movements appear to be uncertain.

Want License Act Amended.

INGERSOLL, Ont., Oct. 24.—At a meeting of the South Oxford Prohibitive Association, held here yesterday afternoon a resolution was passed memorializing the Provincial Government to so amend the license act that unlicensed municipalities would be given the same protection as those which had passed the local option law.

Ingersoll is surrounded by unlicensed territory and such an amendment would be much of a protection to them.

A. G. Rodgers Dead.

BUFFALO, Oct. 24.—A. G. Rodgers, formerly of Toronto, and superintendent of carborundum plant in Niagara Falls, died shortly before noon yesterday at his home on Jefferson avenue and Ninth street. BARGE CEYLON LOST.

Montreal Transportation Company's Freighter Founders.

KINGSTON, Oct. 24.—A costly wreck resultant occurred about fifty miles from here yesterday, but prompt action saved the lives of the sailors.

In yesterday's storm the barge Ceylon, with wheat from Port Colborne to Montreal foundered off Long Point, Lake Ontario. Her crew were saved.

The Ceylon, accompanied by the Burma, both in tow of the tug Bartlett, was returning from Port Colborne with grain for Montreal and struck the heavy sea that prevailed in Lake Ontario Wednesday night. The storm, increasing in violence, gradually worked the hatches off and the crew were unable to keep them down, with the result that the barge gradually filled with water, and the pressure of wet grain sprung some planks, causing her to settle in the water.

Capt. Siddell saw the precarious condition of the vessel and signalled the Bartlett with the distress torch whistle. The Bartlett put about and came alongside, so that the crew of the Ceylon were able to step on board. Great credit is due Capt. A. Lepine, jr., for bravery in turning in the raging sea and taking chances of having his tug damaged against the barge.

The tug then proceeded to Timber Island and an examination was made of the Burma. It was found that she had shipped some water, but she was pumped out and arrived here about noon in tow of the Bartlett.

The Ceylon sank within an hour after being abandoned and the shore is strewn with her wreckage, consisting of pieces of spars, cabin, etc. The crew are Kingstonians, and are as follows: Capt. R. Siddell; Phelix Campan, mate; Miss A. Milford, cook; John Gallagher, Geo. Streckbridge and Harry Fubnell, seamen.

Heaviness of Platinum

Platinum is the heaviest commercial metal known. Its specific gravity is 21.5, as compared with 19.26 for pure gold and 10.53 for silver. Briefly, platinum is 21½ times as heavy as water, more than twice the weight of silver and heavier, bulk for bulk, than pure gold. It is softer than iron, but somewhat harder than copper.

"THE MEDIATOR"

By ROY NORTON

For the first time in weeks he prepared his own supper, and ate it alone. Stubborn as he was, he had to admit it was lonesome again, and his sense of outrage dissipated itself by the time he had shoved the table back against the wall and walked to the bench outside for his evening smoke. He began to be curious as to where Lish had betaken himself, and decided to walk up the gulch to the claim above. He trudged away in the early gloom of the evening to the bend of the road, entered the cut off which trailed through the heavy timber where it was quite dark, and emerged above the prospect holes that had been sunk by his erst-while companion. He stooped and emitted a soft exclamation.

Down below him was a worn tent, well lighted by candles inside, and two shadows were thrown through its wall in distorted shape; but they were plainly those of a man bare-headed and a burro with very long ears, and now, straining his eyes, he could see that another ray, old burro was standing with his head inside the tent fly, and calmly watching the scene.

Mr. Smith turned angrily and tramped back, cursing in time to his footsteps.

"Well, if he'd rather associate with a mule than me, he's blamed good and welcome!" he remarked audibly, as he swung in toward his own cabin. "There ain't no accountin' for tastes."

On the following morning, however, Channel appeared to have business up at the head of the creek. He passed along the bank where Lish was energetically toiling away in a trench, and the latter looked up at him.

"Good-mornin', Mister Henley," said the Forty-niner, with a great assumption of dignity.

"Good mornin', Mister Smith," the prospector answered.

The one did not stop walking nor the other working; but Lish looked up with a grin as the bent, old back disappeared in the bend above.

"Poor, old cuss!" he said, with commiseration. "I s'pose I orter be ashamed of myself goin' off that way. He's sure too old to be left alone to do all the work; but I couldn't go back on Jack."

He stood for a full minute as if thinking of something, then climbed out of the trench, grumbling, and went back to his tent, where he picked up his axe from a log in front, threw it over his shoulder, and started down the trail.

"It just does seem as if everywhere I go, I got to do somethin' I don't want to!" he mourned, as he came in front of the cabin that had so lately been his domicile. He sighted something looking at him, with due caution, from around the end of that homely shack, and opened his mouth in astonishment. It proved to be a pair of long ears and a burros face, with just a part of one eye peering at him. He made an angry dash at it and shouted, "You Jack! Git home! Go on up the gulch!" He waved his arm, indicating the direction, gathered a small stone, and threw it with quick precision.

Jack, who was already on his way, kicked as the rock caught him on the ribs, and tore madly off toward the tent. Then, still grumbling, Lish fell upon a log with his axe and worked with determined haste to accumulate firewood. The wood fell around him in a scattred pile, and this he collected and heaped carefully up with the small stack outside the cabin.

"That'll run the poor old son of a gun for a couple or three days!" he declared, and then, as if ashamed of his philanthropy, avoided the trail, and took a roundabout course for the claim above. And Channel Smith, doddering down the gulch, past the prospector's trenches, wondered where that gentleman could have gone to spend the afternoon.

On the following day Channel came to the claim above,—just to see how the work was getlin' on—and said he hoped Lish was "right comfortable." He expressed great solicitude, however, as to whether the tent would shed rain later in the season. The next day's advances were more open, Channel arriving at the tent just in time to be invited in to partake of pork and beans. He stayed quite late that evening, and departed with obvious regret. On the next day he got around in time for breakfast, disappeared for the noon meal, and cheerfully poked his head through the tent fly in time for supper. Lish watched him good-naturedly from the corner of his eye; but made no comment.

"To-morrer," said Channel, "I think you'd better lay off work in the afternoon. I'll let you come with me over to the Canady Hill. Its pie day."

Lish accepted with alacrity, for reasons known to himself. And it was with the same alacrity, as it assured of his welcome, that he walked into the mess-house of the Canada Hill Mine when the hour came for the quest of pies.

"Channel, he asked me to come, Mrs. Higgins," he said, cheerfully depositing his hat on the floor. "Says I to Channel, 'Maybe that woman over there, havin' so many troubles of her own, won't want a feller like me stickin' his nose into the kitchen;' but Channel he says he knows you'd like to see me again, so I came over. And I'm right glad I'm here. Seems kind of homelike for all of us to be here with the smell of the cookin' around us, don't it, ma'am?"

Channel Smith, in the meantime, sat and stared at him in open-mouthed amazement. It was the first time he had heard of the conversation, and his wits were too slow to catch the broad wink that accompanied the speech.

"What on earth are you winkin' at me that way for, Lish Henley?" he burst out; but Mrs. Higgins, angrily intent on her work over the oven at the moment, lost the significance of the question and passed it over. For half an hour the prospector sat there, apparently unaware of Mrs. Higgins' animosity, devoting his conversation to Channel Smith and exploiting the beauties of Keswick, and abusing a man he knew up there, who bore the name of Bill.

He even had the effrontery to insist on shaking hands with Mrs. Higgins when they made their departure, and chuckled to himself on the homeward trail.

CHAPTER XII.

The Prospector Proposes.

It was Saturday afternoon, and the prospector made elaborate preparations. He puttered around his tent, blacking his boots, cleaning spots from his clothes, painstakingly pressing his necktie, and selecting divers articles of wearing apparel with which to bedeck himself. He packed his effects into a bag, and sauntered over to Jack, who was sleeping in the shade of a big tree, caught him by the mussle, and brought him to the tent, where he threw on a pack saddle to which he lashed his light burden. He tied the strings of the tent fly, gave a last look to be certain that the fire had died out of the camp stove, and jauntily started down the trail, with Jack following obediently behind.

Channel Smith looked up as he passed. "Where do you reckon you're goin' now?" he shouted.

"Down to Peaceful," was the response. "To-morrer's church day, and I said I'd be there. I ain't agoin' to miss no services. I've turned over a new leaf. Besides, I sort of like it. It gives me a chance to sing along with other folks, and I'm right tired of singin' alone."

The ancient gave a grunt of digust. "What you got in that there bag?"

"Duds."

"That's all?"

"Yep! That's all."

Lish kept moving down the gulch as the conversation progressed until he was out of earshot with his last remark, and out of sight in the twist of the trail. He smiled with a slow, humorous smile, and spoke to Jack. "I was afraid that cantankerous old cuss would want to come along," he said, "and out of deefsence to your dislikin' of him, am glad he didn't!"

But Jack, pretending to be terribly overworked, and staggering under the bundle of ten pounds' weight, did not answer. The prospector, apparently happy in his mind, whistled and sang, and walked so rapidly that now and then the burro had to trot to keep pace. The road was so little travelled that it seemed an isolation, and they met or passed no one as their journey progressed and the miles slipped behind them. It was not until they came to the open top of a little hill, wind-swept and bowlder-strewn, that Lish stopped for a breathing spell. Something in the burro's attitude attracted his attention, and he eyed the beast suspiciously for a moment.

"What's allin' you now?" he asked, and Jack tried to look unconcerned and very thoughtful.

Lish got on a little bowlder by the side of the road, and looked back. Just appearing where the trail emerged from the timber he saw something move, then halt. His eyebrows frowned for a moment, and then he laughed.

"So that's it, eh?" he again addressed Jack, and then called loudly: "Hey, you, Pete! Come here!" He followed this with a long series of coaxing whistles, and at last, from the woods, trotting forward, came Pete, who had refused to be left behind.

"It certainly does look to me," declared Lish, resuming his journey, "as if I have to take my whole blamed family with me no matter where I go. I reckon I'll have to corral 'em again to keep 'em from follerin' me plumb into the meetin'-house to-morrer."

But his annoyance was merely assumed, as he proved by petting the ancient Pete when, with confidence fully regained, that animal joined Jack at his heels. It was well into the evening when he corralled his animals at Peaceful Hill and took the bag on his shoulder and headed for the hotel, wondering whether he would be too late for the supper hours in that hostelry where dwelt the girl with red hair. Out in front was the usual crowd of evening loungers, which he ignored as he strode through to the desk. The clerk told him he was too late. He calmly explored the house in the direction that he thought would lead him to the kitchen, and, being a good explorer, came at last to his goal. He opened the door and poked his head through to discover Maggie talking to the Chinese cook. He lost no time in going through the rest of the way and shaking her hand.

"Say, Maggie," he opened, "I've come a right long way to 'tend the meetin' to-morrer. I was afraid you'd miss me."

"Miss you?" she laughed. "Miss you! What for, I'd like to know?"

He assumed a very hurt air, and leaned weakly against the door jamb. "I'd talk to you about that," he said, "if I wa'n't so weak. You see, the grub was gettin' mighty short up there at the claim, and I've been workin' so hard, that this long walk down here has kind of taken all the tucker out of me. I'm afraid I'll have to go now and rustle some cheese, and crackers, and sardines, before I'll have my strength back."

"Rustle some cold stuff? You'll do nothing of the kind!" she asserted in angry haste. "You just sit right down on the porch out there, Lish Henley, and I'll get something for you right here, if the cook won't."

He did not dare smile until he was by himself in the duck of the porch, and then he grinned joyously as he heard the sound of sizzling ham and eggs inside.

"You better go into the dining-room to eat," Maggie called to him from the door.

"Would you mind if I ate out here?" he promptly returned "I'm sort of used to eatin' where the cookin' is. I've always been right partial to takin' my sustenance in the kitchen."

She turned and threw a tablecloth over the kitchen table and placed the food there for him, turning the reflector of a wall lamp downward, so that he might have the full benefit, and he walked in and washed himself under the faucet of the kitchen sink, and dried himself on the kitchen towel.

"Humph!" she asserted. "You certainly do have a faculty of making yourself at home. I never saw the beat of your nerve."

"Yep," he responded cheerfully. "I can sure feel comfortable and peaceful in any surroundin's where there's so much good society."

"Morning the chink, I suppose," she retorted.

He looked at the cook, who had calmly seated himself in the window sill, where he sat swinging his legs and dangling his embroidered slippers.

"Nope," was the laconic answer.

"And I also hope that you ain't too tired to go to bed?" went on the prospector.

"Me vellee well. Thlanks," replied the cook, with a grin of amusement.

Lish still looked at him suggestively; but the cook insisted on ignoring his palpable desire to be rid of him. The prospector then took a silver dollar from his pocket and flipped it toward his deftly opened fingers.

"Go play fan-tan with that," he said. "It ought to be your lucky night."

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why. Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

WOLVES AND BUFFALO

Extermination of Wood-Buffalo Threatened by Wolves

Investigations carried on by the Forestry Branch of the Dominion Government have proven conclusively that several large herds of wild buffalo are still to be found in the hilly country on the northern boundary of Alberta, in the neighborhood of the Slave River. A party working under the direction of A. J. Bell, the Government agent at Fort Smith, made a study of the habits, and obtained photographs of these buffalo, which are identical in appearance with the former buffalo of the plains, the remnants of which were forced to seek shelter in the timbered fastnesses of the north.

These wood-buffalo, when fully grown, are able to defend themselves against their natural enemies, but in the winter, before the young yearlings have attained full strength, they frequently fall victims to the timber-wolves. Bands of these wolves hover around the flanks of the buffalo herds as they pass in single file from one feeding-ground to another, waiting for the opportunity to cut off a young animal and drive it from the beaten trail into the deep snow, where it is unable either to escape or to defend itself.

Partly eaten carcasses were found by the investigating party, which clearly indicated that the wolves were the cause. These great timber-wolves are of large size, and are very numerous in this region, where they menace the existence, not only of the wood-buffalo, but of other game as well. The Dominion Government already offers a bounty of twenty dollars apiece for their destruction, but so sparsely inhabited is the region, and so clever are the wolves in avoiding traps, that the present bounty has had little effect in reducing their numbers. It is possible that the Dominion Government will raise the bounty here to forty dollars in the hope of ridding the regions of these pests and of preventing the extinction of the last wild bison in existence.

Why Their Clothes Didn't Fit.

The late Admiral Robley D. Evans during his visit to Japan was received by Mutsuhito and his empress at a court ceremony. In speaking of the Japanese court he said:

"Hand kissing was not the thing. Instead, I received a handshake from a very shapely and beautiful hand. I found the empress a woman of great refinement and perfect ease of manner, so delicate in appearance and so small in stature as to remind you of some fine piece of Dresden china. She was attired in a Paris gown of heliotrope brocade, the bad fit of which I accounted for just as I accounted for the baggy trousers of the emperor. After I had been a year in Japan I was satisfied it was owing to the fact that a tailor would not permit himself to touch the persons of their majesties, but just looked at them and guessed what the measurements should be."

An Indian Artist.

Up in the Glacier National Park Reservation there is a half Scotch Blackfoot Indian who, though deaf and dumb, is a marvel in turning wood into realistic images of bears. His name is John Clark. He is able to read and write, having been taught this method of communicating in the English language at the Fort Shaw school. He is adept in the Universal Sign Language, and can carry on a conversation with the members of any tribe of Indians. Clark is a born artist in clay also, and is now dabbling with oils and brushes.

VACATION WORK

Now Is the Time For Making Advance Christmas Presents.

NOVELTY IN CENTERPIECES.

Here's a Brand New Idea in Embroidery Hoops—They Are Made of French Oilcloth, Which Is Used as a Foundation Stretcher.

Now is the time to do some advance work for Christmas.

The new designs in art needlework are practical. The materials are washable and durable, and the most prominent stitches are those which require the least labor. The busy woman of today likes designs which quickly and easily give effective results.

Linens and crashes in white and natural tones are seen in centerpieces, dresser scarfs and pillow covers. Dresser scarfs and pin cushions in white pique have scalloped edges and embroidery done in color.

Coronation and Torpedo Braids.

Coronation braid is used in combination with torpedo braid. Some pretty effects are in daisy designs, with the centers worked in color in long and short stitch outlined with torpedo braid.

Darning, or Persian embroidery as it is called, is given quite a slant, producing a decidedly new appearance. The designs and colors are in Persian effects, and the darning stitch is worked over a tinted background. Many of the pillow covers, table runners and dresser scarfs are good imitations of Persian rugs, both in the design and coloring.

Punch work is still used, but in combination with French knots. French knots in various sizes will be extensively used in decoration. They are usually in floral form in the soft pastel tones, forgetmenots being the most popular. The work is done in white or color. An attractive design is a French basket filled with floral designs in French knots. Dresser scarfs, etc., in white linen have designs outlined in small French knots. Dutch designs are effective worked in blue knots, with the edge finished with cluny lace. Insets of hand made cluny lace have the edges worked in solid knots. Pillow covers, centerpieces and scarfs in natural color linen are often decorated with mauve braid.

Oilcloth Instead of Hoops.

A new idea is a centerpiece of white linen and plate doilies made in one. It is cut round to fit a table and six pieces about eighteen inches in length extend from the centerpiece, leaving a space sufficiently large for a bread and butter plate doily. The edges are scalloped and the embroidery is done in eyelet work.

Instead of using an embroidery hoop for small stitches and dainty work like letters on handkerchiefs and pillow slips French oilcloth is often used for a stretcher. Cut a square rather larger than the figure or initial to be embroidered and baste it with fine cotton on to the back of the material. The glazed surface prevents the needle from piercing the oilcloth, while its pliability enables it to be bent easily over the finger when necessary.

What's Good in Cakedom.

For a delicious chocolate cake beat half a cupful of butter to a cream, gradually beat in half a cupful of granulated sugar and half a cupful of sifted brown sugar, then add one ounce of melted chocolate, the beaten yolks of two eggs, half a cupful of molasses, one-fourth a cupful of cream, one-fourth a cupful of milk, two cupfuls of flour with half a teaspoonful of soda, half a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and mace and one-fourth a teaspoonful of cloves. Lastly, beat in the whites of two eggs beaten dry. Bake in a sheet about twenty-five minutes. Cover with marshmallow frosting, save the Boston Cooking School Magazine. For the frosting cook one and a half cupfuls of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful each of butter and boiling water until it forms a soft ball when tested in cold water. Melt half a pound of marshmallows over boiling water, add to the first mixture and beat until thick enough to spread over the cake. Just before spreading add half a teaspoonful of vanilla.

CHOCOLATE CAKE, MARSHMALLOW FROSTING.

Raw and Boiled Milk.

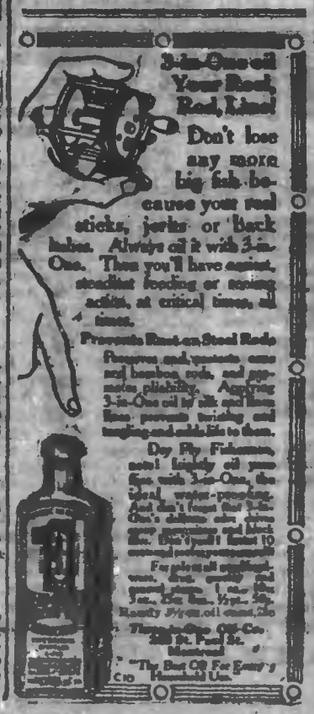
Raw milk and boiled milk are very different foods. The casein of raw milk, unless modified so that it will not form hard and large curds, offers serious difficulties in digestion that are not present in boiled milk.

Acre Foot of Water.

An "acre foot" of water is equivalent to 43,560 cubic feet and is the quantity required to cover an acre to the depth of one foot. The term is commonly used in connection with storage for irrigation.

Swinging Electric Lights.

Electric lights suspended by the familiar twisted cord can be protected against injurious vibrations by hooking the ends of a spiral spring into the cord, slacked for a short distance to permit this to be done.



To Suppress Vice.

Several changes in the anti-white slavery laws have come into effect as a result of legislation recently put through by the Dominion Government, and the changes are expected to fulfil their object in minimizing still further the traffic in human souls, which is more common in Canada than is generally supposed. Any person found in a disorderly house is liable to a fine of not exceeding $100 or two months in prison, and the thugs who act as bodyguards in these houses are liable to a five-year sentence.

Procurers may be sentenced no matter what the age, or moral character of their victims, and punishment ranges from one to five years in prison with whipping for the second offence. Another recommendation of the national committee for the suppression of white slavery, which is being brought into effect, is the penalty of one year's imprisonment or a $500 fine to neglectful husbands and fathers.

Bold In War.

The word Gumbell when used as a surname has nothing at all to do with any part of the anatomy. It denotes that its first bearer was a man of considerable importance and great power in the state. It is derived from the Norse word "gumbald," which itself has nothing to do with any unction, but means "bold in war."

Quite Accidental.

Small Boy—Mother, please give me another lump of sugar for my coffee. I've dropped the one you gave me. Mother—Where did you drop it? Small Boy—In the coffee.

Modern Julius Caesars.

There are at least two Julius Caesars in London — one a chemist in Paddington, and the other a Holborn Viaduct pearl merchant.

SWAT THE COWBIRD.

It Is an Interloper and a Murderer Say Naturalists.

What local bird lays her eggs in a nest, yet builds no nest nor uses an old one, does not hatch her eggs, and never feeds her young?

Over in England they have a bird, beloved of the makers of poems (and clocks), and called the cuckoo. Our bird of the same name lacks alike its incomparable song and its popularity. The former has the peculiar habit of laying its eggs in the nests of other birds for them to hatch and rear, yet by general consent it is forgiven — a tribute to its vocal genius. The Canadian cuckoo inherits neither these bad habits nor the gift of melody—a commonplace bird. But by some freak or other, our cowbird—Molothrus ater—has managed to appropriate little of the Old Country cuckoo's talent, and certainly all of its vice and more.

He's no particular beauty, the cowbird. About the head, a sort of chestnut color, all the rest a metallic black. The female and the young are a dull sooty black, and rather short of seven inches long. The cow-buntings, as they are also called, do not mate, as most birds do, but, in spring and summer commonly form small flocks, these swelling by autumn, now greatly, in numbers. They are noticeably becoming more numerous with each successive recent year. It is high time to sound an alarm about the cowbird.

There is no affection, and no family life; the cowbirds are a tribe of brigands, fattening on other birds's misfortunes. The females, when ready to lay, cunningly watch for their chance. They choose a nest which some smaller bird-creature — some greybird, finch, or warbler—has been building, and, catching the hard-working builders away, clandestinely lay an egg here, another there, until in various nests probably five are laid and forsaken in a season.

What happens? Some consternation, when the rightful occupants return to be sure, at this prodigious, strange, whitish egg, all covered with the greyish-brown spots. Sometimes they abandon it or move, to laboriously build another nest; sometimes this is the cause of those peculiar two-storey nests—they leave the foundling egg on the lower floor and lay their own eggs in the upper chamber —"bird flats." Oftener, however, the baby on the doorstep is taken in and warmed into life.

Here is where the evil starts. The interloper's egg is larger than her own, and, getting most of the warmth, hatches out first. Frequently the other little eggs get addled; anyway, out they go when the husky young cow-bunting first becomes aware of their presence. They are born murderers, and one can expect anything. If one of the rightful brood survives, the cowbird's gluttony and strength enables it to secure the lion's share of the parent birds' attention. The bulk of the juicy insect chops fall to it.

The strategy of the real cowbird mother in choosing a small bird's nest stands revealed. That big maw simply has to be filled, and the little vireo or poor warbler parents perforce work overtime. The young cowbird seems to know what a snap he has, and, naturally lazy and a loafer he is longer than most birds in leaving the nest. In the meantime, the true brood, through want of proper nutrition, either die or are crowded out by the stranger, and, unable to fly, fall victims to some watchful prowler below the nest.

By the time the unfortunate foster-parents have exhausted their energies, they are lamenting that the opportunity for rearing a second brood of their own is now over. It is a poor reward for their work—when the fledged bird at length leaves to join the cowbird rabble.

But this glimpse into a warbler's home-life has wider significance. The warbler and his kind, work untold good as insect-eaters, and the rearing of each sooty cowbird that we see in these increasing numbers each fall, all useless, was at the expense of the Government official estimates—of the loss of from fifteen to twenty-five of the young of our most valuable insectivorous orchard-guardians. The farmers are blaming the rowdy, talkative, English sparrow for the lessening of their field-friends; should he not keep a gun specially loaded for the cowbird?—C. M. C. in Toronto Star Weekly.

Wanted a Catholic Bible.

Harry J. Zinger, a Berlin, Ont., haberdasher, empanelled as a juryman to serve at a coroner's inquest, refused to take the oath on a copy of the New Testament, claiming he, as a Catholic, did not believe it contained all the books and for the sake of his conscience he could not swear. Three other jurymen, Catholics, followed suit, and until a Catholic edition of the Scriptures was produced could the coroner proceed.

Crown Attorney Bowlby said that in all his forty-six years of experience as crown attorney he had not witnessed an incident as this, and desired to have new jurymen called, but the coroner would not consent.

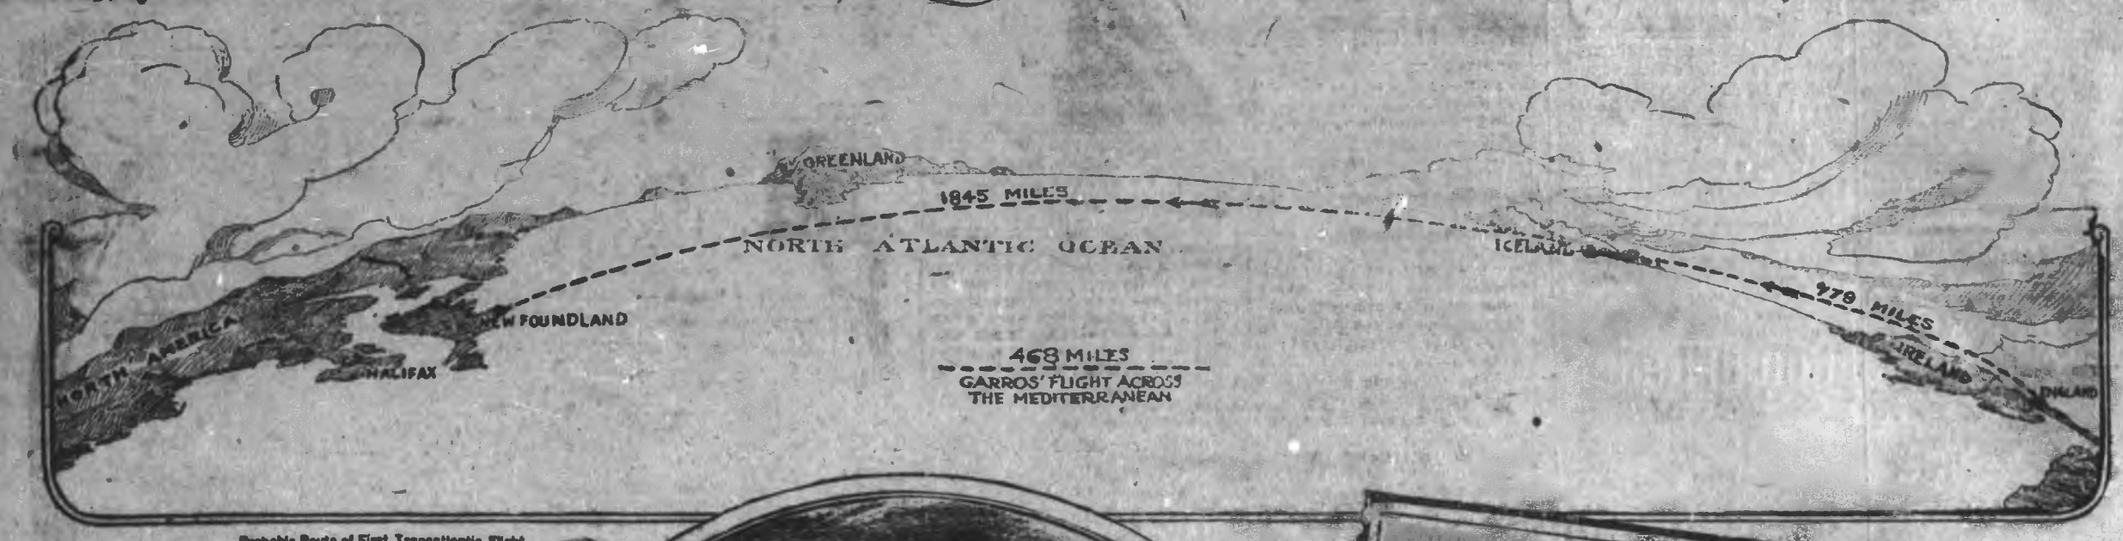
AERIAL CONQUEST of the ATLANTIC



Probable Route of First Transatlantic Flight.

Roland Garros.

BY ALAN R. HAWLEY,
President of the Aero Club of America.

(Copyright, 1913, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

CERTAINLY and speedily we are coming to the day when the aviator will cross the Atlantic Ocean in a heavier than air machine. How far away that day is can only be conjectured, but many of the most conservative persons interested in aircraft are firmly convinced that the crossing will be made in their day and generation.

We have arrived at that stage in aerial navigation that has recorded sustained flights of nearly fifteen hours. We have seen the crossing of the Alps and the St. Petersburg to Paris flight of about two thousand miles by one craft; we have gloried in the flights over the English Channel, and more recently have seen the crossing of the Mediterranean Sea. There have been performances of upside down aviators, who have demonstrated that they have more control over their aircraft than has a bird over its wings when suddenly tossed into the air. We have had aeroplanes making a speed of close under 150 miles an hour and have arrived at that point where the attainment of 200 miles an hour is no longer a theory. It is a matter of practical, reasonable construction.

It has been demonstrated that a machine of the racing type can fly 100 miles an hour easily and that it can stay in the air for practically a day. Two such flights and one shorter one of less than a day's duration would bring the aviator across the Atlantic Ocean. Roland P. Garros, most enthusiastic of aviators, has just crossed the Mediterranean and his journey was a miniature of what a flight over the Atlantic Ocean would be. But it is so infinitesimally small in comparison that it must be considered very carefully. He covered approximately 500 miles without a stop. True, he followed Corsica and Sardinia and had to travel only about 250 miles over open water, but he accomplished the long journey successfully. His machine was able to continue the flight if need be to show that it had not by any means exhausted its life in the one journey. A machine of twice or thrice the sustaining power, speed and endurance certainly would be able to cover more than twice or three times the distance over the Mediterranean, and that would be sufficient to encompass each leg on the voyage across the Atlantic.

Garros says he can cross the Atlantic. That, of course, is only theory, but many warmly believe that he or some other aviator equally confident soon will step forth with a well tested craft and make the effort. Members of the Aero Club of America and of the Royal Aero Club of London do not hesitate to express the belief that the aerial route across the Atlantic will be discovered within the next five years. And once the way is shown a dozen such voyages within the year following would not surprise those foremost in the aerial world.

Garros selects his route from the British Isles to Iceland, thence to Newfoundland and New York. This would make the first leg of his journey 1,000 miles long, the second 2,500 miles and the third 1,000 miles—a complete voyage of 4,500 miles. This would be more than twice as long as any flight recorded and counts only two relay points, Iceland and Newfoundland. He might alter the first leg of the flight and land at the Faroe Islands, approximately 500 miles from the British Isles, and thence fly to Iceland. But even this would not eliminate the grave disadvantages under which he would labor by selecting such a long route.

The initial stage of the journey is made when motor, man and mood are best. It might be accomplished without a mishap. Iceland possibly could be reached easily, but from Iceland to Newfoundland is a great gap over probably the worst section of the Atlantic Ocean the aviator could choose. This leg of the journey would be 2,500 miles long, about the same as from Ireland to Newfoundland. It would be over a part of the ocean which is little traversed by ships and where sudden blasts out of the Arctic Circle would bring great changes in the temperature that might be fatal to the motor.

No haven of safety would be open to the imperilled aerial mariner, for the only land within hundreds of miles would be the bleak and barren coasts of Greenland and Labrador. The former is perpetually a mountain of ice, with a plateau that might afford an excellent landing place, but a most dismal staying place if this emergency arose. The whole region is uninhabited except along strips of the east coast and west coast, and these habitations would be so far away that the aviators would be unable to reach them before their scant supply of food became exhausted. Hope of rescue would be more remote even than if the aviators dropped into the ocean, because in the latter extremity they would have a slight chance of being picked up by a straggling sealer or other fishing boat.

Labrador, which would be several hundred miles out of the course, would make the most perilous kind of a refuge, even worse than Greenland, because a landing place could not be found there with any more ease than in the Rocky Mountains. Where there are not vast virgin forests, with no open places that might offer a landing, the earth's contour is volcanic in its nature, dating back to prehistoric times, when all was molten, as scientists believe. Great hills of gneiss formation, jagged, tumbled and cloven by abrupt chasms winding in all directions make the coast line formidable as a place for the best airman to land on.

Aside from these drawbacks to the Iceland route over the Atlantic, the aviators would have to traverse more than thirty degrees of northern latitude with the attendant atmospheric changes that would call forth the utmost vigilence to keep the machine and men from freezing. Around Iceland and Davis Strait the most impenetrable and persistent fogs abound, so dense that the aviators would be seriously handicapped, even if they rose high enough to clear the fog. Then, again, the Arctic storm is so sudden it might overwhelm the airmen before they could make a landing. It is the belief of many that some such evil influence overtook Salomon Auguste Andree and his daring companions, fifteen years ago, when they attempted to navigate the Arctic Circle and reach the North Pole by balloon. They flew from Spitzbergen in what seemed most promising conditions for good weather, and after going about two hundred miles north were never heard from again. Few believe they came down in the Polar Sea or any other body of water, because their expedition was so equipped that in such an event parts of it would float out in time to let the world know of the tragedy. Not a vestige of it ever has been found, and those most versed in polar lore believe the balloonists came to earth somewhere on Greenland's icy mountains and were unable to make their way to a habitation on either coast.

Just why such a route should be selected it is hard to imagine. Its longest leg is about the same distance as from the Irish coast to Newfoundland, with no apparent advantages over the latter.

A far more favorable route lies open. The navigator could leave the European coast along the shores of Spain, fly thence to the Azores islands, to Newfoundland and to New York. The three legs of this journey would be very nearly the same length. From Spain to the Azores is approximately 1,000 miles; thence to Newfoundland, 1,580 miles, and to New York, 1,200 miles, or 3,780 miles in all.

Numerous advantages are offered by such a route. In the first place, the aviator would travel along the fortieth parallel of latitude, with a practically unvarying temperature all the way. This would insure for his motor increased efficiency under the long strain. The first thousand miles would be made when the motor is cleanest and in best working order. The second leg, heading for Newfoundland, would be not so long as the journey from St. Petersburg to Paris, but, of course, would have to be made without mishap serious enough to cause the machine to fail. Being supplied with pontoons for the purpose, it could glide to the ocean for temporary repairs. But the chief advantage of such a route would be that the worst part of the journey would be over a part of the ocean that is practically crowded with transatlantic steamships all during the flight, giving the airman assurance that he would be near help when most likely to meet with fouling engines, diminishing fuel, diminishing sustaining power and diminishing vitality of the human machine.

Claude Grahame-White.

Many flights of 1,000 and 1,500 miles with stops have been made and a flight of 703 miles without a stop has been recorded. It is confidently believed that a machine that has life enough to travel 4,000 miles and with pontoons to sustain it on the ocean surface will be the craft that will cross the Atlantic Ocean.

By the Azores route the additional advantage is offered in that the airmen would at all times be in constant touch with weather conditions, and so having a landing would know whether it would be safe for them to venture out. Necessarily an airman must be something of a student of air currents, density of atmosphere and other conditions that govern successful aviation and would familiarize himself with all these conditions even before he left European shores. Mild weather, with promised continuance for two or three days, would be awaited before starting on the long leg from the Azores to Newfoundland. From Newfoundland to New York the route would be easy, because after skirting Nova Scotia the aviator would be over the New England States, with ample landing places.

A third route has been suggested—across the narrowest part of the Atlantic Ocean—from Sierre Leone, on the western coast of Africa, to Cape Saint Roque, Brazil, on the northeastern shoulder of South America. For the purpose merely of crossing the ocean this might be the most promising route because it is roundly 1,600 miles from continent to continent, half the distance of the Azores route and about one-third the Iceland route. Many apparent advantages lie in this locality. From Sierre Leone a flight of 900 miles in round figures would carry the airmen to the island of St. Paul, off the Brazilian coast. About 400 miles to the southwest lies the island of Fernando Noronha, with 300 miles between it and the Brazilian coast. The longest leg of this route would be very little longer than the longest continued flight yet officially recorded—703 miles. Two possible landing places in the 1,600 miles would give the aviator assurance, but he would be without the greater opportunities for assistance he would encounter from the numerous ships in the lanes of the North Atlantic. He would have a comparatively even temperature and the further aid of tropical calms.

Granting that an aeroplane will be built that can sustain a speed of a hundred miles an hour or more for fifteen hours, even the rankest pessimist—and there are few of them interested in aviation—can cite few things that would bring disaster to an across the ocean flyer. The collapse of a wing, the breaking of part of the framework or seizure of the operator or operators with some sudden ailment would easily cause the machine to tumble. But the proportion of such accidents in aerial navigation is very small.

Many things would cause him to glide to the surface of the ocean to make temporary repairs, such as the fouling of the motor, derangement of any part of the wings or guiding planes or some indisposition of the aviator. But pontoons will make it possible for the machine to descend to the ocean surface for repairs. These pontoons, of course, will be suspended far below the motor so that the seas would break through the open framework and not injure the machine. Rough weather, of course, will be guarded against and the aviators will not venture out without first learning what is the prospect of long continued storms. Temporary storms and squalls they do not fear because many aviators have been caught high in the air in a heavy gale and have gone against it safely or have risen and escaped it altogether.

Like the automobile, the aviation engine is becoming more reliable every day. In the earlier history of the automobile few persons cared to risk a tour of more than twenty-five miles into the country for fear the motor would foul or something happen to put the automobile out of commission. To-day a man would not own an automobile that could not make a journey of 150 miles or more in a day if necessary and be ready to start out again the next morning without a thing being done to it except to replenish its supply of fuel. Many an automobile motor to-day can run a week without stopping.

So the aeroplane motor will be perfected, and before many years we will see a number of craft that will be able to sustain themselves for twenty-five hours just as easily as for five hours.

Necessarily, the craft that discovers the aerial channel across the ocean will carry two pilots. While one man could sit at the wheel for fifteen, twelve or twenty-four hours at a time, being buoyed by the air and the enthusiasm that he was making history, it would increase the danger of the journey too much. Cramped position of his arms, hands or feet or slight drowsiness caused by the long strain on the eyes might easily result in disaster, but with two men each would act as a guard for the other. Many types of aeroplanes are in use to-day with two pilots, two steering wheels and a duplicate system of control throughout. By the merest adjustment the steering and control can be switched from one man to the other, thus relieving him at any time the strain becomes too great.

Gradually, every feature of air navigation is being brought toward perfection, and before long some one is going to cross the Atlantic Ocean and the pilots will reap the glory of history and financial rewards that will make them independent for the rest of their lives.

FISH STORIES

Lightning Killed a Bass Weighing Eleven Pounds

From the Eastern Townships of Quebec there came a story of an eleven-pound black bass killed by lightning. That was pretty good. Nobody had ever seen an eleven-pound black bass before in the world, and nobody had ever seen a fish killed by lightning. The story was a double-edged stroke of genius. Next from the New England States there came a story of a lad who rammed his fist into the gills of a fish in diving and landed another big one. And this was followed up by a story from Baltimore, where an old tar tells of having his ship lifted out of the water on the back of an enormous whale.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Yellow Claw

Was It the End of It?

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Perkins entered his employer's private office and laid a square paper wrapped package at Murray's elbow.

"By parcel post, marked 'Personal,'" he murmured apologetically and went away as silently as he had come.

John Murray stared at the package with incredulous eyes. Suddenly his jaw set firmly and he jumped up and, locking the door to the outer office, went to his safe and took from an inner compartment two other packages of the same size and shape as the one Perkins had just brought in.

With the three packages ranged before him on the desk, John Murray studied them with knitted brow.

They were exactly alike. He opened one of the packages.

Within was a square box of Chinese red lacquer, with a powdering of gold on the lid. The box was perhaps ten inches square and three inches deep.

Murray lifted the lid and gazed long at the strange contents of the box.

On a bed of red silk lay a hand—a hideous, claw-like hand—with long, transparent nails. The thing was made of yellow wax, but so perfect was the workmanship and so faithfully had the artisan carried out his idea that the yellow hand seemed like that of a living human hand, a veined and knotted hand, with muscled fingers half curled, as if in malignant desire to clutch, to strangle, to kill.

There was nothing else in the box save the yellow, claw-like hand.

With set lips Murray opened the second box and disclosed a facsimile of the waxen hand and the third box and saw still another hand. But this last hand contained in the box just arrived was closed, as though it held something in a death grip.

Murray shuddered a little, for he knew that the throat which the Yellow Claw longed to grasp was his own.

He knew that the death grip was intended for his own strong, brown throat.

Murray knew that he had received the three warnings and that if he did not obey the last one—well, he drew a sharp breath and walked to the window—well, if he didn't heed the third warning, why, he would disappear as mysteriously as Henderson had vanished three months before or as completely as Moore had dropped out of sight six months ago.

"I will speak to Swinnerton. He must advise me," muttered Murray as he thrust the boxes back into the safe and locked the door.

As he spoke there came a rap at the office door.

He turned the key and admitted Perkins, who darted little, snaky glances around the room as he delivered his message:

"Mr. Swinnerton to see you, sir."

"Send him in, please," said Murray shortly and he pushed forward a deep chair for his visitor, who entered almost immediately. Tom Swinnerton was a tall, thin, anxious looking young man with fair hair tousled over his fine forehead. He sank down in the chair and tossed his hat on the desk.

"Hope I don't bore you, Murray, but I've heard from them," he said with a nervous laugh.

John Murray uttered a faint echo of the laugh.

"I'm in the same box, Tom. I've heard three times."

"My God, Murray!" gasped the other. "You don't mean—why, what are you going to do about it?"

Murray shrugged his shoulders. "The third call came only half an hour ago."

"I've heard twice. I came to ask your advice," shuddered the younger man, fixing his anxious eyes on Murray's strong face.

"There's only one thing to do, Tom, after all"—and Murray turned suddenly and sat down close to his visitor. He spoke in a whisper: "You know we four, Moore and Henderson, you and I, promised to obey the call of the Yellow Claw at any time in return for which they allowed Henderson to go free after that fiasco of his up the river. Those were rough days for foreigners in China, and, well, I don't believe any one of us expected to be called upon to do what the Yellow Claw demands. Henderson must have refused and Moore as well, for you know they have both disappeared."

"Well, what is the one thing to do, John?" asked Tom after awhile.

"Go down into Chinatown, find out what they want and then decide what is best to be done."

"When shall we go?"

"Tonight is best. I've had my last call. The third hand held a garroter's cord. Jove, they're an uncanny set, these Chinese!" Murray arose and paced the floor.

"Why Chinatown? We don't know where to go," objected Tom.

"They've come by parcel post. I've investigated and can tell you the very station from which they were mailed. And I'm pretty sure that when we get into Chinatown there will be some one looking out for us to take us to the Yellow Claw."

* * * * * * *

The two men dined in silence, and when the early twilight was falling they walked slowly up Dupont street, ... [illegible] ... Asiatics who had formed this foreign settlement in California's largest city.

As they passed a dark alley a Chinese stepped forth and held out a lean hand toward them.

"Come," he said in a shrill whisper, and the two followed, knowing that they had received the dreaded summons.

Down the alley, lighted at long distances by small smoky oil lamps above grim doorways, through a broken arch, a turn to the left, through a swiftly opened door, down an ill lighted passage, at the end of which were broken steps leading down into a black void. Their guide produced a candle, lighted it and led the way down other steps into the bowels of the earth. At last he paused before a black painted door and rapped softly three times, then three times again.

The door swung inward and disclosed a dimly lighted room.

Under a canopy of richly embroidered satin there sat on a cushioned teakwood chair a dignified figure clad in a Chinese robe of stiff brocade. On the breast of the tunic hung a heavy chain of amber beads and from the beads there swung a life size waxen hand—the replica of the three that John Murray had received, and of the two that had come to Swinnerton.

The face of the man in the chair was hidden under a queer mask of painted porcelain, but his bright dark eyes shone through narrow slits beneath the painted brows.

Murray looked around to find that the door was closed and their guide had disappeared. They were alone with the grim figure in the chair.

"Advance," mumbled the figure in English, and the two obeyed mechanically. Murray's hand rested on the revolver in his coat pocket.

"You have come in obedience to the beckoning of the Yellow Claw," went on the voice monotonously; "are you prepared to keep your promise made to the most high Feng Soy?" His voice dropped to a whisper as he aded a few words of secret import. A dead silence followed his speech.

"What is it you wish us to do?" asked Murray at last.

Again the personage bowed his covered head and whispered short abrupt sentences that caused his heroes to stiffen with horror.

Their faces were white like drifted snow when they lifted them to the impassive porcelain mask. Swinnerton's eyes were fixed on the bright dark eyes of the personage with a strange intensity; it was as if he was trying to wring some secret from the keeper of the Yellow Claw—as if he was racking his memory for some clew. Murray broke the silence.

"And if we refuse?" he asked.

"If you refuse," answered the voice, "Henderson and Moore will no longer be alone."

Tom was laughing and in either clutched hand was a revolver; his long neck was thrust forward and his head nodded waggishly at the personage.

For the first time the figure in the teakwood chair moved, the hands sought folds of the voluminous robes and flashed out again.

Four revolver shots deafened the air, and when the smoke had cleared away Swinnerton was sitting on the floor with a bullet through his arm, while the teakwood chair was empty.

On the silken carpet before the dais was a huddled form under folds of stiff brocade.

Murray leaped over his friend and assisted him to rise.

"Tom, are you badly hurt?"

"A scratch on my arm. I believe Perkins is dead. Better look and see," returned the other with a dry laugh.

"Perkins! What are you talking about?"

"Why, I guess you'll find that the Yellow Claw is nothing less than your confidential clerk, Perkins. I thought his face was familiar, but couldn't place it. Remember Blake, the renegade white man who got Henderson into that trouble up the Yangtze?"

"Yes, of course; but Perkins"—

"Perkins is Blake, and the rascal has been working us four to the limit. Must have robbed and murdered Moore and Henderson. Both wore handsome jewelry and carried large sums of money when they disappeared. Let us get out of this."

"But the Yellow Claw?" protested Murray, unconvinced that all these years of uneasiness and the last few weeks of terror had been inspired by the machinations of his snaky eyed clerk.

"Perkins is the Yellow Claw. It doesn't exist outside of China. That's my best bet. He's used his knowledge to blackmail us, and he may be the tool for treasonable powers higher up. Remember the sums of money he demanded? Whew!"

Murray stepped to the prostrate form and turned it over. The porcelain mask fell away and disclosed the dead face of Perkins. The waxen hand at his neck was red with blood.

Without another word the two Americans left the room. Together they fled silently by strange passages and through crooked corridors, darting blindly here and there, up darksome stairways, until, guided by a watchful Providence, they found themselves in a dim courtyard that was peopled only in the shadows. No one stayed their flight, for no one cared. Each had his own affairs, and murder was a common thing.

Finally they came to the Signal building, and Murray helped his companion up to the office and telephoned for a physician to attend to Swinnerton's wounded arm.

"Now to live," muttered Swinnerton with a grim smile. "The Yellow Claw is dead."

But Murray shivered as if he felt the old breath of some evil premonition.

"I am not so sure about that," he did slowly.

Listen!

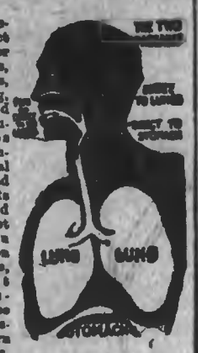
Have you heard about Pepa?

Pepa is a new scientific preparation put up into tabloid or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach.

Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went—not to your stomach, but to your lungs? Certainly not!

Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you dose your stomach—an absolutely separate organ—with medicine? Is it not far better to treat the ailing organ direct?



Pepa provide a direct treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung, chest and throat troubles. Pepa contain highly medicinal essences and pine extracts condensed into tablet form. You put a Pep on your tongue, and as it slowly dissolves, these volatile essences turn into vapor. You BREATHE the remedy to your sore ailing lungs direct—not swallow it to your stomach, which is not ailing. (See diagram.) The healing fumes, thus breathed down, bathe the delicate, inflamed membranes of your breathing-tubes and pass right on to the tiny passages of the lungs—a course no liquid or solid medicine could possibly take.

Pepa fumes are healing and antiseptic. They heal sore tissue and kill disease germs. Pepa bring pine-forest fumes to your home, instead of you going to the pine forest!

For that cold, that night cough, that touch of bronchitis, don't dose your stomach! The trouble lies in your lungs. Pepa go to the lungs direct and will cure you.

All druggists and stores 50c. box. Write for free sample to Pepa Co., Toronto, or 82 Princess St., Winnipeg. Send only 1c. stamp for postage and enclose this advertisement.

Long Lived Spaniards.

Though the average age of Spaniards is among the lowest in Europe—thirty-two years and four months, against fifty years in Sweden and Norway—yet Spain remains the land of hundred-year-old people.

South of the Sierra Morena there are fifty to sixty a hundred years old in every million inhabitants. In Malaga and other parts of Andalusia 100 hundred-year-olds are reckoned in every million inhabitants. And when a Spaniard once attains that age he usually hangs on to life for ten to fifteen years longer.

One of the famous long lived men of Spain was Dr. Manuel Barca, who lies buried in the Church of San Sebastian at Seville, having 121 years to his credit, according to the church record. He left 300 descendants.—Boston Post.

VILLAGERS MASSACRED.

Cheran, Mexico, Is Scene of Barbarities By Rebels.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Revolutionists Wednesday murdered the entire population, numbering about 50, of the Village of Cheran, at Zicurrin, in the State of Michoacan, while they were defending the village church, against looters. The villagers fought until their ammunition was exhausted, and then used machetes, stones and clubs, to beat off their assailants, but they were eventually overcome and killed.

Rebels are reported to have tortured Lieut. José Bracamontes and two soldiers belonging to a small federal garrison stationed near Castaron, to the south of Nuevo Laredo, after killing the remainder of the federal troops. The rebels are said to have skinned the soles off the feet of their three prisoners, walked them several miles and then beheaded them with machetes because they refused to shout for Carranza.

Fighting at Monterey.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Fighting is reported to be in progress in the outskirts of Monterey. Rebels are said to have made a rush into a suburb and taken possession of some of the outlying positions. The attack on Monterey began yesterday morning, the first shots being fired about ten o'clock. Shortly afterward the telegraph lines were cut and communication ceased.

Munsey were on hand in court yesterday ready to testify as character witnesses in her behalf.

Mrs. Wiborg, who is a niece of Gen. Sherman, pleaded guilty through her attorney and threw herself upon the mercy of the court.

MISSING SIX YEARS.

Steamer Centennial Found In Arctic Ice—No Sign of Crew.

SEATTLE, Oct. 24.—The steamer Centennial, which left Maroran, Japan, six years ago for San Francisco with a cargo of sulphur and was never heard from, is reported fast in the ice off Saghalin Island, Okhotsk Sea, near Siberia. A Russian expedition, bound through the Okhotsk Sea, discovered the missing vessel with lifeboats gone, the name partly obliterated and her ironwork corroded. There was no sign of a human being on the ship.

Captain E. Hieber, who piloted the Russian expedition that found the Centennial, told G. A. Grima, an engineer of the Philippine coast guard, of his discovery, and Grima repeated the story here at the headquarters of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. Hieber has been asked for further details.

The Centennial was first named the Delta, then the Takasago Maru. Uniden last year, the Centennial, she became an Alaskan gold ship, afterward a Government transport, and at last passed into the hands of Charles Nelson Co. of San Francisco, her owners at the time she disappeared.

RAN FOR SHELTER.

Vessels on Lake Superior Were Delayed by Storm.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 24.—Vessels arriving in the Duluth-Superior harbor yesterday were covered with snow. Practically all of the delayed fleet is in port.

According to the vessel captains a dozen boats were sheltered in Portage during the worst part of the storm, and they waited from twelve to sixteen hours for the heavy northwester to moderate.

Fifteen boats were waiting to be loaded at the docks yesterday morning, which would have been demoralized had the ore not been frozen, making it hard to handle. This is exceptionally early in the season for the movement to be hampered by the cold. Predictions are made that there will be little unloading after Nov. 1.

Esperantists Protest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Through the medium of Esperanto a world-wide protest against the so-called ritual murder trial at Kiev has been launched.

The protest originated in Bohemia with the adoption there of a resolution by 136 lawyers and public officials. A copy of this resolution, translated into Esperanto, has been mailed to every council of Esperantists in the world. Local Esperantists yesterday embodied it in a petition to Senator Root, requesting him to place the protest before the Senate.

Only Twenty-Two Saved.

DAWSON, N.M., Oct. 24.—Of the 33 miners rescued alive from the Stag Canon mine yesterday, the greater number were seriously injured. Many had been frightfully mangled by the explosion. Nearly all were sickened by the poisonous gases they had inhaled.

A Difference In Opinion.

A man who had always lived in the same town had a visit from a former resident and was showing him around the place. They visited all the principal places of interest.

"Well," said the former resident sarcastically, "the time was when I could have bought this whole blamed town site for a couple of hundred dollars; but, believe me, I didn't think it was worth it."

"Indeed!" replied the other man. "It wouldn't have been if you had bought it."

WHEN YOUR APPETITE COMES BACK TO YOU

It Is a Sure Sign Your Stomach Is Able to Work. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Give You a Rousing Appetite.

It is the greatest joy in the world to be able to eat what one wants and no misery can compare with that which comes when an appetite fails.

When the stomach cannot digest food the system revolts at the very idea of eating, but when the digestive apparatus is restored to its normal condition every quality of mind seems to make a man cheerful.

"That's the Way I Used to Look. What's you think of me now?"

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets mix with the food you eat. The stomach by its peristaltic action churns and moves the food around the stomach walls, the powerful ingredients in these tablets instantly begin digesting the food as they are forced through it and around it.

These tablets regulate the strength of gastric juices. If there is too much acid or alkali then Stuarts Dyspepsia Tablets reduce or dilute these evil conditions and prevent the irritating and raw stomachs which always come with dyspepsia, indigestion, etc.

It is the very essence of pleasure to a stomach sufferer to know that he can digest any meal if he will only take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after eating.

The use of one of these Tablets after meals will in a very short time restore your appetite to its normal condition and you will be able to enjoy your food with an old-time relish.

Every Drug Store carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, Price 50 cents.

KIDNAPPED THE COUNTESS.

Romantic Incident In the Life of Mme. de Miramion.

This romantic incident in the early history of Mme. de Miramion is related by M. Aime Dupuc in his study of "Woman in Philanthropy":

"Marie de Rubelle, born in 1629, was married at sixteen. Before she was seventeen she was left a widow. Her high position, her great estates, her wealth; her sweetness, her lovely face and manners brought her many suitors. But she was already disenchanted with the life of a mere court lady and had set her heart upon religion and charity and against the idea of a second marriage.

"But one of her suitors, Roger, Count de Bussy-Rabutin, handsome, popular and rich, was so far self-deceived by his vanity that he believed her coldness only assumed, perhaps to please her late husband's relatives. He was convinced that, given the excuse of apparent force, she would willingly marry him, and he readily persuaded his gay friends at court to share his belief and join him in the dashing adventure of carrying off a lady.

"On her way to church the young widow's carriage was surrounded by masked horsemen, who, putting the countess' old mother-in-law out upon the road, gave their orders to the driver and escorted the coach at full speed into the country. At nightfall it stopped before a chateau, where 200 more of the count's friends were in waiting to receive the abducted lady with festive honors. To their amazement and discomfiture, she utterly refused to leave the carriage.

"Only upon receiving the solemn oath of one among the gentlemen who belonged to a noble order that she should be restored the next day in honor and safety to her friends, should she still desire to go, would she consent to descend. Even then, that there might be no question of her repudiation of her abductor's plot, she refused to touch food beneath his roof. She had fasted for thirty-three hours before. As all his urgency failed before her firmness she was finally released.

"Although Mme. de Miramion's behavior was reluctantly admired, the spirit of the times was such that the abductor not only went unpunished, but received general sympathy.

"'Poor Roger!' one great lady remarked. 'To have waited so long for an effort, and she did not even appreciate the compliment! Is the woman's heart, then, of cheese?'"

How It Feels To Freeze.

Freezing to death is preceded by drowsiness, which makes the end painless, the body actually feeling warm and going comfortably to sleep. Experiments have been made with animals to show just how freezing to death proceeds. In one of these experiments, in which the animal was placed in a temperature of from 125 to 150 below zero, the breathing and heart beats were at first quickened, the organic heat of the body actually rising above normal, which is 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. This showed a sudden and intense effort on the part of the functions to preserve the body's temperature. Then violent heart action gave out suddenly and death came when the temperature of the body dropped to 71 degrees Fahrenheit.

SHE GAINED 28 LBS.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dyspepsia, had nervous headaches, dizziness and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a confirmed invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased, but I got no relief. At last I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 28 pounds in weight."

Wanted—Another Victim.

One day during the reign of terror an agent of Fouquier Tinville came to the Luxembourg with a list of victims drawn up by the committee, which contained eighteen names. He collected seventeen of these unfortunates, but could not find the eighteenth. A suspect was passing by, and the agent asked his name. The prisoner declined to give it, and the agent at once handed him over to the gendarmes. Next day the man was guillotined. Another day an agent summoned a prisoner of fifty, but the man did not answer to his name, and a lad of seventeen who was playing at ball was seized, taken to the conciergerie and put in death.

How Meat Eating.

In Italy the devouring of raw meat in restaurants is also an common as to be — to women, at least, a public annoyance. The waiter brings the slab of beefsteak and exhibits it to the eyes of the man about to lunch, who watches the process of cutting and of sprinkling with a little oil and vinegar. Over the flesh is then poured a raw egg. And it may traveler has too good an appetite he can quench it by the spectacle of the preparation and consumption of that luncheon.

Mayor as Cutter.

Fashion adviser is the latest role that Mayor Hocken of Toronto has been called on to fill. The other day a request arrived from a lady living in Kempton for advice as to where to get a new costume constructed. "I am writing to know," her letter ran, "if 'Brown's' or 'Jones'" make ladies' tailored suits (cut and specially), also if any other firms or individuals in the city would take my measure and make a suit from material given them."

It helps with scores of dishes

Inside a packet of Edwards' Soup cook has the secret of scores of successful dishes. It is Edwards' Soup which imparts that distinctive flavour to her stews, Edwards' Soup that puts such savouriness into her gravies, Edwards' Soup that gives such nourishment, such colour and such substance to her own soups, Edwards' Soup that forms the basis for her luncheon, Edwards' Soup that sends down the bills and sends up cook's reputation. Cook always gives Edwards' Soup half-an-hour or more on the stove—she says it's worth the time twice over.

EDWARDS' DESICCATED SOUPS

But you MUST boil them for half-an-hour — worth it.

Edwards' Soup is good as a soup by itself, it is good as a strengthener of other soups; good as a thickener of gravies; good for hashes, good for stews—too good to be spoiled by insufficient boiling.

DR. GOGGIN DISCUSSES PRACTICAL EDUCATION BEFORE TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Member of Educational Department Says That It is Better to Master a Few Essentials Than to Have a Mere Smattering of Many Things

ONTARIO'S SCHOOL SYSTEM

It has been well said, and is now an almost universally acknowledged fact, that no country can spend too much on the education of the individuals who together constitute the nation within its boundaries. But, while the value of education, in an abstract way, is admitted alike by those who have not been given a good education for the foundation of their life work, and by those who have enjoyed its advantages to the highest degree, a new insight into the matter was furnished by Dr. Goggin, in his address to the Teachers' Convention, in the Collegiate Institute last night. The old subject was treated in such a new, and at the same time logical and impressive, manner, that its importance was felt to a more than usual extent by the large audience of teachers and citizens.

In the course of his address Dr. Goggin expressed himself strongly of the opinion that far too many details of arithmetic, grammar and geography were being taught in Canadian schools to-day.

Before the address a very clever piano solo was given by Miss Jean Hill, and a splendid vocal solo was rendered by Mr. Maurice Park, Principal of the East City School.

The Address.

In opening his address, Dr. Goggin, who is one of the foremost members of the Education Department of Ontario, explained that as there were citizens as well as teachers present, he had been asked to choose some practical subject. Consequently his address was to deal with the subject "A Practical Education."

If he were asked to sum up in a word the dominant characteristic of the twentieth century, he would employ the term unrest. In China, in India, in Russia, in Germany, and in Great Britain there was political unrest. It manifested itself in various forms, but its basis was the determination of the common people to secure [illegible] influence in legisla-

[illegible] from the days of John [illegible] of Victoria the right to govern [illegible] passed slowly down from King to barons, to commons, till, through Gladstone's Franchise Bill, after nearly 200 years of struggle, democracy came into its own, though it failed then to recognize the value of its victory. What has been accomplished in England was a beacon light, he said, to people in China, India and Russia, and they were treading the long toilsome road to political freedom and power with surer step and greater confidence because of what Englishmen had won.

During the twenty-five years that had elapsed since the passage of the Third Reform Bill in England, the common people had gradually learned to combine, and so had come to realize the power that is theirs. Now they were determined to use it for their own means. Now England was realizing through bills limiting the power of the House of Lords, church disestablishment bills, old age pensions, trades disputes acts, and new forms of democracy, its sovereignty and would use its power to increase its comfort.

This is the idea which lay back of the coal strike which had made chaos of British industry, brought misery to the masses, and manifested to the world the tyranny that Demos is prepared to exercise to accomplish his ends. Government of the people, by the people, for the people, took on an added meaning at the present day. The men, who toil in the mine, the field, the forest, the factories, are the wealth producers. They compared their lives with those of the rich and they felt that they deserved a larger share in the wealth they produced, in order that they and their families might enjoy more of the good things of the world. They demanded higher wages, shorter hours, better housing, and through these the opportunity to give their children a better bringing up than they themselves have had.

They wanted these things, and knowing that they can make or unmake parties by their votes, they determined to have them at any cost. They practically say to the higher classes: "Advise us if you will, but understand that though we may blunder in some things, be wrong in others, we will not continue to suffer." Unreasonable in some respects they might be, but who would deny that they have wrongs to be righted. In 1240 men were forbidden to offer more than a certain maximum wage; in 1912 the British Parliament passed a bill to establish for one great class of labourers, a minimum wage.

They were in the wind-current of a vast transition. Theirs was the [illegible] open question in politics, economics, theology, education, and thoughtful men were asking what could be done to direct forces that could no longer be controlled. Three agencies must combine in this world—the state, the church, and the school.

The State must guarantee the safety of property and the freedom of the individual to sell his labour, also investigate whether a business was able to pay the wages demanded by employees. Further they could not

IS LEAVING FOR EQUADOR

Mr. Herbert Johnston, of Peterborough, Will Enter the Mission Field in South America Next Week

FAREWELL ADDRESS

The many friends of Mr. Herbert Johnston, the son of Mr. A. J. Johnston of this City, will be interested to know that on Wednesday of next week he leaves here for New York, from which place he sails on Nov. 8th to Ecquador, on the west coast of South America, where he is to labour as a missionary under the Christian and Missionary Alliance. On the coming Sunday morning he will give his "farewell" address din Bethany Tabernacle.

"Herb" was born in Peterborough in January, 1890, and passed through all departments of our schools, from the Kindergarten to Collegiate Institute. From here he went to the Missionary Institute in Nyack, N.Y., where he spent three years graduating, in May 1911. Since then he has been in charge of a branch of the C. and M.A. in Hornell, N.Y. All this training has been used to prepare him for his life work, upon which he is now entering, and his many friends wish him success in his new work.

New Railway Commission Is Appointed

Special Cable to The Examiner:

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 24.—That the Royal Railway Commission appointed by the Asquith Government will be practically revolutionary in its powers, is admitted on all hands. The Labour organizations are elated. Several of the labour organs published to-day, intimate their faith that it will bring about much better conditions for the railwaymen. The Commission will be modelled somewhat after the style of Canada's Railway Commission and will be responsible only to Parliament. It is believed this is the nearest that the Government feels like getting to the nationalisation of railways.

PROGRESS OF THE HYDRO SYSTEM

Of Street Lighting May be Delayed Until Issue of Expropriation is Determined

SYSTEM IS NEARLY READY

The work of installing the street lighting system in connection with the Hydro-Electric scheme, is nearing completion. The ornamental iron poles have been placed in position together with the brackets that will support the magnetite arc lamps. The latter will be assembled in the course of a few days. The present difficulty appears to turn on the question of securing a supply of electrical energy with which to operate the lamps. Mr. Johnston Greer, foreman of construction on the installation work, hoped to have the street lighting system in operation by the first of November, but it is hardly probable that this hope will be realized. The present existing contract for the supply of power to the City by the Peterborough Light and Power Company expires at the close of the present year. In the meantime the Power Committee of the City Council anticipate the successful issue of the expropriation proceedings which have been instituted with a view of obtaining civic control of a stated portion of the company's system in accordance with a special act enacted by the Ontario Legislature.

DEATH OF LATE DR. MURRAY

Held a Pastorate in the Peterboro' District for Many Years

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—One of the strong men of the Presbyterian Church passed from the scene of his activities Wednesday night in the person of Rev. Dr. J. L. Murray. Dr. Murray died at his Toronto residence at 106 Geoffrey street, where he had lived since his retirement from the active ministry in the Presbyterian Church some four years ago. For 30 years Dr. Murray occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Kincardine. Previous to that he held the Woodville Church in the Lindsay district, and before that again the Baltimore Presbyterian Church in the Peterborough district.

He was born near the Scotch Highland settlement of Embro 76 years ago, and is said to have exercised that wholesome influence of his personality wherever he lived, both in the church and as a citizen.

Dr. Murray is survived by two sons, Rev. John Lovell Murray of New York, and Mr. Frank Allister Murray, the first having served for some years as a Y.M.C.A. missionary in India. Of three daughters, two are at home and one is the wife of the Rev. S. Anderson, of Orillia Presbyterian Church.

The funeral takes place on Saturday at 2:30 to Prospect cemetery.

The late Dr. Murray was well known in Peterborough, having preached here on many occasions.

CYRIL MAUDE MADE BIG HIT IN MONTREAL

Military Character in "The Second in Command" Was an Admirable Piece of Acting, Appealing to Big Audience

HERE ON MONDAY

(By Bernard K. Sandwell, "Munday Knight," in Montreal Herald.)

Mr. Cyril Maude has waited until a rather advanced period in his career before making his bow to the Canadian public, but has come, and so far as one play will permit him he has conquered Montreal, and there seems to be no reason whatever why he should not step into the place in our popular affections formerly occupied by Sir John Hare, and now lamentably empty.

"The Second in Command," by the late Captain Robert Marshall, exists simply to put before the audience the character and personality of one Major Christopher Bingham, affectionately known to the whole officers' mess as "Kit," and impersonated by Mr. Maude. As such, it is justified of its works. No more lovable and delightful character has been seen upon our stage since "The Professor's Love Story," and the extraordinary mixture of incompetence, laziness, honour, generosity and self-sacrificing heroism which marks a very widespread type of the British army officer has never been more tellingly delineated. There is a very roseate and sentimental glow over Captain Marshall's pictures of the mess-room, a glow slightly suggestive of the colourings of the Christmas annuals; but the pictures are very pleasant, the characters are, externally at least, very true to life, and the whole thing is a most enjoyable entertainment. That the role of Major Bingham does not entirely cover the whole area of Mr. Maude's abilities I can testify from personal experience, and the three other plays which remain in his Montreal repertoire will amply prove; but it demonstrates him to be an extraordinarily finished comedian, with a [illegible] mastery of those innumerable little touches of characterisation which combine to make a lifelike portrait of a carefully-studied type. His Major looks like the composite result of months and months of intimate study of the kind of officers whom Marshall had in mind. The wide cavalry gait, the slightly lisping utterance (not burlesqued so as merely to provoke a passing laugh), the subtle nuances of bearing towards superior and inferior officers, the bonhomie, the half-ashamed refusal to take anything seriously, the profound consideration for woman, all are exhibited by the quietest but most telling touches. The whole is a ripe and complete impersonation such as we seldom see, and cannot see too often.

The company is excellent, and combines with a remarkably accurate and complete staging to give the atmosphere of the officers' quarters with great perfection. Miss Margery Maude, daughter of Mr. Maude, and his wife, the famous actress, Winifred Emery, is a very young actress, not too young perhaps for the simple part of the girl who nearly marries Major Kit without loving him, and finally gives him his chance of supreme self-sacrifice when he finds that it is his duty to hand her over to his successful rival, the man whom she really loves. Miss Maude has the advantages of great intelligence and excellent training, not as yet accompanied by any particular powers of feeling. She was in the picture, but she did not dominate it, even in what might have been one or two rather powerful scenes. The rest of the support is so evenly admirable that distinctions would be invidious. A large matinee audience and a crowded evening house witnessed the piece yesterday, and induced Mr. Maude on each occasion to deliver a charming little speech. There is no possible doubt that this eminent English actor has leaped in one day into a position of the highest favour in Montreal. All who saw him regretted bitterly that, in view of the scope of his repertoire, his stay could not have been prolonged for another week; and now that he has once been seen here there will be a very general outpouring of indignation if he does not return every couple of years or so. We are accustomed to flatter ourselves that when we have once taken a violent fancy to an actor we can bid sufficiently high to ensure his return; but then we have not always allowed our affection to rest on players to whom London is quite so attached as it is to Mr. Maude. It has taken a long while to pry him loose for the first time, and it may be difficult to repeat the operation.

A BOY'S REASON.

A Boston man has a son who has just entered school. He was supposed to be enjoying it, but one morning he walked into the dining-room, where his father was having breakfast.

"I'm tired of going to school, pa. I think I'll stop."

"Why?" asked the father; "what is your objections to going to school?"

"Oh," answered the boy, "it breaks up the day so."

BALANCE OF $300 ON CREDIT SIDE OF FAIR BOOKS

Figures That Show Approximately the Returns of This Year's Exhibition

GATE RECEIPTS LOWER

The final figures dealing with the finances of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition show that both the receipts and expenses were higher than any other year.

Total receipts	$6,300
Total expenses	$5,960
Balance	$ 350

These figures are not exact, but they are near enough to the real sums to indicate the results of this year's Exhibition.

The gate receipts totalled $3,150, and were over $300 below those of 1912. This was the only disappointing item in the whole list. It was expected that the gate would show five or six hundred dollars on the credit side of the balance sheet, but the weather man had turned on a cold blast on Saturday, and Friday might have been more pleasant. If the attendance had been as large as expected, the Directors feel that their balance would be bettering nearly $1,000 instead of $300.

The receipts from entries, concessions and other sources were so much larger than usual that the deficiency at the gate was partly covered.

The biggest item in the expenditure was for prize money, which was $500 more than last year's. Improvements to the grounds and buildings ran into quite a sum. One of the directors stated that the only way to obviate an expenditure on improvements every year is to undertake permanent work.

On the whole, this year's Fair was encouraging in many respects, the brightest feature being the big increase in the number of exhibits and thereby the increased interest shown by exhibitors, which is a glowing promise for the future.

BROTHER KILLED IN BUFFALO, N.Y.

Mrs. Joseph Barnard's Brother Reported to Have Been Electrocuted on Thursday

Mr. Joseph A. Barnard, Charlotte Street west, left this morning for Buffalo in response to a telephone message received last night that his brother-in-law had been electrocuted in Buffalo. The latter was an electric lineman and it is supposed that he met his death while engaged at work. No details could be obtained this morning. The deceased is a Buffalo man and a brother of Mrs. Barnard.

Diaz Under U. S. Protection

Special Cable to The Examiner.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 24.—General Felix Diaz, candidate for the presidency of Mexico, whom General Huerta wants out of the way, was to-day quartered in the United States Consulate, under United States protection. This looks like a further serious breach between Mexico and the United States. Diaz was taken from the home of his brother-in-law by the United States Consul and John Lind, President Wilson's special envoy to Mexico. They were accompanied by one marine, and though Mexican soldiers guarded the house, the departure of Diaz was not interfered with. Ward liner, Morro Castle, with Mr. John Lind aboard, was still detained by the Mexican Port authorities to-day, despite the vigorous United States intervention.

SIX MONTHS TERM FOR A HORSE THIEF

WANTS TO HEAR CURFEW TOLLING

Woman Claims Police, Press and Officials Not Alive to Conditions in the City

FEW FACTS PRESENTED

Some Peterborough woman wants a literal curfew law for the City and especially does she want it enforced. She has appealed to a number of local clergymen and has written to Mr. J. J. Kelso, Provincial Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, to the effect that the police have not been strict enough in enforcing the present law, that the press is somnolent, and other officials who should consider it their duty, have not been sufficiently active in keeping off the streets at night.

Mr. Kelso wrote to a Peterborough man asking whether the conditions mentioned actually existed, and the reply was made that the police were not neglecting their duty in regard to children who came under the law.

In this connection, a few evenings ago, a visitor searched the streets about 9 o'clock for a newsboy, and could not find one.

"Why are there no aper boys on the streets," he asked a reporter, and was told that the police did not allow them to remain out after nine o'clock.

"In Toronto," he replied, "you can buy papers until 11 o'clock. That is the hour for the newsboys to leave the streets. Nine o'clock seems rather early, I think."

Another story is told of Detective Newhall that indicates the manner in which Chief Thompson's men are doing their work. A boy of fourteen was up town on no particular business and was about to go home. He met Mr. Newhall, who told him he should be at home and warned him not to make another reminder necessary.

The young chap said he was sixteen and did not think that the officer even knew his name.

"You are fourteen and I know your name and where you live," said Mr. Newhall, and that closed the matter. The youngster is still wondering how the officer had gained his information, but his facts were correct.

This was a boy who had previously given no cause to a policeman to speak to him, and as far as the information of the police is concerned, may be an isolated case, but it was an actual happening and may indicate that the police are better posted than they are given credit for.

This is not intended as a brief for the police. The incidents referred to are simply two of quite a number that have come to the attention of a reporter.

The Clerk was instructed to write Mr. Gummerson to have his resignation forwarded at once.

SIX MONTHS TERM FOR A HORSE THIEF

Wm. O'Connor Pleaded Guilty to Stealing Hog in Port Hope and Selling the Animal to Local Liveryman.

A FINANCIAL GENIUS

Wm. O'Connor, who has been a resident at the City jail for the past couple of weeks, and who was taken into custody on a charge of horse stealing, came before the Magistrate again this morning. He had withdrawn his plea of "not guilty," and entered one of "guilty."

Offering no defence, the prisoner only asked the Magistrate to be as lenient as possible. He was sentenced to six months in Central Prison.

O'Connor hired an outfit from a Port Hope livery, and drove to this City, where he effected a trade with Mr. Jones, the local liveryman, receiving $40 to boot. He then sold the outfit he received from Jones, to Mr. Gibbs for $60.

O'Connor was sentenced to 15 months in the Kingston Penitentiary at North Bay about a year and one-half ago, for breaking jail, where he was confined on a charge of assault.

The court's respect for David Henry's genius for high finance, was all that saved that eminent member of society from doing a term in Central Prison for vagrancy. Henry, who drifted into the City on a freight train last Saturday, had already appeared in court once, but on that occasion was allowed to go. Since his arrival in the City he has made a living by selling diamond rings, purchased at Woolworth's for 15c, at the rate of $2 a ring, and like enterprises. If his sleek appearance and abundant avoirdupois was any indication of his success in organizing stock companies with a 15c ring as capital, he must have plied his trade with considerable profit.

In spite of the muddy conditions of the City streets, and the inclemency of the weather, Henry jumped at the chance of leaving the City on foot—the only means his slender purse admitted of.

Norman Hurl, one of the young fellows that can work but won't, appeared on a charge of vagrancy. He was given one last chance, however, and left the court under the wing of his father, who expressed the intention of putting him to work and keeping him there.

PETERBOROUGH AHEAD IN OPTICAL SERVICE

Dr. Tait having taken over and re-established his Optical business here, under the Ontario Charter of The Tait Optical Company, Limited, Peterborough, citizens are assured of such optical service, satisfaction, and security, as was felt ten years ago when the Taits were with us before. It has become a common expression by the patrons of The Tait Optical Company "not before my glasses were fitted by Taits did I know what real eye comfort was." The reason is simple. The Taits are a family of opticians; their ancestors were opticians, the many secret and patented ideas of their own have been handed down from generation to generation, you get the benefit of life time study and practical application of the science of optics; not the small knowledge gained by a few weeks or months study or correspondence. The Taits are experts in the profession; they have patients in all parts of the world who have travelled thousands of miles to consult them. Their laboratories or lens grinding department is in charge of an experienced lens maker whose experience covers forty years in the lens making establishments of America and Europe. Hundreds of Peterborough people are wearing glasses fitted by Dr. Tait fifteen years ago and judging by the number of people who are again making The Tait Optical Company their opticians, Tait's glasses will continue to be safe glasses to wear for many more years. Such an establishment as this is something of which Peterborough people are no doubt proud.

ANOTHER NEW ONTARIO INDUSTRY.

Prince Edward Island is the baby province of the Dominion; it covers only 2,184 square miles, and it would take twenty-three Prince Edward Islands to make one Ontario, territorially. Prince Edward Island has not room enough to run an automobile; it has no railway connection with the outer world; it sends an almost idle story statement to Parliament; but in spite of all these disadvantages it is very much alive—to use a common metaphor, it "makes the fur fly." It is the pioneer in, and the exclusive exploiter of, the fox fur industry; and now it is "cinching" a monopoly on the "Persian lamb" fur industry.

Yesterday we published in our columns an interesting story of the measures being taken to introduce into Prince Edward Island the Persian lamb fur industry. We are informed that the tight little island is laying pipes to secure the entire flockage of Karakule sheep on this continent. And, judging by the way the Island has cornered the black fox fur kennels of the continent, it will succeed. In this case it will be following the enterprise of the Dominion of Canada, which now has the only considerable herd of buffalo, as Prince Edward Island is in the [illegible] sheep.

Of course the "Persian lamb" fur industry is only in its experimental stage, here. If it cannot succeed in Prince Edward Island it may succeed in Ontario. The original and present home of the Persian lamb fur industry is in the north of Persia, in Afghanistan, and in the southern part of Russia. These countries are in about the same latitude as Ontario, and their physical character is very much like the Highlands of Ontario—rocky, broken country. The suggests the possibility of the establishment of the Persian lamb fur industry in Ontario. If climatic and soil conditions should prove to be favourable, there would be a chance of adding another profitable rural industry to those we already have. But the methods must be right. Experts tell us that the success of the production of the "Persian lamb" pelts lies in the treatment of herds and in selection of breeding animals; in other words, the principles of intensive farming applied to production of pelts. If dinghy little Prince Edward Island can "turn the trick" Ontario should be able to do the same. Deputy Minister of Agriculture James tells us that Ontario does not yield, in the matter of production in the way of grains, and flocks and herds, half of what might be produced. If we add the "Persian lamb" fur industry to all our other potentialities of production, and make the most of both, we should be forging further on the way of realising upon our assets in the matter of our inexhaustible resources.

WHAT GROUNDS OF APPEAL?

In the by-elections, the Borden government has been appealing for support. Upon what claims, except the narrow claim of party, does it base its appeal? Has it justified the confidence of the electors expressed by the vote in the general election of 1911? In these elections the "loyalty" cry, "the flag" and the cry of "British connection" were the chief stock in trade of Mr. Borden and his partisans. These in the English speaking provinces; in Quebec, in the Conservative interest, the cry was "disloyalty," "shoot holes in the flag," "no use for England and the English." These were essentially contradictory cries; but a shrewd political necromancy that could harmonize strange bedfellowships, made them work together to the same noble end, the triumph of Mr. Borden. The same black art has been effective in an attempt to govern the country. The country, as a whole, thought it was electing a Conservative government of the good old true blue variety. Instead of a Conservative administration, we have a Nationalist-Conservative coalition with the entire Quebec representation in the government composed of flag-shooting Nationalists. We have a cabinet compounded of British oak and Nationalist jack-pine—a modern repetition of the Scriptural abomination, yoking the ox and the ass together. Can the Borden government any more justify the generative processes of its existence than it can justify its present existence, or its claim to continued existence—on the ground of useful achievement? What has the Borden, Nationalist-Conservative government accomplished in two years? To be just, it has done great things. The Borden government, which, in a former state of existence in the incohate stage of Opposition, preached economy and scored Liberal extravagance, has in the short space of two years, doubled the national expenditure. The expenditure of the Dominion under the last year of the Liberal administration, reached the total of 122 millions of dollars. Last session of Parliament, under the economical Borden government, the appropriations for Dominion expenditures amounted to over 250 million dollars. What a great country Canada would now be if the Borden government had increased the growth of its interests, the development of its natural resources 100 per cent as it has increased the national expenditure. This may or may not constitute a valid claim to the confidence of the electors in the by-election constituencies. If that is not considered enough, perhaps what the Borden government has failed to do, may serve better. The Borden government has religiously refrained from implementing its promises in regard to electoral reform—simultaneous by-elections, and has also refrained from civil service reform—rather practised unprecedented application of the spoils system. If these grounds of appeal should be ignored, all the appeal Mr. Borden can consistently use is, "stand by the party—keep us in power"; and he can't do that very consistently either, for under his leadership and the subordinate leadership, he has permitted, all that the party stands for—"loyalty," "the flag," "British connection," et hoc genus omne has been utterly discredited. His only claim to support is based on deceiving the electorate in what the electorate holds most dear.

CAUGHT IN HIS OWN TRAP.

The Toronto Star has neatly trapped Mr. Foster.

Like others of his party, Mr. Foster is now showing wonderful hindsight in regard to Canadian-American relations and the American tariff. He told a North Toronto audience the other night that

"the Conservative party had in 1911 foreseen what was coming in the United States and had urged Canada, instead of binding herself by an agreement, to wait until the agitation for tariff reduction had borne fruit."

But the Star, lamenting that in an audience even of North Toronto Conservatives there should not be found one man of sufficient intelligence to question such a statement, quotes from Mr. Foster's speech in the House of Commons on Feb. 14, 1911:

"For you find no intimation amongst the powers that be, or the powers that are to be, in the United States, that while they are quite willing, for purposes which I shall hereafter disclose, to open the barriers and to make free trade between Canada and the United States, they are at all disposed to throw any barriers down against the rest of the world. They do not intend to do it."

Mr. Foster was then arguing against the fact that capital would as a result of its passing turn to the United States rather than to Canada, because the high protection would be maintained there, while in Canada, he said, "unstable conditions would be imported by this arrangement."

Was ever a cabinet minister more crushingly convicted out of his own mouth of perverting facts? Only extremely stupid people, who forget every yesterday to-day, can be persuaded that the Conservative party in 1911 either expected or expressed any wish for the opening of the American food market to our products. It is plain enough what Mr. Foster himself thought. He went on in that speech Feb. 14, 1911, to show in absurd detail what damage to Canada such an opening would bring: see Hansard. The Conservative press echoed him.

Not long ago Mr. Crothers, speaking to a Rodney audience, falsified a speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as a reference to Hansard would show. Messrs. Foster and Borden vie with each other in self-repudiation or contradiction. The present Government is distinguished for this sort of thing. —London Advertiser.

Russian "Ritual Murder" Trial And What It Means

From all civilized countries protests against the "ritual murder" trial now proceeding at Kieff have been sent to the Russian Government, and it is not improbable that the case will be dropped, it having by this time served its end. There can be little doubt that the charge was laid in order to arouse the latent Russian hatred of the Jew, and thus kill the proposal that the pale be abolished and Russian Jews given the same rights as citizens of other religions. But not only has Russia been aroused—the rest of the world has been aroused also, and while it may appear in Russia that a Jew is being tried for ritual murder, it appears to the rest of the world that Russia is being tried for gross superstition and inhumanity, and that on both counts she is likely to be found guilty.

Charge Has Political Motive.

In April, 1911, the body of Andrew Yuschinsky was found in a cave on the outskirts of Kieff. The body bore traces of 47 wounds, evidently inflicted with some short-bladed instrument, such as a chisel. There was comparatively little blood on the body, or on the ground nearby, and this pointed to the fact that the lad had been killed elsewhere and his body conveyed to the lonely cave. News of the crime spread all over Russia, the circumstances being unusual, and came to the ears of M. Markov, a reactionary member of the Duma, who is said to have interested himself in the case with the idea of stirring hatred against the Jews and thus preventing the abolishment of the pale of settlement. At any rate, Markov visited Kieff, and he and some of his friends then publicly charged that the boy had been killed by Jews for the purpose of using his blood as part of a religious ceremony. The cry was taken up, and soon the country rang with it. In the end the Imperial Government ordered an investigation under M. Krassovsky, chief of the Kieff Detective Bureau.

What the Detectives Found.

The detective's report was to the effect that Yuschinsky had in all probability been murdered by a gang of thieves, in order to prevent him giving evidence against them. There was nothing to support the charge or ritual murder, he said. Thereupon Krassovsky was dismissed, and the investigation was turned over to his successor, M. Mischouk. He also found no evidence of ritual murder, and had the folly to say that the charge was preposterous. Not only was Mischouk discharged, with two of his assistants, but they were accused of fabricating evidence favorable to the Jews, and after a long delay, acquittal, a new trial, and conviction, were sentenced to a year's imprisonment. Subsequent official investigators have taken the hint, and if they have found no facts in support of the charge against the Jews, have refrained from discrediting the theory.

Seized by Mysterious Jews.

Finally Mendel Beilis, an obscure Jew brickmaker, was arrested. A woman was produced who said that on the day of the lad's disappearance she had seen him and a young companion named Cheberink playing in a field near the brickyard where Beilis was employed, and that suddenly a black-bearded man, accompanied by two Jews, dressed in black mantles, and peculiar tall hats, rushed forth and dragged Yuschinsky away. The black-bearded man is supposed to be Beilis. It was in vain that Beilis protested that he was not a devout Jew, and that he always worked on Saturday, which is the Jewish Sabbath. A victim was needed, and he suited in most respects, being poor and without influential friends. After his arrest he sent a note to his wife through a discharged prisoner, in which he requested her to pay the bearer for his trouble. This was seized, and was distorted into an order that she should poison two witnesses against him. No doubt the note will figure as damning evidence in the trial.

Murdered by Thieves.

The theory of the prosecution is that Beilis is the mere tool of some powerful Jewish order that sacrifices Christian children in the course of its religious rites, the ceremonial requiring that 45 incisions should be made in the body and the blood thus drained away. The Jew baiters explain the two extra wounds through Beilis' inability to count correctly at an exciting moment. The theory of the Jews, supported by the detectives, is that the boy was killed by a gang of thieves, of which the mother of Chebering, his companion on the morning he disappeared, is a leader. In support of this theory they have produced a couple of boys who found a bloodstained chisel belonging to one of the gang. They threw the chisel down a sewer at the man's order. The detectives believe that after the boy had been murdered his body was disfigured in order that the crime might be blamed on the Jews, and thus not only avert suspicion, but lead to a reign of persecution that would be extremely welcome to all thieves, thugs, and robbers.—Mail and Empire.

THE TWO-FOLD AIM OF BRITISH LAND SCHEME

People Back to the Land to Increase Agricultural Production

SWINDON, ENG., Oct. 23.— Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George this morning dotted the "i's" and crossed the "t's" of the speech in which he inaugurated the Government's land campaign at Bedford on October 11.

He then said that it was his object to "free British land from landlordism and get the people back on it."

The two purposes the Liberal Government had set itself, he said to-day, were to attract and to retain the rural population on the land, and to devise means to develop both the quantity and the quality of the total agricultural production of the British Isles. Everything, he asserted, would be subordinated to the attainment of these two objects.

As the first step, said the Chancellor, it was proposed to establish a Ministry of Lands, with control and supervision of all questions dealing with the users of land both in town and country, and the functions of the present Board of Agriculture would be transferred to the new Ministry.

The Government, he said, intended to take the land out of Chancery.

Hereafter if a landlord found that "some silly settlement" hampered his schemes for improving his land he could apl yto the Ministry of Lands, which would enable him to override the barrier.

The new Ministry, he continued, would operate through commissioners, who would act in a judicial capacity, and have the same power to reduce rents on small farms as the Scottish courts now possess.

Large farmers also would have the right to appeal to the commissioners for a reduction of rent if the action of the State caused a rise in the wages of the farm labourer. In such an event the landlord would have to come in as a contributor, and in times of great agricultural depression a temporary lessening of the rent would be obtainable.

The new Minister of Lands, according to the Chancellor, is to be given full power to acquire at a reasonable price all waste, derelict and neglected tracts of land and to plant them with forests, and to reclaim and drain the springs on such lands with a view to their cultivation to the full limit of their possibilities. The Ministry is to be not only empowered but instructed to act, and the resources of the State would be placed at its disposal for this purpose.

"If they want sport, said the Chancellor, it must be at their own expense, and the games laws would be revised in this direction.

The establishment of a fair minimum wage for labourers, with reasonable hours of work, decent housing and the prospect of the labourer obtaining a bit of land for himself, would all be within the scope of the powers of the Commissioners who would have authority to fix the price of land in the case of compulsory acquisition.

The Government proposed, the Chancellor concluded, to remedy the grave deficiency of cottages in the country by building some themselves with State funds, and "we have got a nice little fund at hand—the insurance reserve fund."

The announcement of the land proposals by Chancellor Lloyd George was made by an absolute and unanimous decision reached at recent meetings of the Cabinet.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN NOTES

Save seed for the best annuals and perennials for sowing next year.

Tulips, narcissi and daffodils may be planted in pots or boxes now for spring flowers.

Nuts for winter use should be gathered now if the matter has not been attended to before.

Viburnum lantana, highbush cranberry and snowberry have been loaded with attractive berries this autumn.

Celery banked with earth late in the fall seems more palatable than where boards are used. Do not bank when the foliage is at all moist as this will aid decay.

FARM AND DAIRY MARKET REPORT

Toronto, Monday, Oct. 20.—Pleasant weather has had a stimulating effect on trade and wholesalers report a good business moving. During the past week, however, the interest of the public has not been in manufactured goods, but in farm products. Both consumers and producers are interested to know how the new Anglo-American tariff will ultimately work out. The results to date have been decidedly satisfactory to the latter, and in the case of beef cattle are already being made on the continental prices. As we promised last week, Farm and Dairy is this week a special issue devoted entirely to matters affected by the new tariff. Anything said here in addition to what is said in the other pages would be superfluous.

WHEAT

The visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada at the present time is 64,973,000 bushels. The supply last year at this time was 61,814,000 bushels. The effect of such a great surplus of wheat has been to cause reductions on both sides of the line. The local market having dropped one cent from last week. Quotations now are: No. 1 Northern, 26c; No. 2, 24½c; Ontario No. 2, outside, 24c to 25c; on track, 25c to 26c.

COARSE GRAINS

The general movement in coarse grains has been downward. Oats and corn both suffering a decline. Ontario farmers must have a considerable quantity of grain on hand, but they are not marketing it. Read will not likely be very plentiful this winter, which would encourage holding. With large shipments of live stock, however, they bring up receipts of grain considerably now are: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 80c; C.W. No. 3, 77½c; Ontario No. 2, 80 to 81½; outside, 78c to 80c here; corn, 98c to 99c; barley, 85c to 86c; rye, 86c to 88c; peas, 95c to 96c. Montreal quotations are: Oats, C.W. No. 2, 87½c to 88c; extra No. 1 feed, 86c to 87½c; local, 85c to 86c.

HAY AND STRAW

The Toronto market has responded to the United States demand and quotations have gone up to a point that makes it possible to hold hay on this side of the line. Quotations now are: No. 1, $24.50 to $25; No. 2, $21 to $24; No. 3, $18 to $20; baled straw, $9. In Quebec, United States buyers are causing a scramble of Canadian hay. Quotations have taken another advance of $2 a ton, making a total of $3.50 in two weeks. Quotations now are: No. 1, $25 to $26.50; No. 2, $22 to $24.50; No. 3, $19 to $20.50.

EGGS AND POULTRY

In a reasonable way receipts are declining and prices climbing. Wholesalers are now quoting new laid eggs at 56c to 58c; fresh, 50c to 52c and storage, 46c to 48c. At Montreal the market is firmer, but quotations so far have not advanced. Dealers are buying 50c a doz. in the country for fresh gathered stock; that is, loss off.

POTATOES AND BEANS

Toronto has responded to the interest that United States dealers are taking in Canadian potatoes and quotations have advanced 10c to 15c. Wholesale dealers are now quoting Ontario potatoes at $1.75 a bag. At Montreal potatoes are quoted in car load lots at 70c to 75c.

Beans here are quoted $4.75 to $5.

DAIRY PRODUCE

Butter and cheese remain firm at the old quotations. The cheese situation from the export standpoint has weakened if anything. In butter there is a strong local demand for everything that is coming along, and what we can't use will rapidly be disposed of in the prairie provinces. Dealers quote dairy prints at 52c to 54c; creamery prints, 55c to 57c; solids, 53c to 55½c; inferior, 50c to 51c. Cheese is rather dull, new large, 26½c to 26¾c; twins, 26½c to 27c; old, large, 35c to 35½c; twins, 35½ to 36½c.

LIVE STOCK

The live stock market is a story of Canadian buyers trying to keep pace with American buyers, or rather trying not to pay as high prices as rule on the American market, but being forced nevertheless to come somewhat near them. The runs this week have been unusually large. A week ago to-day receipts of cattle numbered well over 7,000 head, or 60 per cent more than at any previous market this year. The effect of this large run was to flatten out prices somewhat, but they rapidly regained strength in the latter days of the week. Drovers are independent of the one market now, and it is safe to say the interests on Canadian buyers to bring down the price, or the drovers will go to Buffalo. As in previous weeks the great activity has been in choppers, which have crowded the pens to immense quantities. On the last day of the week they ran numbered 240 cars of stock, all of which sold. Dunlop.

Quotations on average about as follows: Export cattle, choice, $7.50 to $8; medium, $7.15 to $7.50; butchers, choice, $7.25 to $7.75; com. to good, $6.50 to $7.25; bulls, good to choice, $6.50 to $6.75; butcher cows, choice, $6.50 to $6.75; com. to good, $5.75 to $6.25; feeder bulls, $6 to $6.25; feeders, $6.25 to $6.60; stockers, $4 to $4.75; canners and cutters, $3 to $3.50.

The demand from American points had forced up the price of milch cows as well. Choice ones now go at $80 to $110; com. to med., $60 to $85; springers, $60 to $90. Calves are $4.50 to $9.50.

Quotations on small grists are as follows: Wether lambs, $7.25 to $7.75; buck lambs, $6.50 to $7; ewes, $4.50 to $5.50; bucks and culls, $3 to $4.50. Hogs, f.o.b. $8.35; heavy, $8.10; ores, $7.50.

Supplies of cattle continue to pour into the Montreal market. This is attributed to the continued good demand from United States buyers for supplies. The shipment this week being 75 car loads, principally to Buffalo. Quotations are: Choice steers, $7.50 to $7.85; good, $6.75 to $7, and down to $6.25; choice cows, $6.50 to $6.75; common to good, $4.25 to $5.75; common bulls, $4.25 to $5.25; inferior, $3.75 to $4; calves, $5 to $6. Calves are $5 to $8 each; better class, $10 to $15 each. Lambs, $6.25 to $6.75; sheep, $5.

MONTREAL HOG MARKET

Montreal, Friday, Oct. 24.—There were no new developments in the live hog situation this week, prices being about steady owing to the smaller offerings and the good demand for the same from packers, consequently a fairly active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $9 and straight lots at $8.75 a cwt., weighed off cars. On account of the continued mild weather the demand for dressed hogs is only for small lots to fill actual wants, but on the whole a fair trade is passing, and prices rule steady, with sales of abattoir fresh-killed at $11 to $11.50.

EXPORT CHEESE TRADE

Montreal, Friday, Oct. 24.—The market for cheese this week was easy, owing to the continued shortage of orders from Great Britain, and prices in consequence declined a further ½c, and the ruling price paid at country markets was 25½c, with here and there an 25¾c called for colored cheese. Even at these prices, there is a very poor response from the other side; and, unless something improves, still lower prices should rule next week. It is hard to explain the present weak tone in the market, but dealers here are not prepared to speculate in cheese; and, unless the trade in Britain is willing to pay the price, the market here, must go back, to a point at which they are willing to buy. The receipts are well maintained, a number of the factories coming in from the more out of the way districts, and the quantity of cheese now boarded, with last year's figures. The quality of the present up-country cheese is good, but during the next week or two the cool nights will certainly have some effect, and cheese will not be as desirable as they have been during the past few weeks.

The market for butter is steady and prices are well maintained, finest Eastern Townships being quoted at 57½c to 58c, with finest qualities from other sections at 56c to 57½c.

CHEESE MARKETS

Cowansville, Que., Oct. 24.—795 packages of butter; ruling price, 57½c.

London, Ont., Oct. 24.—125 boxes colored, 1,000 white. Bidding, 25½c to 25¾c. No sales.

Brockville, Ont., 24.—1,400 boxes colored and 1 boxes white; the highest bid, 25½c, refused.

A CLEVER BLACKMAILER

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—A blackmailer with a new terror, is giving the post office secret service men a field in which to exercise their talent. He sends to wealthy families a letter filled with a million or so of deadly germs, which he alleges will infect the person opening the letter at once. Death will occur in nine days from some mysterious fever which he does not name.

But he has a serum to prevent death which he will send his victim upon payment of $2,500. It is more than nine days ago since Mrs. Frederick M. Steele, of Highland Park, received the culture Bacilli, and although she opened the missive and looked curiously at the contents she is well yet, but worried. Inspector James E. Stuart says other families have received like messages.

The letter reads in part:

A Startling Missive.

"By opening this letter you have liberated 2,000,000 of healthy bacilli propagated by myself, and without a doubt you are infected by this time but do not become excited—my prophylactic will destroy any number of germs of this zymotic disease in the body, if used by the ninth day.

"Read further and do not leave the room, as you do not want to infect the whole house. Take off the garments that were exposed to the germs and leave them spread out on the floor or over a chair in the next room.

"Next burn this letter with a match, also in the same room, to avoid spreading of the disease.

"A copy of this letter and further directions you will find in the germ proof envelope but don't open it till later."

"Take the germ-proof envelope and leave the room, which it should be advisable to keep locked for six days."

Says Fever is Deadly.

Then followed a description of the disease and its symptoms. "Up to the present only about one person in a thousand recuperated after going through all stages of this disease," he concluded.

The writer gave minute details for the transfer of the $2,500 he demands. He declares that Mrs. Steele's name was chosen from a list of 300 known to be subscribers to charity.

The money he directs is to be left at the Grant Monument in Lincoln Park.

The letter contained a pasty substance between the pages. It was turned over to the laboratory. The chemists found germs but cannot classify them.

DR. GOGGIN DISCUSSES PRACTICAL EDUCATION

go. No force could compel capital to work at a loss.

The church must come into close touch with all the problems that democracy propagates. The church as a social force—and it was much more than that—could help the individual realize that he is his brother's keeper and Christianize his motives.

Through the spread of education came the knowledge of the better things of life and the desire for them, not as a privilege but as a right.

The homes of the urban industrial class have not the moral influence over children exercised by the family life of the farmer; the church gripped fewer members with its theological doctrines than it did a century ago; the trades did less for their apprentices in the modern factory; the press had more influence, libraries were more plentiful; and the school had grown to be a modern giant where formerly it was a puny babe.

From many directions came the cry that the schools are not practical. What was meant by practical was by no means clearly defined in the minds of many who use it. For most it meant the making of a living: for some, the living of a worldly life. The man on the street too often forgot that what helps toward living a worthy life was quite as practical, and as difficult as that which contributed to the making of a living. The school while conserving the boy's individuality and developing his personality, must prepare him for participation in social, political and economic action. It must educate for self-support as well as self-development. And this not in disparagement of literary instruction nor in deference to the spirit of commercialism which pervades our atmosphere, but to prepare the boy to earn a living along the line of his aptitudes and develop the natural resources of his country.

The basis of Germany's commercial supremacy was its superb educational system.

Industrial Schools.

In Ontario provision had been made for a system of industrial and technical training, not surpassed if equalled on this continent. Industrial Schools were being established for the preparation of manual workers in the trades and other industries. The bringing of the manufacturers and workmen into actual touch with the work of the school in the interests of the local industries is one of the strong features of the Act.

The evening school was the chief means by which this system can be brought into touch with our industrial workers.

Also a long step in advance had been taken in the teaching of agriculture.

In Ontario, as in many other countries, attendance at school is compulsory until the pupil is fourteen years of age. Most pupils leave school about 14.

It is that stage in the boy's growth when he tires of books and longs to take a part in the real activities of life.

There was one danger against which we must guard. Our courses of study have widened greatly in the last thirty years, but the brain capacity of the child has remained constant. Breadth as well as depth is essential. There must be thoroughness, and accuracy. Better a few essentials mastered than a mere smattering of many things. It was in the comprehensiveness of our plans that danger lurked.

In conclusion Dr. Goggins told how one of his ex-pupils, in the light of her experience, stated to him that while she had forgotten her arithmetic, grammar, and history, but she remembered the gems of English poetry that had been studied under him.

Dr. Morrison, chairman of the Board of Education, acted as chairman.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you;

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly, backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot "injure" anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Has A Strong Cash Account

C.P.R. Rolled $105,000,000 from Common Stock Sale

The last instalment of 20 per cent., of $35 per share, on the $60,000,000 common stock offered by the Canadian Pacific to its stockholders last January, has been paid. The company now has fully paid an issue of common stock of $260,000,000. The $60,000,000 of additional stock was offered to stockholders at 175, the transaction neting the company $105,000,000, and placing it in an exceedingly strong treasury position.

On June 30 last the company had still to receive $40,050,000 on account of this $60,050,000 stock, issue. At that time the balance sheet of the company showed cash on hand of $30,274,848, so that at the present time there is, roughly, in the company's treasury something over $72,000,000 of cash. This does not allow, of course, for any capital expenditures that may have been made since June 30.

$44,500,000 Due.

Adding to the above total of cash some $44,500,000 due in the form of deferred payments on land and town site sales, and $-0,000,000 temporarily invested in Government securities, Canadian Pacific would appear to have cashr esources in hand and to be received within a few years totalling $1[illegible],000,000. If the item of deferred payments on land sales be excluded, the amount of cash in hand is in excess of $60,000,000. This places the company in a most secure position respecting its large programme of line extensions and improvement.

Havelock Man Was The Victim

Of Pickpockets During the Course of a Visit to Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—On the evening of October 10th, Joe O'Brien of of Havelock was standing at Parkdale Station, waiting on his train, when Frank Nesbitt and John Hicks, two young men, stepped up.

According to the evidence given in the Toronto Police Court yesterday, Hicks jostled the old man, took his watch and $2.50 from his pockets. He afterwards tried to sell the watch but [illegible]

Nesbitt pleaded guilty and he was sentenced to thirty days in the Mimico Reformatory. Then he was put in the witness-box to give evidence against Hicks.

He said Hicks took the watch and that all he was guilty of was of being in his company.

"You ought to have consulted a lawyer before pleading guilty," remarked Crown Attorney Corley.

"I will withdraw the thirty days, and let this man go on suspended sentence," said the Colonel.

Hicks, who has a previous record, was sent to the Central Prison for eight months.

FINE WATCH REPAIRING

Cheap watch repairing may appeal to some, but generally speaking experience proves work done cheaply is generally done poorly, and in the end is the final ruin of a good watch. We have first-class workmen and do only high-class work. No other place can do any better. Our charges are no higher than others for good work. If you have a good watch you will find it economical to have us do your repairing.

Hebrews Observe. Thanksgiving

Ancient Biblical Custom Maintained by Hebrew Residents in Peterborough

The Feast of Succoth, in other words, the Festival of Thanksgiving, commenced yesterday and is being celebrated to-day by the Hebrews of this City. This festival of the Hebrews, which corresponds to the Day of Thanksgiving of English-speaking races, has many names, and also is well established in ancient and Biblical history.

Some call this festival the Eighth Day of Solemn Assembly, some call it the last of the Feast of the Tabernacles, others call it the Feast of Succoth, but under whatever name it comes it is commented upon in the Hebrew Scriptures. It is an annual festival dating from ancient times, and commemorates the entrance of Israel into Canaan, together with the new epoch in the development of Israel's religious life.

ON RECOMMENDING

By RUTH CAMERON

It is often said that one should never recommend a servant, a dressmaker or a doctor.

I am inclined to go much beyond that and say, "Never recommend anything or anybod.

The passionate desire to blame someone when anything goes wrong is one of the most universal of human emotions. We all know the fury that assails us when we bump our heads, or bruise our shins upon some inanimate object, and have nothing but that object to blame. Who has not sometimes childishly retaliated by actually kicking an offending chair?

And we all know what a temptation it is to blame some meek member of the family—usually mother—when family affairs go wrong. It is this same unreasonable, but unconquerable tendency which makes the business of recommending so very risky.

I once recommended to a close friend a washerwoman who had done my washing in a first-class manner for a reasonable sum. I did not, be it understood, force this information upon my friend. I gave it in answer to urgent inquiries on her part. Perhaps I did speak very heartily, but then the woman was, to my way of thinking, an unusually good washerwoman; and enthusiasm is one of my weaknesses.

After that unguarded moment I soon learned to dread meeting my friend, for she always brought me bad news of the washerwoman. She had charged exorbitantly, she had let the colour run in a new shirt waist; she was late with the clothes,—for these and numerous other faults I was tacitly reproached and hypnotized into apologizing.

Finally, when I could stand it no longer, in a moment of courage, I spoke my mind. I told my friend that the washerwoman was a very good worker to my way of thinking, and that if she didn't think so, I hoped she would cease to employ her but that in any case I didn't want to hear another word about it. Needless to say, our friendship suffered somewhat from this experience.

Of course, this is not by any means the only time I have ever suffered in this way. It is merely my bitterest, my latest and I hope my last experience, in the folly of recommending anything or anybody.

To be sure there is another side to this as to everything. I suppose if your friends were pleased with anything you recommended they would thank you and you ought also to be willing to accept blame if you accept praise. But somehow the praise seems to me to be a great deal scarcer than the blame. Perhaps my experience is unfortunate, and unique, I don't know. Of one thing I'm sure. In the future when I am asked about plays, doctors, tailors, restaurants, summer places, etc., etc., I shall tell my own personal experience with as little enthusiasm as possible and then add politely but firmly that remember this is only my experience, don't go by my recommendation."

That ought to save me from any come-back, oughtn't it?

I wonder if it will?

N.B.—Not an hour after writing this I caught myself saying, "You really ought to try the S— Inn. I never was so well treated in my life." Evidently the desire to recommend things I have found worth recommending is too strong in me to be uprooted at will. I am not sure that I am sorry.

Headache And Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Spotts, Bayside, Lake C B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I was, others to prove the splendid medicine I am, attending to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

SAUSAGE ROLLS.

Here is something very nice. When you are making baking powder biscuit save out a little of the dough, roll it quite thin, cut into squares large enough to wrap around a sausage, pinch the ends together and bake till brown. The fat in the sausage will shorten the crust. You will find them well worth a trial.

THE LAST SATURDAY OF THE OCTOBER SHOE SALE

SOME FINE 3.50 TO 4.50 WOMEN'S BOOTS BEING CLEARED AT 2.49

Some very smart and serviceable Boots are embraced in this clearance.

There are "J. & K." Patents and a Kid Boot with Cravenette cloth top; also some well-fitting, stylish Street Boots in the new lasts, having the long narrow toe.

Others there are, made upon the broader style, comprising in all a very select and ample choice in correct footwear.

Particular emphasis should be placed on the fact that some of these lines were originally twice the sale price.

Saturday $2.49

HIGH GRADE AMERICAN & CANADIAN BOOTS 3.89 4.50 to 5.00 LINES

Looking over the assortment, one will be struck with the fine quality and finish of these Boots.

The little model in All-Suede is most neat and elegant, while the patent button, with cloth top, is certainly very comfortable, yet of smart appearance.

There are a number of other different styles, each Boot expressing good taste, and containing the leather and workmanship that usually demands a selling price of $4.50 to $5.00.

Until the Sale ends, these are $3.89

DONGOLA KID AND BOX CALF BLUCHERS $1.59

Here are two good lines that make very acceptable Boots for the Miss attending School. The Dongola Kid has a patent toe, and is made with double extension sole and medium heel. The Box Calf is a somewhat heavier Shoe, and both are made in Blucher style from the same last.

These are very cheap Boots at $1.59

48 SAMPLE COATS FOR WOMEN

The very word "sample" is in itself sufficient evidence that these Coats are the best of their kind, because a manufacturer sees to it that his samples are right.

In the whole 48, there is mostly only one of a kind; fashioned in warm, appropriate materials, such as Boucles, Diagonals, Chinchillas, etc., while the cut leaves nothing to be desired as far as a stylish appearance is concerned.

In them is combined the smartly rounded corners and convertible collar, while by no means least in importance is the fact that, being samples, these Coats are to be obtained on Saturday for considerably less than ordinary prices.

Let us emphasize this advantage to all who need a Fall and Winter Coat, for there is a very fine choice, and values could hardly be better.

DRESSES, BLOUSES AND SUITS

THE NEWEST THE MARKETS HAVE TO OFFER

It seems that every available space in the Read-to-Wear Section is taken up with some new article of woman's attire.

It may be the Fall Dresses that catch one's first glance, or perhaps the natty new Suits, with their smart styles and beautiful cloths, compel one's attention.

Or likely enough it's the Blouses. For in these pretty garments there certainly was never shown such diversity of design, material or colour. One would think it hardly possible not to find the particular one that meets one's own need and fancy.

And whether it be Blouse, Dress, or Suit that attracts one's attention, one may rest assured that upon inquiring into the price, such value in material, workmanship, and design could not be bought cheaper.

VELVET RUGS OF RICH DURAB E PILE $18.98

And this particular price $18.98 pertains to the size 9 feet by 10 feet 6 inches, and is a few dollars less than the regular figure. There is a beautiful and varied choice in colour and design, rugs of this description being suitable for any room in the house.

PRETTY HATS THAT ARE NOT EXPENSIVE

The extensive array of handsome Autumn and Winter headgear in our Millinery Showrooms proves the statement in the headline that a smart Hat is not necessarily expensive, because these are marked at figures around $5.00. We had them made in our own workrooms, and say with confidence that the popular price of $5.00 for a hat could not be more wisely spent than upon one of these models, made ready for immediate wear.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" best for tender stomach, liver, bowels, —Tastes delicious

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on — castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old from of physic simply don't realise what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Sanitary Cup In Operation

Has Been Attached to Fountain at Corner of Simcoe and Water Streets

CITY HALL NOTES

The sanitary drinking cup that has been attached to the fountain at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets is receiving scant attention from the general public. The prevailing weather is not conducive to the consumption of aqua pura, consequently, the tax on a sanitary drinking appliance is reduced to a minimum. The cup is constructed so as to enable the individual to drink without the necessity of touching any portion of the cup. The flow of water is regulated by a small tap at the side. People unacquainted with its operation have the option of drinking from the old fashioned drinking cup that has come in for much condemnation from various health Boards throughout the country. The new sanitary cup has been approved of by the local Board of Health, and it is altogether probable that it will be retained in general use throughout the City.

Street Paving.

The street paving scheme came to an abrupt but temporary conclusion this morning due solely to weather conditions. As a result a large corps of men were thrown on their own resources, and a general holiday was proclaimed. The concrete mixer is stalled at the intersection of George and Hunter streets, where it stands in silent testimony to the fact that it is under the domination of the weather. The water-logged appearance of the atmosphere would indicate a continuance of the prevailing weather, in which case the concrete base on George street will not be completed this week as was anticipated by the contractors. This brand of weather will find favour with the farmers who have long been complaining of the drought and its consequent effect upon the fall ploughing.

Harwood Ladies In Bad Runaway

HARWOOD, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Drope and Mrs. Merriam were seriously injured in a runaway accident a few days ago. Each lady had her left leg broken and Mrs. Drope was dragged for a considerable distance. The team they were driving became frightened just outside Mr. Drope's residence and started to run away. Both ladies jumped from the seat and Mrs. Merriam caught her left leg in a wheel. They received severe bruises in addition to the injuries already mentioned.

MAD STEER TIRED SEVEN BRAVE HUNTERS

On Tuesday morning when Mr. J. Pogue and his son George, of Devitt's settlement, were driving cattle to Peterboro, one of the animals went mad, and although he was blindfolded they were unable to capture him. They had to leave him in the woods. The fleet-hearted men of Devitt's settlement turned out on Wednesday for the big hunt. All told, the steer put seven of them up trees. After labouring him three times, Mr. Pogue was successful in capturing the animal. This is not the first time this same steer has became enraged. Last fall Mr. Walter Johnson had a narrow escape, and had it not been for his ability in gymnastics would have been killed. We hope nothing serious will happen, as the animal is still in the settlement. It would be a happy deliverance if he were canned.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

GENERAL BOOTH'S VISIT

The General of the Salvation Army, Mr. Bramwell Booth, sails from England to-day, Oct. 23, for America, where he plans a wide campaign of all the leading cities of both Canada and the United States. He will make the visits brief, however, as his time is limited, and he needs hurry things on his world-wide tour.

The General will be accompanied on his trip to America by Commissioner David C. Lamb, the International Secretary of the Salvation Army, Commissioner John Lawley and Colonel Kitching, all of whom come from London, Eng. Provided everything goes well, the General will arrive in Toronto via the 3.45 train on Saturday, November the first, and will be the recipient of a great ovation which will be extended to him by all the Salvation Army officers and friends from Halifax to Winnipeg. There will be a great march from the station to the City Hall, where he will be welcomed by the right hand of fellowship of the Mayor H. C. Hocken of the Board of Control.

In the evening the General will conduct a great council of war with the soldiers of the Salvation Army in Cook's Presbyterian Church.

On Sunday, Nov. 2, the General will address a meeting in Massey Hall at 11 o'clock a.m. Then again in the afternoon at 3 o'clock p.m. he will deliver a lecture on the subject, "Some Lessons of My Father's Life and Work." The chair will be occupied by the Honourable Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Sir John M. Gibson, K.C., L.L.D., assisted by the Honourable Sir James P. Whitney and Mayor Hocken and other leading men of the City.

At 7 p.m. the General will preach a mass meeting.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday there will be a staff and field officers' council. The General will then proceed to Winnipeg, and on Saturday, Nov. 8th, will conduct a council meeting. He will preached at 11 o'clock a.m. and 7 o'clock p.m. in the Walker Theatre. A lecture will be given by the General again at 3 p.m. The chair will be occupied by the Hon. D. C. Cameron, Governor of Manitoba, supported by other leading men of the city. The officers from British Columbia and the west will attend the meeting at Winnipeg. The General will then proceed onward to New York and Chicago on his campaign. This being the first visit of the new General to America, a great deal of interest is being displayed.

Interruption Of Service Is Nearly Over

The residents of the City living in the vicinity of Jackson Park and all those who depend on the street railway system for transportation to that neighbourhood, will be pleased to learn that the cars will again be running on that section of the City in the near future. The bridge over the Jackson Park creek, crossed by the cars, has for the past few weeks been out of commission, as the old bridge was being replaced by a new and modern structure. The new one is drawing near completion and if the weather permits the cars will be running again over the creek in the early part of the week. The ties are now placed in position and the rails only have to be laid.

Body Will Arrive Sunday

Funeral of the Late Herbert Miller Will Take Place on Monday

Word has been received by Mr. F. W. Miller, 348 Water Street, that the body of his son, Herbert Miller, who was electrocuted in Winnipeg, on Tuesday last, will arrive in Peterborough on Sunday night. George Miller, brother of the deceased, will accompany the remains. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the residence of the deceased's father, 348 Water Street.

Pupils Walked Out Of School

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, ONT., Oct. 24.—When Inspector Sommerby of Toronto, visited the German Separate School on Cumberland Avenue yesterday, the pupils left the building. When he visits St. Peter's this afternoon the same thing will occur. In fact, such is the feeling engendered by the appearance of an inspector and the reappearance of the obnoxious Clause 17 of Separate school regulations that trouble is apprehended if he makes an attempt towards its enforcement. There may be serious riots. The announcement that the Separate schools of Ottawa will lose the Provincial grant on account of their failure to enforce Clause 17 has aroused a spirit of opposition and determination among the members of the Boards. "The French Canadians of Ontario will take steps to induce the government to do its duty," said Mr. Genest, President of the School Board, to-day. "If they don't do it willingly, then we will force them against their will. The minority of Ontario is entitled through the British North America Act, to financial support from the province."

Dr. Freeland, member of the Separate School Board, representing the English-speaking section, was even more emphatic. "The Board has no intention of making up the amount," he said. "We will likely sue the government for it, and thus open up the whole question in the courts."

TO-MORROW'S RUGBY GAME

Lindsay and Peterborough Collegiates will clash in a Rugby game at Nichalls Oval to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock and local fans who appreciate a lively tussle between teams who know the game thoroughly should not fail to attend. The local Collegiate will have a stronger line-up than last week when they were defeated in Lindsay, and they expect to get revenge to-morrow when the Scugog team visits the City. The youngsters are playing good Rugby and the game should be well worth seeing.

SHAUGHNESSY IS WORRIED

Examiner Special:

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy left here last night for the East. He was very much worried by recent events, which he has been investigating, including the failing of the million bushel elevator, the starvation of four thousand cattle in the yards, for which cattle men blame the C. P. R. and the fatal wreck at Chapleau, where five were killed. It is understood there will be a considerable shake up in the high places as a result of these accidents.

SIR WILFRID TO TAKE PART

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier leaves on Monday to take part in the South Bruce bye-elections. He will address one meeting at Teeswater on Tuesday, Oct. 28. Hon. C. J. Doherty, the Minister of Justice, also leaves on Monday to take part in the campaign. The voting takes place on Thursday next.

FOG DELAYS THE EMPRESS

Examiner Special:

TORONTO, Oct. 24—Most of the steamships due in Canadian ports this week have been delayed about twenty-four hours by fog. The Corsican of the Allan Line, which was due in Quebec yesterday, is expected to dock this afternoon. A wireless has been received from the Empress of Britain, stating that she is expected to dock at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught are on board.

NARROW ESCAPE

What might have been a serious fatality occurred this afternoon when the eavestrough in front of Mason's grocery store, on George Street, precipitated itself to the ground and on its descent passed through an awning and narrowly escaped hitting two gentlemen who happened to be passing that way.

A HORSE FOR THE FARM WOMAN

One of the greatest pleasures of country life to my mind is to take a spin along a good country road in a nice rubber-tired buggy or comfortable cutter. The vehicle in which we are riding, however, contributes just one-half of the enjoyment. In order to appreciate the drive we must have a horse that presents a good appearance and one that makes good time.

Aside from the pleasure afforded us through this source, it is necessary to drive to city or town many times in a year on business, and this is often times just where the difficulty presents itself for the farm woman.

A few days ago when my daughter and I were driving to our neighboring town we met a heavy farm wagon, and the occupants of the springless seat were a man and his wife and little child. The contrast between that outfit and our comfortable rubber-tired buggy and smart driver was very vivid. Evidently this woman had no horse that she could drive, and simply had to go to town whenever an opportunity presented itself.

We know that on the farm, in the busy seasons of the year especially, it is almost impossible for the man to leave their work and take the women-folks to town. If these women are not provided with a horse that they can drive, how is the difficulty to be overcome?

A HORSE, BUT UNSUITABLE

I believe that on a considerable number of farms now-a-days if we were to question the man of the house on this point we would be answered somewhat after the following manner: "Oh yes, we always keep a horse that my wife can drive any place she wishes to go." If we investigate more closely, however, we are quite apt to find that this animal is one of the heavy working horses, and that as a rule the very time the woman of the house wants to go away from home this horse cannot be spared from work, or it will be so tired and lazy that she could walk almost as quickly as it travels.

We farm women like to appear well before our town and city sisters, and this is only natural, but it is impossible for us to do so if we must drive what is commonly called an "old plug" that is hitched to a buggy or cutter presenting an equally unfavorable appearance.

While we who live in the country are somewhat isolated we have access to the city or town by driving and are really better off than are those living in the urban districts, who must either board the street car or walk wherever they wish to go. At least we are better off if we have a nice horse and rig.

Being a strong believer in making things as pleasant and comfortable as possible in farm life, I should say that one of the first ways of doing so is by providing the farm women with a nice horse. What do you think about it, sisters?

WOMEN AS CHEESE MAKERS

There are few fields of enterprise nowadays that have not been invaded by the women folk. Even the cheese business is not immune from feminine influence. We used to speak of "the boys." The time may soon be here when it will not do to forget "the ladies" as well. In the Special Household Number three years ago, we told of the cheese making experience of Misses Mary and Agnes Morrison of Newry, Ont. These two ladies not only made cheese for years, but they made such good cheese they won awards with it at such exhibitions as the Indian Exhibition, London, Eng., the World's Fair, Chicago, and the Cheese Makers Trophy, three times in succession at Toronto.

The Misses Morrison are not the only Canadian ladies who have won fame as cheese makers. Mrs. W. Wilson of Apsley, Ont., was awarded a handsome bronze medal at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, in 1893. And then in the Special Household Number last year, Mrs. E. Drewry, a successful cheese maker of Northumberland Co., Ont., discussed cheese making as an occupation of women, and Mrs. George Laithwaite, of Huron Co., Ont., who won the gold medal at the National Dairy Show at Chicago in 1911, discussed the making of cheese at home.

The subject of our sketch this year is a United States lady, Mrs. Schely, of Dundas, Wis. Mrs. Schely owns and operates her own factory, and a discussion of her cheese making methods as described in the article following, as written by her for the Butter, Egg, and Cheese Journal, along with the photographs, add one more little bit of evidence to prove our contention that there are very few things in the world that women cannot do and do well, all hoary prejudices to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Place For Storing Potatoes

—Farm and Dairy.

The place for storing potatoes should have plenty of ventilation. Bins ought not to be over eight feet square and should have slat walls with hollow partitions, or there should be plenty of ventilating tubes with slat sides reaching from top to bottom of the bin. Where bins are as large as eight feet square a ventilating tube in the middle of each one would be desirable. Ventilation helps to carry off moisture, thus keeping the potatoes dry and making it possible to cool them off quickly in the fall and keep them cool during the winter.

The best temperature for potatoes is as near 35 degrees Fahrenheit as possible. A good tested thermometer or several in different locations and at different heights should be kept in the cellar and watched at frequent intervals.

In putting potatoes into a storage cellar they should be run over a screen that will take out the dirt. Large potato cellars should be filled in layers so as to give the potatoes the best possible opportunity to cool off and dry. Dumping a whole day's digging in one place is not the best practice.—A. H. Kohler.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SHEFFIELD PEOPLE WILL HAVE THEIR DERBY DAY

To-morrow When Their Two Local Teams Will Clash---Old Country Soccer Fixtures For Saturday

The Blackburn Rovers are scheduled to play Tottenham Hotspur at Tottenham on Saturday. On the last two occasions that these two clubs met, the "Rovers" proved victorious, and they should have no difficulty in repeating the same thing on Saturday.

The Sheffield people will have their local Derby-day, as their two local teams meet each other. Neither team has shown up very well this season, and it looks as if they are pretty evenly matched. Manchester City and Everton will do battle at Hyde road, and though the City has been doing badly this year, they should at least hold their own with the "Toffee" boys. The two "Uniteds," Manchester and Newcastle, clash on the latter's ground, and judging on form, Manchester should capture another two points.

Bury Meet Bristol.

Bury, after their first defeat of last Saturday, should be out for blood when they entertain Bristol City at Bury. Leicester Fosse should have no difficulty in increasing their lead in the table at the expense of Stockport County.

Swindon Town at Home.

The marvelous record of Swindon Town should be further increased to nine consecutive wins when they meet Norwich City at Swindon. All the rest of the games should provide ding-dong struggles.

Hearts Still Unbeaten.

Hearts are the only team in the Scottish League to maintain an unbeaten record and they should keep this up against Third Lanark. The chief game will be between Rangers and Celtic, who are tied for second place with seventeen points each. The following are the British games scheduled:

COMPLAINS ABOUT THE SERVICE

Ashes Should Be Collected Twice a Week in Winter

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—All last summer when there were few, if any, ashes to be collected, they were removed twice a week. Now, when furnaces are being used and there is a much larger quantity to be taken away, the service is only once a week, which is very inconvenient. The carts are so high that a man could not lift and empty a very heavy receptacle, so one has to have an array of small ones. It seems an absurd arrangement and a pity it could not be altered.

HOT OR COLD?

Varied Beliefs Held Concerning Hell.

Many tribes or nations since the world began have had no religious idea at all of a heaven. But there is, perhaps, not one that has not a well defined, not to say lurid, notion of hell.

And these ideas of hell—of hades, of sheol, of the place of punishment—are as varied as the names it goes by.

Apart from the theory of a burning pit of brimstone full of vomiting, screaming souls, who must burn forever, there have been dozens of others. Oddly enough people who live in southern countries have always inclined to a belief in a red-hot hell while among the Eskimos and other Arctic races the notion of hell is a place of utter and unrelieved cold, where persons who have with difficulty fought off cold throughout all their moral lives must endure horrible, icy chills throughout all eternity.

In ancient Egypt hell was painted as a desert alive with serpents, ghosts and hideous monsters and swayed by intolerable heat and thirst. Every people packing out is their own hell the type of place that seemed to them most unpleasant, it was but natural that the Egyptian hell should have been a desert, hot and snake-strewn.

The Hindus also preached a monster-filled hell paved with glowing coals and beset with pits of bubbling, boiling oil. A bed of fire and food consisting of molten metal were side features of this.

In Assyria it was believed the souls of sinners lived on dry dust in a black cavern and sometimes flitted back to earth as vampires.

The Chinese believed there were no less than 6 hells crying with horrors. On the red-hot floor of one of these crawled deadly scorpions. The Greeks and Romans told of a dark, gloomy place far under the earth where sinners performed various wearisome feats, such as baling out the sea with a sieve or forever rolling a hugh rock uphill, etc.

Old Omar Khayyam was apparently almost the only man of ancient days to voice so modern a theory as "My soul returned to me and answered, 'I myself am heaven and hell!'"

The Scandinavians feared an ice-bound, pitch black region where wolves ravened and serpents stung. The ancient Hebrew writers declared hell was 188,000,000 times as large as this earth — surely a commodious and roomy dwelling place for a whole worldful of sinners and arranged with expectation of a large population.

The early English believe in a hell alternately horribly hot and bitterly cold—and this before New York's climate was known.

The Moslems, through the Koran, are told of a hell full of "flameless smoke and smokeless flame," whose inmates "shall be dragged into hell by their forelocks and their feet, and there shall be cut out for them garments of fire."

These are but a few of the more vivid and lurid conceptions of a place of torment for evildoers. With such horrors before them, it is a wonder all the world's inhabitants were not scared into goodness centuries ago.

THE NORSEMEN.

The Most Romantic Figures In History Were the Old Vikings.

Perhaps the most romantic figures in history, at least to the boys and girls who love adventure and daring deeds, are the Vikings. Centuries have passed since the appearance of an unknown ship at sea was the signal for terrified prayer by priests and people, the burden of which was, "Save us, O Lord, from the rage of the Norsemen." But even to this day the word Viking has power to thrill such as few other words possess.

Norway is the real home of the Vikings, for, from the fabled time when Odin, their god, led his followers out of Asia and settled with them in Norway, such an unreasoning love of freedom influenced the fierce Norsemen that not one of them was willing to be ruled and all wanted to rule, thus it came about that the country was divided into very small portions and over each portion ruled a petty lord, known as a jarl or earl. These little domains naturally quarrelled continually, and so things were in a sad plight until Harold, the Fair-Haired, upon the death of his father, was proclaimed King. The lad was but ten years old at the time, but the Norsemen matured early, and so it was not very long before he fell in love with Gyda, the beautiful daughter of a petty king ruling over a neighboring land. He sent an ambassador to ask her hand in marriage, as was the custom of the time, but Gyda, who evidently was very ambitious indeed, sent back a message saying that she would become King Harold's wife only when he had conquered all of Norway and bent it to his rule as King Erik had conquered Sweden. As soon as Harold had received his message he took a solemn oath not to cut his beautiful hair until he won Gyda for a bride on her own conditions.

True to his word, he conquered Norway, and, as a consequence, Gyda became his bride.

Up to the time of the wedding feast he had been known as "The Frowsy Haired"; but afterward he was called all over his conquered kingdom, Harold Haarfeiger, which means the fair-haired.

It was with the reign of Harold the Fair-Haired that the Viking age began.

Although Harold had conquered Norway, he had by no means subdued the fierce love for freedom in the hearts of his subjects. Those who had ruled over petty kingdoms refused to be subject to the rule of any man, and so they sailed away and became sea robbers, or Vikings.

BUSHY TAILED RATS.

They Will Steal Anything Bright That They Can Carry Away.

In the west and north as far as Hudson bay a species of rat is found that has a tail like the squirrel and is known as the bushy tailed rat, although more familiarly as the pack rat because of the curious trait it has of packing off with everything it can get hold of and carry. One reads a great many things regarding the intelligence of rats, but from all accounts these pack rats seem to be the clever est of the race.

Trappers and campers out tell innumerable stories about them. They will steal knives, forks, spoons, any thing, in fact, that is bright and portable, and will carry the stolen articles to their nests to play with or take them somewhere and leave them in place of other articles they steal. Dr. Merriam, the naturalist, was told a story by a hunter which illustrated this odd fancy of the pack rat.

The hunter had gone to sleep, leaving a knife sticking in a log. He was awakened in the night by a noise which he discovered by the light of the campfire was made by a couple of pack rats sitting on the log in which the hunter had left the knife. The knife was gone and the rats were trying to put a stick about a foot long in its place. They were making an effort to get the stick to stand up in the crack, but not having the skill to insert it properly fell it repeatedly, making the odd sound which had disturbed and awakened the owner of the knife.

PERSIAN OPIUM.

Turning the Poppy Juice Into Dried Cakes For Export.

Persian opium juice is sold in large copper vessels by the grower to the merchant, in whose hands it undergoes several processes in order to preserve it from fermentation and decay. On sunny, fine, hot days the Persian caravanseries, where opium dealers have their magazines, present an interesting picture. The juice is brought out to be prepared into cakes for export.

On large wooden boards, two and a half feet long and one and a half feet broad, the sticky mass is spread out with spade-like tools to permit the water it contains to evaporate. Experienced workers move from board to board, turning over the layers every now and then, that the heat and sun may dry up the exposed surfaces and render the opium fit for making into cakes. In favorable weather this process takes only an hour or so, and the opium is ready for the next manipulation.

It is now scraped off and is rolled into stiff, dough-like lumps and handed to a man who divides it into smaller portions, weighing one pound each, which he passes on to molders, by whom they are pressed into the wooden forms and then laid on a large board for the final drying process. When this is completed the cakes are rolled up in red paper imported specially from China. One hundred and forty-four are put in tin lined wooden cases are covered with strong bides and sacking. Two cases form a mule load.—Christian Herald.

Loan Shark Loses Appeal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Daniel H. Tolman, known to many cities in the United States and Canada as "King of the Loan Sharks," must serve six months in jail for usury. The Supreme Court so decided yesterday in denying his appeal from conviction on Oct. 9 of having violated the law in charging a bonus of $5 for a $10 loan for three months. Although he may appeal to the Court of Appeals, the court decided that pending the outcome of such appeal he must be sent to jail.

Eight Dollars a Month!

Robert Sams, a farm laborer, has died at Castle Hedingham, Essex, England, in his 100th year. He married at the age of 25, and brought up a family of seven on a wage of eight shillings a week.

Ladies! Look Young Darken Grey Hair

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Grey hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns grey and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay grey! Look younger! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

When Birds Are Helpless.

Some of nature's most active creatures show strange helplessness under certain conditions. Place a buzzard in a pen six or eight feet square entirely open at the top, and the bird will be as absolutely a prisoner as if it were hermetically sealed in the inclosure.

This is because buzzards never begin a flight from the ground without starting on a run of three or four yards. If they cannot have that preliminary run they either cannot or will not attempt to fly, and so a buzzard will remain a prisoner for life in a jail with a wide-open top.

So with the bumblebee. One of these lively insects dropped into a goblet or tumbler will remain there always unless taken out, because it never notices the means of escape at the top.

Starting Something.

"While you are in asking papa for my hand in marriage, Phillip, I'll be playing something lively on the piano," said the sweet young thing.

"No, I wouldn't do that, Jessica," replied the young man. "You know some people can't keep their feet still when they hear lively music."—Yonkers Statesman.

Sometimes They Are Wrong.

"A woman never admits that she was wrong."

"I don't know about that," replied Mr. Meekton. "A number of them seem particularly anxious to prove that they showed pretty poor judgment in selecting husbands."—Washington Star.

NEW CONVENIENT TRAIN TO WINNIPEG.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

The popularity of Canadian Pacific service, and the excellence of that road's equipment, has been so greatly appreciated by the travelling public that it has been found necessary to put into service an entirely new Through Standard Express Train between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Commencing Sunday, October 26th, the "Gate City Express" will leave Toronto at 2.30 p.m., and will run daily thereafter, arriving Winnipeg at 8.25 a.m. second morning. The train will consist of the highest-class modern equipment; Observation Compartment Car, Standard Sleeping Cars, Tourist Sleeping Car, Dining Car, First-class Coach and Colonist Car. This will be found the most convenient and best train between Toronto and Winnipeg on account of the daylight departure from Toronto at an hour when the Union Station is not badly congested, and also on account of the early hour of arrival at Winnipeg.

The present "Vancouver Express" will continue to leave Toronto at 10.20 p.m. daily and will consist of the same equipment as the "Gate City Express." This train is the best to take for points west of Winnipeg, but for Winnipeg and east the "Gate City Express" is the right train to travel by.

Full particulars from any Canadian Pacific Agent or write M. G. Murphy, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

URIC ACID SUFFERING
Uric acid is an accumulation of poisons which should be removed from the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones. In the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any part it causes pain and suffering in almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

THE HOME GARDEN

Dishes are all washed, and I have a few minutes in which I may comply with Farm and Dairy's request for a few notes on my kitchen garden. When the request first came to hand, it struck me as being hardly a seasonable subject. On second thought, it appeared a very reasonable one, for it is my observation that preparations for the best gardens in the district begin about now. From where I sit I can see the hired man following the plow up and down the furrows of my garden. Practically everything has been removed, and I like to have the land plowed early, as I believe it results in better growth next year.

My plan is to have all staple vegetables grown along with the field crops, that is in the fields of the farm you will find the potatoes that carry us through the winter, the carrots, beets, cabbages, parsnips, turnips, and so forth. The home garden, which is my special care, is quite small, only about 40 feet square, located at the side of the house right near the kitchen door. In this garden I make a specialty of early things. For instance, the rhubarb and asparagus beds supply us with green stuff from very early in the season. Lettuce and radish are started in the hot bed along with the early tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, and celery plants. I could not get along without my hot bed, and I would suggest that any time to start construction [illegible] now. It cannot be [illegible] in the spring.

In our home garden we also grow a few rows of early potatoes, beets for [illegible], cucumbers, and anything else that we would like to have early.

Do you notice how every thing that is put in from time to time gets bigger in the summer in the mind's eye? It is the same with a garden. Some of my neighbors have been putting off making a kitchen garden for over a score of years now, until it looks like a bigger proposition than lifting the mortgage from the farm. A good garden starts with the planning. Start now and have the piece of land plowed that you wish for a garden next spring. In the winter evenings plan just exactly what you will have in that garden; get hold of the first good catalogue issued, order your seeds and have everything ready. If you follow these directions, there is no reason why anyone could not have as good a garden as mine.—Farm and Dairy.

Stock Markets

A. H. Stratton & Co., Brokers, report the following:

To-morrow should reflect strength in the stock market again. Improvement may be more specializing for the time being. We expect to see some evening up on account of the Mexican election Sunday. Considerable weight is laid by the bear element upon the stiff men's bearish expressions, but may be well to bear in mind the fact that the big interests do not shout from the house-tops their bullishness, when they are buying stocks they may not themselves at the time of accumulation be able to see accurately into the future, but they have the confidence and take "a chance."

We see gradually improving conditions. The bear element find it easy at times to depress prices, but here is the point, do they get the stock, we think not. We believe A.C.P., C.P., Rds., S.P., St. Paul, G.O., N.P., Erie and R.I. stocks represent good opportunities for the bull operators.

OLD FOLKS FIND CROXONE RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away. Few Doses Relieve Backache and Bladder Disorders

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

Croxone relieves all such disorders because it reaches the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralises and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve the most chronic, obstinate case.

An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorised to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

Ottawa Separate School Board Will Fight, Says Genest

CALLS THE RULE BLACKMAIL

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Speaking of the withdrawal of the Ontario Government's grant from the local separate school board because of the latter's failure to carry out the bilingual regulations, Chairman Samuel Genest yesterday issued a hot defi to the Educational Department.

"We are deprived of the grant because we fail to obey the law," he declared. "The Government forgets that we base our conduct on a Dominion law, a higher authority than theirs; and when the Ontario Government or the Department of Education enacts legislation which, besides being unjust and despotic, is in conflict with the British North America Act, it is the duty of the Separate School Board trustees to tell the Government that it is exceeding its rights and to demur. This action of withholding the Government's educational grant from the separate schools, which have an undeniable right to it in virtue of the British North America Act, is as flagrant an injustice as one could imagine. It is mere blackmail; they want to rob us of our children, for what else does it mean to deprive us, the parents, of our control over their education? This despicable move is in the same class as the ransoms exacted from the parents by the kidnapping gangsters of New York City. To my mind, it is worse."

Mr. Genest, in a further statement on the latest developments on the bilingual trouble, said yesterday afternoon: "We are prepared to stand to our guns and I may state that they are not, as in Ulster, wooden guns. They may take my position, property and income away from me, but still I will fight them. This is indeed a serious matter with me, as well as with a great many of my countrymen."

Will Stick, Says Lucas.

BOLTON, Ont., Oct. 25.—"The Government will stick to its bilingual regulations," declared Hon. I. B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer, who came here last night to speak in the interest of Mr. J. R. Fallis, Conservative candidate in the Peel County by-election. He stated that these same regulations would be enforced regardless of opposition. Mr. Lucas also charged that the present administration's political opponents were behind the bilingual agitation.

Some 300 people turned out to hear the Provincial Treasurer, who was supported by Messrs. James Downey, president of Peel County Conservative Association, J. J. Donaghy of Brampton, J. R. Fallis, and Richard Blain, M.P. for Peel.

FIVE MEN HELD UP.

Desperado Kills One and Mortally Wounds a Second.

DENVER, Col., Oct. 25.—A bandit running amuck near the heart of the city early yesterday held up five pedestrians within a few blocks, and shot and instantly killed T. J. Chase of Palmer Lake, Col., and mortally wounded E. A. Clark of this city. The bandit fled before an automobile filled with police, who tracked him from the scene of one hold-up to another, only to arrive too late.

The shooting began when the bandit held up Antonio Fuguris, a street sweeper, sending a bullet through his hat. A few minutes later F. A. Clark staggered into a drug store with a bullet through his right lung. Four blocks away, Chase met his death. Without a word the bandit shot him through the heart. He held up and robbed two others without shooting them.

SESSION ADJOURNED.

Prison Enquiry In Kingston Elicits Little of Value.

KINGSTON, Oct. 25.—Convict evidence for the most part took the attention of the Prison Reform Commission at yesterday afternoon's session, when charges against Guard Frederick Ingledew was aired.

Ingledew was accused of neglect of duty and the violation of prison rules, in having brought in food for convicts and having provided them with tobacco.

He conducted his own defence and gave most emphatic denials to all charges, backed up by Deputy Warden O'Leary, who states he had never had any reason to believe Ingledew had neglected duty.

Chief Night Watchman Holland swore he had never found the accused guilty of any prison irregularities.

Interesting evidence of two convicts without any qualification for the work dressing wounds of patients at operations in the penitentiary hospital, was given by "F 292" yesterday morning.

Witness also told of the crowding of the meals on holidays and Sundays. The three meals were served within five hours—breakfast at eight, dinner at 11, supper at 1.30. Nothing more was served till eight o'clock the next morning. These conditions did not obtain in the penitentiary generally. Convicts not in the hospital for dinner had rations served sometimes after two o'clock, and could eat it when they liked. In the hospital the convicts were supposed to eat their dinner at once, as the orderlies were supposed to remove all the dishes from the cells.

The testimony of "E 551," a convict who was a professional nurse, was very strong against conditions in the hospital. The stench from some of the patients was terrible.

Sessions will be resumed the first or second week in November.

It is the intention of the commissioners to hold a session in Toronto next week to secure expert evidence regarding the Central Prison, and the prison farm at Guelph.

Laurier at Walkerton.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has decided to speak in South Bruce bye-election. He will speak at Walkerton next Tuesday.

Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, will speak in the constituency the same day.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"
Salts, Calomel and Pills Act on Liver and Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils—Danger!
Get a 10-cent box now.
Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.
So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.
Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

"How I shall miss you when you are grown."

ASSAILS CONSTABLE

Infuriated Man Almost Kills Montreal Policeman

A PRIEST IS THREATENED

MONTREAL, Oct. 25. — Battering down a locked door at the entrance to the gallery in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, a man named Lebel was interrupted in his work of destruction by Rev. Father Dube, who was reading his office at the altar.

"What are you doing here?" asked the reverend father as the intruder, axe in hand, awaited his coming.

"None of your business," came the answer, and the man moved forward. "Get out of my way as quick as you can or I'll kill you," he added.

The startled priest tried to calm the man before him, and was once more threatened with his life. Hastening to the rectory, the police were informed of what had occurred, and Constables Clement and Girard were despatched. In the meantime the intruder had left the church, after splintering the gallery door, and disappeared, axe in hand.

He was overtaken. Lebel eyed the two uniformed men until but a few feet separated him from the enemy, when he suddenly drew back his arms at the same time raising the axe for a blow at his pursuers.

Before they could prevent him the axe descended, and Constable Girard came within a few inches of having his head opened by the sharp blade, being saved by the quick work of Constable Clement, who threw his whole weight on his brother officer in time to move his body from the direction of the descending axe blade. As it was, the weapon grazed the right arm of Constable Girard, ripping the sleeve of his coat, and penetrating to the muscle of his arm.

The force of the blow overbalanced the furious assailant who staggered under the effort, and before he could right himself he was overpowered and disarmed.

Austria Making C. P. R. Scapegoat.

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—The revelation yesterday before the sub-commission appointed by the budget committee to report on the American shipping service that Baron Welchs Dergion, new manager of the Hamburg-American line in Austria, carried on a vigorous agitation for the emigration of Austrian peasants to Brazil by the Austro-American line while he was formerly a high official in the Ministry of Commerce and against the advice of the Austrian consuls in Brazil, is regarded as very embarrassing to the Government in its action against the Canadian Pacific line, which is considered to have been made the scapegoat of the affair.

The newspapers demand a thorough sifting of the situation.

Big Vote Is Expected.

ROME, Oct. 25.—The campaign for the general elections which will take place next Sunday is a most active one, due to the widespread participation in it of all classes of the people of Italy. It is foreseen that the number of persons who will cast ballots will surpass that of any former election. It is estimated that about 6,000,000 persons will vote Sunday, three times as many as did so in 1909.

Regardless of politics, members of the U. S. Congress on hand yesterday agreed to "chip in" for a wedding present for Miss Jessie Wilson, the White House bride of next month.

Coat stealing, purse snatching, pocket-picking, and dim-dam games are all included in the operation of a gang of train thieves now operating on railroads between Montreal and Chicago.

ECZEMA ON FACE, SCALP AND HANDS
Came Off in Scales. Itched Badly. Had to Tie Hands. Little Watery Pimples. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.
1307 Davenport Road, Toronto, Ont.—"My eczema first started when I was a baby, on my face and scalp. It seemed dry and when I scratched it, it came off in scales. It itched very badly and I was obliged to have my hands tied up so as to prevent scratching my face. Little white watery pimples came on my hands and face and I had to stay home from school for nearly two weeks. It caused my face and hands to look badly. The eczema took a very bad form, appearing on my face in little watery ulcers so bad that I could hardly bear to be touched. My hair being naturally very thick I found to be getting thinner and wondered what could cause it to fall out.
"My mother tried ——— and ——— and spent no end of money trying to get me better but it did no good. At last a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my mother used them. We applied the Cuticura Ointment to my face, head and hands and washed with the Cuticura Soap and the eczema began to disappear. Before six months had passed I was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Constance Jane, May 26, 1913.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, that it is almost criminal not to use them. A single set is often sufficient. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post-card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A.

TO WARN POWERS

U. S. Resents the Attitude of the European Nations

MONROE DOCTRINE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A note which will carry a warning to the world, that the United States will brook no interference in dealing with the Mexican problem is in course of preparation by officials of the administration.

This was the most important development here yesterday in the Mexican situation. Other developments were:

Huerta reiterates that he will not be a candidate for the Presidency; that under no circumstances will he accept the Presidency of Mexico at this time.

Huerta ordered the release of the Morro Castle, the Ward Line steamer which was detained at Vera Cruz by a Mexican gunboat.

The issuance of a statement by the charge d'affaires of the British embassy here, questioning the authenticity of the Carden interview of Tuesday.

The receipt of the warning issued by Huerta for the United States to keep hands off in Mexico.

When the note will be issued is not known. It will be issued unless events within two or three days bring about improved conditions.

The meaning of the word "events" in the sense that it was used by the advisers of the President was that Great Britain would alter its attitude toward the American policy in Mexico.

For some reason there is not the seriousness attached to the action of France and Germany in sending warships to Mexican waters, as there is to the same action by Great Britain.

The United States will not permit the landing of marines or bluejackets in Mexico by any foreign nation.

Not a Candidate Says Huerta.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—In addition to having read a lengthy statement, wherein President Huerta set forth the policies of his administration, the members of the diplomatic corps, who gathered at the palace upon his invitation, heard him give his personal word that he was positively not a candidate for the Presidency. Further, they heard him say that, should the elections next Sunday show him to have a majority of the votes, he would consider it to be his duty to instruct Congress to declare all such ballots void.

President Huerta also gave his own explanation of his action in dissolving Congress. He went over all of the grounds set forth in his manifesto issued after the dissolution, and added that proof that the deputies had engaged in fostering revolution had been found in their desks and upon their persons.

The controversy between the United States and Great Britain appears to be having the effect of convincing the Mexicans that the European nations generally, are coming into line with England in opposition to the United States. Under the headline of "Entire Europe is on the side of Mexico," El Independiente says:

"In London everybody is taking note of the possibility of Anglo-American complications. The United States has not taken into account that at the back of England there are many other nations interested in the solution of the Mexican problem. On this line it is known absolutely that three chancelleries are working in perfect accord—namely those of London, Paris and Berlin. Back of them are the great European alliances and the Anglo-Japanese alliance. It would be neither diplomatic nor prudent to defy these great nations."

The Mexican Government yesterday gave Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, assurances in regard to the proper treatment of the two brothers of Francisco Madero who were arrested at Monterey and brought to the federal capital on a charge of conspiring against the administration.

Tells Vivid Story.

HAMILTON, Oct. 25. — Another Volturno survivor reached this city yesterday afternoon, according to Heming Bros., whose office he visited en route to his new home with his compatriots in the northeast section of the city.

The newcomer, Francisco Neplouf, a Bulgarian, described the scenes enacted on the burning vessel with all his native fervor and vividness. He told of having lost six of his friends in the disaster by drowning or being burned to death.

To Fix Election Date.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 25.—A meeting of the executive of the Conservatives of East Middlesex will be held to-day to set a date for the convention to select a candidate to contest the seat made vacant by the death of George M. Neely, M.P.P. It is expected that the convention will be held a week from Saturday and the meetings take place within five weeks.

DRESSED MEAT ARRIVES.

Canada's First Shipment Under New Law Over 1,000,000 Pounds.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Upward of 1,000,000 pounds of fresh dressed meats arrived in Chicago yesterday from Canada and constituted the first importation of fresh meats here under the new tariff which admits the commodity free.

The price ranged from 6 3-4 cents to 8 cents a pound, which is less than Chicago packers usually pay for beef on the hoof, as shipped in from farms and ranges. The packers were saved the expense in this case of killing and dressing. About thirty cars were received and passed through the United States inspection. The meats went to Swift & Co.

Fish shipments were also brisk, thirty-six carloads being received. The tariff on fish under the old law, was one half a cent a pound, and it is now free. The bulk of shipments came from Canada.

Had Altered Canadian Bills.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25—Michael Flanigan, a saloonkeeper, was arrested here yesterday on charges of having in his possession and passing altered or counterfeited Canadian bank notes. The arrest was made in connection with the search for the men who robbed the New Westminster branch of the Bank of Montreal of $271,000 on Sept. 14, 1911, among the notes stolen from the bank were those of a series 493,000.

Flanigan is charged with having in his possession Canadian notes altered from series 492,000 to 493,000.

"THE MEDIATOR"

By ROY NORTON

Maggie at first opened her lips as if to speak, and then appeared flustered into silence. Lish did not look at her, and she pretended not to have heard the conversation, and to be very busy with minor duties. The cook winked and grinned, and got down from the window. He coiled his queue around his head, picked up a big black hat from the wall, and disappeared with a "Vellee good. Me play."

Maggie relented sufficiently to take the seat in the window which the cook had vacated, and smiled at him with amusement.

"You certainly to have a way with you," she observed with admiration. He did not pause to answer, being totally absorbed in his food. "Sometimes you remind me quite a lot of Ross." He ate faster, and appeared to be thinking raidly. "You ain't a lot unlike him," she added, then, finding it useless to talk to him until he had finished his meal, subsided.

He suddenly lifted his head with the last fragment of ham with which he had scoured his plate, poised on his fork, and listened to some sound outside which her ear had not caught. It became audible, and resolved itself into heavy footsteps that clumped on the porch, then across it, and to the door. They both looked up curiously, and the prospector have a grunt of disgust; for there, calmly grinning, stood Channel Smith.

"Well," he said cheerfully, as if certain of his welcome, "I got here! Come down with a waggon from Candy Hill. Had quite a passel of trouble to find you."

He walked in, deposited his hat on the floor, and sat down.

"That fool mule of your'n, the gray one, he went hell-bent for election down the trail about ten minutes after you," Channel quavered on placidly. "I reckon we'd orter sell him. We ain't got no use for two burros hangin' around on my gulch."

The prospector stared at him thoughtfully for a full half-minute and then came as near to shrugging his shoulders as was possible.

"First thing I know," he said, "you'll be wantin' to sell me off'n your gulch. Nope. Me and my burros stick together."

Channel opened his mouth and looked at him; then, with a quick reversal, said: "Sure you do! Don't blame you a bit. You know I always argued against your sellin' that Jack. Says I to you: 'Don't sell him! He ain't nothin' but a little friendly cuss, what don't give nobody no bother at all. I likes to have him around!' I was right glad you didnt shed of him. It does me good the way you've come to your senses."

For an instant Lish stared at him in sheer astonishment, then slapped his leg and declared: "By jingoes! I reckon you're right! We won't sell my burros."

"Now about eatin'?" ruminated Channel rubbing his hands. "I see as how you've been havin" ham and eggs. They allays have been favor-ites of mine. I wish I'd of got here sooner."

"Ham and eggs, eh? Well, it is a ity you didn't come sooner," declared Maggie staring at him with a sarcastic look. "If you think this is a meals-at-all-hours dump, you've got a few more thoughts coming."

Channel looked up at her with rheumy eyes, and shook his head sadly.

"I don't know what this younger generation's a-comin' to," he said plaintively. "I'm powerful hungry, I am. It's right hard on an old feller like me to be so hungry. I could get plain things like canned tomatoes and such at the stores, but it doesn't seem as if I—"

"Oh, shucks!" she interrupted.

"Say, Miss Maggie," Lish said, studying her face with anxiety "you ain't the kind that would see an old feller like this hungry, are you? He ain't so bad, Channel ain't. Go ahead and get him somethin', won't you? Do it for me."

Her wrath subsided, and she said she supposed she would have have to. The prospector unmasked none of his disappointment at the patriarch's arrival, but thanked her profusely and tried to appear interested in Channel's discourse. It got to be too much for even him, and he withdrew himself to the edge of the porch and sat there, discouraged, until she put the food before the ancient, then came out, and sat down beside him, but at a respectful distance. He lost no time.

"Maggie," he declared, "I ain't seen you many times but I've been doin' a heap of thinkin'. I guess we better get married."

"You think—you guess! Pshaw! Why, you're crazy! Don't you ever talk that way to me again, Lish Henley. I can take care of myself, I can. I don't want any idiot like you around, bothering me with talk of that kind. You just stop it, if you want me to be decent to you any more. Do you understand?"

She had got to her feet; but the prospector sat steadily.

"All right," he declared. "I'm just tellin' you what I thought, Maggie. I didn't go for to say nothin' to make you sore. There ain't no offence. If you don't want to hitch up with me, all right! And what's more," he declared, in a sudden burst of generosity, as if to prove his forgiveness, "you don't even need to give them scales back to me, either!"

She leaned against the post and laughed; but he did not join her merriment.

"Now we'll talk sense a while," she said, relenting a trifle. "Do you know that eggs has gone up ten cents a dozen?"

And thereupon he plunged into a long discourse on eggs he had eaten, found, and seen, as if they were the only things in the world worth considering, until Channel Smith emerged, wiping his beard with the palm of his hand, and satiefied.

But he showed a frank desire to be certain that the old man did not miss the waggon back up into the mountains, and stuck to him closely, when they left the back porch of the Peaceful Hill Inn. He even accompanied him to the Happy Home, examining his gun in the interests of peace, however, before entering. He was greeted with apprehension on the part of Holliday, and black scowls of men around the tables, to all of which he turned a careless grin. He even noted the presence of Bill, but did not speak to that worthy, who calmly ignored him. One or two men who did not know him, and whom he did not remember seeing before, observed the entrance of Channel Smith with much enjoyment, and hilariously began badgering that worthy.

The smile on Lish's face appeared to deepen, but it had different lines in its composition. He sidled in between Channel Smith and those who were passing facetious remarks. He whirled suddenly at the sound of something that was said, and stared straight at the man speaking.

"Say," he said calmly, "you ain't pokin' fun at an old chap like thishere Channel Smith, are you? I hate to think anybody'd be mean enough to do that. Why, he's one of the nicest men that ever walked. More'n that, he's old enough to granddaddy anybody in this crowd. I surely am surprised some."

The hilarious ones nudged one another, and in the meantime the prospector stood languidly leaning an elbow on the bar and staring at them, a picture of peaceful intent and innocence. Holliday nervously rushed into the breach.

"Hey, you fellers," he said, "just chop off this familiarity in here. You mind your own business, or I'll get busy with a bung starter." He hurriedly beckoned to the leader of the trio, and held a big hand over his mouth as he hoarsely whispered: "Better leave that little cuss alone! He's a box of dynamite with the fuses all cut short. For Heaven's sake, don't start nothin' with him, because the devil himself, turned loose, wouldn't muss this place up half as bad as that feller if you get him going, and it don't take as much breeze to start him as it does to blow a thistle tassel off'n a dry road!"

"Channel! Channel Smith!" a voice hailed outside the Happy Home, and the prospector seized the old man's arm and gently pushed him toward the door.

"Ireckon that's your wagon," pardner," he said, and before the veteran could remonstrate, had fairly hustled him out and into it. "Good-night, Channel," he called. "See you some time to-morrer. Don't fret yourself none because I'm not there. So long!"

He turned just in time to see a woman hurrying past the place with a determined air, and suddenly hailed her.

"Good-evenin', Mrs. Callahan," he said.

She turned and looked at him, and gave a toss of recognition.

"For the love of Mike!" she exclaimed, "you weren't long in findin' Holliday's on that day you showed up here, were you?"

She stood with both arms akimbo for a moment, and then laughed at him, for he had removed his hat and stood scratching his head. She started off down the street, and he started in her wake with his usual quickness of decision.

"I found Mrs. Marthy Higgins," he declared, by way of conversation, shouting it at her back.

"Well, you don't need to tell the whole camp about it!" she snapped, turning her head over her shoulder; but he hastened to gain a place by her side. For an instant she threatened to decline to walk with him, and then, as if thinking of something, her attitude changed.

"Say, Henley," she said, "you're a funny man. What makes you such a fool?"

He placidly explained that he was just naturally born that way.

"Well, not that I'm blamin' you for what you did down there at the church, and havin' small interest in it myself, me bein' a Catholic, and by the same token likin' you for goin' after the likes of them, but don't you know that Big Bill's a bad man? It's a black-brawed, thievin' blackguard he it. I'm tellin' you, Mister Henley, have a care for yourself!"

He assured her that there existed no man who had more care for David Elisha Henley than that same estimable gentleman; that he was scared till he could not sleep nights; that he visited the camp only to protect his friend, the poor, old man of the gulch, and that he had come to the metropolis only because he hoped to sow broadcast the seeds of peace and good will to all men—and women, too! He slowed his pace and talked more earnestly as they passed the Peaceful Hill Inn, and his heart gave a glad and exultant leap when he saw Maggie, the waitress, standing at the corner and looking at them. He put his hand on his breast, and lifted his hat to her and called: "Good-even', Miss Maggie. Nice evenin', ain't it?"

But Maggie appeared lost to the amenities. He saw her no more that night, although he bade the Widow CaHahan good night at her own door and hastened back, and tramped round the hotel bravely trying to decide which window blind sheltered and screened the young lady to whom he had so abruptly proposed marriage but a few hours before.

CHAPTER XIII

More Trouble For the Lover of Peace.

Arrayed in all the finery at his command, Lish attended church that Sunday, and, although it was well filled, there was scarcely a rustle throughout the services. He sustained a sense of disappointment despite the peace that must have been as deep and perfect as he could have wished, for there was not a hymn save the doxology that he knew.

Maggie refused even to speak to him: everyone stared at him and whispered when he entered; and the preacher added to his embarrassment by hastening down from the pulpit at the conclusion of the service and loudly thanking him for his attendance.

Lish recovered sufficiently to put his big, hard hand up to his mouth and whisper loudly: "Say, parson, when I come next time, sing some of them good old tunes I used to know when I was a kid—'Pull for the Shore Sailor,' and 'Rock of Ages,' and 'Shall We Get Together at the River.' They're the only ones I know, and Lordy! you ain't no idea how much more I enjoy singin' than I do preachin'. Not that you ain't all right, even if you ain't very strong on the hell-and-brimstone stuff. You don't skeer 'em enough, parson! You try hard enough, but you want to make 'em think they're goin' to have a hell of a time if they stack cards or play a crooked game here! That's right, parson! But I'm with you, just the same!"

BRITISH EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

Mr. Abraham Thompson, aged seventy-two, for fifty-six years a blacksmith, died at Matlock. Business has been carried on at the forge for 300 years.

Record Price for a Pig

A sum of $90 was paid at Enniskymon, Ireland, for a pig. The animal is described as a magnificent one, fed chiefly on oatmeal.

Bread and Cheese For Tramps

The Berkshire Joint Vagrancy Committee resolved that tramps shall be provided with a midday meal of bread and cheese instead of bread alone.

Fowl With Two Hearts

Upon a fowl being dressed for the table at Whittlesford, Cambridgeshire, it was found to possess two hearts, which had apparently worked independantly.

Distinguished Methodist

The Rev. Dr. George Brown, well known in Belfast and the neighborhood, was elected President of the Australasian Methodist Conference. Dr. Brown emigrated to New Zealand fifty-eight years ago.

Aged Laborers

Five veterans whose ages aggregated 322 years built a stack in one day at Wellbrock Farm, Boughton-under-Blean, in East Kent. Two of the five were sixty-nine, and the youngest sixty-three.

Police Manœuvres

Several bookmakers were fined at Widnes, for street betting. It was stated that a sergeant and a policeman concealed themselves in a church belfry, and with field glasses saw one defendant taking slips of paper relating to betting.

Sewing Machine as Weapon

A man named John Grassby, who was admitted to Hull infirmary, suffering from injuries to his head, stated that he surprised burglars who had entered a furniture warehouse. He was in a yard below, and when the men saw him they dropped a sewing machine on his head.

Sir Walter Scott's Couch Sold

At an auction sale of furniture at Fulwell Park, Twickenham, a Georgian double scroll-end couch, formerly the property of Sir Walter Scott, realised about $175. The couch, which is 7 feet wide, is richly carved on massive supports, with ormolu mounts and brass studs, upholstered in horsehair.

Married at Seventy-three

A wedding in which both the contracting parties were aged seventy-three took place at Tunbridge Wells between Mr. Thomas Pollington, a farmer of Jarvisbrook, and Mrs. Sarah Payne, of Rotherfield. This was the third time Mrs. Payne was married. The ceremony was attended by a number of their grandchildren.

Pensioner's Pet Pig

Ned Faulkner, an old-age pensioner, aged eighty-two, who walks three miles every Friday into Aymestrey (Herefordshire) to draw his pension, is always accompanied by a pig, which follows him like a dog, and lies down outside the post office while the pensioner draws his money.

Last Stage Coach Gone

Between Campbeltown and Tarbert, the last stage coach in Scotland made its final run recently. Mails and passengers will now be carried daily by motor over this wild part of Argyllshire. During forty years the mail coach only once failed to complete the double journey, and then it was snowed up on returning.

"Shooting the Crow"

Arthur Asprey a furnaceman, pleaded guilty at Airdrie, Scotland, to a charge known as "shooting the crow—namely, entering a public house, ordering a glass of beer, which he drank, and a packet of cigarettes, which he appropriated, with no intention of paying for them, and thus stole them. He was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment.

Fifty Years in Police Force

Captain James Fraser, who retired from the position of Chief Constable of Argyll on the completion of fifty years' service, was presented with a service of plate. Captain Fraser said he believed he was the only chief constable in Britain who had served for fifty years. He was the only one alive of those who were in the force when he joined. When he joined the service the pay of a constable was 55c a day, or $3.85 a week, against a maximum of $7.75 per week now.

Curious Animal Affection

A remarkable instance of affection between animals of different species came to light near Gortin, Ireland. Mr. J. J. Fleming, a farmer there, has a fox terrier which was deprived of her two pups when they were four weeks old. Two weeks later she was out hunting and came on a rabbit burrow in which where bunnies two or three days old. Three of these the dog carried carefully to her kennel, and to them she became a model foster-mother.

GROWTH OF LANGUAGE

English Dictionary of 1616 Contained Only 5000 Words

Roughly speaking, the English language may be said to grow at the rate of 5,000 words a year. At least, that is the average growth by the measure of the dictionaries. Bullokar's "Compleat English Dictionary," in 1616, the year of Shakespeare's death, contained 5,000 words. Thomas Blount's "Glossographia" (1656) improved on this and was superseded in its turn by Edward Phillips' "New World of English Words" (1658), a small folio containing 12,000 words; and by the time it reached its sixth edition (1706) the number had grown to 24,000 odd. Johnson's dictionary published on April 15, 1755, though it improved all predecessors off the face of the earth by the perfection of its system and the soundness and breadth of its wording contained only 58,000 words, and it remained master of the field, even at this modest total, until Noah Webster's came along in 1828, and Worcester's "Comprehensive Pronouncing and Explanatory English Dictionary," in 1830, with 100,000 and 105,000 words respectively.

The latter part of the nineteenth century kept the ball rolling. The "Imperial Dictionary" contained 200,000 words, and Dr. Funk's "Standard Dictionary" (1894) entered the field with half as many again—316,000 words in all. There have been half a dozen editions of this, and the next new one will reach the high water mark with a total of 450,000 words, most of which are English beyond question.

Mr. John Brown, of Berwick, who is a salmon net fisher on the Tweed owns a very intelligent setter dog named Twig, which watches the salmon he nets, and prevents any slipping through the net.

THE DAINTY "FLIPPER"

A Delicacy in Newfoundland Associated With the Sealing Season

A dainty peculiar to Newfoundland which so far has received little attention is the seal's flipper or fipper which is the paw with which the seal propels itself through the water. It is esteemed by the people of the Island as one of their greatest delicacies. A flipper weighs about a pound, and when the seal ships begin to arrive in St. John's most people begin to talk about securing "a meal of flippers." Small boys and others swarm about the steamers, and the crews are importuned to supply these dainties to all who ask for them. In the olden times they were given away freely, but latterly it is not uncommon for fifty cents a gad (six on a string) to be asked for them, while many among the crews now make a practice of salting quantities into barrels for their own consumption during the summer. A fresh flipper makes a most appetising meal. The method of cooking them is to wash them thoroughly in fresh water, then soak them in water in which salt has been dissolved; next transfer them to a baking pan or pot with slices of pork or bacon, and after being cooked over a hot fire they are as delicate of flavor and taste as the finest of veal.

Among all the capitalists in St. John's interested in the sealing industry, flipper suppers, with the accompaniment of champagne, etcetera, are the invariable rule as the ships come in, and owners, captains, and others indulge annually in these repasts at some of the hotels or inns near the city. Very many family parties also partake of the unusual dish, and among the poorer classes flippers are looked upon as a great and welcome luxury, a change from the usual dietary and one that is beyond all question nourishing and healthy. Roman Catholics likewise patronise flippers largely because, as the seal is an amphibious animal, it is not meat, and may be eaten during the Lenten season or on fast days. All round the north and west coasts, where the seals are often taken close in shore, they are a recognised item in the daily menu—not alone flippers but the carcasses as well. These are perhaps even more appetising than the flippers because there is less fat permeating them, but, of course, space is too valuable aboard the ship to allow of carcasses being brought home for consumption, they being worthless for any other purpose, and seal pelts being valued at $100 a ton dead weight.

INCONSPICUOUS CLOTHING

Dark Blue and Green Can be Seen the Farthest

Some curious and rather unexpected results have followed experiments in Europe for the purpose of determining what color in a soldier's uniform is the least conspicuous to an enemy. Of ten men, two were dressed in light grey uniforms, two in dark grey, two in green, two in dark blue, and two in scarlet. All were then ordered to march off, while a group of officers remained watching them. The first to disappear in the landscape was the light grey, and next, surprising as it may seem, the scarlet. Then followed the dark grey, while the dark blue and the green remained visible long after all the others had disappeared. Experiments in firing at blue and red targets, according to same experiments, proved that blue could be more easily seen at a distance than red.

It may be that khaki, which is the fashionable color now for army uniforms, will have to give way to grey, for in these days of long-range weapons inconspicuous clothing is vitally necessary for soldiers.

Light of Fireflies

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. Mr. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after their death, which makes certain that it it is chemical in origin.

A PAGE OF THE BEST HUMOR OF THE WEEK

Pshaw!

The father had gone away and left his only son in charge of the store.

"Are you head of the firm?" asked the man with the sample case who had just come in.

"No, sir," remarked the young man, with a smile. "I'm only the body of the head."

Blown Out.

Thump! Thump! Crash! Biff! Bang!

Down a long flight of steps leading up to the front door rolled young Neeash, ending with a lusty bump at the bottom. The front door slammed angrily on a large, bald-headed, irate man who was rolling down his sleeves.

Inside a dainty girl came tripping across the hall.

"Oh, pa—pa, whatever have you been doing?" she asked in agonized tones.

The old man wiped away a bead of perspiration.

"Only putting out the light of your life!" he replied.

Definitions.

Force meat — The suffragette's prison diet.

A drawing attraction—The popular dentist.

A fall wrap — A knockout blow.

Close.

"Is Charlie much of a spender?"

"The only thing I ever saw him spend was an evening out at the house."

Light Work.

"Working hard this year?"

"No, light work."

"Whatcha doin'?"

"Spotlight man in a theatre."

Easy.

"Binks doesn't seem to have much trouble making both ends meet."

"No wonder. He's a sausage-maker."

The Druggist's Dream.

What a job? Take mine and bless you! I don't want it any more!
It is mixer of prescriptions in an up-to-date drug store.
Tell you why I want to quit it: Had a dream the other night;
Woke up full of wonder that I hadn't lost my sense and sight.
It was this way: in my dreaming all the town was taken sick
And was crying for prescriptions; coming on the double-quick.
Those who came at first were calling for the drugs that are a cinch
To mix up or put in capsules—grain of this; of that a pinch—
Ipecac and Antipyrene, Bismuth, Subnitrate, Salol,
Quinine, Hydrobromide, Chloral — things most any child could call.
And I gave them al la welcome, for of business I had need;
But my smile of joy soon faded when the words began to read:
"Orthodiamidoditoyl, Pentadecyltolyketone, Metoluylenediamine" — (here I gave an awful groan!)—
"Paramonobromotolvene, Ethythydrocuprein"—(Ouch!)—
"Aspidosperma Quebracho" — (Here I started up a grouch)—
"Paraprocpylmetaoreso!" — (I was sweating — getting lean)—
"Betaimidazolethylamine, Methylhydroberberine,
Diacetylaminocodeine, Delphinium Ajacis,
Methylnormalpropylphenol" — (How I snorted over this!)—
And just then, to cap the climax, causing me to faint and fall,
Came a "Dimethylaminotetraminearsenobenzol!"
Want my job? You're welcome to it, for I'm in a fearful fret
Lest they add a few more letters to the druggists' alphabet!
—New York World.

The Ruling Passion.

"Great Scots, but this is a noisy town! Does the racket keep up this way all the time?"

"I should say not. Today is an extra occasion."

"What's all the hurrah about?"

"The Anti-Noise Society has just put over another one of its pet ordinances and the special committees are celebrating the victory."—St. Louis Republic.

Ideal.

A man who has just built himself a home in New Jersey's newest suburban development was enthusiastically describing it.

"It's ideal," he said. "We have no saloons, so we have none of that kind of people; and we have no churches, so we have none of that kind of people."

"Here's the V, old top, but you don't fool me a particle when you say you'll pay it back next week."

"Engaged to Miss Dowley, are you, pard? Well, I congratulate you, but I'm blamed sorry for her."

"Perhaps you'll go now, Mr. Glizzard, if you haven't anything further to say. I'm expecting a call from a friend presently."

"I sha'n't lend you any more books, Hopperdyke, until you bring back the half-dozen you've already borrowed — and then I sha'n't lend you any."

"Gignap, it's such a pleasure to bid you good-by!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Runner.

Waverly: I know him of old. It wasn't a moat that his ancestors had running about the place; it was a goat.—Youngstown Telegram.

"Mother dear, will you sit perfectly still for a moment?" "Certainly darling."

"Thanks awfully, Mother."

Post Mortem.

"I suppose," said the sympathetic neighbor, "that you will erect a handsome monument to your husband's memory?"

"To his memory?" echoed the tearful widow. "Why, poor John hadn't any. I was sorting over some of his clothes today, and I found a pocketful of letters I had given him to post."

"Ma," inquired Bobby, "hasn't pa a queer idea of heaven?"

"Why do you ask that?"

"'Cause I heard him tell Mr. Naybor that the week you spent at the seaside seemed like heaven to him."

Undying Friendship.

The great financier was almost ready to pay his last account. A friend hastening in met the physician.

"Is he very ill?" he asked anxiously.

"He is," replied the physician. "I fear that his end is not far off."

"Do you think," he asked hesitatingly, "do you think he would recognize me in his last moments?"

"Yes, but I advise you to hurry. The best places are rapidly being taken."

Used to It.

"I'm afraid the piano in the parlor disturbs you after you have retired for the night," said the country boarding house keeper to the new boarder.

"Not at all, ma'am," replied the newcomer; "you see I'm a boiler-maker by trade."

Learning His Lesson.

There was a little boy who began to keep a diary. His first entry was: "Got up this morning at 7 o'clock." He showed the entry to his mother, and she, horror stricken, said:

"Have you been to school? Got up, indeed! Such an expression! Does the sun get up? No, it rises."

And she scratched out "Got up at 7," and wrote "Rose at 7" in its place.

That night, the boy, before retiring, ended the entry for the day with the sentence: "Set at 9 o'clock."

A Bright Outlook for the Bridegroom.

"Susannah," said the preacher, when it came her turn to answer the questions, "does yo take dis man to be youah wedded husband, for bettah or wuss?"

"Jest as he am, Pahson," said the muscular, colored scrub lady, "jest as he am. Ef he gets any bettah Ah'll know de good Lawd's a-gwine to take him, en ef he gits any wuss Ah'll 'tend to him myself."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Reason Why.

"Why do they say, 'As smart as a steel trap?'" asked the talkative man. "I never could see anything particularly intellectual about a steel trap."

"A steel trap is called smart," explained the elderly person, in his sweetest voice, "because it knows exactly the right time to shut up."

The Answer.

There is a story of a gentleman when advocating the utility of public schools, who said:

"Byron was a Harrow boy."

"What of that?" said an opponent. "Burns was a plough-boy."

Too There.

"Ma! ma!" sobbed Willie, "do my ears belong to my neck or my face?"

"Why, what is the matter?" was the temporising reply.

"Well, you told Mary to wash my face, and she's washing my ears too!"

Why They Chose Him.

"Now, min," said the Irish foreman, after the accident, "we will hov t' hov some wan t' break t' news gradual t' Mike's wolfe. Who will we sind?"

"Sind Hanrahan," said Casey; "he's just th' mon t' break it gradual. Look how he stutters."

Suspicious.

"They invited the donkey to a wedding"—so runs a Turkish proverb—and he said: "Is it wood or water that is wanted?"

So Considerate.

The only unoccupied room in the hotel — one with a private bath in connection with it — was given to the stranger from Kansas. The next morning the clerk was approached by the guest when the latter was ready to check out.

"Well, did you have a good night's rest?" the clerk asked.

"No, I didn't," replied the Kansan. "The room was all right, and the bed was pretty good; but I couldn't sleep very much, for I was afraid some one would want to take a bath, and the only door to it was thru my room." — Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Considerate.

"When we started out last night he said he was going to kiss me before the evening was over."

"And did he?"

"Yes. You know Harry has always been known as a man of his word, and I didn't want to spoil his reputation."

Faith Misplaced.

Mrs. Evans was making a call on Mrs. Francis, and they were enjoying a chat about some of their neighbors.

"Mrs. Greene," said the hostess, "is a woman who suffers much for her belief."

"Indeed," replied the caller wonderingly; "and what is her belief?"

Killing Two Birds.

"Please, ma'am," asked the new cook, "an' how will I know when the puddin' is done?"

"Stick a knife into it," answered the skilled housewife, "and if it comes out clean the pudding is ready to serve."

"Yis, ma'am."

"And, oh, Norah," continued her mistress, "if the knife does come out clean, you might stick all the rest of the knives in as well."

A Familiar Path.

Several women were discussing a wedding which had taken place the previous day.

"And, do you know," continued the first, "just as Frank and the widow started up the aisle to the altar every light in the church went out?"

This startling bit of information was greeted by a number of "Oh's!"

"What did the couple do then?" finally inquired one.

"Keep on going. The widow knew the way."

To Be Sure!

"Yes, it took me three months to learn all about this motorcycle."

"And what have you got for your pains?"

"Liniment."

The Lady: "Your little boy does look queer. Dyer think there's anything the matter with him physically?"

Her Friend: "Physically, indeed! No, I'm sure there ain't. 'E ain't 'ad a drop o' physic in his life."

Lord Cheylesmore went down to one of the big schools to distribute prizes on breaking up day, and he has hen reading hom, before the ceremony, one of the schoolboys gave him some good advice.

"If you're going to make a speech," said the youngster, "don't be too long. Remember that every minute you spend in talking you are keeping off my holidays."

He. "And—ah—when did you come out?"
Debutante. "Oh! but I was never in. I'm not a militant, you know."

A LITTLE TOKEN OF ESTEEM.
Moriarity—Th' boys want to buy a lovin'-cup for Assemblyman Flannigan.
Jeweler—Here is something very choice for ten dollars.
Moriarity—I don't think Flannigan would go so high as that—but we'll ask him!

It's an Ill Wind, Etc.

"When did you ever do any good?"

"When I robbed an actress," replied the retired burglar.

"Her diamonds were paste, and all I got on them was a quid, while she received thousands in free advertising."

Why She Sang.

Ministerial Friend (on a visit): "I wonder what makes your mamma so happy today? She is singing all over the house."

Little Mary: "I dess she's thought of somefin' to scold papa about when he tums home." — Harper's Magazine.

Barber (beginning the hair cut): "Have you heard the story about the man that — (resuming business) —want it short, sir?"

Customer (a tired editor): "Yes; a mere synopsis will do!"—Tit-Bits.

"I'm sorry to tell you, m'm, that I'll be leaving you next week. I'm going to get married."

"Is that so, Emma? Who is the lucky man?"

"He's a policeman, m'm—on this beat, too.

"I wish you joy. And what is his name?

"I don't know yet, m'm; but his number is four-one-seven!"

"Just run upstairs, Tommy, and fetch baby's nightgown," said Tommy's mother.

"Don't want to," said Tommy.

"Oh, Tommy! If you are not kind to your new little sister she'll put on her wings and fly back to heaven."

Tommy's reply came like a shot.

"Well, let her put on her wings and fly upstairs for her nightgown!"

What's In a Name?

Mike, one of the unemployed, was told of a vacancy, and went to apply for the job. After he had answered a number of questions, the employer asked: "What's your name?"

"MacGonigal, sorr."

"Spell it."

"Mo—no! Mo—a—g." Mike stuck, but tried again. "M—a—g—a—Ach, to blazes wid ye. Ye can keep yer ould job."

A SUCCESSFUL TRIAL.
"Scientists are experimenting to discover whether plants can feel pain."—Daily Paper.

The Widow's Third.

A New York lawyer tells of an English widow who, by reason of certain legal complications, found it necessary to retain a distinguished attorney to represent her in the adjustment of her late husband's estate.

"You will," said the attorney, during the course of their consultation, "you will get your third out of the estate."

"Oh!" exclaimed the widow aghast, "how can you say such a thing, with my second scarcely cold in his grave!"—Green Bag.

A Stinging Retort.

"We don't print any such stuff as that!" said the editor loftily, as he handed back the manuscript.

"Well, you needn't be so haughty about it!" retorted the irregular contributor. "You're not the only one who won't print it."

"The old-fashioned dime novel has disappeared from circulation."

"Yes. The same kind of a story now costs a dollar and a half."—Washington Star.

How Gossip Goes.

Patience: "What are the three most popular methods of communication for gossips?"

Patrice: "How should I know?"

"Over the tea cups, over the telephone, and over the back fence."

Is Whistling Healthy?

An American medico assures us that "whistling is good for the health." And yet we have a notion that unless a certain office boy discontinues the practice, he may meet with a violent death.

A Personal Application.

"Say, Parson," said Elder Berry at the church board meeting, "here are the resignations of all of the quartet choir."

"My, my," said Doctor Fourthly in distress, "what is the trouble?"

"Your announcement Sunday morning," replied Elder Berry sternly; "you know you said: 'Providence having seen fit to afflict all our choir with bad colds, let us join in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."'"—Ladies' Home Journal.

"Is Dobbs egotistical?"

"Yes, indeed. Why, every time he stands on a street corner he thinks he's in public life."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Rising Generation.

A man rang the bell at Willie Budd's house one day, and Willie, aged eight, answered it.

"Is Mr. Budd in?" said the man.

"I'm Mr. Budd," said Willie, "or do you want to talk to old Mr. Budd?"

"I understand that there are two rival social sets in this town."

"Yes. One set is composed of people who have undergone operations for appendicitis, and the others have had the children's adenoids removed."

A Nurse's Success.

"I've just returned from abroad, you know. How is your poor father?"

"We lost him."

"Dear, dear!"

"Yes, the nurse married him."

Plenty of Time.

"Papa, I want an ice cream sundae."

"All right, dear, remind me of it again; this is only Tuesday."—Houston Post.

HIS NEXT MOVE.
Claude: "You must have been aware of my intentions before this, Miss Goblin."
Claudia: "Oh, yes, I was prepared for the worst."—Judge, New York.

The seedy individual (who has come up just after the rescue): "Are you the cove wot 'as just pulled my boy abt o' the sea?"
The Other (modestly, after effecting a very gallant rescue): "Yes, my friend, but there's quite all right—don't say any more about it."
"Quite right? It ain't quite right! Wot about 'is blooming 'at?"

USEFUL RECIPES

MOLASSES DOUGHNUTS.

One cup of molasses one-half cup of sugar, one egg, one cup of sour milk, with a teaspoon of soda. Spice with nutmeg or cinnamon.

PEANUT MACARONI.

Boil and drain macaroni and arrange in baking dish in usual way. Allow 3 1-2 tablespoons peanut butter to one pint of hot milk; pour over macaroni and cracker crumbs and bake.

APPLE AND CHEESE SALAD.

One-half cupful of apple chopped fine, one-half cupful of minced cabbage, one-half cupful of grated cheese and one cupful of shredded lettuce. Mix well and pour over it a liberal amount of mayonnaise dressing.

ORANGE FILLING.

Mix thoroughly one-half cupful of sugar and 2 1-2 tablespoonfuls of flour; then add grated rind of one-half orange, one-fourth cupful of orange juice, one egg slightly beaten and one tablespoonful of butter. Cook for 10 minutes in a double boiler, while stirring constantly. Cool before spreading.

CREAM CAKES.

One coffee cup of boiling water and butter the size of a small egg. Melt the butter in the water. While boiling stir in one cup of flour, sifted. Use the same size cup for all. Stir thoroughly. When cool stir in two eggs, one at a time, and a pinch of soda the size of a pea. Beat well, then drop in tin far enough apart so they will not touch while baking. Bake in a very hot oven. This makes nine puffs.

Filling for Puffs—One cup sweet milk, one egg, one teaspoon of cornstarch and sugar to taste. Flavour with vanilla.

SWEDISH COFFEE CAKES.

One quart milk, one cup sugar, pinch of salt, one cup shortening (half butter and half drippings), one-half yeast cake, eight cardamon seeds crushed into small bits. Heat the milk, add sugar, salt and shortening. Let set till blod warm. Add yeast, soaked in little warm milk or water for half an hour, cardamon seeds. Flour is so different in swelling qualities. Raise as ordinary bread. When ready to put into pans make into small round rolls, place a raisin on each, form into long narrow strips or divide into three strands and braid, tucking the ends well under. The last can be sliced and is best when cold. Brush over top with beaten egg, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, set to raise about half an hour and bake in oven as usual.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

WHAT CRANKINESS COSTS.

The following from one of our most valuable exchanges certainly contains more truth than poetry and is deserving of a place in our Home Circle Department:

An 18-year-old girl in New York, back from an adventuresome joy-ride with a lad of 18 in a stolen auto, to a woman reporter who visited her in the look-up:

"It was just a picnic. We never thought of it as anything else. I understand my father says he is going to have me sent away. I don't care, I don't want to go home. The old man is so cross and cranky he gets on my nerves."

This girl was once a pretty, smiling promising baby, father's pet and mother's joy; a baby not foredoomed to be unloving and wayward. Something between the ages of 2 to 16 happened to explain her change of character.

Without knowing in detail the family history, couldn't you pretty safely hazard a guess on the basis of that one assertion: "The old man is so cross and cranky?"

The proper influence in a home is LOVE—patient, tender, long-suffering love. It is a child's right. The child who is denied it is defrauded. Just as it takes the warm sunshine to bring out the beauty of the flower, to the soul of a child, and especially the soul of the woman-child, must have the warmth of affection, continuous and never-failing, to develop the graces which make it clean and sweet.

We know not what cares, what sorrows, what aggravations, made this "old man cross and cranky." It may be we'd forgive him if we knew him. In any event, he's profoundly to be pitied, for clearly his crossness and his crankiness, robbing the daughter of the home joys which were her due, sent her to the bad.

Amidst the worries, the stress, the disappointment of life it is often hard to preserve a sweetened temper at home. But it is what the parent must do, or at least try to the limit to do, if the children are to have a fair chance.

Nature in her silent, beautiful way, teaches many lessons. She does not force a moral upon us. We may drink to her loveliness and take or leave the lesson as we please. A man must have something of the child in his heart to feel the splendour of the horizon, the magnificence of the stars, the mystery of the woods, the joyous dignity of fertile sunlit meadows; and having the child's heart to feel, he will have the child's faith to see, and whatever his sorrow, nature shall heal it, whatever his perplexity nature shall solve it. Men have set their mark upon the woods and hills. They have divided the land and have said to the world, "This farm is mine," "Yonder woodland is yours," "the babling brook and the beech-covered hillside belong to your neighbour," but the forest child of nature which chances that way without a penny in his pocket may have all the beauty and peace of this lovely landscape for the looking.

You can make home happy by bits of kindness and little courtesies.

In this day of cheap literature the very best of reading matter is within reach of every family. The current magazines and the best of agricultural papers may be had at a trifling cost, and these should be found in every farm home. A comfortable sitting room made warm and light, should invite the children to send their evenings by the fireside. Unless these things are furnished at home it is only natural that the young people should seek them elsewhere, and after an evening spent out amid life and gaiety the boys and girls often return to their cold and uninviting home. We believe many a boy has formed the first resolve to quit the farm when crawling into a cold bed in a cold and clammy bedroom after he has spent an evening at a party or some scene of festivity in the city or village. Give the children plenty of home comforts and make the farm fireside the brighest and most interesting place on earth and the young people will learn to love the farm and to cling to it rather than to seek ephemeral joys of life in town.

Every man blessed with a good wife knows that a large measure of his success, usefulness and elevation is to be attributed to the companion of his choice. It is not possible for all women to be learned or to keep pace in intellectual improvement with their husbands, but they can study to gain discretion and proper control of the tongue. If they temper their speech with charity, if they cultivate loving thoughts and express them in words of kindness and sympathy, they are sure to promote a spirit of harmony and good feeling in the home and in the social circle in which they move.

Let us teach our children to be lovers of the meadows and woods, the mountains, and all of the whole earth. Students of all her moods, knowing that nature will be to them as Wordsworth the anchor of purest thought, the nurse, the guide, the guardian, of the heart, the soul, of the moral being.

NEW NECKWEAR

Fichus are very popular and are made in a great variety of designs with cuffs to match. Frequently they are combined with the De Medici collar. There are quaint styles fitting over the shoulders and edged with pleating of net or lace.

Pleated collars of net lace or chiffon, or a combination of lace with the other materials are made sufficiently long to stand high about the neck and to extend down on either side of the coat or dress to the waist line. These collars will be worn either on the dress or the coat, being all white, or black and white combinations. The edges of full length sleeves are often finished with pleating, which sometimes extends around the neck of the dress on either side of the vest.

Corset-Cover Guimpe.

Something very new is the corset-cover guimpe, which fills the requirements both of a corset-cover and a guimpe. There are guimpe with round, square or pointed necks finished in ruffles, frills, Medici, fichu and other forms from the simplest to the most elaborate. Some of the handsomest are for evening wear, made of chiffon in delicate evening motifs, bands or embroidery.

Silk and chiffon are used for little novelty bows. Butterflies of tulle are worn at the neck, or at the waist line, just as the single rose is worn.

Vestees of satin moire silk Persian silk, brocade, etc. are made either single or double-breasted, and are often trimmed with pipings of a contrasting colour.

Kitchen Kinks.

If cheese is wrapped in a cloth moistened with vinegar it will neither dry nor mold.

After the soles of your stockings are worn out cut the feet off and use the legs to protect your sleeves while busy in the kitchen. It will save lots of unnecessary washing.

TO CURL AN OSTRICH PLUME

The present fashionable ostrich feather, although it is not so tightly curled as the old-fashioned plume, looks even more bedraggled and forlorn when it is out of curl than the old one did. Yet fogs and mists or rains are as frequent as ever, and ostrich feathers are now worn at all times of the day and night, regardless of the weather. Plumetis feathers were put forward to fill the role of a feather which moisture would not change, but they do not take the place of the regulation ostrich feather.

There is only one thing to do if you wear ostrich feathers, and that is to learn how to curl them. It is as good as impossible to send a feather to the professional cleaner to be curled every time there is a summer shower.

When the moist hat with feather trimming is removed put it, if possible near a fire. Heat often restores a good deal of the lost curl. When this is not possible let the feather dry thoroughly and then recurl it with a nail file, the blunt edge of a knife or some other steel or silver blade, which is not sharp.

Work with one or two of the fronds of the feather at a time. Catch them between the thumb and the blade, near the stem of the feather, and slowly and firmly draw the thumb, and the blade along the front to the edge. If necessary, go over some of the feathers twice.

It is surprising how rapidly this curling can be done, and if it is carefully done, after a little practice, the feather will look quite as well as if it had been curled by a professional.

Wedding Presents.

An interesting gift to a bride to be—or, indeed, to any woman—is a leather glove case filled with gloves.

One such case, which costs about $5, is of dark green leather. It contains a glove stretcher and a buttoner. It also contains pockets to accommodate half a dozen pairs of gloves. Another such case holds the stretcher on the cover, and this box is big enough to hold two or three dozen pairs of gloves. Nothing more acceptable as a gift could be given to any woman than a case of this sort, stocked either to overflowing, or holding only one or two pairs of attractive gloves.

Dainty Marks For Lingerie.

Every girl should have a particular mark for her lingerie, which should appear on all her belongings. It may be her monogram, initial in design or a favorite flower.

If a simple initial is used it will be a great saving of labor and expense to use the initials cut from discarded handkerchiefs.

FOR THE AFTERNOON.

A Daring but Chic Millinery Creation

STUNNING MODEL IN BLACK VELVET.

The Paris modistes deserve much praise this season, and not only for the beauty of their modes, but because they have finally succeeded in making a radical change in styles. Indeed, many millinery authorities say that the new hats are the best that they have seen in years. Without any idea of reflecting upon the genius of the French modistes, the millinery modes of the last year or so were rather monotonous and not as artistic as those that have just made their debut. It may be that the craze for tulle and lace during the summer inspired the creating of dashing flares, chic angles and the wonderful posing of trimmings. The posing of trimming is a noticeable feature of the stunning hat pictured. This adornment is of natural ostrich in blue, shading from a dark to light tone. The hat is of black velvet with a high flare at the back. This is one of the very smartest shapes of the season.

Fat Is Ridiculous

Overfat men and women, mortified and humiliated by the publicity of conspicuous rolls and billows of fat, are gradually learning that through the discovery of an eminent physician the burden of overfatness is taken from them, leaving the figure attractively proportioned, the flesh firm, the skin smooth, and the general health vastly improved, without dieting, exercise, or resulting wrinkles or flabbiness. There is no equal and no substitute for the famous Marmola Prescription, but there is a new and more convenient form—a tablet form of this safe fat remover. Marmola Prescription Tablets contain the same harmless, effective ingredients as the original prescription that has enabled so many thousands of uncomfortable men and women to reduce their weight evenly and steadily at the rate of a pound or more a day. An exceptionally large case of these Marmola Prescription Tablets is sold by all druggists at 75c or sent you direct by the Marmola Co., Farmer Bldg., Detroit Mich., on receipt of price.

The Magnetic Girl

How She Compels Others to Obey Her Will

100,000 Copies of Remarkable Book describing peculiar Psychic Powers to be distributed Free to readers of The Peterborough Examiner.

"The wonderful power of Personal Influence, Magnetism, Fascination, Mind Control, call it what you will, can surely be acquired by everyone no matter how unattractive or unsuccessful," says Mr. Elmer Ellsworth Knowles, author of the new book entitled: "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces." The book lays bare many astounding facts concerning the practices of the Eastern Yogis, and describes a simple though effective system of controlling other's thoughts and acts of others how one may gain the love and friendship of those who might otherwise remain indifferent; how to quickly and accurately judge the character and disposition of an individual; how to cure the most obstinate diseases and habits without drugs or medicines; even the complex subject of projecting thoughts (telepathy) is explained. Miss Josephine Davis, the popular opera favourite, whose portrait appears above, declares that Prof. Knowles' book opens the door to success, health, and happiness to every mortal, no matter what his or her position in life. She believes that Prof. Knowles has discovered principles which, if universally adopted, will revolutionize the mental status of the human race.

The book, which is being distributed broadcast free of charge, is full of photographic reproductions showing how these unseen forces are being used all over the world, and how thousands upon thousands have developed powers which they little dreamed they possessed. The free distribution of the 100,000 copies is being conducted by a large London institution, and a copy will be sent post free to anyone interested. No money need be sent, but those who wish to do so may enclose 5 cents (stamps of your own country) to cover postage, etc. All requests for the free book should be addressed to: National Institute of Sciences, Free Distribution Dept. 829 C., No. 258, Wellington Bridge Road, London, S.E., England. Simply say you would like a copy of "The Key to the Development of the Inner Forces," and mention The "Peterborough Examiner." 3d-02-1971

IDENTIFIED PHOTOGRAPH.

How Ottawa Police Must Locate the Missing Negro.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—"That Abraham Rubenstein came to his death by violence, consisting of a blow on the head, followed by strangulation, by a person or persons unknown to the jury."

The above verdict was returned last night at the adjourned enquiry into the death of "Abe" Rubenstein of Brooklyn, N.Y., the bookmaker's clerk, whose body was found in a vacant shop on Somerset street following the fall meeting at Connaught Park. But little new was produced at the concluding session of the inquest last night. A witness swore that he saw two negroes carrying a trunk along Somerset street, and identified a photograph of a negro named Slinn as one of the men. Slinn's whereabouts are at present unknown.

LIFE'S SUNSHINE

Children Those Who Begin Now Health and Strength

When the glow of health comes back to sallow cheeks; when languid weakness gives place to vigour; when you notice some pale, exhausted invalid restored to active health—enquire. More than likely you will find the cure to have been yet another of the thousands already wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Headache and neuralgia, St. Vitas dance and twitching of the limbs, indigestion and rheumatism, eczema and disfiguring eruptions, and the ailments of growing girls and women all disappear when the veins are filled with the new, rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. Here is one instance among thousands; Mr. F. Ashford, Haileybury, Ont., says: "Some years ago I completed a lengthy term of service in India, the last three years being spent in the beautiful but treacherous Peshawar Valley. Ague and dengue fever were rife, and although I was fortunate enough to escape a severe attack of either, on my return home it soon became apparent that the enervating climatic conditions had left their ravages on my constitution. In short the reaction had set in, and inexorable nature was exacting a severe toll from years of strenuous labour. My first warning of the impending break down were severe pains in the back of the head and eyes, insomnia, irritability, a general anaemic condition and an indefinable nervousness. Life had lost its zest, work became impossible and companionship intolerable. It really seemed that I was swiftly passing to that stage where nervousness ends and insanity begins, when by chance I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I confess I was skeptical of them doing what doctors had failed to do, but concluded that the cost was small, and perhaps, the chance in their favour, and so decided to try tem. To my joy there was soon an improvement, and a continuance of the treatment effected a complete cure. I was now as fit and as healthy as any man and am ever grateful that the lucky perusal of an advertisement brought to my notice the wonderful curative properties of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

INCREASE DEMANDED.

U. S. Railway Engineers and Firemen Ask More Wages.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Forty thousand locomotive engineers and firemen employed by ninety railroads running west of Chicago have notified officials of the lines that they will terminate their present labor agreements Nov. 10 and demand a wage increase aggregating $50,000,000 a year according to statements in railroad circles here. The railroads in turn notified Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, chief of the firemen, that they would welcome a readjustment of wages schedules.

In addition to a wage increase, the firemen and engineers are asking for a joint contract with the roads. The advance sought ranges between 25 cents and $1 a hundred miles, according to the nature of the services.

Striking Miners Attack Renegades.

TRINIDAD, Col., Oct. 25.—One striker killed, two strikers reported seriously wounded, and one mine guard slightly wounded, are the net results of attempts by strikers, it is said, to prevent defection in their ranks at Walsenberg yesterday afternoon.

Shortly after four o'clock two wagonloads of former strikers, with their wives, who had decided to return to work at the Walsenberg mine, were on their way to the mine under guard, when news of the defection brought a mob of strikers about the vehicles. Stones were thrown, and a shot was fired by a striker in the mob, it is reported, and the guards used their weapons in reply.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralysed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralise acids in the urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink.

CAPITAL IN DANGER.

Federal Forces In Mexico City Not Equal to Its Defence.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.—The rebel forces resumed their attacks on Monterey at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

At 9 o'clock the telegraph operators in the station near the centre of the town sent word that they would have to leave, as the rebels were entering the place and their fire was becoming dangerous. This was the last report heard from them, the wires going dead immediately afterward. No late advices have reached here concerning the situation in Monterey, and it is generally believed that the place has fallen into the hands of the rebels, as it would be indefensible once their forces had got inside.

All the railway lines entering Monterey were cut Thursday night.

Reports which came from Monterey early in the morning stated that fighting was in progress at Saltillo, and that the rebels had penetrated into the streets of the town. The loss of Saltillo would be a serious blow to the federal cause, fairly comparable to the capture of Torreon by the rebels. It would isolate a great part of Huerta's army, and give the rebels an open path to the capitol, aside from possible separate movements by bands of Zapitastis and Pueblo Indians.

The force of federal troops now in Mexico City is insufficient to make a stand against the rebels in case of a serious attack is made on the place.

ASKS REINSTATEMENT.

Lawyer Hyde Wants To Resume His Practice Pending Appeal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Chas. H. Hyde, a native of Truro, N.S., and former city chamberlain, who was debarred automatically on his conviction on a charge of bribery growing out of his relations with the Carnegie Trust Co. and the Northern Bank, applied through his attorney, John B. Stanchfield, to the appellate division yesterday for reinstatement. Unless he is allowed to practice his profession he and his family may suffer privation, Mr. Stanchfield said.

Since Hyde's disbarment the appellate division itself has decided that he was wrongfully convicted, the lawyer pointed out, and although the state had taken the case to the Court of Appeals he pleaded that Hyde be allowed to resume his law practice while the appeal was pending.

"He is utterly without means, and has a family dependent upon him," said Mr. Stanchfield. "Unless he is allowed to resume the practice of law I don't know how he will be able to exist."

No action was taken on the application.

RHEUMATISM AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Prof. Budlong Was Quickly Relieved of Both Afflictions by Using Rheuma

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress. Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the kidneys, bowels, liver, and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, Sound View, Conn.

RHEUMA is guaranteed by Warne Drug Co., who sell it for 50 cents a bottle.

CENSORED THE FILM.

Queen Mary Was Drastic In Treatment of Picture Play.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Queen Mary has again shown that she has no sympathy with the latitudinarian views which obtain in modern society in regard to matters which our grandmothers considered improper, and has incidentally upset the plans arranged for her Majesty's entertainment by no less a personage than the Duchess of Devonshire.

Miss Violet Keppel, the daughter of Mrs. George Keppell, a little while ago wrote a short five-character sketch for cinematograph films for private exhibition. In accordance with custom, the films were privately shown to Queen Mary last week at Buckingham Palace, in order that her Majesty might give her consent to the proposed exhibition at Chatsworth. The Queen, however, wished to have so many alterations made in the sketch—and particularly to have a bedroom scene, in which the husband has rather a violent altercation with his wife, completely eleminated—that the idea of the performance was entirely abandoned.

Babies Suffocate In Shack.

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., Oct. 25.—Two colored children, aged 16 and 28 months, were suffocated by smoke in a shack on Railway avenue, North Battleford. The mother, Mrs. Mark Daniels, left the children in a perambulator, apparently asleep, while she went up to the city. Shortly after smoke was noticed coming from the building. On the arrival of the fire brigade the perambulator containing the children was wheeled out, and both were dead.

The best, in generous amount—
Would turn a modern grocery book
Into a faded book account.

Case of Another Girl.

Scanlon, Minn.—"I used to be bothered with nervous spells, and would cry if anyone was cross to me. I got awful weak spells especially in the morning, and my appetite was poor. I also had a tender place in my right side which pained when I did any hard work. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my symptoms all changed, and I am certainly feeling fine. I recommend it to every suffering woman or girl. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Miss ELLA OLSON, 171 5th St., Virginia, Minn.

SIX BURNED TO DEATH.

Workers In New York Factory Perish as Result of Explosion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A gas oven in which metal was being enamelled on the top floor of a six-storey factory building in Canal street, exploded yesterday, killing six persons. More than a score of others were injured or burned in the fire that succeeded the explosion and some of them may die. The identity of the dead was not known many hours after the bodies had been removed to the morgue. Three of the killed were women. All were workers in the building.

Searchlights played on the ruins last night while firemen sought for more bodies which it was thought might have been overlooked when entry into the building was effected after the flames had been brought under control, but at nine o'clock, after six bodies had been removed, it was believed all the dead had been found. The district attorney's office began an investigation. About 200 persons were employed in the building, which was occupied by manufacturers of machinery, mirrors, clothing and other goods.

The escape of some of the trapped workers was spectacular. With their clothing ablaze they climbed through flame-swept windows on to fire-escapes and leaped to the sidewalks. Many were badly injured by the drop from upper floors. Spectators beat out the flames from their clothing and saved them from burning to death.

Students Take Revenge.

BRISTOL, Eng., Oct. 25.—Students of Bristol University yesterday avenged the burning of the sports pavilion of the university Thursday by suffragettes by smashing the windows of the office of the militants, dumping the furniture in the streets and making a bonfire of it. The students were cheered by a large crowd as they wreaked their vengeance upon the suffragettes.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

PICTOU, N.S., Oct. 25.—After being an hour out, the jury of the Supreme Court returned a verdict of guilty against George McLeod of Seafoam, on a manslaughter charge, he having killed Neil Sutherland in a fight on July 15 last. McLeod, who was road overseer, with his father had followed Sutherland and his son to a neighbor's. Sutherland drove McLeod into the house with stones. He picked up a neckyoke, and, coming out, attacked Sutherland.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Happy Day Cottage

A Very Natural Mistake.

By MARGARET B. CONWAY

"You can't miss it, Nell," called Mrs. Beekman as the big motorcar drew away from the curb. "The sign is over the porch, 'Happy Day Cottage,' and if you arrive first just go ahead and start the dinner, will you? Jackman said the supplies would be waiting there. Goodby. Sorry you won't come with us."

It was 11 o'clock when Nell reached Silver Lake. The road was an unfamiliar one, for she had never been to the little resort before. It was late September and most of the cottages edging the lake were untenanted, but Happy Day Cottage was at the very edge of the short road, and Nell left her car in the shade of the trees and went up on to the little rustic porch.

The door was locked, and it was evident that she was the first on the scene. She determined to go ahead and prepare dinner for the hungry motorists, for it had been agreed that the women of the party were to do the cooking.

Around to the back door went Nell, her arms burdened with luscious peaches she had found in town, and a bottle of cream, which delicacy she was certain Mrs. Beekman would forget.

The back door was unlatched, and Miss Gaines stepped into the little kitchen and found a grocer's basket heaped with packages and tins. She hung her hat and cloak in the little passageway and pinned a convenient towel over her linen gown in lieu of an apron, and set to work to evolve a meal from the contents of the basket.

There were bread and butter, cereals, flour, eggs, sugar, coffee, tinned meats and fish, vegetables and, last of all, a torn bit of paper on which was scrawled in pencil:

"The stake is in the refrijarater."

And in a tiny ice filled box in the pantry Nell found a juicy sirloin steak—about large enough for two people! Where were the other hungry six to come in?

Nell shrugged her shoulders and set the sardines and tinned salmon aside.

Nell Gaines was an excellent cook. Deftly she flew here and there, making herself quite at home.

When everything was ready Nell went into the living room and sat down by the window.

Her eyes became accustomed to the cool dimness of the little room, and she noted with growing surprise that it was rather disorderly. Pipes and tobacco littered a smoking stand, books and magazines were heaped on chairs and tables, a tennis racket lay on a window seat and an artist's easel and painting kit cumbered another corner. A pair of masculine slippers stood invitingly before the empty fireplace.

There was a sound from the kitchen and Nell hastened there, flushed and lovely with the anticipation of the general surprise when they should find dinner in readiness.

She stopped short and stared.

Framed in the open window, with his elbows on the sill, was a perfect giant of a young man, attractively homely as to features, with steady gray eyes and stubby brown hair. His face was tanned to a warm brown and his hands and arms above his elbows, where his shirt sleeves were rolled up, were the same golden tint.

So Nell stared at him and he stared at Nell until her face flushed a deeper rose and she made another step forward.

"Good morning," she said rather coldly.

"Ah, good morning," he said, still staring.

"Mrs. Beekman has not arrived yet," she said significantly.

"Indeed?" he asked, with polite surprise in his tone.

"If you care to wait for Mrs. Beekman I am sure she will be along any moment now. I promised to have dinner ready, and there are some comfortable chairs on the front porch," said Nell, feeling rather frightened at the presence of this grave faced young man.

Perhaps he recognized her fear, for almost at once he lifted his head from his fists and went around the path to the front porch, the sun shining warmly down on his untidy thatch of hair.

"Oh, dear, I wish they would come! The dinner will be spoiled!" At that instant came the distant toot of a motor horn, and Nell fled back to the kitchen and prepared the coffee and broiled the steak.

Between whiles she laid another place at the table for the unexpected guest who was undoubtedly some friend of Mrs. Beekman's.

At the end of another fifteen minutes Nell went out and looked up and down the road, but there was no sign of motorcar or the expected party.

"I'm hungry as a bear," sighed Nell at last. "It's after 1 o'clock, and I've simply got to eat!"

Back in the kitchen she found the strange young man filling the doorway into the hall.

"Excuse my sudden appearance," he said diffidently, "but I've been in the woods all morning, and I'm about starved. Can't we have something to eat without waiting for Mrs. Beekman and the rest of 'em?"

"Why, of course," said Nell slowly, and with a charming smile she admitted: "I'm hungry as a bear myself. That's a very small steak for nine people, isn't it?" she asked anxiously.

"I could eat every scrap myself," he announced as he neatly slipped the steak to a hot platter and carried it into the dining room.

"I forgot to introduce myself," he said pleasantly. "I am Delbridge Ellis."

"And I am Eleanor Gaines," said Nell, acknowledging his introduction with simple courtesy. "Will you have a cupful of coffee now, Mr. Ellis?"

"If you please," he said, passing her a plate containing the choicest portion of the steak.

"This is great," he said as he attacked the mealy baked potatoes. "I tell you keeping bachelor's hall isn't all it's cracked up to be. Why, I've eaten so many sardines that the junkman has to call once a week for the empty tins. That's almost a fact."

"Then you live around here, too?" asked Nell, with interest.

"Why, yes," he answered, with a puzzled glance at her. After that he was silent for a long time, but they fell to chatting on indifferent subjects, and by the time they had discussed the sliced peaches and the thick, yellow cream the time had passed so swiftly that Mr. Ellis announced reluctantly that it was 3 o'clock.

"Oh, dear! I am afraid something has happened!" cried Nell anxiously as they arose from the table.

"Pardon my asking the question, Miss Gaines, but will you please tell me who is Mrs. Beekman?"

Nell stared. "Who is Mrs. Beekman?" she repeated. "Why, don't you know?"

He shook his head, smiling in the particularly winning way that was very attractive to Nell Gaines. "I never heard of her before, and I am wondering why she has honored me by holding a sort of glorified picnic here in my bachelor quarters."

"In your bachelor quarters!" echoed Nell blankly. "Why, Mr. Ellis, surely you are mistaken. This is Mrs. Beekman's place, isn't it—Happy Day Cottage? Why, I read the sign over the porch."

"To be sure you did!" he exclaimed after a moment. "I see it all now. It was a very natural mistake to make, Miss Gaines, and I'm in a perfectly glorious dinner, but I'm afraid you have missed a delightful time with your friends. Please come around to the front porch with me."

A very bewildered Nell followed him around, and together they gazed at the little white painted sign nailed over the porch.

"Happy Day Cottage," it read, sure enough.

"You see, Miss Gaines, the village boys run down here out of season and amuse themselves by transferring the signs from one cottage to another, much to the indignation and confusion of the owners. This 'Happy Day' sign has been on my cottage for a week, and I let it stay. This is really Pine Cottage, and I saw that sign down on the big red cottage at the end of the row. Very likely your friends are down there feasting and wondering where you are. Shall we go down there now and explain?"

"Oh, let me think for a moment!" cried Nell.

The result of her cogitations, together with the sage advice of her host, was that she alone should drive up to the real Happy Day Cottage and say nothing of her odd adventure.

"You must let me clear away this wreckage," insisted Ellis as he helped Nell into her cloak. "I don't mind in the least, and I shall never forget my surprise at finding you here and the pleasant hours we have spent. Indeed, this shall always be to me Happy Day Cottage, for it marks a very happy day."

So Nell allowed him to put her into the runabout and gave him permission to call upon her some day, and she rolled slowly up to the real Happy Day Cottage, where the astounded motorists brought her remains of their cold dinner and marveled at her lack of appetite.

And the next year, after Nell had married Delbridge Ellis, they spent the summer at Silver Lake, and Ellis always called the place "Honeymoon Cottage," though the name over the door plainly said "Pine Cottage."

Well Known Ontario Merchant Has Faith Because "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

MR. JAMES DOBSON

BRONTE, ONT., MARCH 1st, 1912.

"Fruit-a-tives has made a complete cure in my case of Rheumatism, that had at least five years standing before I commenced the treatment. The trouble was principally in my right hip and shoulder, the pain from it was almost unendurable. Not being able to sleep on that side, if I chanced to turn on my right side while asleep, the pain would immediately awaken me. This kept up until I started taking "Fruit-a-tives". I started by taking one or two tablets with a large glass of water, in the morning before breakfast and experienced pronounced relief very shortly. After a continued treatment for about six months, I was cured and am now in firstclass health. This, I attribute to my persistent use of "Fruit-a-tives" and I heartily recommend your remedy to any Rheumatic sufferers."

PARTICULARS CONCERNING THE DEATH OF LOCAL MAN

Late Herbert Miller Received a Shock of 2,200 Volts While Working on a Cable—Died in the Police Ambulance.

WAS TERRIBLY BURNED

Particulars concerning the death of Herbert Miller, son of Mr. F. W. Miller, 348 Water street, who was electrocuted in Winnipeg on Tuesday, are contained in the appended account, taken from a Winnipeg exchange:

Short circuiting a current of 2,200 volts of electricity through his body while working on a cable at the top of a pole at the corner of Roslyn road and Osborne street at 3:15 yesterday afternoon, Herbert Miller, 23 years of age, received a shock from which he died while on the way to the General hospital shortly after. Miller was engaged to be married to a childhood sweetheart in Peterborough, Ont., with whom he kept company when he went to school there. His parents reside in Peterborough. In his hip pocket were found a pair of rubber gloves which if worn would probably have saved his life.

Miller was engaged as a lineman by the Winnipeg civic light and power department, for which he had been working for the past year. He was at work splicing a 2,200 volt cable at the top of the 40 foot pole when his hand, covered only with a pair of light leather gloves, came in contact with a circuit breaker. The current went through his body and his hands were terribly burned, the palms of the gloves being burned to a crisp.

Fellow Workmen Lowered Victim.

His partner, Jack S. Macdonald, No. 3 Empire Block, who was working with him on top of the pole grasped Miller and seeing that he was in a serious condition, immediately fastened a rope around his body under his arms and lowered him to the ground, where he was taken in charge of by E. Thomas, 236 Carlton street, another lineman. He was unconscious. Thomas called to a woman to notify a policeman and soon Constable Johnston and Badgley and Sergeant Outerson were on the scene. Together with Dr. Mattice of the Roslyn block they rendered first aid and the injured man was then removed to the hospital in the police ambulance. He was dead when he arrived there.

When the dead man's pockets were searched a pair of new rubber gloves were found in a hip pocket. Apparently, because of the cold or because he was not used to their newness and did not like to work with them he had not worn them, but used a pair of old leather gloves, His partners were also wearing leather gloves.

Miller's body was removed to Clark Bros. & Hughes' undertaking rooms to await orders from Coroner Rogers.

Miller lived in Peterborough, Ont., for many years and received his education there. While going to school he became acquainted with a girl and the friendship grew to love. Letters contained in his pocket show that they had come to an agreement and were to be married shortly. Miller came to Winnipeg a year ago from Calgary, where he had worked for a short time. He has made his home while here at the Iroquois hotel.

Miller's fellow-workman, Jack Macdonald, showed rare presence of mind when he saw his companion in trouble. He kept his head and did not lose a second in getting Miller to the ground.

MAY BE BLOODY ELECTION DAY

Examiner Special:

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25.— Despite Huerta's announcement that he is not running for the presidency, the official ballots issued to-day bear his name for president, with General Blanquet, Minister of War, for vice-president. All Federal troops in Juares and other garrisons have been instructed to vote for Huerta for president. In the meantime sanguinary battles are taking place between the government and rebel troops to-day at various points. To-morrow may be the bloodiest election day in the history of Mexico.

THE POSITION OF THE C.P.R.

An Official Statment in Connection With the Austrian Situation

In connection with the Austrian situation the following statement has been issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal:

Seeing that considerable misconception appears to exist as to the nature of the activities of the Canadian Pacific Railway on the continent of Europe, it should be explained that in conducting its passenger business, strict instructions have been issued to all Canadian Pacific agents on the continent of Europe to follow strictly the letter of the law in their respective countries as it has always been the desire and policy of the Canadian Pacific Railway to conform without question to the wishes of the Governments of the countries in which these agents are permitted to do business. In the case of Austria, the Canadian Pacific Railway, knowing the natural dislike of the Austrian Government to the heavy emigration over its frontiers, went out of its way to show the Austrians how they could control that emigration, namely by concentrating the stream on the Austrian port of Trieste, where careful examination could be made of the emigrants antecedents and papers. It was also recommended that Austrian government inspectors should travel on all steamers from Trieste to ensure the proper treatment of Austrian subjects on the voyage, and to prevent the possibility of exploitation by undesirables. Such examination and protection could not be effectively made under previous conditions, where emigrants could leave by so many different frontier stations that no effective control could be maintained. The Canadian Pacific Railway obtained its concession for emigration business in Austria purely as a carrying company, and has strictly forbidden its agents to conduct or promote any propaganda whatever in favour of emigration, the tickets issued being almost entirely prepaid by friends and relatives who have settled in Canada or the United States, and who therefore would have left their native country in any case. Passenger offices were established in Austria with the consent of the Austrian Government, and the Canadian Pacific agents were in each case approved of and in some cases were even nominated both by the central authority in Vienna and by the local authorities in the respective provinces, the object being to prevent any possible abuse by irresponsible agents.

The line of steamers established by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Canada to Trieste was put on at the direct request of the Austrian Government in order that the merchandise business between Austria and Canada might be shipped direct from an Austrian port.

The carrying of Austrian subjects by all Canadian Pacific steamship lines this year have amounted to only 11,961 as against 14,000 in 1912. This is but a small percentage as compared to the carryings of the Continental Pool lines which numbered 100,123 in 1911 and 201,294 in 1912.

Mr. Maude As Visitor Of Note

Local Theatre Goers Cannot Afford to Miss "The Second In Command"

Peterborough theatre-goers are particularly fortunate in being given an opportunity on Monday night, at the Grand Opera House, of seeing Mr. Cyril Maude, the famous English actor whom the Montreal and Toronto papers have unanimously hailed as the most finished comedian ever brought to America. This is his first tour on this continent and he has caused a furore in the Canadian cities in which he has appeared. "The Second in Command," in which he will be seen here, shows Mr. Maude at his best, and his visit to the Grand is one of the most notable appearances of this or any other season. He is supported by a magnificent cast, which includes his own daughter, Miss Margery Maude, as leading lady. Local play goers cannot afford to miss Monday night's attraction.

Mr. Arnott is to be thanked for the grossness of his cabbage head as well as the delicacy of his remarks in depositing it, to the effect that it was not intended as an intellectual reinforcement of the staff.

MR. PETIT IS PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION

City Teachers' Convention Was Brought to a Close This Morning With the Election of Officers

PAPERS WERE READ

The City and County Teachers' Convention was brought to a close this morning at the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute, after a most instructive and interesting session.

This morning's session opened with Mr. W. H. Walkey presiding. The minutes of the last convention were read and approved, after which the Treasurer's report was presented, showing a balance of $193.87. Miss Elliott and Mr. Yenney, the delegates to the O. E. A. Convention, gave comprehensive reports. Mr. Yenney's criticism of the lack of business methods in the general association and the tardiness of the Public School section evoked an interesting discussion, and ended in a committee being appointed to draft a resolution and to send it to the other teachers' institutes in the Province, suggesting that the voting members of the Public School section be credited members from the Teachers' Institute.

The Library Committee asked for an additional grant and suggested that the Institute pay fifty cents towards the subscription of certain magazines be purchased for each school.

The election of the officers then took place and resulted in the following being elected:

President—L. J. Petit, B.A.
Vice-Pres.—Miss E. L. Thomas.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. Maurice H. Park.
Executive Committee—Miss M. O'Connell, Sister Demetrie, Mr. Rossell Miss Jean Jackson, Miss Stubbs, Mr. Morris.
Auditors—Mr. C. B. Jamieson, Mr. Vosden.
Representatives to O. E. A. Convention—Miss Runnings and Mr. Kerr.
Representative on Library Board—Mr. W. J. Firth.

Rev. Father Galvin To Deliver Sermon

At the Church of the Sacred Heart on Sunday Evening

On Sunday evening in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Rev. Father Galvin, B.A., Principal of St. Peter's High School, will speak on the "Edict of Milan," 313 A.D., by which Constantine The Great granted liberty of worship to the Christians.

This subject is most interesting and timely in view of the universal jubilee proclaimed some months ago by Pope Pius X. to commemorate this event.

In Rev. Father Galvin's hands this subject should be lucidly and learnedly treated. It is some time since he has spoken at the Church of the Sacred Heart and it is expected that a large congregation will greet him.

WOODS FULL OF MEN IN E. HARVEY

Lumbering is Active, With Number of Gangs at Work

EAST HARVEY, Oct. 24. — The neighbourhood has taken on quite a busy streak this fall, with lumbermen and jobbers, and the woods seem to be full. David Curtin has a big gang cutting, and is dumping on Squaw River. Thos. Kelly has another gang about 40 miles away up at Katchecum, cutting. The Irwin boys intend to do their usual cut and dump on the Massasauga and Squaw Rivers. Alfred has the Spence farm, and with some 500 acres there is always something doing.

In the social line there is always plenty of dancing going on. The young folks enjoyed themselves at James Windover's, and again at the home of Fred Bennett, where some seventy-five people were present.

Two of our respected farmers had quite an interesting time last week. The horse which they were driving ran away and they had to return from Peterborough with a new one. Taking the cost of the new buggy and everything into consideration, the trip cost them quite a bit.

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh northerly winds, fair. Sunday, easterly winds, fair, followed by rain by night.

POULTRY PLENTIFUL AT THE MARKET THIS MORNING

Prices Moderate and Supply Good —Eggs Were Scarce and Rather Dear

POTATOES UNCHANGED

If the quantity of poultry sold on the market this morning is a barometer of the finances of the people, there is small chance of the approaching winter being a lean one.

Chickens, ducks, geese and a few turkeys were readily picked up, and a none of the farmers selling pork and spring lamb had occasion to take any of the quarters back home with them.

Lamb at 13c. and 14c. for fronts and 15c. and 16c. for hinds, pork at 14 and 15 cents, appeals to the workingman's wife who is in a better position to buy in quantity rather than by the pound.

Chickens were plentiful at 90c. and $1.00 a pair, ducks at 50c. and 60c. each or from $1.00 to $1.25 a pair. Geese sold at $1.25 to $1.40.

One young woman asked a farmer's wife the price of her ducks.

"These is geese," the woman replied with an inflection emphasizing the ignorance of a young City matron upon such an important subject as the classification of her poultry.

Eggs Were Scarce.

The offering of eggs was quite limited, and at eleven o'clock they were practically cleaned out. The prevailing price was 35c. a dozen. If they continue to mount up the numeral column the average citizen will endure the midnight crowing of his and his neighbour's roosters, providing the hens come across with an occasional egg. Eggs at three cents apiece call up recollections of the days when they went begging at ten cents a dozen.

Butter was plentiful at 30 cents.

Had Socks For Sale.

It is not often that you find hand-knitted socks—the store name is half hose—offered on the market in these latter days. But this morning an elderly woman had a basket of them, dark grey and decidedly woolly. The young woman of the farm has neglected the art of darning, making way for the machine-made article in the City stores. A woman on a farm finds more money in butter and eggs than darned socks.

Potatoes.

Several farmers endeavoured to boost the price of potatoes again, but they remained steady at $1.00. Onions were offered at 40c. a peck. Other vegetables and apples were well represented.

MISS BARBARA FOSTER COMING.

Knox Church managers have been fortunate in securing Miss Barbara Foster, the eminent contralto of Glasgow, Scotland, to give a concert in the Church on Tuesday evening, November 11th.

MR. DAVID S. K. BYRNE A PROSPECTIVE MILLIONAIRE

Visits Peterborough on His Way to Florida—Girl Was Reclaimed Through Medium of Pocket Testament and an Unaccountable Inspiration.

MILLIONS INVOLVED

Mr. David S. K. Byrne, of Montreal, is in the City. Mr. Byrne, who was formerly David S. Kidd, is known for his connection with the Byrne estate, which involves the distribution of about nine million dollars. Mr. S. K. Byrne's share of the estate is estimated to be worth approximately two million dollars. This he expects to realize some time in June next, when the work of collecting the necessary data respecting the settlement of all claims against the estate, is completed. That Mr. Byrne, who is well known in Peterborough, is named as a beneficiary in the will of the late millionaire, Wellington George Byrne, might be attributed to a pocket testament and an inspiration which David S. K. Byrne is unable to account for.

"Buy a Drink?"

The incident which has received world-wide publicity had its inception in a trip that Mr. Byrne made to Chicago in the spring of 1907. The object of his mission was to visit his brother, Arthur, whom he had not seen for twenty-two years. Mr. Byrne was a member of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends, and while in Chicago was desirous of associating himself with the American branch of the Order. It was with this object in view that he strayed into a building on Congress street in the hope of finding a city directory. To Mr. Byrne, the building presented the appearance of a real estate office, but it later turned out to be a saloon building occupied by Manning and Bowes. Mr. Byrne's quest led him into a room that he found Lucy Byrne, who later proved to be the fallen daughter of Mr. Byrne's benefactor. The girl wore a white hat and dress and at the time of Byrne's entrance into the room was leaning over the prostrate form of a drunken man. "I am drinking at the fountain of life where the thirst is always quenched," said Byrne in reply to the girl's request to "buy a drink." The two then sat at a table and after exchanging a few remarks. Byrne produced a pocket testament and commenced to read the 24th chapter of St. Luke. After reading the entire fifty-three verses, Byrne offered prayer, then left the building.

Girl Followed.

He was followed by the girl to a nearby restaurant and the two dined together. At the conclusion of the meal, the girl submitted to Byrne's entreaties to give up her life of shame and return home. This she did. Before leaving, Byrne left his card with the girl and upon his return to Toronto was surprised to receive several communications from the girl and her parents. Death claimed Lucy Byrne fifteen months later, while the family were sojourning in Florida, and one month later the father went the way of all flesh, during the course of a trip to Australia.

In speaking of the incident to the Examiner this morning, Mr. Byrne

ROYAL ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY'S MEETING

The Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Peterborough centre, will meet in the Collegiate Institute on Tuesday, October 28th. This is the first meeting of the fall and winter series and will be of special interest to beginners. Dr. Marsh will give the address, which will be illustrated.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The "open day" at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday certainly fulfilled the expectation of the officers. Over 150 boys visited the building and all were struck with the splendid provision made for the entertainment and instruction of the members. The boys are reminded that now is a good time to become a member, as the games are in perfect condition, and the "gym" classes (one of the 'Y's' most valuable assets), have just got into full swing.

The Senior Leader's Corps will meet at 6 o'clock to-night for supper.

Twenty-four members attended the Boys' Bible class this morning, and more are exected next Saturday.

A feature of the open day at the 'Y' yesterday was the concert given by the boys themselves last night.

SPELLING REFORM.

Spelling reform is admissably a good thing under proper conditions—when it proceeds from the initiative, or with the approval of recognized competent literary authority; and does not tend to corrupt standard language forms and to corrruption of spoken language. The Globe is a great newspaper and, as such, has a claim to the leadership of the free lances of spelling reform—whose tendency is to ignore authoritative literary movement towards spelling reform. Such a wide subject as spelling reform does not lend itself to terse treatment, but a little obvious suggestion may serve a little good purpose. The Globe in one of the recent notes in its sprightly "notes and comments column," refers to the desirability of eliminating the "superfluous" "u" in such words as honour, and while there is no orthographical law that demands this elimination it is thought to be justified on the grounds of saving time. This may not be bad reasoning, though it may be suggested that this ground would be made less tenable by the employment of fewer words in expressing thought in writing. But the idea suggested at the same time of dropping the doubled consonant in forming present and past participles and in the formation of adverbs from adjectives, is not so commendable or defensible. A change that would constitute a breach of the laws of orthoepy—or change of a basic element in sounds is not to be encouraged. What is called an orthographic expedient to modify sound as found in the expedient of adding an "e" to make the short sound of "a" long, may be cited as an illustration. The suffixion of an "e" after "a" makes "fat," "fate"; "sat" "sate," and so on. Our Yankee neighbours go to extremes in disregard of the effect of ignoring the force of this orthographic expedient. They fatuously and ridiculously reject the duplication of consonats, and we have such absurd forms as "kidnaped" for "kidnapped"; for according to a rule of the language we must pronounce "kidnaped' with a long "a" instead of with the short sound of "a" in the present tense of the verb "kndnap." On the same principle of failing to double the final consonat we should change the meaning of words. A man using orthography orthodoxly would describe the breaking up of a battleship, by using the word "scrapped"; a spelling reformer would, in expressing the same idea, be only removing the barnacles—he would write, that the battleship was "scraped." Instead of "tapping" a hogshead of wine the spelling reformer would write of putting a string around it—"taping" it. This little turn at reductio ad absurdum which could be greatly amplified, will show that spelling reform that does not recognize the immutable—or, so far, unchanged—laws of the English language, is daubing with untempered mortar. English spelling like our laws, may be possible of improvement; but the reform in both cases must be by, proper and recognized authority; it will not do in either case to bring about reform by individual caprice. Men like Tennyson and Macaulay, Ruskin and Carlyle, have managed to wrestle with and worry over our "barbarous" spelling to fairly passable effect. Men of possibly lesser literary capacity, whose writings of to-day will be forgotten to-morrow, might stand the same strain, till somebody of recognised authority points the way and sets the example. When the best writers of the best literature embalm reformed spelling in their works we lesser lights shall have warrant for doing likewise—but not till then.

IS IT JUST?

Montreal may well be considered the metropolis of Canada. It is the chief entrepot of the Dominion, the centre of distribution of its outgoing and incoming commerce. It is natural that in a period of great prosperity Montreal should share, as she has shared, judging by the fact that the assessed values of its property has increased 117 millions of dollars in one year. This indicates remarkable growth, if the assessors have not inflated values. The city's total assessed value is placed at nearly 800 millions. This is very near the billion dollar mark; and this mark would nearly be reached if, to the total assessed value were added the extraordinary total of exemption, of nearly 180 millions of dollars.

This provokes consideration of the general subject of exemptions. All over Canada churches and church property are exempt to the aggregate amount of uncounted millions; and it is of the simplest logic to argue that such an amount of taxable property exempted imposes a proportionate additional burden of tax-payment upon those persons who do not bear a parasitical relation to the State. Thus the church whose divine Founder was the special friend of the poor, becomes the practical instrument of oppression of the poor. Our blessed Lord was an example to his followers, who collectively constitute the Church. He did not believe in exemption. He showed the example of paying taxes—even sending one of His apostles fishing to get money to pay his taxes. Will it be thought that He regards with favour the modern practice of exemption of church property from taxation? A poor widow's hut may be near a church property of a value of tens of thousands, exempt from taxation; that exemption adds to the amount of taxes the widow has to pay, and possibly increases her tax bill to an amount she cannot pay. Then cometh the bailiff and "sells up" her home to collect the taxes which the church property adjacent should in justice have paid — which the church, if it followed and lived up to the divine spirit of compassion for the widow and the fatherless, would have paid, instead of increasing the burden indirectly by the fact of its exemption.

Abstractly reasoned out on the highest grounds, it would seem that exemption of church property can lead to the practice of injustice, and in some cases, oppression, of the poor. Jesus of Nazareth sent a message to John the Baptist a proof of His Messiahship—"the poor have the Gospel preached unto them"; and He certainly did not mean that in the twentieth century the poor would be made to "pay through the nose" for this Gospel, in the shape of taxes made additionally heavy through the exemption of the palatial property of the church of Him who "had not where to lay His head." St. Paul "got a job" as a mechanic to get money to pay his board bill—he scorned to sponge on any man.

The exemption of manufacturing industries may have a commercial sort of defence; but even that seems to be made the means of committing injustice. These exempted industries are not relieved from school taxes; but the taxes they pay are put into the Public Schools fund, while Separate School supporters, whose taxes are added to by the exemption of factories from general taxation, get no share of the benefit of payment of taxes for schools that go into the Public School treasury. If the money went into the treasury of the Collegiate Institute, both classes of school supporters would proportionately and equitably benefit. If we are to have regard to justice in the management of our problems of taxation we might well consider whether or not the practice of tax-emption can be justified upon the high grounds of respect for the divine example, or the no less divine grounds of simple justice, as between man and man in all relations. Is exemption from taxation just?

A CARELESS CURFEW CHAMPION.

A city lady is very much perturbed because curfew doesn't ring every night. As reported in last night's Examiner, she is writing a good many letters charging that the police and the newspapers are neglecting to give the curfew law the attention it deserves. She especially complains that the newspapers are asleep. The police can look after themselves, but the Examiner among newspapers must protect itself. The lady concerned must be a rara avis in Peterborough—she doesn't read the Examiner. If she did she would have seen that the Examiner no farther away than Oct. 18th, devoted a column of space to the curfew law. It published the text of the law and had a leading article pointing out the defects in the law, especially that which makes action of the police force optional, not obligatory. The law says, sub-section 2, section 17, the police "may" warn children to go home. This is futile, for the policeman is his own judge of his duty and may warn or not warn the child to go home. And the child "warned" has only to dodge round a corner and "loiter" longer when out of sight of the policeman, and he or she is safe as far as police molestation is concerned.

It is no use, it is not fair, to blame the police in Peterborough in connection with the curfew law. The police only cover the business section—one tenth of the city area. That is not the danger zone. The other nine-tenths of the city, the residence districts, where the evil is chiefly done, are never visited regularly by policemen. There are not enough of them; and Chief Thompson is justified in demanding a few more men, so that the residence streets of the city may be patrolled. This would not only prevent a great deal of the lawlessness that annoys citizens and endangers their property, but would provide for lessening the thronging of the streets in summer, especially, with young persons, especially young girls who are being led to their ruin by the lure of the night streets. For the benefit of the lady in question, a paragraph from the Examiner article of Oct. 18th, is repeated below:—

"Our residence streets are, as a rule, never visited by a policeman, and it is in these streets that the greatest danger, especially to growing girls, exists. We can see in the residence streets, especially in the outskirts and in summer, sights that make the blood run cold—the ruin of girls in the making. Young girls are strolling about waiting to meet what they may regard as a "lover," but in fact a fiend bent on their ruin. Our police force is confined to the business section where no harm of the kind in question is possible, while the other nine-tenths of the city area, where the possibilities of evil are infinite, are wide open, unguarded, unpatrolled.

If the Children's Protection Act is to be effective of any real good it must be enforced and proper officers provided to see to its enforcement; and action should not be permissive, but obligatory. If the law is not to be effectively enforced, wipe it off the statute book, for, in its present provision for optional action, it only begets a false security. Society has a vague idea that there is a law dealing with the protection of children from night street dangers. This puts society to sleep like an opiate, and it dreams that something in some way is being done, because there is a law.

It is seen that the lady's charge that the newspapers are asleep, is unjust, especially as regards the Examiner. If she would take in a real newspaper, instead of confining herself to only one of another kind, she would not have been led into the error, only too common with philanthropic enthusiasts, of making sweeping charges and, on the ex uno disce omnes principle, condemning all for the fault of one.

THE CANADIAN COUNTRYMAN SETS "AGRICOLA" RIGHT

To the Editor The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A clipping from your issue of August 5th, headed prominently "How City Capitalists Become 'Canadian Countrymen' For Cause," has been forwarded to me, and I am sure that your editorial courtesy will se that my reply is published as prominently.

Your correspondent "Agricola" makes an error in the beginning in stating that the "Canadian Countryman" is the weekly organ of capitalists. As The "Examiner" is generally understood to be the property of Mr. Stratton, and as Mr. Stratton is fairly widely known as a gentleman of financial interests, being interested in a Trust Company in Toronto among other things, the appeal of "Agricola" to you makes fair-minded folks remember that most publications in Canada and elsewhere are the property of wealthy men, without being discredited by the fact.

"Agricola" also errs in saying that the two unnamed Western farmers on our Board of Directors are "probably Conservatives." Mr. A. G. Hopkins, B.Agr., a graduate of Ontario's and Iowa Agricultural Colleges, and a former editor of "Farmers' Advocate" is one of the most aggressive Liberals in the West, a strong believer in reciprocity, and a former Seed Commissioner for Regina, appointed by the Liberal Government. The other, Mr. W. J. Glass, of Macleod, Alberta, ex-President of the United Farmers of Alberta, is a prize winner in wheat at International Exhibitions and one of the most prominent appointees of the Liberal Government for demonstration work in pure seed and other agricultural improvement work. These facts seem to have been very conveniently overlooked by "Agricola" in what seems to be the purpose to create prejudice for his own ends, whatever they may be.
